A CHILD'S TONGUE SHOWS IF LIVER OR BOWELS ARE ACTIVE

If Cross, feverish, sick, bilious, give fruit laxative at once.

Every mother realizes, after giving her children "California Syrup of Figs," that this is their ideal laxative, because they love its pleasant taste and it thoroughly cleanses the tender little stomach, liver and bowels without griping.

When cross, irritable, feverish or breath is bad, stomach sour, look at the tongue, Mother! If coated, give a teaspoonful of this harmless "fruit laxative," and in a few hours all the foul, constipated waste, sour bile and undigested food passes out of the bowels, and you have a well, playful child again. When its little system is full of cold, throat sore, has stomach-ache, diarrhoea, indigestion, colic—remember, a good "inside cleansing" should always be the first treatment given.

Millions of mothers keep "California Syrup of Figs" handy; they know a teaspoonful to-day saves a sick child to-morrow. Ask your druggist for a bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has directions for babies, children of all ages and grown-ups printed on the bottle. Beware of counterfeits sold here, so don't be fooled. Get the genuine, made by "California Fig Syrup Company."

The United States Shipped Immense Quantities of War Supplies for Army Upkeep

AMERICAN HEADQUARTERS IN FRANCE.—The extent of America's military effort in France at the time the armistice was declared is shown by statistics which are permitted to be made public. While the stupendous figures required to tell the story are in themselves amazing, it should be remembered that they show only a part of the great effort made in war preparations in men, money and material.

On the morning of November 11 the United States had in France 78,391 officers and 1,881,376 men, a total of almost 2,000,000. As has already been announced, there were 750,000 combat troops in the Argonne action. This number does not include the American units engaged on other parts of the front.

Man power alone, however, was but one factor in the preparations for American participation in the war. Behind it lay vast machinery which was required in operations. Railways and motor roads were constructed, and across the sea were brought locomotives, cars, rails and motor transport of every kind.

Behind this, again, was the requisite food, clothing and general supplies for the men, as well as dockage and warehouse construction. Every effort of civil life, plus the requirements of war, was exerted.

The American army has brought over to France and has in operation 967 standard gauge locomotives and 13,174 standard gauge freight cars of American manufacture. In addition, it has in service 350 locomotives and 973 cars of foreign origin. To meet demands which the existing French railways were unable to meet, 843 miles of standard gauge railway were constructed. Five hundred miles of this have been built since June 1. On top of this the Department of Light Railways reports the construction of 115 miles of road, and 140 miles of German light railway were repaired and put in operation. Two hundred and twenty five miles of French railway were operated by the Americans.

These figures represent a fairly good-sized American railway company but railways represent only a fraction of the transport effort. Modern warfare is motor warfare and it is virtually impossible to present in figures this phase of the work of the American army. In building new roads as the exigencies of battle operations required, in keeping French roads repaired under the ceaseless tide of war transport and in constructing bridges in devastated battle regions, American engineers worked day and night. The whole region behind the American lines is full of typical American road machinery, much of it of a character never before seen in Europe. To do this work the American Expeditionary Forces had in operation on November 11 more than 53,000 motor vehicles of all description.

Even at the present stage of the armistice, which may precede peace, it is not permissible to hint at the vast stores of munitions and armament brought over and held in readiness. The Associated Press, however, is allowed to give approximate figures showing what has been accomplished in the accumulation of food supplies. It will be seen that the American Expeditionary Forces were in no danger of being placed on short rations, had the war continued, although the Americans had promised the Allies vast quantities of food, in addition to their own needs.

In army terms, one nation represents the quantity of each article each man is entitled to daily. It is interesting to note the supply of some of the principal ration components on hand to-day. For instance, the Americans have 390,000,000 rations of beans alone, 183,000,000 rations of flour substitutes, 267,000,000 rations of milk, 161,000,000 rations of butter or substitutes, 143,000,000 rations of sugar, 89,000,000 rations of meat, 57,000,000 of coffee and 113,000,000 rations of rice, hominy and other foods. There are requisites such as flavourings, fruits, candy and potatoes in proportion, while for smokers there are 761,000,000 rations of cigarettes and tobacco in other forms.

Army authorities point out that these vast necessary supplies for the army represent food economies on the part of the people at home. Without such economies the work would have been virtually impossible, nor would the Americans have been able to promise certain of the Allies great assistance in meeting their requirements during the winter. The Associated Press is informed that the American army had engaged to give the French 2,000,000 pounds of meat, 5,500,000 pounds of beans and rice flour and milk in proportion. To the British 8,000,000 pounds of meat were promised, while the Belgians were assured that they would receive 4,500,000 pounds of rations of all kinds.

It is difficult to describe in exact figures what the American Expeditionary Force have done in the construction and improvement of dockage and warehouses since the first troops landed. This work has been proportionate to the whole effort in other directions. Ten steamship berths have been built at Bordeaux, having a total length of 4,100 feet. At Montoir, near St. Nazaire, eight berths are under construction with a total length of more than three thousand two hundred feet.

These, however, do not indicate the magnitude of the effort of the Engineer Corps. In this phase of improvement to French ports great labour has been expended in dredging operations, repairing French docks and increasing railway terminal facilities. Warehouses having an aggregate floor area of almost twenty-three million square feet have been constructed. This development of French ports increased facilities to such an extent that even if the Germans had captured Calais and other Channel ports, as they had planned, the Allies' loss would have been strategically unimportant.

So largely were facilities increased that the English armies could have had their bases at the lower French ports, if necessary. In other words, American work in port construction lessened to a material degree the value to the Germans of their proposed capture of the Channel ports.

These figures serve in a measure to show the magnitude of American accomplishment, and the great machine is in operation to-day as the American Third Army moves forward into German territory.

PAID THE WIDOW SIXTEEN HUNDRED DOLLARS

Mrs. John Packard entered action against A. Plunkett of Cobourg for ten thousand dollars damages for the death of her husband. Mr. Packard was the keeper of the toll gate on the Cobourg road east of Port Hope and was killed by being struck with an automobile owned and driven by Mr. Plunkett. The case has been settled out of court. It is understood that Mr. Plunkett paid the widow $1,600.

THE HUN RED GUARDS GRAB AT MILLIONS BUT THE ATTEMPTED ROBBERY FAILS

BERLIN, Nov. 24.— An attempted robbery recently of 60,000,000 marks belonging to the treasury of Field Marshal Von Mackensen's army is charged against members of the Spartcus faction. When the car in which the funds were carried reached the station a few days ago it was taken over by a detachment of red badged soldiers claiming to represent the Berlin Soldiers' and Workmen's Government. The unexpected demand caused suspicion and led to an investigation. Despite apologies to the effect that a misunderstanding was responsible for the attempted seizure, the Red Guards were arrested. This occasioned considerable resentment among the ultra-radicals, who held a meeting, which was addressed by Dr. Liebknecht, and organized for the rescue. A squad raided police headquarters on Thursday night and succeeded in obtaining the release of the men implicated on the pretext that they were held as political prisoners.

They Have Cranks in England Also

By Maud Berkeley-Mitchell

LONDON, Nov. 8. (By Mail).—The display of American and Red Cross flags outside the American Red Cross Distributing Depot on George Street, in the heart of London's hotel and shopping district, seems to act like a magnet attracting all sorts of visitors, who have all sorts of requests, appeals and inquiries to make.

In one afternoon recently, the visitors included a woman who wanted to know whether the Red Cross "stocked" her favourite face cream, a New York specialty which she been unable to procure recently in the London shops; a woman who asked whether a "public dentist" was kept on the premises; and an officer who wanted to find out where he could buy shoes manufactured by a certain New York firm.

Another visitor on the same day thought that the Red Cross ought to supply her with food cards for her sister, who was arriving in England shortly from New York. When it was explained to this visitor that she would have no difficulty in securing the cards from her local food officials, she remarked that she was disappointed at the lack of enterprise shown by the Red Cross, and that she considered American business methods "very much over-rated."

A woman who applied for a position and said that she desired "executive work of high importance," gave as one of her qualifications that she had "no objection to working with Americans."

Some of the visitors are cranks, pure and simple. Such probably was a woman who applied for work about a year ago. She talked English with a decided German accent, but expressed the utmost eagerness to work with the American Red Cross. As the depot happened to have a sufficiency of helpers at that time, her offer was politely declined. But as one of the woman workers was bowing her out, the visitor seized the American's arm and said:

"You find your shipments not coming so quickly now from America, yes? Your ships are being torpedoed very fast, is it not so?"

Her question was put with so much eagerness that the American woman was quickly on her guard and answered that she could not give any information on that subject, although a waiting automobile truck laden with great boxes from the "New England Surgical Dressings Committee" was rather an adequate answer to the question.

OUTLOOK FOR FLOUR MILLS.

Capacity Operation Predicted for a Long Time to Come.

TORONTO, Nov. 25.— The outlook for all Canadian milling companies appears to be of the best. Stocks of flour throughout the entire world have been exhausted; and with Russia a non-producer of wheat for the past three years, the export demand will be exceedingly large. All the continental countries have been forced to restrict their grain output during the war; and nowhere, except in Canada and the United States, are stocks left on hand.

Canadian flours have been well advertised during the war, and many blends are most favourably regarded by the English and foreign housewife. Domestic flour stocks in Canada itself are very small; and this and the heavier export requirements will mean capacity operations for Canadian mills for along time to come.

HAD SEVERE COLD AND TICKLING SENSATION IN THE THROAT.

This trouble is most distressing, and is caused from a cold that has settled in the throat.

How many people have lost a good night's sleep by that nasty, tickling, irritating sensation in the throat?

The dry, hard cough keeps you awake, and when you get up in the morning you feel as if you had had no rest at all.

Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup, which is composed of the most soothing and healing expectorant herbs and barks, combined with the lung healing virtues of the world-famous Norway pine tree, will give almost instant relief in all cases of this nature.

Mrs. G. C. Routley, Bright, Ont., writes: — "I take great pleasure in writing you of Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup.

For several weeks I was troubled with a severe cold, and a tickling in the throat. I tried numerous remedies, but found no relief until I used Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup, which I had heard so much about, and on taking one bottle got instant relief. I highly recommend it to those who need a quick cure."

So great has been the success of "Dr. Wood's" in curing coughs, colds, bronchitis, etc., it is only natural that many imitations have been placed on the market. The genuine is put up in a yellow wrapper; three pine trees the trade mark; price 25c. and 50c. Manufactured only by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

THE WIFE

BY JANE PHILLIPS

A DISTRESSING WAIT AND A LAME EXPLANATION.

CHAPTER XLVIII.

Hour after hour Ruth sat by the window, watching, listening. Occasionally she would doze off for a few moments, tired with her long week's work, and her long ride on the railroad. But she woke at the slighest noise. Eleven struck, then twelve. where could Brian be? One, a quarter past. She rose and, going to the bedroom, she undressed and slipped into a wrapper. Just as the half hour struck she heard Brian's key in the door.

With an immense effort she pulled herself together. She wouldn't blame until she knew. Once more she recalled what her aunt had said about surprises reacting upon the one who tried to give them. She should have let him know she was there.

Brian, the moment he opened the door had sensed her presence. The faint odor of the perfume that she always used, greeted him, warning him she had arrived.

"Oh, Brian! I thought you'd never come!" she exclaimed as she rose to meet him.

"Why didn't you let me know you were coming? How's a fellow to keep track of you I'd like to know!" and while he kissed her affectionately, his tone was impatient.

"I wanted to surprise you, dear. I finished before I expected, and thought you would be so pleased."

"Surprised yourself instead. Well come on, let's go to bed! I took a long bus ride, didn't realize it was so late."

Ruth wanted desperately to ask if he took the bus ride all alone, and she bit her lip to keep the words back. She was thankful for the dim light. Her eyes were full of tears, and she did not want Brian to see them. Like most men, he had little patience with a weeping woman.

"Have you been comfortable?" she ventured, "Has Mr. Crawford cooked nice things for you?"

The dim light also hid from her the flush that rose to Brian's face as he replied:

"She hasn't had much cooking to do! You didn't suppose I was coming up to this dump to eat alone every night, did you?"

"Oh, Brian! how can you call our pretty home 'a dump?' It is so pretty."

"Anything is a dump when a man's alone."

"Well, dear, I may not have to go away again for a long time. I did good work too, I know I did." She longed for understanding and sympathy, "and it won't be long before they will see I am worth even more than they are paying me."

"Then you can crow over me still more!" Brian returned, yet thinking he hoped she had some money left, he had spent all he had.

"Don't, Brian! not to-night," now her voice was full of tears.

"Alright, I'll be good," and then they kissed and "made friends," as Brian affectionately expressed it.

But in the night Ruth was awakened by Brian talking in his sleep.

"You're a good girl, Mollie"—he muttered, then after a moment, "Not many girls as popular as you—" Ruth waited, scarcely breathing, so fearful was she he would stop, "would spend so many evenings with—" he waited a little longer this time," an old married man," he finished.

So her fears had not been ground-less after all. He had been with Mollie King, and—he had said "so many evenings." Perhaps he had been with her every night. No wonder he had no time to write to her.

Bitterness filled her heart. She was working for his comfort as well as her own. Sh had no thought but to share all with him. And he, he was spending his time with Mollie King while she was hard at work to improve their condition.

For the first time came the thought: Brian hadn't much money. Perhaps that was why he had borrowed of Clark that time when she went to Philladelphia. To take Mollie King out. He mustn't do it again. She would ask him in the morning if he was out of money. She must use tact about it, or he would get angry again. But she must prevent him borrowing. She had quite a little left over from wha she was allowed for expense money. A very generous allowance it was too.

She slept no more that night. At breakfast she said:

"If you have been eating out, Brian, it must have cost you a lot. I didn't begin to spend my expense money. I had no heart to do anything all alone, so I went to bed all but one evening. Then I went to a show," she talked fast so he wouldn't interrupt, "Here's twenty dollars until you get some in." Then he hesitated to take it, "you have almost saved it on the living. Crawford couldn't have used much of that I left her only getting breakfasts."

"That's so!" and convinced he could take it without a blow to his dignity, Brian put it hurriedly into his pocket. You see Ruth I took Mollie out to dinner with me. You know how I hate to eat alone, and it costs something to buy grub nowadays."

Lift Off Corns Doesn't Hurt!

Few drops stop soreness, then corn or callus lifts off with fingers

The world owes thanks to the genius in Cincinnati who discovered freezone.

Tiny bottles of the magic fluid can now be had at any drug store for a few cents. You simply apply a few drops of freezone upon a tender, aching corn or a hardened callus. Instantly the soreness disappears and shortly you will find the corn or callus so loose and shriveled that you lift it off with the fingers. Not a bit of pain or soreness is felt when applying freezone or afterwards. It doesn't even irritate the skin or flesh.

For a few cents one can now get rid of every hard corn, soft corn, or corn between the toes, as well as painful calluses on bottom of feet. Everyone who tries freezone becomes an enthusiast because it really doesn't hurt or pain one particle.

ache twice.

Ladies! Keep a tiny bottle on the dresser and never let a corn or callus ache twice.

SHARP WARNING TO GERMANY ISSUED BY GREAT BRITAIN

Cannot Expect Food Unless They Treat Prisoners Well, Huns Are Told.

LONDON, Nov. 20.—(British Wireless Service).—In any question of provisioning Germany the British Government will be obliged to take into account the condition under which prisoners in Germany are being released, unless the cruel treatment which such prisoners are receiving is discontinued, the German Government was warned in a wireless message.

The message sent by the British Government reads. "Information reaches His Majesty's Government of a shocking lack of organization in the release of British prisoners in German territory, and of their return march on foot, miserably clothed, without food or transport, and with no escort or guides, to the Allied lines, with the result of lamentable suffering and heavy mortality.

"His Majesty's Government cannot tolerate continuation of this cruel treatment, and must insist on adequate arrangement being made in all the above respects, by the German authorities with whom the responsibility lies. Otherwise we shall be compelled to take this into account in any question of revictualling Germany or satisfying the requirements of the German population.

"His Majesty's Government are ready to lend all available assistance by forwarding food, clothing and transport to prisoners camps where they are not otherwise forthcoming, and are addressing Allied commanders in this sense.

"Please acknowledge receipt."

Since Sunday military or civil prisoners have been constantly brought to Paris by eastern railway trains. Nine hundred arrived on Sunday, 1,100 on Monday, 300 on Tuesday morning and many more to-day. Ten thousand are reported to be on the way. Among the military prisoners are French, English Belgians, Americans and Italians. The civil prisoners are French or Belgian. They hail from all parts—some from the invaded departments, others from Alsace-Lorraine, Belgium, Wurttemberg and even Germany.

Some of these men say that they were only given their liberty after going through minute formalities. Others availed themselves of the slackened vigilance of their warders to escape from the camps in which they were interned, or the places where they were working. Others were requested to go by their guards when the latter learned that the armistice was signed. They were dismissed with the words: "Now you are free; you can go as you like and when you like."

Many of these men are in extremely poor physical shape and in a state of extreme mental depression, one being able to see at a glance that they have suffered terribly from hunger.

RECONSTRUCTION IN ITALY.

3,500,000,000 Lire Appropriated for Programme Already Decided On.

WASHINGTON.—Italy has embarked on a definite reconstruction programme and nearly 3,500,000,000 lire has been appropriated to carry it out, said an official despatch to-day from Rome. Measures have been adopted to permit all war factories to resume peace production immediately.

One billion, eight hundred million lire has been designated for railway reconstruction, 1,000,000,000 for public works and drainage of harbours, 500,000,000 for other works of public utility, and 100,000,000 to cope with the situation created by the large number unemployed.

The despatch also quotes Food Commissioner Crisp as saying that because of the addition of nearly 5,000,000 people to Italy's population by reason of the Austrian evacuation, further restrictions on food rations will be necessary.

The large stock of food supplies accumulated will be insufficient. Commissioner Crispi believes, in view of this addition to the population along with the feeding of about 900,000 Austrian prisoners in Italy and the numbers of Austrians that are surrendering daily as the armies of occupation complete their task.

119,000,000 CAKES OF SOAP SENT TO SOLDIERS

WASHINGTON, D.C.—American soldiers in France are not neglecting their personal appearance. The War Department announced that 119,000,000 cakes of soap, 53,000 boxes of talcum powder, 100,000 packages of tooth paste and 17,000 packages of shaving soap and paste were among the purchases for the overseas force during the last six months.

To Victory Went Our Allies All on Oily Wave

Earl Curzon Says That Great Fleets of Motor Trucks Licked Hun.

GERMANS HAD COAL, WE WON WITH OIL

London, Nov. 23—Earl Curzon member of the British War Cabinet, presided last night at a dinner given by the British Government to the delegates to the Inter-Allied Petroleum Conference. In toasting the French, American and Italian delegates, Earl Curzon declared that the Allied cause had been "floated to victory on a wave of oil," because if it had not been for the great fleet of motor trucks the war could not have been won. In the last eighteen months the council has dealt with 13,000,000 tons of oil.

In December, 1916, Earl Curzon said, the oil situation was critical. Stocks were so depleted that the British fleet was obliged to restrict operations. At the first when tank ships were being sunk in increasing numbers the idea was conceived of carrying oil in the double bottoms of ordinary cargo vessels, and one million tons was transported in his manner. When the armistice was signed the stocks of oil in allied countries had been brought up to a point of absolute safety. This achievement reflected the greatest credit on the Petroleum Council and on the great oil companies that had subordinated their own interests to the allied cause. The result, Earl Curzon said, had been one of the greatest triumphs of the war.

Senator Berenger of France, said that the Germans thought to win because they owned coal, but the allies won with oil. It was a victory of automobiles over railroads.

The United States, by its ready response to the needs of the allies, he added, had rendered service to France and the other allies which never would be forgotten.

Lieut. Commander Burstow replied in behalf of the United States.

A medium sized paint brush is excellent for dusting out the corners of the sairs.

Steamed puddings and steamed breads can very well be cooked in the fireless cooker.

STRATFORD PROPOSAL FOR CIVIC FUEL YARD.

STRATFORD, Nov. 25.—The City Council meeting in committee of the whole Saturday night, decided to recommend to the Council that a by-law for $50,000 be submitted to the ratepayers to establish a municipal fuel yard. This move was agitated by the Trades and Labour Council, fraternal association and Great War Veterans. It was also decided to recognize in some manner the services of the volunteer nurses who helped during the influenza epidemic.

Mayor Monteith and a representative of the Trades and Labour Council were appointed to attend the Hydro Radial meeting in Toronto on Thursday.

CHARGED WEALTHY WOMAN KISSED FOR SEVEN HOURS.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., November 25.—Following a trial which lasted for eight days, a jury in the Supreme Court handed up a sealed verdict in favour of Mrs. Adelaide H. Carey in the divorce action brought against her by Edward L. Carey, a wealthy New York broker.

Mr. Carey sued his wife for an absolute divorce, and named Louis C. Perry, a United States sailor. The evidence on behalf of Mr. Carey's claims was submitted by three New York detectives, who testified to having followed Mrs. Carey with the sailor to Central Park where they asserted they saw Mrs. Carey kissing the sailor and also smoking cigarettes. The statements of the detectives that the couple kissed for seven hours, with five minute intervals of rest, was classified by Mrs. Carey as a "wicked untruth."

OUR DAILY SHORT STORY

Winning a Prize

By GENEVIEVE ULMAR

"Oh, Dudley! It is too good to be true."

"You have heard what the letter says, and it certainly means a home for us."

Edna Wilde's eyes were dancing with hope, suspense, doubt, delight. Her young husband looked excited and glad. A message he had never expected had come that day to the tiny, humble city flat. It was from a half-uncle Dudley had not seen for ten years. It was brief, but explicit.

"As I near my end and am meditating a long journey," wrote Mr. Gregory Bond, "I am anxious to make some provision for those of kin. Your relationship is remote, but I have taken the pains to learn that your career has been clean, honorable and a credit to the family connection. I have learned that you have chosen a sensible, estimable young woman as your wife. If you will visit my lawyer, Mr. William Trull, at Brocton within the week he will install you, rent free, in a home and at the end of a year, if your progress corresponds with your past record, the place will be deeded to you as your own property."

"Oh, Dudley! What kind of a place is Brocton?" burst forth Edna irresistibly. "Have you ever been there?"

"Yes, indeed," responded Dudley, "but many years ago, when I was a boy."

"Oh, how I hope there is a garden to the new home! And trees, and flowers. Oh, Dudley! to have all those pretty surroundings, and a vegetable garden, and fruit bushes, and oh! maybe we can have chickens and a cow. It has been the dream of my life," and in an excess of joy Edna gave way to tears and clasped her arms about Dudley's neck and was supremely happy.

Dudley wrote a letter of thanks to Mr. Bond and one to the lawyer and at once he arranged about leaving his place of employment and for the shipment of household goods.

When he and Edna reached Brocton they found that the lawyer had left the evening previous for a long health trip with Mr. Bond. The office was in charge of a superannuated old man who listened to Dudley's story, but was vague and confused.

"You see, you ought to have come in time to see Mr. Trull," he expostulated quite peevishly. "I heard enough of you, however, to know that it will be all right if I give you the keys to the Wade street place. I suppose that's the house you are to get, as it's the only one Mr. Bond owns in Brocton."

"H'm!" muttered Dudley as a few minutes later they entered a yard with a battered old cottage, the porch of which lopped to one side. The clapboards had not apparently seen paint for a quarter of a century.

But Edna had flown to the side yard among rose bushes, pansy beds, golden glow, in fact, a wild riot of profuse but neglected vegetation. Her eyes were sparkling like diamonds as she rushed back to Dudley, her arms full of the floral treasures.

"Oh, Dudley!" she cried. "Look—look! My heart's desire—all the flowers I can carry."

Dudley repressed disappointment as to the house, not having the heart to dampen Edna's ardor.

"We shall be so happy!" she chirped gaily. "This is a fine, brisk town. We can repaper the rooms and fix up things generally, and oh! what a love of a life we can enjoy."

Dudley secured work. He found time to practically rebuild the porch, he painted the house in white and green, he mended up the fences, cleared up the rubbish, and inside of a month the old place was transformed.

One day, months later, Mr. Bond and the lawyer returned to Brocton. Both were in the office of the latter when the attorney asked his assistant:

"I suppose you saw to it that the Wildes' were comfortably installed according to my instructions?"

"Yes, sir, they came," was the reply, "only I didn't get any instructions."

"Why I left them in a sealed envelope in my desk," explained Mr. Trull.

"I didn't venture to open your desk, sir," replied the stupid old man. "The young people are all right, though. They've made the Wade street place look like a pretty doll palace."

"The Wade street place!" fairly shouted Mr. Bond. "Why, they were not to go there! It was the 20-acre place at Idlewild they were to get, and in perturbation the speaker and Mr. Trull were soon on their way to the home of the Wildes in an automobile.

"Well, I declare! your relatives have indeed transformed that old shack," remarked the lawyer, as the machine halted in front of the cottage.

"Wilde has made good," chuckled Mr. Bond. "He deserves the bigger place and I'll wager he and his wife will appreciate it."

And after he had explained to the Wildes and had driven them over to the model little farm, over which Edna went into new ecstasies, the old man felt that he had worthily bestowed a benefit upon two grateful, deserving souls.

The Best Habit In The World

is the habit of health. The way to get it is to train your bowels, through the liver, to act naturally, at a fixed time, every day.

Take one pill regularly (more only if necessary) until you succeed. Then you can stop taking them, without trouble or annoyance.

This has been the good-health-rule for 50 years.

CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS

Brentwood

Colorless faces often show the absence of Iron in the blood. Carter's Iron Pills will help this condition.

The Proper Ration for Horses When the Fall Work Closes.

When the fall work is completed and the hard-worked horse is at the beginning of his long period of idleness, feeders naturally plan to change the ration and carry the horse through the winter as cheaply as possible. The horse should get exercise regularly. He should not be taken from regular hard work and tied up in a stall day in and day out. If possible, the work should gradually ease off and the feed, particularly the grain ration, should be cut down accordingly. The idle horse may be wintered almost wholly on roughages. Good clover hay, or better, a mixture of clover and timothy well cured will serve as the main winter feed. Roughages are always cheaper than grain, and where hay is available the grain ration of the idle horse should be very small, but if horses are fed straw in place of hay a small grain ration is required to keep them from losing in flesh. A few roots are beneficial, a good-sized turnip once a day or a few carrots will be found to aid digestion. If hay is not plentiful straw may be substituted at the noon feed and roots given with it. In feeding hay make the morning and noon ration smaller than the night feed, giving about as much at night as at the two other feeds. Idle horses should be fed three times daily. If any grain whatever is fed make it rolled oats and it is not necessary to give more than a quarter the amount used when the horses are at hard work provided plenty of good hay is available. —Prof. Wade Toole, Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph.

Tired in the Mornings

IT is only natural to be tired at night. And sleep—Nature's sweet restorer—usually comes with soothing rest to him who is naturally tired out after the work of the day.

But to be tired in the mornings is an unfortunate condition, since it tells of sleepless nights and of nerves that refuse to rest.

Unless the nerve force, wasted in the process of living and by the corroding worries and anxieties of the day, is replenished by nightly rest and sleep, there must sooner or later come a day of reckoning—a day of bankruptcy—for the human machine cannot operate without nerve force.

You may not have realized just what was the cause of your wretched feelings in the mornings, of the headaches and digestive troubles, of the restlessness and sleeplessness.

But all the time Nature has been using her danger signals to warn you that nerve force is being exhausted more rapidly than it is being replaced.

Your digestive system fails to supply to the starved nerves the nourishment required, so it is necessary to seek aid in condensed and easily assimilated foods such as Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

There is no lack of evidence to prove the restorative influence of this food cure, Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is so universally known and used that few people are ignorant of its merits, but this knowledge cannot help you unless you obtain the Nerve Food and use it regularly.

It is not a narcotic or opiate. It will not produce sleep. But when you have used it for a few days you will find the nerves so strengthened that you will be able to enjoy natural, restful sleep. You will not be so easily irritated and annoyed, and will obtain relief from headache and other pains and aches consequent on the exhausted condition of the nerves.

Naturally it takes a little time and patience to rebuild a run-down nervous system, but so long as you can see little improvements you will be happy to follow out this treatment until you are thoroughly restored.

In order to protect you against imitations of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food the portrait and signature of A. W. Chase, M.D., the famous Receipt Book author, are on every package. Price, 50 cents a box, all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto.

British Reconnaissance Squadron

(The Day's Work—By E. O.)

"Four o'clock sir! Bit misty, but looks as if it might clear."

The orderly left a steaming cup of tea on the draped box which formerly contained rations and now did duty as a combined bookcase and wardrobe.

Half an hour later the door slammed, the tea was still standing there, but cold; and the whirring of propellers announced that our machines were off to do their 'shoots.'

We next met at breakfast and I asked the observer how he had fared.

"Oh, we had quite a good shoot; got them on to the Hun battery pretty quick, and they were soon getting O.K.'s with wonderful regularity. It was too good to last, and I soon saw the Boches skidadding. I had to come down a bit low though, because of the mist."

It was still early and they were shooting splendidly, so we tackled the old railway station at ———. They were a bit longer finding this, but when they did, they made a job of it, and I saw a couple of good healthy fires going as I came home."

As I went off across the aerodrome, a machine was landing: a sudden cross gust took it, one wing tip touched the ground, and it toppled over looking a very ungainly object on the ground. No one was hurt, and the damage was less than we expected, so that we were able to arrange what repairs were needed without troubling the Depot.

The afternoon was bright with a few floating clouds high up, when our machines left, some to "spot" for our batteries, others to take some much-needed photographs of a bit of the line in our sector. They returned with an excellent batch, which were promptly developed, and printed, and landed at H.Q. by tea-time. One machine had been attacked by three Germans, but when it had successfully downed one, the other two fled. Two of this machine's planes, and the tail, were rather badly shot about, and she was wheeled off for repair.

Later in the afternoon, just before dusk, two more machines, with racks full of light bombs, left on the regular trench-strafing expedition. Flying low over the German lines, they dropped their bombs and fired several Lewis drums among the harassed trench garrison. One returned to time: the other had been badly peppered from the ground, had stunted freely to dodge the attack, lost his bearings, and only found himself in time to make the aerodrome just at dark.

The enemy had suffered a good deal at our hands that day, and he took the usual form of revenge by trying to bomb us just after we had turned in. Fortunately, all his shots went wide and we spent the rest of the night in a profound peace.

CROWN BRAND AND LILY WHITE CORN SYRUP

To help the sugar shortage use Crown Brand or Lily White Corn Syrup—delicious, wholesome and economical alternatives for Sugar in Cooking and Preserving. Corn is grown in North America, while sugar must be brought across the seas in ships which are vitally needed for war purposes. Use all the syrup made from corn you wish, while the Food Board is urging stringent economy in the use of Sugar.

Delicious for Making Desserts and on Cereals.

The Canada Food Board has issued a book of recipes and suggestions for using Corn Syrup. Write to the Food Board in Ottawa, for a copy, and in the meantime go to your grocer for a tin of LILY WHITE Corn Syrup, or CROWN BRAND Corn Syrup and try some of the following recipes.

APPLE SAUCE

8 apples — 1 inch stick cinnamon
6 tablespoons Lily White Corn Syrup — ½ cup water.

Wash, pare, core, and slice apples. Put into sauce pan with water, syrup and cinnamon. Cook over a medium flame until soft.

CHOCOLATE CORNSTARCH PUDDING

2 cups milk — 2 tablespoons sugar
3 tablespoons Benson's Cornstarch — 2 tablespoons Lily White Corn Syrup
¼ teaspoon salt — 1 square chocolate
½ teaspoon vanilla.

Melt the chocolate over hot water. Scald 1½ cups of the milk; add the corn syrup. Mix sugar, salt, and cornstarch together; add ½ cup of cold milk to make a smooth mixture; add gradually to the scalded milk, and then add all the liquid to the melted chocolate, stirring constantly. Cook for 20 minutes in a double boiler, stirring until thickened; add vanilla; pour into moulds which have been dipped into cold water. Chill.

CAKE WITHOUT SUGAR

¼ cup shortening — 1½ tablespoon baking powder
2 cups Lily White Corn Syrup — ¼ teaspoon salt
2 eggs — 1 cup milk — 3 cups flour.

Cream the shortening, add the syrup and the egg, and mix well. Add the milk. Sift the baking powder and flour together; add it slowly to the mixture and beat. French Editor's Tribute to All Allies of France

PARIS, Nov. 21.— In this time of celebration, when everybody is so much interested to live completely in the present, Gustave Herve, the eloquent editor of La Victoire, who is known for his patriotic articles, always to the point, addresses the Allies, and particularly his own countrymen, with an appeal to remember the debt we all owe to the heroes of the war.

"Only the dead will not see again," he says. "Yesterday morning, as my windows were being adorned with a flag, which a pious hand had draped with crepe in honour of two deaths in the family, a woman of the middle class, in mourning, who did not know me, cried out in a voice muffled with emotion: 'Vive La France.'

"How fine have been our French women during these four years! Without them we should not have held. Thanks to them, our poilus have been so magnificent!

"It can be acknowledged to-day that even civilians as well stuck to it. It is less difficult you will say. No doubt. But a people as civilized as ours, that has had to combat brutal forces with the glorious tradition of humanity, in whom there is a grain of idealism, has some merit for holding out for years without nervousness, without foolish acts."

Names Leaders of France.

Continuing, M. Herve claims full recognition for services of the President in choosing the right leaders; Millerand for organizing the workshops in 1914; Briand, in Salonika; and lastly, Clemenceau.

"Others there are," he adds, "whom all France hails with enthusiasm despite faults which she unanimously recognizes."

Besides Foch, the junior Generals must not be forgotten, Gallieni, Sarrail, Castelnau, Petain, Fayolle, Ministre, Foch's two Chiefs of Staff, Weygand and Buat, and lastly, France's Mangin, Gouraud, Debeney, Degoutte, and Guillaumat.

"France in joy," he adds, "will not forget our allies. Neither Serbia, who was so grand in misfortune; nor Belgium, whom henceforth we shall always hold in as great affection as our dear peoples east and north, nor England, our great ally of the first hour without whom we would have been crushed despite the Marne; nor Italy, who came with help in the most difficult hours of the war; nor Portugal, who gave such a noble example to Spain; nor Roumania, nor the great American Republic, by whom our war was confirmed as a crusade against war.

Tribute to Russia.

"Let us get out the old Russian flags, no matter if they be those of Czarist Russia. All know we salute not Czarism but Russia; our first ally and friend of the dark days. 4,000,000 of whose soldiers died for the common cause.

"Despite the Lusitania, notwithstanding the assassination of Miss Cavell, the ignominious treatment of the women of Lille, and our millions of dead, we must feed Germany. Noblesse oblige. It is Clemenceau himself who to-day reminded us, 'midst the wild joy of the nation, that France remains always a soldier of God, in the words of our fathers, or, in those of to-day, a soldier of the ideals of humanity."

LONDON BELLES TO WEAR ALARM BELLS

(United Press.)

LONDON, Nov. 2.—(By Mail.) — The darkest place on earth is London at night.

With tightening of the fuel restrictions it is going to be darker this winter than ever. Londoners are advised to wear something white and glistening at night so motor drivers will see them more easily.

Pedestrians on the sidewalks collide every five minutes or so on the homeward journey, and the women of London are beginning to get hoarse in an endeavour to force a cough at regular periods by way of warning of their approach. But now it is suggested that they shall wear little silver bell pendants, so that each woman will carry her own alarm.

NO CONSTIPATION NO PILES

We think, without a doubt, that constipation is the most prevalent, and at the same time, one of the greatest troubles human nature is afflicted with, and causes more sickness than anything else.

Unless a free action of the bowels occurs at least once a day, constipation is sure to ensue, then comes the sore and uncomfortable piles, sick and bilious headaches, coated tongue, obnoxious breath, sour stomach, heartburn, water brash, and many other ailments.

Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills will regulate the flow of bile to act properly on the bowels, thus removing the constipation and its allied troubles.

Mr. Dan Doucette, Eel River Crossing, N.B., writes: — "Having been troubled for years with constipation and trying everything I know of, a friend advised me to use Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills. I used four vials and am completely cured. I can gladly recommend them to anyone who suffers from constipation."

Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills have been on the market for the past 25 years, and have been used with the best results by thousands of people in that time, and we have yet to hear of a complaint as to their curative powers.

GREATEST RULE OF HEALTH

With all their differences in regard to disease, its cause and treatment, doctors are of one mind in regard to the one greatest rule of health, viz: "Daily movement of the Bowels." Unnumbered thousands of people suffer almost continuously as the result of constipation who could be readily cured by Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills

THE WOMEN HELPED.

(By United Press.)

ROME, Nov. 26. — Statistics just completed by the Italian government show the remarkable part that was played by the women of Italy in the conduct of the war.

Against 900,000 men employed in all of the Italian establishments engaged in the manufacture of war material, there was a total of 200,000 women and children. The contribution of the Italian women towards the war, not only in the matter of manual labour, but in every other branch, was so great that the Italian parliament has been asked to establish a new order of knighthood which will be conferred exclusively on women for services rendered during the war.

The wounded Tommy was sitting up in bed when the nurse brought him his tea. He stared at his plate, and just as the nurse was leaving him, he said: "Oh, I say! Who ever put the butter on this bread?"

"Why, I did," returned the nurse, indignantly.

Tommy went rather red, and stammered: "I—oh, pardon, nurse, but — well, who scraped it off again?"

No Passports for Legions Bent on Seeing War Zones

NEW YORK, Nov. 23.—Incidental to the steaming of three large transatlantic steamships Thursday great disappointment was caused to many thousands of persons who had hoped to be permitted to leave the United States for Europe at this time. It was estimated at the Custom House that passports were denied to not fewer than twenty-five thousand persons in New York alone during the last fortnight and that throughout the country fully one hundred thousand was the total of disappointed applicants.

It was said by the officials who have in charge the handling of passport applications that the legions of morbidly curious Americans anxious to see the battle scarred lands abroad had begun even earlier than was expected. The large majority of passport applications had nothing to substantiate the pleas of the applicants for official attention beyond the mere fact that they wished to go abroad for a visit."

"No visitors are wanted in Europe at this time nor will be for some time to come," said one passport official. "This is not a time for the curious to visit the stricken countries and no passports will be issued to any except those who have the best possible reasons for crossing the Atlantic."

All sorts of political influence has been brought to bear by those who desired to go abroad, but none of it availed in a single instance.

The vessels which left this port this week were the Nieuw Amsterdam, of the Holland-American line, for Rotterdam; a British steamship and an Italian steamship.

Of the three, the Italian steamship carried the largest number of passengers, having 184 in her first cabin, 180 in her second cabin and 1,200 in her steerage. It was explained by officials of the line that the steerage passengers were Italians who had not been able to get to Italy during the recent calls to the colours because of lack of transport facilities but who were hurrying over now with a view to officially reporting for duty and thus saving their Italian citizenship and rights to visit their native country in the future without being subject to arrest for avoiding military duty.

The Nieuw Amsterdam took away between 140 and 150 passengers, evenly divided between her three classes. All of them are Hollanders, principally from the Dutch East Indies, whence they arrived in the United States via the Pacific coast. For some time the Holland-American line has carried only Dutch citizens, through an arrangement with the German government whereby the company's passenger steamers were left immune from U-boat interference. Inasmuch as the war is technically still on, the company decided to make no attempt to carry other than its own subjects until after peace is officially declared. The British steamship had 138 passengers in her cabins.

Evidence Shows That Germany and Austria Were Cause of the War

Bavarian Premier Authorizes Publication of Important Evidence —"The Infamous Lie."

BELGIUM NEUTRALITY

(British Wireless Service.)

LONDON, November 26. — The publication of the official reports of the Bavarian Minister of Berlin to his government, confirms the evidence already in the hands of the entente that Germany and Austria conspired to bring about war. It was for this reason that Austria's ultimatum to Serbia was made so drastic that relations were broken. The revelations have been published in Munich after permission had been obtained from the Bavarian Premier and the Foreign Minister of the German federated government. They are in the form of reports to Munich on July 18, 1914, by Count Von Larchenfeld, the Bavarian Minister of War, at Berlin.

The Bavarian Minister outlined Germany's intention to violate Belgium neutrality, saying, "The Chief of the German staff has declared that even British neutrality will be paid for. An attack on France is possible only through Belgium.

INCITED VIENNA.

(Canada Press.)

LONDON, November 26. — Warning against a Kaiserite counter revolution, is given by the Berlin "Vorwaertz," the official organ of the Ebert government, which declares that a gang of murderers are still planning to establish themselves in Berlin.

The Vorwaerts made the statement in commenting on the Bavarian disclosures of the origin of the war. It pointed out that the Gergovernment said that it was ignorant of the Austrian ultimatum before it was delivered to Serbia, and that it said that Vienna was exhorted to be moderate in its demands.

"The facts are," says the Vorwaerts "that Berlin incited Vienna. Wilhelm said the enemy attacked us. This is an infamous lie."

In addition to this, you get a better selection of goods, and that alone is sufficient reason why you should shop early and avoid the rush.

CANADIANS ARE ICE BOUND ON SIBERIAN FRONT

Bolsheviki Forces Are Said to be Receiving Heavy Reinforcements

Canadian Press:

ARCHANGEL, Nov. 26. — Middle winter has begun in earnest over the whole northern Russian front, where Canadian gunners are fighting. All the rivers are ice bound and Bolshevist gunboats, which have long menaced the Allied forces, have been forced to withdraw, being frozen in. The Bolshevists, however, have mounted big guns along the front south of the Allied Armies. Operations are limited to spasmodical exchanges, but the Bolshevik forces are said to be receiving heavy reinforcements. The freeze-up increases the danger to the Allies At once impassable swamps are now frozen, making possible flank attacks from the enemy. The cold is so intense in some parts of the front that the Allies sleep with their machine guns rolled in blankets to prevent the oil cooling chambers in the guns from freezing.

Fatal Accident This Morning

Peterboro Man Fell From Top of Freight Train and Was Almost Instantly Killed.

Conductor John Danford of the G. T.R. "moonlight" freight was almost instantly killed at Fraserville this morning at 2.45, apparently falling beneath the moving cars. Conductor Danford, who is a young man of about 35 years of age, had passed his examinations as conductor and was appointed to his present position only two weeks ago. Last night was his eighth and last trip. He had formerly been on the Lakefield line, but after his promotion was on the "moonlight" running to Port Hope.

Conductor Danford and a brakeman were on top of the moving train, and Danford apparently fell between two of the cars, although no one saw him fall. The train was brought to a standstill and his body was found beneath the cars. The right foot had been completely severed while the left leg was nearly severed, although he was still alive. He was taken aboard the caboose to Millbrook and Dr. A. H. Turner was called, but he had succumbed on the way. The body was brought to Peterborough at 7 o'clock this morning and taken to Comstock's Undertaking Parlours where an inquest will be held at 3 p.m. to-day.

The deceased, whose former home was at Madoc Junction, resided at 139 Rubidge street. He is survived by his wife and one child, six years of age.

Karl Walmsley, another brakeman, has taken Conductor Danford's place temporarily.

The deceased resided in Lindsay for some time and was a member of the Railway Brotherhood also L.O.L. No. 32 of that town.

STATE DEPARTMENT LACKS INFORMATION

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26. — Although without official information concerning the serious situation between Chile and Peru, the State Department is giving the matter close attention, and it is regarded as possible that the opportunity will be found to render the good offices of the American Government to compose the controversy.

HOSTILITIES IN PROSPECT

Peru and Chili Are at Loggerheads Over Revival of Dispute Over Two Provinces.

FIGHTING STRENGTH

(Special to The Examiner.)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26.—Hostilities between Peru and Chile appeared to-day to be a possibility resulting from a revival of the dispute over the provinces of Tacna and Arica, which Chile took from Peru in 1883. When Peru ceded Tacna and Arica to Chile at the end of four years' war in which Peru and Bolivia were completely defeated by Chile, a plebiscite was to be held at the end of ten years to decide the ultimate disposition of the provinces.

The plebiscite has never taken place and Tacna-Arica has been the "Alsace-Lorraine" of South American politics ever since. Chile vies with Argentina and Brazil in power and influence in South America. It has an area of 289,829 square miles, and a population of 3,641,488. Its regular army totals about 20,000, but it has a national militia in which all able-bodied men between 18 and 45 are liable for service. Its navy consists of one old battleship, two armoured cruisers, four protected cruisers, three torpedo gunboats, ten destroyers, six torpedo boats and a mine layer. Chile had two big dreadnoughts building in England at the beginning of the war, but these were purchased for the British navy. Peru has an area of 722,461 and a population of 4,620,201. Its standing army numbers 6,600. Military service is universal and compulsory. The navy consists of one old armoured cruiser, purchased from France, three protected cruisers, seven river gunboats, one destroyer and two submarines.

Another German Protest Issued

GERMAN LINE WAS UNBROKEN AT CESSATION OF HOSTILITIES, SAYS HUN GENERAL.

(Special to Examiner.)

LONDON, November 26.—Another German protest against the armistice conditions has been sent broadcast by the Nauen wireless. General Winterfeld has issued this latest complaint. He objects to the German army being rendered powerless, saying: "It can only be assumed that it is the intention of the high command of the allies to completely dissolve and destroy an army which during the past fifty months has gloriously made a stand against superior numbers and whose front at the cessation of hostilities had not been broken through."

Y.M.C.A. Membership Campaign, 1918

"Over the top" was the slogan of the red and blue workers in the big Y. M. C. A. membership drive which ended yesterday. For the first time in years the objective was reached and 175 members were added to the roll.

Excitement ran high during the closing hours of the campaign as the workers turned in their cards and awaited the results. No election ever stirred up more enthusiasm than that shown by the fellows as first one light and then the other announced the side leading.

Mr. H. B. Cowan, generalissimo of the reds, and Mr. Hughson Johnstone, generalissimo of the blues, supported by enthusiastic workers, kept the secretary busy receiving applications.

At 9.00 o'clock the door was closed and results checked. Both lights gleamed while the result rested in the balance. The blue team could see the red light begin to turn to purple and the red team declared that the blue light was burning more dimly.

A great shout arose as the results were announced and the reds went home victors. The reds had won, securing 10,680 points to about 9,000 for the blues.

A detailed statement of points secured will appear in the paper later in the week.

Canadian Casualties

Special to The Examiner:

OTTAWA, Nov. 26.—Within a very few days, the records branch anticipates that the last casualty sustained in the war by Canadians will be in. For the past few days the lists have been thinning down. The November casualties have been coming in for some days past, and even from the last day's fighting at Mons where, it is stated, very considerable casualties were sustained. The roll of honour is reaching the Dominion.

A statement from the overseas branch of the records office is expected and within the next few days the Canadian casualty lists will cease to be.

Bolshevism Threatens the Domestic Tranquility of Millions of People

Fear Is Expressed That German Troops Returning Home to Empty Cupboard and War-Broken Homes Will Fall Prey to the Machinations of Such a Doctrine—Conflagration Would Spread.

(Robert J. Bender.)
(United Press.)

WASHINGTON, November 26. — The eyes of the world to-day are turned on the German soldiers returning home. Whether they aid in restoring an orderly regime or yield to the anarchistic pleadings of Dr. Karl Leibknecht, Germany's Lenine, will determine if the Empire is to gain its feet or join with Russia in chaos and crime. Fear is expressed here that German troops, returning to the barren cupboards in war-broken homes, will fall a prey to the doctrines of Leibknecht.

He, like Lenine, has taken a stand against not only the imperialism of Germany, but has threatened the domestic peace of the allied world as well.

With Germany in control of the Bolsheviki, a great portion of Europe would be in the hands of Anarchists. The problem is one giving the civilized governments to-day most solemn thought and worry. There still is uncertainty as to whether chaos in Germany has its inception in those desiring a return of a monarchy as the sole means of restoring peace. The latest appeal of the German government protesting against the demobilization of the German armies, is held to indicate that the government is counting on these troops to assist in establishing a military dictatorship which might squelch the present upheaval.

NO DEFINITE CONCLUSIONS HAVE BEEN REACHED.

As to allied aid no definite conclusions have been reached. It is certain, however, that if Bolshevism gains the ascendancy in Germany the allied armies will be the only immediate means of combatting its spread into other countries.

The allies might throw an armed cordon around Germany or occupy her leading cities to assist in bringing order. It was pointed out that President Wilson has always taken the stand that countries should be allowed to settle their own internal differences—as for instance, Mexico and Russia. But with Germany the problem presents a threat against the peace and the domestic tranquility of the entire world. Scores of millions of people in Germany and Russia will be involved in an anarchistic uprising if Germany does not regain her balance, it was pointed out.

The fires of such a conflagration would be certain to sweep to the adjoining nations. Hence there is the strongest pressure upon this government to act promptly in putting them out now. To this end the associated powers are exchanging views, but any announcement of a course of action probably will await developments of the coming days.

German Ships May be Utilized

Problems Connected With the Return of the Overseas Forces.

By Carl D. Groat
(United Press.)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26.— Britain and the United States are in perfect accord as to the reduction of use of British tonnage for bringing American troops home. There will be sufficient transport facilities to meet demobilization needs. These assurances came from the War Department officials to-day, following Secretary of War Baker's intimation that some of the British ships are soon to be withdrawn from the United States' transport service. Baker himself said that our own vessels plus probably some German ships and some French and Italian tonnage would meet the requirements. Other authorities declared that the cutting off of British aid has not come yet.

Natural Outcome.

Baker held it was natural for the British to terminate some of the carrying contracts entered into when troops movements were desperately necessary. He pointed out that Britain had her own colonial troops—Canadians, Australians and New Zealanders—to send home, and that they had been abroad longer than Americans.

Practically 7,000 men and officers, mostly aerial squadrons, casualties, sick and wounded have embarked from England and will reach New York the last of the month, according to present schedules. It is now proposed that some of the German ships held in Teuton ports shall be used to carry home our soldiers. It may be that they will take food cargoes to Germany and then stop at France to bring back demobilized men. In addition it is anticipated that some cargo ships can stow a small number of men on all homeward trips.

A black satin slipper is correct for evening wear if French heeled and long vamped.

Movement is Growing

Germany is Practically Without a Leader, the Latest Advices Indicate.

By Ed L. Keen.
(United Press.)

LONDON, Nov. 26. — Germany is practically without a leader, the latest advices indicate.

Although the power of Karl Leibknecht, head of the Bolshevist movement, is growing, it is not believed that Chancellor Ebert has yet been overthrown. So far as is known he still heads the government in Berlin, although actual control is maintained by the workmen and soldiers.

As a result of the situation in Germany, the Express points out that unless responsible authorities sign the peace pact, the Allies may be forced to re-occupy the country or continue their blockade until a stable government is established.

German newspapers declare the whole of Germany, including German Austria, is united against the Bolshevist element in Prussia, particularly in Berlin. Many States are hurrying plans for the establishment of independent republics.

ADDRESSED A CONFERENCE

Chancellor Ebert Urges Co-operation Throughout the Shattered German Empire.

SHARP REPLY

Canadian Press:::

COPENHAGEN, Nov. 26.—Chancellor Ebert is reported (from the semi-official Wolff Bureau) of Berlin, as having addressed a conference of about 70 delegates from various parts of Germany who gathered in the Chancellor's Palace, and to have urged co-operation throughout the empire in dealing with the present situation. The conference included a few former diplomats, a number of widely known deputies who are now taking part in the government of various states and also several new men, some of whom were soldiers or sailors. The first aim to be achieved, said Herr Ebert was peace and security of economic basis. Every workman and soldier, he declared, must labour to his utmost for the rebuilding of the states. Liberty was worth less without food and employment. He pointed out that the summoning of the National Assembly was necessary to secure the co-operation of the Central Administration and Federate States. The Cabinet would on Tuesday, said Herr Ebert, consider a bill for the election of a National Assembly. Arrangements must be immediately made for the government of the Federated Empire, Dr. Solf, Minister of Foreign Affairs, declared the situation was extremely threatening owing both to the enemy's will to destroy Germany and separatism movements in that country. He based his hope of solving the present problems upon the conference then in session. Kurteisner, Bavarian Socialist Premier, protested sharply that both Herr Ebert and Dr. Solf were compromised by being representatives of the old regime.

Dance Was a Big Success

OVER ONE HUNDRED COUPLES PRESENT — GOOD MUSIC PROVIDED.

The first big entertainment which has been given at the T. A. S. Hall since war was declared, was the dance held last evening. About one hundred and twenty five couples enjoyed the splendid music provided by Mr. William Moher, while several tables of cards were arranged for those who did not care to dance. A splendid supper was served.

Big Squadron in Constantinople

POPULATION ACCLAIMED THE ALLIES AS DELIVERS.

Special to the Examiner.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Nov. 26. — There were fifty French and Italian battleship cruisers among the allied squadron which anchored last week in the Bosphorus. The newspapers and the population acclaimed the squadron as delivers. The headquarters of the French and British contingents have been re-established in Constantinople. The British aerial forces are camped on the outskirts of the city. Food prices in Constantinople, according to the Turkish Financial Minister, are above those before the war. The disorganization of the railroads has compelled the government to abandon the use of the cheap bread which it issued during the war.

OPENING OF PARLIAMENT

Canadian Mechanics Will be Returned to Canada Free of Expense.

RECONSTRUCTION

Special to the Examiner.

OTTAWA, November 26. — Thursday, January 16th, is believed to be the date set for the opening of the Canadian parliament.

It is announced that 25,000 Canadian mechanics who had gone to England to work on munitions and shells, will be returned to Canada, with their families, without expense to themselves.

P. Daily, a well known business man here, has been appointed director of reconstruction for Canada.

Public Meeting to Discuss Local War Memorial

Citizens interested in the movement to provide a war memorial in Peterborough are reminded of the public meeting in the Council Chamber on Thursday night. Mayor Duncan, who has called it, will preside, and it is hoped that there will be a large attendance. This is a question that has been broached several times and with increasing insistence during the past few weeks. Peterborough has given without stint in men and money to the winning of the war, many of its sons have paid the supreme sacrifice, and there is a unanimous sentiment in favour of honouring and perpetuating their service and memory. It might be well to consider the county as a whole in any action that may be undertaken. Peterborough is the county town, and the rural communities have had no small share in the contributions of money and contingents of men that have borne the name of Peterborough. It may be that some concerted action could be adopted by the city and county.

French Deny the Suggestion

Allies Are Carefully Examining Dutch Attitude.

Special to the Examiner:

PARIS, Nov. 26. — The French Government has sent a note to The Hague, denying the suggestion that the Allied Ministers endorsed the passage of retiring German troops through Limburg, Holland. The note pointed out that the Allied Ministers at The Hague merely asked permission to transmit to their respective Governments Holland's decision to permit such passage. The Allies are carefully examining the Dutch attitude, in view of the Limburg incident and the former Kaiser's actions.

STILL THE SAME OLD GERMANY!

It was thought that the Germans had gone the limit in cruelty during the war, but the conditions under which the allied prisoners of war are being liberated as a result of the armistice comes pretty close to equalling in callous and heartless indifference the worst attrocity that Germany's campaign of frightfulness produced. Imagine thousands of prisoners who for months have been existing on a diet of a few ounces of bad bread a day, supplemented by a water-like soup in which cabbage had been boiled, now turned out without money and without food, clothed in rags, to wander on foot through a hostile country, seeking to reach France or Belgium. The story of the suffering of these unfortunate British and French soldiers will steel every heart and will cause an insatiable demand for retribution. The very people who have been whining about the harshness of the armistice terms are turning our men out to die by the roadside. What terms can be too harsh for the Huns mercy they could not appreciate; they must be treated and judged by their own standards and the revelations are being made of the suffering of the liberated prisoners shows that there has been no change of heart, no repentance in Germany. The same spirit that sank the Lusitania, that spread havoc through Belgium and Northern France, that murdered women and children by torpedoes from submarines and bombs from Zeppelines, that first used poison gas, that deliberately shelled cathedrals and bombed hospitals, that violated the Red Cross and every rule of civilized warfare, still exists in Hunland. The prisoners now staggering into the allied lines are living witnesses that the Germany of the present is still the Germany of the last four and a quarter years. The lesson has not yet been learned.

HELPING THE SOLDIER

That Canadian people are too apt to idealize the private soldier "in epic verse and picture" and fail to give him practical help he needs is the accusation of the London Advertiser and there is a great deal of truth in the contentention of our Western Ontario contemporary. Canadians are always ready to praise our soldiers in the abstract, but when the men come back and the uniforms are laid away and the glamour of the khaki is gone there is a tendency to overlook the services that have been rendered. We loudly acclaim general statements about "nothing being too good for the men who have fought for us overseas," but coming down to individual cases the enthusiasm is absent.

Here is what the Advertiser says—it applies just as truly to Peterboro as it does to the city in which it was written:

"The men who invoke the public to let their patriotism so shine that the good Government may not be embarrassed in any way are always willing to make gods of our soldiers—in the abstract. When it comes to paying pensions, they permit certain colonels in high civic positions to take generous sums and put the humble private the man about whour they write and speak as worthy of first consideration, on a beat-and-bone basis.

"Our newspapers and journals, our posters and our orators, idealize the private soldier in epic verse and picture. But on the street and in the shop those who read do not always ask him what they may do for him. Thousands love him and cannot express their admiration, but if we would come down to earth and deal him the substantial bread of hard cash rather than the poetical lotus flowers of fulsome—and far-removed—adoration we imagine our Tommies would think we were all a pretty good "bunch of scouts" after all. When you get your chance be sure that you offer him the thing he desires rather than another bouquet of verbal violets from someone else's garden."

SHOULD BE ADVERTIZED

At the luncheon tendered Mr. Fred W. Field, British Trade Commissioner yesterday, a suggestion was made by a local business man that might well be acted upon In the discussion that followed Mr Field's address, this Peterboro merchant advanced the opinion that the benefits fro ma department such as that presided over by the guest of honor at yesterday's function that the benefits from a department if the work of the commission was properly advertised. Government bodies, as a rule, have been notoriously slow in appreciating the possibilities of intelligent advertising in the public press. The war has, however, worked a transformation in this respect. It has been realized in Government circles that the cheapest, surest, most effectual way of reaching the public is through the medium of Canadian newspapers. The result has been that all the great national undertakings of the war have been advertised. Recruiting was largely stimulated through the papers of Canada and the people were instructed as to the workings of the Military Service Act in the same way. The Greater Food Campaign, the Food Controller's plans to conserve food, the Fuel Controller's efforts in connection with the coal supply, the Government's drive to induce Canadians to eat more fish, and above all the Great Victory Loan Campaign were systematically advertised and there can be no doubt of the successful results of this publicity.

The suggestion made to Mr. Field yesterday was timely and he would do well to forward it to the British Government. A department of overseas trade "designed to obtain for the different units of the British Empire the primary benefits of the vast natural resources and trade," to quote Mr. Field's description, should mean much for Canada. But the Canadian people should be told about it and the best method is through the Canadian newspapers. Visits such as Mr. Field paid to Peterboro yesterday are, of course, themselves an advertisement for the work of his department, but with only four commissioners at work in Canada, it would require many months of such tours through the country to acquaint the Canadian merchants and manufacturers of the aims and objects of the Department of Overseas Trade. An advertising campaign that would reach every part of Canada would prove an immediate stimulus to the work that Mr. Field and his associates are conducting. In no other way than through the newspapers can the public be reached so quickly and effectively, and the possibilities before the movement are so great, that it seems a pity that any time should be lost simply because the Canadian people have not been given an opportunity to read about the work that is being done.

FACING THE FUTURE

What will be the effect of after-the-war conditions upon wages? And how will the cost of living be changed by the return of the world to a peace basis? These questions are being discussed everywhere in Canada and it is probably too early to make an absolutely correct prophesy as to what the next few months will bring. However the following analysis of the situation by the Financial Post of Canada should be of much interest at the present time, Says the Post:

"There is no more vital or sensitive phase of the great and varied problem of industrial reconstruction and business readjustment than that presented by labor, the great attitude of which was undoubtedly expressed by a forcible declaration of Samuel Gompers that the labor organizations would bitterly fight any reduction of wages or increase of working hours. Canadian labor leaders were not long in endorsing this stand of the American leader.

It is one thing to say that wages shall not come down and another to maintain them at their present war-time level. The law of supply and demand applies to labor as it does to other factors in the fine economic scheme of production and consumption.

We do not believe, however, that there should be, or will be, any effort to reduce wage standards, except as the necessity for meeting competition dictates such a course. The end of the war has not in itself relieved the world shortage for foodstuffs, clothing, etc., and the supplies of raw materials have been reduced to such an extent that it will take some time to reach a normal balance. Then there are the needs for reconstruction in Europe to be taken into consideration and the requirements of an army slowly returning to civil life, not to mention that Central Europe is almost bare of comodities. It will take time to make up the shortage.

"The trades generally have been looking for lower prices since the armistice was signed. They argue that as the war sent prices up so peace would bring prices down. Undoubtedly there will be a gradual lowering in prices. In the majority of lines, however, present prices will probably prevail and in some cases there will still be further advances.

"In the textile lines wholesalers are placing their orders now for delivery in he fall of 1919. These orders in many cases are being placed at higher prices than the goods are selling at to-day. Moreover, these prices are not subject to cancellation. The Governments in Canada, United States and Great Britain are organized as never before to control and stabilize prices. The British Government has controlled the raw wool situation and it is understood that the price of raw wool will be kept up for the next six months or longer. During the 1917 depression the United States Steel Corporation succeeding in stabilizing prices on steel. If they had not done this many wholesalers and retailers would have failed. Large corporations and monoplies are frequently criticized but in situations such as the present it is quite likely that the business communities generally will benefit by the ability of these large firms to stabilize prices.

"Nor is there any indication that there will be a sudden slump in the market for Canada's agricultural products. The cessation of hostilities seems to have rather increased than decreased the prices of food. It will take one harvest at least in Europe to afford any material relief. The American Government has guaranteed the price of next year's wheat crop on the same basis as that of 1918, and this promises to be a sustaining force in the situation. Likewise there is a great shortage of live stock throughout the world and a profit must be assured to increase production.

But the readjustment, if deferred is nevertheless inevitable. War finance has meant inflation and there must be deflation to reach a solid basis. Shortage of labor and reduced production of normal profits owing to war needs and the fact that price was a secondary consideration were responsible for the increased value of worker's services and for commodities in general: Increased supply of labor and increased production will have the effect of reducing the values and goods to normal buying power of the people.

"One of the most effective courses open to the manufacturers to meet developments will be in increasing the efficiency of working forces. Such has been the scarcity of workers that many have been paid standard wages when they have not been able to earn them. These workers will now have to increase their productivity or find positions to which they are better suited. Even maintaining present union wage scales productivity could probably be increased twenty-five per cent. in this way.

"There will be no general effort on the part of industry to force wages down for other than economic reasons or, in the last analysis, for self preservation. Industrial leaders, looking to the general good of Canada, will not desire to take unfair advantage of the cancellation of shell or other orders. The broad and sane statements of such men as Thomas Findly, president and general manager of the Massey-Harris Company represent the the attitude of manufacturers; the talk of big plants closing down with the aim of reducing the value of labor is only the unreasonable cry of the socialists—the manufacturers rather than the workers would suffer from any such course."

Department of the Secretary of State.

PUBLIC NOTICE is hereby given that, pursuant to an Order of His Excellency the Governor General in Council dated the 15th day of November, 1918, the following lists are being prepared:

(a) Claim of persons residing or carrying on business in Canada who have been subjected to loss and pecuniary damage arising from the destruction of life and property through the illegal warfare of the enemy, and

(b) Claims for damages to which persons residing or carrying on business in Canada have been subjected for breaches of contracts, which contracts were prevented from being carried out owing to the operation of the Statutory List of persons in neutral countries with whom such contracts were declared illegal.

Persons having such claims should immediately file the same. Instructions respecting the method of filing and the proof to be furnished may be obtained from the undersigned. The filing of a claim does not imply an undertaking on the part of the Government to put forward such claim at the termination of hostilities, or any assurance that the claim, if put forward, will be paid. It is advisable, however, that claims should be made promptly, so as to enable the Government to put them forward if occasion arises for doing so.

EDITORIAL NOTES

The German army is reported to be retiring in good order. Well it had lots of practice before the armistice was signed.

Out of 28,000 Rumanian prisoners taken by the Bulgars, only 18,000 have returned. Bulgaria should be forced by the peace conference to tell what happened to the other 10,000.

According to Sir Robert Borden vast areas of uncultivated land in Canada are placed at the disposal of the soldiers. Why not give them the lands the Kaiser is said to own?

The announcement from Washington that the production of anthracite coal has fallen nearly 100,000 tons behind the average daily production for last year is not plesant reading. Coal conservation in Ontario is imperative to avert suffering before Spring.

Good Work Slowly Done

Mistake to be Constantly Under Pressure and Nervous Strain.

Some of us are trying to live our lives all at once. We would cramp the slow development of years into the coming month or week; we would compress the work of an hour into the next five minutes. Nature—patient, tireless, cunning labourer that she is—does not favour this plan. She takes her time—"Because it is here!" some one makes prompt answer. "She has command of all the time there is. She can be as deliberate as she chooses. We must make haste because our little lives are so soon clipped off. The darkness too early rounds our day. Our work must be put through with speed, and under pressure or we shall not finish."

The best work even by these feeble mortal hands and minds of ours is done not in a fever but in a calm. Art (and the exception proves the rule) achieves most nobly when it achieves with tranquility. The personal circumstances of the artist may be distressing. He rises above them. His dream translates him to the skies above his mundane environment. His passion for the truth leads him to forget that he is poor and hungry and misunderstood. He writes his book or paints his picture or composes his sonata in a land where it is always summer and the skies are blue and tears are never shed and none ever dies. By the force of a creative imagination, he establishes for himself a new heaven and a new earth, and his spirit is tranquil because it is triumphant over the pinching and gnawing circumstances.

Must Learn.

Artist or artisan, each of us must learn to make the pilgrimage a step at a time. Let not an anxious forecast corrugate the brow with the thought of a morrow sufficient into itself. Epicurean delight lives for the moment; and a man's more serious purpose in existence would often do well to follow the example. We can be sure as to what we wish to do with our lives; we can have a great and generous aim; we can appoint a goal and know the point we wish to reach and the way by which we are proceeding. But the miles we measure forward with the spiritual eye are not to be o'erleaped in the next second. We must plod. We must be content with a wayside inn to-night, and the next night, and many nights, perhaps, before we reach our haven and our home.

It will not do to disparage this goodly earth as a vale of tears, for all the sorrow and all the blackness that we see. The earth is full of fallible people like ourselves, trying and coming to grief and rising to give battle again in the inextinguishable hope of victory. We are more alike than we realize. We are a marching army, with leaders whom we must obey. Like good soldiers we must keep the cadence with toe rest. If we grow careless and straggle, we dislocate the whole procession. We came into the world bound to be submissive to its discipline. To defy the natural laws is only to be miserable and to make misery for others. If war shall teach us to respond with promptness to a command, out of its horrors will be born a blessing.—Philadelphia Public Ledger.

Peterboro Soldier Describes Reception to Hun Prisoners

"The Boys Kept Smiling in Spite of the Task," Writes Driver Percy Hamblin—Sad News.

The following letter was written by Driver Percy Hamblin to his mother, Mrs. John Hamblin, 254 Monroe avenue:

Dear Mother,— Received your box O.K., containing cake, socks, razor, etc., and many many thanks for them. My razor is just fine, and the cake we all enjoyed with some coffee the French people gave us. Oh, it sure tasted good after a long day's march. Walter and Earn got their's to-night, so I guess they will be writing, too.

You will be pleased to know that I am quite well and came through all these recent battles safe and sound. When one thinks for a moment, and allows the memory to pass back over the last few months, months of anxiety, months of ups and downs, it is really marvellous how some of us have come through as we have. I suppose it's nothing more than Providence, or shall we say, God's great love. Still, mother, with all the rough, fatiguing times there have been moments of great interest. War is a most strange thing; there is joy and sorrow intermixed; one sees things one minute which fills the heart with joy, the next moment something which makes the heart bleed.

The Light Side.

To advance day after day, following up this cruel, hard-hearted bunch, Fritzies as we commonly call them, to pass hundreds of prisoners on their way to our collecting cages, all makes the heart grow lighter. Then there is the sad side which one sees much of. Still, we do not want to dwell on that too much, for one well knows that in war there is much which makes the heart ache and weigh heavy. We'll forget that side anyway and go on to a few of the very pleasant and interesting things I have witnessed of late.

Heavy Fighting.

We have for months been battling very heavy, and to-day we can look back with pride at what we have achieved. We have left behind us "old France," or the parts we have known so long. We have said goodbye to all the friends we made among the French families, we passed over the old battle field of the past four years, a devastated stretch of beautiful country. To-day we are steadily passing through "new France" or the parts that are new to us. I think the last week or so will live in my memory forever.

Sad Scenes.

I was recently visiting a very fine old place which we have just taken back from the Hun, and whilst there I saw about five thousand civilians brought into the place which had been released from under the iron heel of the German. Men, women and children of all ages were there. It was sad to see the people of great age, struggling around with what few things they had been able to get away. No, doubt things of private value, little things they treasured. Needless to say my thoughts ran back to "mother and home." I thanked God you were safe from such a hell. Then all at once I found myself helping some of these people along to the train with their luggage. It was in a way sad, and yet a day of rejoicing. The next day we were on our way again, still over more new country, still chasing up behind Fritz. It wasn't long before we began to come to villages which showed no signs, or should I say outward signs, of war. On we went for miles and still the villages and towns looked good. Still they stood in all their beauty.

Hot Coffee.

At last we reached a large town where we were to rest for the night. Oh what joy when we entered. There we found it fully inhabited, just as though no war had ever been. Shall I ever forget the reception? I think not. Mothers with their children stood in the doorways with good hot coffee, all or about all, they were left with, and gave to us boys as we passed through. I think almost every house had the French flag flying and all the little girls had their hair tied with patriotic ribbon. So we billeted in the different houses with these people and they could not do enough for us.

Stories of the Hun.

Although we do not understand all the French language, we usually understand somehow what they are telling us and we settled down that evening to listen to their stories. They told us how delighted they were to see the British Tommy in their homes in place of the Hun. How the Hun had robbed them of all they valued. All their cows, pigs, etc., have been taken from them. "Can you wonder why we hate these brutes?"

A Warm Reception.

There was a very exciting thing happened a couple of days ago. Some German prisoners were being taken down the line and as they marched through a certain town the civilians came out and gave them a very warm reception. People who had been under their rule for the past four years. The women just made a rush for them and punched their faces. Men took them by the throat and almost shook the life out of them. So it is in war; we have everything intermixed, joy, excitement and sorrow. As I write this letter our guns are shaking the earth. Fritz is sending some very heavy shells back. I suppose it's like a dog giving his last kick. Still we have no fear, for we know we are passing along the road to victory. You know, mother, when we go into the garden and pluck a rose we have to watch for thorns; oftimes we have difficulty in obtaining the flower. The last four years have been the same. We have struggled to get past the thorns. To-day we have almost passed them and soon we shall have reached the rose. Victory and freedom for the world is the rose we are about to pluck.

Keep Smiling.

Keep smiling, for the day is ours. Remember us in your prayers, for we need them now as much as ever. I am sure that it's nothing but your prayers that has brought Walter and Ernest and myself, your three boys, safely through. We have enjoyed good health and are as happy as the days are long. Soon we shall be back.

Day of Rejoicing.

What a day of rejoicing when we are re-united. We are going to see this through. We have sung many times, "We'll Never Let the Old Flag Fall," and she is still flying at the top of the mast. No German can pull it down. Canada shall be proud of her boys. Now, mother, I must go, as time flies fast. I could write much more, but time will not permit. So au revoir, but not good-bye. Love and best wishes to all.

Your ever sincere son,
PERCY.

Insurance for the Spinsters

German Scheme for Women Failing To Wed Before They are 37.

In order to make more endurable the lot of the hundreds of thousands of German girls who are condemned to more or less permanent "single blessedness" because of the ravages wrought amongst the male population by the war, German statisticians and publicists have begun discussing a plan of insurance against spinsterhood. The chief advocate of this scheme is a mathematician named Dr. Karl Luttenberger, and a detailed description of his idea is found in a copy of the Kolnische Zeitung, recently received in London.

According to the census of 1910 there were 800,000 more women than men within the empire's borders. All authorities admit that the danger of permanent spinsterhood for many German women has been vastly aggravated by the war, so that the insurance project, according to the Kolnische Zeitung, is sure to arouse widespread attention and calm many anxious hearts. Dr. Littenberger thinks that the project will be commercially profitable on the "mathematical" basis he has worked out.

The underlying motive of the scheme is to guarantee girls against the possible poverty of husbandless days. Girls may take out the insurance themselves or it may be taken for them by their parents. It is intended that premiums shall be paid when a girl is still in her babyhood, so that this extra cost of bringing her up may fall upon her parents at a period when educational costs are at the lowest point. Premiums are payable up to the insured's twentieth year. If the young woman has not married by the time she is 37 she will thenceforward be entitled to draw an annuity, which will be paid in quarterly installments. She will continue to derive this income even if she finds a husband after passing her thirty-seventh birthday.

If the insured weds before reaching thirty-seven she cannot claim an annuity, but may recover with interest the total amount of premiums paid on her behalf. If the insured dies before becoming 37, the accumulated "cash value" of her policy will go to her legal heirs. Dr. Littenberger points out that his plan not only guarantees spinsters against economic distress, but also increases their matrimonial prospects. It will also prevent girls, he thinks, from marrying in haste, because their future is assured whether they take husbands or not.

Turpentine put in corners of the wardrobe will do away with moths.

THIN PEOPLE SHOULD TAKE PHOSPHATE
Nothing Like Plain Bitro-Phosphate to Put on Firm, Healthy Flesh and to Increase Strength, Vigour and Nerve Force.
Judging from the countless preparations and treatments which are continually being advertised for the purpose of making thin people fleshy, developing arms, neck and bust, and replacing ugly hollows and angles by the soft curved lines of health and beauty, there are evidently thousands of men and women who keenly feel their excessive thinness.
Thinness and weakness are usually due to starved nerves. Our bodies need more phosphate than is contained in modern foods. Physicians claim there is nothing that will supply this deficiency so well as the organic phosphate known among druggists as bitro phosphate, which is inexpensive and sold by most druggists under a guarantee of satisfaction or money back. By feeding the nerves directly and by supplying the body cells with the necessary phosphoric food elements bitro-phosphate quickly produces a welcome transformation in the appearance; the increase in weight frequently being astonishing.
This increase in weight also carries with it a general improvement in the health. Nervousness, sleeplessness and lack of energy, which nearly always accompany excessive thinness, soon disappear, dull eyes become bright, and pale cheeks glow with the bloom of perfect health.
CAUTION:— Although bitro-phosphate is unsurpassed for relieving nervousness, sleeplessness and general weakness, it should not, owing to its remarkable flesh-growing properties, be used by anyone who does not desire to put on flesh.

Corncobs May Yield Commercial Product

(By United Press.)

NEW YORK, Nov. 25.—Utilization of corncobs for commercial purposes is one of the possibilities of peacetime industry being investigated by commercial men here.

Adhesive gum, cellulose, glucose, and alcohol are among the products already obtained from cobs in experiments. Chemists of the United States department of agriculture consider the commercial possibilities opened up by the experiments as very promising.

Corncobs constitute an enormous item of waste in the great corn states of the United States. They are used to of the United States. They are used in many Western towns and rural communities as fuel. To some extent they are ground with the corn for cattle feed. But mostly they rot in great piles, or are burned to get them out of the way.

Glucose extracted from corncobs is of excellent quality, chemists find. It crystallizes readily, and is believed to be fully as good for commercial purposes as other glucose now made from starch.

Glucose is widely used in commerce and industry.

For extraction of alcohol from corncobs, sulphuric acid is used. Practicability of this feature of corncob utilization, therefore, would depend upon the cost of the acid.

Jump from Bed in Morning and Drink Hot Water
Tells why everyone should drink hot water each morning before breakfast.
Why is man and woman, half the time, feeling nervous, despondent, worried; some days headachy, dull and unstrung; some days really incapacitated by illness.
If we all would practice inside-bath ing, what a gratifying change would take place. Instead of thousands of half-sick, anaemic-looking souls with pasty, muddy complexions we should see crowds of happy, healthy, rosy-cheeked people everywhere. The reason is that the human system does not rid itself each day of all the waste which it accumulates under our present mode of living. For every ounce of food and drink taken into the system nearly an ounce of waste material must be carried out, else it ferments and forms ptomaine-like poisons which are absorbed into the blood.
Just as necessary as it is to clean the ashes from the furnace each day, before the fire will burn bright and hot, so we must each morning clear the inside organs of the previous day's accumulation of indigestible waste and body toxins. Men and women, whether sick or well, are advised to drink each morning, before breakfast a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it, as a harmless means of washing out of the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels the indigestible material, waste sour bile and toxins; thus cleansing sweetening and purifying the entire alimentary canal before putting more food into the stomach.
Millions of people who had their turn at constipation, bilious attacks, acid stomach, nervous days and sleepless nights have become real cranks about the morning inside-bath. A quarter pound of limestone phosphate will not cost much at the drug store but is sufficient to demonstrate to anyone, its cleansing, sweetening and freshing effect upon the system.

RICHARD HALL & SON LIMITED

Mr. J. W. Worth Addressed Cressman Welfare Club

Gave an Interesting Address on "Yarns"—Mr. McBride Elected to Position of President of the Organization.

With the object of becoming thoroughly familiar with the merits of the materials they handle the Cressman Welfare Club, have arranged for a series of short talks by men, who understand the different lines carried in the store. This arrangement has been made for the general benefit of the firm and is heartily endorsed by the management.

Mr. J. W. Worth, the speaker at the meeting of the Club, last evening at the Empress, gave an interesting address on yarns, going thoroughly into the subject from the time the raw wool leaves the sheep's back until knitted into socks, sweaters and woven into clothing. He discussed the many different processes gone through and of the different ways in which wool is treated to make half a dozen different kinds from one kinds of yarn and explained thoroughly how the different grades may be distinguished in the finished product. In conclusion he heartily congratulated the club on the idea of having the little talks arranged for thereby gaining something more than a superficial knowledge of what they handle.

NEW PRESIDENT

The resignation of Mr. J. E. Bates from the presidency of the club was reluctantly accepted and Mr. McBride elected to the post.

COLLECTOR APPOINTED

In a discussion of the business of the Club the reports showed a large amount paid out to members who had been ill during the past few weeks. For better results in the collection of fees a special collector will be appointed.

COMMITTEES APPOINTED

Some dissatisfaction has been voiced over the giving of presents to members leaving the firm after various periods of employment. A committee was appointed to look into the matter thoroughly to arrange a new system. An entertainment committee of Miss Logan, Miss Davidson and Mr Wolff was elected and an entertainment will be arranged for in the second week of December.

THE PROGRAMME

An attractive programme was given by talented members of the club. The opening chorus "O Canada" was sung by all present. A solo by Miss Ida Lynn was heartily received and encored also a piano solo by Miss Delaire. Miss Lynn and Mr. Raynor rendered a splendid duet and Miss Williamson a much appreciated solo. The meeting closed with the National Anthem.

PETERBORO HARDWARE CO. LIMITED

Deputation Will Go to Ottawa

Will Urge Erection of Public Building in Peterboro.

Mayor G. H. Duncan, City Clerk Armstrong and Mr. J. H. Burnham, M.P., leave for Ottawa to-day to urge with the powers that be to proceed with the construction in Peterborough of the proposed public building which was authorized before the war, but not proceeded with at that time owing to the outbreak of hostilities. The proposed new building is to take the form of a customs house and post office to replace the present buildings. Land for this purpose has been secured by the Government at the corner of Sherbrooke and George streets.

The following information is supplied by Mr. Burnham:

Nov. 22, 1918.

Memo for the Minister.

With reference to the attached letters from Mr. J. H. Burnham, M.P., concerning Peterborough Public Buildings, I beg to advise you that tenders for this building were received on Monday, September 14th, 1914. The lowest tenders were Messrs. J. H. Secord and Sons, Ltd., Brantford, Ontario, at $179,489.00. There were nine tenders received, ranging from the above figures to $238,803.00.

The Chief Architect's estimate was $200,000.00

Instructions were given in December, 1914, to return the lowest tenderer's cheque and not proceed with the building.

It is a matter of policy whether an appropriation should be taken in this Department's estimates for submission to Parliament at its next session to proceed with this work. The same question will no doubt come up in connection with various public works of this nature which were deferred on account of the war.

J. B. HUNTER,
Deputy Minister.

GERMANY'S INTERNAL TROUBLES MAY BE MERE CAMOUFLAGE

(Special to Examiner.)

WASHINGTON, November 26. — Germany's internal troubles mab be a camouflage screen behind which the old Germany is hiding in an attempt to escape paying for its crime, in the opinion of some of the officials here to-day. Other expert observers however believe the revolutionary troubles to be genuine and fear that Germany may slip into the control of the Bolsheviki.

Despatches received here from Berlin indicate that Germany is splitting into states and that the Spartacus group—Bolsheviki—is in the saddle at some points, while the Ebert-Scheidmann clique—Moderates—still hold the reins in others.

As this disintegration proceeds it is said the next whine from the German people will be one to the effect that they didn't start the war. The old Empire that was so foul is dead so why should the people be forced to pay the war bills?

Admittedly the task of collecting indemnities fro ma scattering of independent Germanic states will be most difficult.

Get Ready for Amateur Night at the Grand

Two Entries Have Been Recorded.

Anyone who has attended "amateur night" in connection with performances at the Grand cannot fail to appreciate the opportunities it offers, not only for the performers to prove that there is real talent in the city, but for the audience, which always keenly enjoys such an attraction.

On Thursday evening, amateur night, a special cash price has been offered by the Grand management of $10.

To ensure against tiresome performances, only four entries will be selected, and the four chosen notified in time to rehearse their act. Already Mr. Turner has had two names handed in and advises others desirous of sending in their names that Wednesday closes the books for entries.

The amateur performance will be held in addition to a splendid moving picture programme.

"The Canadian Infantry Lived With the Trench Rats for Over Four Years," Said Col. Beattie

Interesting Lecture Last Evening in St. Paul's Church by the Director-General of the Chaplain Service.

A STRENUOUS LIFE

The members of the Great War Veterans' Association attended St. Paul's church last evening to hear the lecture of Lieut.-Col. Beattie, C.M.G., an original member of the 2nd Canadian Battalion, and who has risen through the successive grades to be Director-General of the Chaplain Service in Canada.

Colonel Beattie was accorded a welcome rarely equalled to visitors. St. Paul's church was crowded to capacity.

Unpleasant Memory.

The first part of the evening was given over to the organization of the Allied armies and tributes which the Colonel paid to these different arms of the service.

"Most of us will remember with horror," commenced the speaker, "when our allies were subjected to terrible shelling while we were allowed to send over only four shells a day. You had to make an official explanation if you exceeded that amount. But Lloyd-George got busy and sent millions of shells, miles upon miles, and after we had to make an official report why we were lagging behind. Then the men at first had hardly any socks and the flow of socks began and they became so plentiful that some of the men used them to clean their rifles. But that was all stopped. The work was centralized and the socks given out as they were needed. Then I want to speak of the accuracy of these shells, many of which were manufactured in Canada. Half of the shells that we had at first were "duds," or shells that would not fire. But down in Ottawa now they showed me an instrument used in the manufacture of the shells. You can measure one one-hundreth thousandth of an inch with that instrument. I measured one of my hairs, although I am not blessed with as many as Rev. Mr. Pogue, and it measured twenty-one one-hundred thousandths of an inch.

A Tribute.

I want to render a tribute to the British people. Every home is open to the soldier. A soldier home on leave can visit the mansion of a duke, of a baron, the knights or anybody. The people in England know what danger is. They came in personal contact with it many months. When Germany's air raiders came over London the people had to rush into the tubes and sometimes sat there by the thousands until four o'clock in the morning. During the year of the shortage of food it was pathetic to see long lines waiting for hours to buy their rations. They were allowed a quarter of a pound of oleomargarine, 18c. worth of butter for one person a week, and this when meat was 75c. a pound. The people of Britain have put their all into it. All classes of society have set to work, as porters, as tram conductors, in the machine shops, all kinds of farm work and almost everything else. Great Britain has two great Georges Lloyd George and King George. Our King has gone through four years of awful war unflinchingly. He works till midnight, meets workmen, visits the hospitals, speaking in public, places and not once has he done or said that which brought criticism. While the empires of Europe are tottering and toppling to destruction ours is stronger than ever. But theirs are autocratic monarchies, ours is a democratic monarchy. General Smuts said that if a republic was formed of the British Empire it would soon crumble away. God grant us that we may continue under a democratic monarchy.

The French.

Colonel Beattie spoke of the French, a nation whom he had misunderstood. We thought the French were what we saw in Paris. But I have been all through the land and frugality, fidelity and fortitude are the three great characteristics of this people. A workmen's table here in Canada is a banquet hall compared to a peasant's table in France. They have eaten vegetable soup, black bread and coffee for four years and with coal at $8 a ton and then limited. The thousands of refugees leaving their homes with nothing, going out into the black night, going nowhere, only somewhere—fortitude! This is the people who have given us Marshal Foch.

British Casualties.

More British have fallen in three weeks at the front than the casualties among the Americans for 1 1-2 years of war. Although we are grateful for the help and assistance of the Americans we must remember that it is the British and the French who have borne the brunt of this struggle. The German navy has come into the loving embrace of the British navy. But the army on land made this possible.

The Canadian forces are divided into two great armies, the serving army under Lieut.-Gen. Sir Richard Turner, K.C.B., and the fighting army, under Lieut.-Gen. Sir Arthur Currie, K.C.B. The serving army consists of the forestry units, about 80 companies, the railway construction corps of about the same number of men, the Army Service Corps, the Army Medical Corps, the Army Dental Corps, the Salvage Corps, Y.M.C.A., Red Cross and many others. Their work has been wonderful. The forestry units have made a record of cutting 155,000 feet of lumber a day on a 25,000 foot saw. There are engineers, some of the old Imperial engineers reported to General Sir Horace Smith-Dorien that they couldn't teach the Canadian engineers any new dodges. The work of the Army Medical Corps is simply wonderful. They are all wonderful. Why the Army Dental Corps has over 1,000,000 operations to its credit. Also the work of the Army Veterinary Corps, or Blue Cross, which is seldom heard of.

Dangerous Work.

We used to call the work in the Army Service Corps "cushy" and safety first jobs, but we knew better. Under cover of night, exposed to shells they bring up the food and ammunition so that the men in the front line may fight on. Not one British soldier has gone without a meal through the neglect of the A. S. C.

Then there is the chaplain service, which won 17 Military Crosses, 3 bars to Military Crosses and 4 Distinguished Service Orders in one battle. That speaks for itself. The only soldier that I don't find sympathetic with the chaplains are those that have never been in the first line trenches. Colonel Beattie spoke on the co-operative spirit of the chaplains of the different denominations. "A Baptist chaplain and a French-Canadian Roman Catholic priest slept in one bed in a convent. Can you beat that?"

Three Branches.

In the fighting army there are three branches, the cavalry, the artillery and the infantry. The cavalry many times have entered the trenches and fought as infantry. The big guns, with a range of 26 miles, hit their objective every time. Then there are the smaller guns and the trench mortars and the machine guns. They all speak when a great barrage opens. At the Regina trench or the queen of trenches, named by a German because of its great defensive works, the wire entanglements were one maze of criss-cross wire. One man was unable to extricate himself from the wire and was there for days. He would have starved if it had not been for his left arm, which was free and that he could reach the water bottles and rations of 5 dead men who lay thick all over the battlefield. But the infantry, in my estimation, are the greatest arm of all. They are the men who have lived with the rats for four years, the men who have waded through that Flanders mud and yet they have wonderfully good spirits. Every man is afraid who goes into the front line trenches. That is, they are temporarily afraid. But their duty calls them and never once have I known a man to fail. I will never forget the battle of Ypres. Britain, who is always generous, says: "The Canadian beaver dammed the flow of Huns toward Ypres that night."

These men go through all the horrors of the trenches, but still they remain tender and sentimental. Some return brutalized, but these are exceptions.

Religion of the Trenches.

Many have asked me if there was any religion in the front lines. Yes, there is. Although they do not say great long prayers and they certainly would not grace a prayer book, yet their soul is in it. A sergeant told me that he believed that if the men did not believe in immortality that they would refuse to fight and would leave the trenches.

One time a machine gun and its crew were in a precarious position, one from which they were unable to extricate themselves without being seen by the Huns and exterminated. One young fellow said that he would jump up, run in another direction and draw the fire of the Huns while his comrades could retreat. He did so. The next day his body was found riddled with bullets. Surely that is Christ-like sacrifice. Yes, there is religion in the trenches.

Lantern slides showing the shell factories in Britain, the Grand Fleet in action, our soldiers at the front and shell-torn Belgium and France, were greatly appreciated.

Rev. Canon J. C. Davidson, in moving a vote of thanks, said that although Colonel Beatty had been respected before the war as a member of this district, and a citizen of Cobourg, he was a thousand times more respected now—as a hero.

His Honour Judge E. C. S. Huycke, was the seconder.

BLANCHE CROSSMAN—With "Experience," the massive production at "The Grand" next Friday and Saturday. The same Company as seen at The Royal Alexandra Theatre, Toronto, last week, will be seen here. Box Office opens to-morrow at 10 a.m.

SPLENDID SUCCESS OF VICTORY LOAN DRIVE FITTINGLY CELEBRATED

County Executive and Press are Guests of Canvassers' Committee—Presentation to County Chairman Bradburn and County Secretary Brownscombe Among the Features of an Enjoyable Evening.

The announcement of the Peterborough City and County total—$2,578,450—presentations to Mr. W. H. Bradburn, county chairman, and Mr. Felix Brownscombe, county secretary, and general rejoicing over the great success of the campaign, were outstanding features of the most enjoyable dinner tendered at Hooper's last evening by the Victory Loan canvassing committee to the members of the County Executive and the editors of the Review and Examiner. The event was a memorable one, its enjoyment being heightened by the fact that it was informal in nature and that the enthusiasm and good fellowship engendered during the campaign were given full play in the speeches which followed the satisfying of the needs of the inner man. Speaker after speaker testified to the enjoyment he had found in the drive and to the value he placed upon the friendships he had formed.

Mr. D. H. Moore, captain of the Central Ward Canvassing committee, which, by the way, had the honour of making the best showing in the campaign, proved an ideal chairman, while Mr. Ward Patterson, of the South Ward committee, admirably carried out the duties of vice-chairman.

After a delightful and well served repast had been done justice to, the second part of the evening was opened by the toast to the King, which was marked by the singing of the National Anthem.

Mr. G. O. Cameron, the energetic chairman of the Publicity committee, proposed the health of the guests of the evening, coupling with it the names of Mr. W. H. Bradburn, county chairman, Mr. W. B. Cunningham, organizer, Mr. Vincent Eastwood, vice-chairman of the county, Mr. Felix Brownscombe, county secretary, and Mr. A. McGregor, of the Review and Mr. F. D. Craig of the Examiner. In proposing the toast Mr. Cameron dwelt on the splendid work done by all the members of the County Executive on behalf of the Loan, and thanked the press for the campaign of publicity which had commenced long before the bond selling drive began. The services of Mr. Felix Brownscombe as secretary were particularly emphasized, and Mr. Cameron remarked that that official might well be named Patience.

The toast was heartily honoured by the Canvassing committee, who sang, "For They're Jolly Good Fellows" with a will.

All the guests of the evening responded to the toast. In his remarks, Mr. W. B. Cumming, the organizer, laid particular stress upon the splendid work that had been done by Mr. W. H. Bradburn and the other executive officers. Throughout Canada, he said, there had not been enough publicity about the manner in which the county chairmen had carried out their duties in connection with the campaign.

Mr. Bradburn thanked the Canvassing committee for their untiring work in the face of the great difficulties that existed at the beginning of the campaign when the influenza epidemic was in full swing, and Mr. Eastwood also referred in appreciative terms to the efforts of the canvassers and the way in which they handled their work.

Mr. Frank Whitehouse, on behalf of the Canvassing committees, then presented Mr. Brownscombe with a cheque as a mark of appreciation of the work he had done. Mr. Whitehouse remarked that in spite of the arduous nature of Mr. Brownscombe's duties he had always been ready to assist the canvassers in every way possible.

After thanking the committee for their kindness, Mr. Brownscombe gave some most interesting features of the financial side of the campaign. The total collected he said, was $2,578,450, and the total of the city, exclusive of the specials, was $920,100. The factories had contributed the remarkable total of $271,250. The county total was not far behind that of the city, the amount raised being $895,650. Speaking of the work of the canvassers, Mr. Brownscombe stated that of the canvassers who worked in pairs, Messrs. H. Rush and Frank Whitehouse had made the best showing, bringing in $160,100, while among those who worked alone, Mr. T. W. Robinson was top man, his total reaching $88,375. There were 5,700 applications this year as against 2,800 last year.

Mr. Bradburn Honoured.

The vice-chairman of the evening, Mr. Ward Patterson, in a witty speech, expressed the appreciation of the Canvassing committee for the services rendered by Mr. W. H. Bradburn as the county chairman and on behalf of the committee, presened him with a very handsome case of pipes, the presentation being loudly applauded.

Mr. Bradburn suitably replied, expressing his gratitude to the canvassers for their kindness.

The different canvassers were then called upon in turn to speak and the details of the campaign were fought over again amid much amusement over charges of violation of territorial rights and other accusations of a similar nature. Messrs. V. J. McElderry, J. Corkery, T. W. Robinson, Frank Whitehouse, W. G. Howden, C. H. Moore, Al. Gibbs, H. Rush, Percy Rutherford, Geo. Ruth and H. J. McCannon all took part in this very interesting end of the programme, and all emphasized the spirit of comradeship that had been developed as a result of the campaign. Incidentally a vote of thanks, proposed by Mr. C. H. Moore, was tendered the banks of Peterborough for the great assistance they had rendered in the campaign.

During the evening vocal solos were given by Messrs. F. E. Walden and Mr. Walter Stocker, to the great enjoyment of the gathering, while Mr. Frank Whitehouse played a violin solo in his usual masterly style. In addition to playing the accompaniments, Mr. Walden gave a very much appreciated piano solo.

The evening was a thoroughly enjoyable one and a pleasant aftermath to the great campaign that has been successfully carried through to completion.

Socialists Are Rough Handled in New York City

Flying Squadrons of Soldiers and Sailors Take Part in Proceedings.

(Special to The Examiner.)

NEW YORK, Nov. 26.—As a result of the outbreak against 12,000 Socialists holding a meeting in Madison Square Garden, flying squadrons of soldiers, sailors and marines surged through the downtown streets early to-day, rough-handling all found wearing red butons, red ribbons or even red neckties. Many were beaten and battered. The police were unable to stop the disorder. The service men at times were followed and aided by more than a thousand civilians.

Lack of Decipline in the German Navy

German Sailors Present a Miserable Appearance.

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

FIRTH OF FORTH, Scotland, Nov. 26.—Germany's navy has been ruined for all time in the opinion of a German lieutenant on one of the warships surrendered to the Allies. He said to-day: "Now we have only a dishonourable record. No one will want to serve in a disgraced service."

The German sailors present a miserable appearance, their clothes being dirty and nondescript. On the Derfflinger, there is perfect discipline, but on most of the other ships men lounge about the decks smoking.

OPENING IN PETERBORO FOR A GOOD RETAIL STORE

Representative of the Canada Food Board Was in the City To-day in Connection With the Fish Industry.

Mr. E. O. Sawyer, Jr., representing the Fish Section of the Canada Food Board, in the interest of increased consumption of sea fish, was in the city today looking into local conditions. Mr. Sawyer is satisfied with the manner in which the fish supply is distributed in Peterboro although he believes that Peterboro should consume at least three times the amount of fish that is being consumed at present.

"Peterboro lacks a good retail store for the exclusive sale of fish and fish products", said Mr. Sawyer. The Board is urging the increased consumption of sea fish such as cod and flatfish. Two million pounds of cod is marketed every year and only ten per cent. of this amount is consumed in Canada. The remainder is exported to the West Indies, Greece and Italy.

Canada has only a limited supply of lake fish which is one of the most valuable exportable products we have. It represents a value of ten million dollars a year and a reduction of the amount of the product exported would affect our commercial relations and for this reason the Board is not attempting to curtail its export, said Mr. Sawyer. From a practical standpoint the sea fish is just as valuable as the lake fish when properly prepared and just as tasty. The Board realizes that the use of sea fish requires education along culinary lines and for that reason has specialized on sea fish recipes.

When the Canada Food Board took up the work only three express cars were available for transport. The Board has now fifteen. The Government has ordered two hundred and fifty fish freight refrigerator cars and plans a big extension of the work.

Ontario Executive of the Victory Loan, thanked the farmers of Peterboro for the wonderful showing they had made.

Warden Anderson thanked the deputation for the Honour Flag and their warm approbation of the county's support in the recent campaign.

Good Feeling Between Nations

Great Britain Ran Terrible Risks During the War.

GLASGOW, Scotland, Nov. 26.—(Canadian Press, via Reuter's).—For the future of the world and for the sake of nations which participated in the war, it is not less essential now than during hostilities that there should be good feeling among the nations that helped to win the war, the Right Hon. Bonar Law stated here last night. He said that the Allied victory would have been impossible without the financial assistance of Britain, which ran terrible risks.

"More than once I could only look a week or two ahead as the time during which we could meet our obligations," said Mr. Law.

Mr. Law praised the Dominions and the Indian troops.

INQUEST OPENED THIS AFTERNOON.

The following jury was empanelled this afternoon to enquire into the circumstances surrounding the death of Mr. John Danford, who was killed at Fraserville this morning: Mr. J. Picard, Mr. J. W. Sherwood, Mr. R. W. Carson, Mr. W. Rudkins, Mr. J. Metheral, Mr. J. Drain, Mr. T. H. Ruth, Mr. W. J. Mein, Mr. G. Evans and Mr. M. J. Maher.

The inquest was adjourned until Tuesday, December 3rd. It will be held at the Police Court at 3 o'clock.

County Council Received Honour Flag for Farmers

Peterboro County, excluding the city, received its Victory Loan honor flag at the opening of the November session of the County Council this afternoon. Mr. W. H. Bradburn, chairman of the Victory Loan Committee for Peterboro, made the presentation after congratulating the citizens of the county upon their generous subscriptions. He was accompanied by Mr. Wallace B. Cumming, the organizer for this county, and Mr. Vincent Eastwood.

In his address to the council Mr. Bradburn said that he was pleased to be able to report that Peterboro's objective had been obtained and left behind. Considerable hard work had been necessary to cover the county, but it was more than compensated for by the success of the loan in this county.

"I ask you, Mr. Warden and gentlemen ,to accept this honour flag for the people of the County of Peterboro, and would suggest that you fly it from the Court house mast for a few days."

Mr. Eastwood, who has been a member of the County executive for the Victory Loan, stated that the response from rural Peterboro had been most encouraging. He added his congratulations and suggested that the council memorialize the government, through the Department of Agriculture, for the allocation of a sum of money for the better teaching of agriculture in the schools of this county, both urban and rural. Mr. Eastwood led the council in the singing of the National Anthem, to mark the winning of the war, and the county's contributions during the years, and also the success in oversubscribing the allotment of Victory Loan.

ST. CATHARINES WELL

In giving due credit to the wonderful remedial Springs of Europe we are apt to lose sight of the value of the ones nearer home. About one thousand springs of various medicinal virtues exist in America. Of one of them Hare's System of Therapeutics (1891) page 523, speaks: "A number of saline springs exist in America and Europe, very strong water of this kind being the St. Catharines Well in Canada, which contains about 275 grains sodium chloride to the pint, as well as 135 grains calcium chloride. Its protype in Europe is the celebrated Kreutznach Springs in Prussia, which contains about 110 grains sodium chloride (Kurbrunnen.)" FOR GOLDEN RECORDS.

(By United Press.)

ROME, Nov. 26.—Every municipality of Italy has just been invited by the government to open a "Libro d'Oro" or "Golden Book" to the memory of all the inhabitants of each community who participated in the war.

In addition to the name and address of each soldier, there will be inscribed a full record of his promotions, has citations, his decorations, and also, where the case so demands, his death.

Each community will keep its "Golden Book" as part of the permanent archives of the municipality.

ALMOST BLIND
FROM HEADACHES.

It is hard to struggle along with a head that aches and pains all the time. Headache seems habitual with many people; indeed, some are seldom, if ever, free from it, suffering continually, and wondering why they can get no relief.

In nine cases out of ten, persistent headaches are due to poisoned blood, the blood being rendered impure through some derangement of the stomach, liver or bowels.

The reason Burdock Blood Bitters makes permanent cures of all cases of headache, is because it starts the organs of elimination acting freely, and the poisons and impurities are carried off from the system, purified blood circulates in the brain cells, and instead of pains and aches there is revived mentality and bodily vigor.

Mrs. Geo. Monck, Arden, Ont., writes: "I have been troubled a great deal with sick headaches, and at times would almost go blind, and have to go to bed. I tried different kinds of medicine without any benefit until I was advised to use Burdock Blood Bitters. After taking it, I have not been troubled since."

SAYS WOMEN WILL STAY IN SOME EMPLOYMENT

Lady Attorney Advocates Legislation Safeguarding Interests of Workers.

NEW YORK, Nov. 26.—Legislation or military regulations to safeguard the interests of girls and women who have been engaged in the war work and who will be relieved of their duties or supplanted by returning soldiers was advocated here by Mrs. Rosalie Loew Whitney, one of the leading women attorneys of the United States.

"Now that the soldiers are starting home from the front," said Mrs. Whitney to the United Press, "the first effort that should be made in the demobilization of the army of women who have been doing war work is to ensure their return either to other work or to domestic life under favourable conditions.

"There should be no general throwing out of women from the work in which they have been engaged either in the munition or other factories, or in the office work at the national capital and other centres. The same splendid military regulations governing the demobilization of the men in the army should govern the demobilization of the women's army.

Stay in Some Industry.

"My opinion is that women who have gone into business either for patriotic or economic reasons will remain in industry of some kind. By this I do not mean they will, in retaining their positions, exclude the men who have given up those positions for the service of the United States and who will return when peace is established.

"I believe those who have no domestic ties will continue to do the work they are better fitted for and that the men who formerly filled these positions will find opportunities in outdoor work — farming or the heavier kinds of labour — for which they are best adapted.

"There will be no sex controversy. The readjustment will work gradually and as for the women as a whole, there is no fear that they will eschew domestic life.

"The most important duty of women during this period is to help in every way and to watch and make sure that such legislation as will insure the protection of women as the great foundation of humanity is passed and properly administered."

CATTLE MARKET

Union Stock Yards — Receipts, 76 cars, with 1280 cattle, 83 calves, 1472 hogs, and 628 sheep and lambs.

With the usual light offering of cattle for the Tuesday market, practically everything was cleaned up at the sharp advances made Monday. The demand is active for all grades of butcher cattle, but for choice quality in particular the supply is far short of the demand.

Calves are steady and firm.

Lambs again easier and about 25c lower.

Hogs were quoted by the packers 25c lower but last week's price of $18.50 was paid for some lots.

All Available Coal Is Going Up Lakes

Toronto to Receive No Further Supply For Ten Days, Says Commission.

TORONTO, Nov. 26.—"According to information I received yesterday, I understand that practically no coal is coming into Toronto at present," said Fuel Commissioner Chisholm. "This is a period between seasons, and all the coal is going up the lakes as quickly as it can be sent. It will be ten days or more before Toronto receives any more coal."

In spite of the shortness of fuel, many persons in Toronto who are without fuel, are refusing to accept sizes other than that specified in their applications.

"It is impossible to get either nut or stove coal at present," said the commissioner, "the only kinds available being grate, egg and buckwheat. It is very strange to me that persons having the opportunity to secure coal refuse to take it because it is not as small as they have ordered. Many persons were compelled to take large size coal last winter, and were glad to get it."

Eighteen Million for Rifle Plant

Important Suit In Connection With Ross Rifle Company.

(Special to the Examiner)

Ottawa, Nov. 27.—Whether a fiat will be issued to Sir Charles Ross in response to his petition of right seeking permission to enter suit against the crown for eighteen million of dollars in compensation for the expropriation of the Ross Rifle plant and a damage for alleged breach of contract is a question which will be decided by the cabinet in council.

The order-in-council expropriating the plant which was prepared by the Honorable Arthur Meighen and passed in March of 1917 sets a limit of three million dollars on the valuation to be fixed by the exchequer court. The legality of such a fixing of valuation by order-in council is questioned by Sir Charles Ross and this will be one of the important questions to be established. Should the legality of the order be established and it is more than probable that it will be, then Sir Charles will be stopped from his claims.

The whole question will be aired in a cabinet council almost immediately.

TO PRESERVE THE RIGHTS OF LUXEMBURG

TO THE VERSAILLES COUNCIL

(Special to the Examiner)

Washington, Nov. 26.—President Wilson's intervention in behalf of the Grand Duchy Luxemburg was besought in a telegram from the Grand Duchess. She asked that he save the Duchy from the passage of German troops (probably meaning destruction committed by them) and that he protest at peace negotiations the rights of Luxemburg as a small independent free nation. The message was referred to the Versailles Council.

NR Tonight — Tomorrow Feel Right

It is a mistake to continually dose yourself with so-called laxative pills, calomel, oil, purges and cathartics and force bowel action. It weakens the bowels and liver and makes constant dosing necessary.

Why don't you begin right today to overcome your constipation and get your system in such shape that daily purging will be unnecessary? You can do so if you get a 25c box of Nature's Remedy (NR Tablets) and take one each night for a week or so.

NR Tablets do much more than merely cause pleasant easy bowel action. This medicine acts upon the digestive as well as eliminative organs—promotes good digestion, causes the body to get the nourishment from all the food you eat, gives you a good, hearty appetite, strengthens the liver, overcomes biliousness, regulates kidney and bowel action and gives the whole body a thorough cleaning out. This accomplished you will not have to take medicine every day. An occasional NR tablet will keep your body in condition and you can always feel your best.

Try Nature's Remedy (NR Tablets) and prove this. It is the best bowel medicine that you can use and costs only 25c per box, containing enough to last twenty-five days. Nature's Remedy (NR Tablets) is sold, guaranteed and recommended by your druggist.

NUXATED IRON

"To help make strong, keen, red-blooded Americans there is nothing in my experience which I have found so valuable as organic iron—Nuxated Iron," says Dr. James Francis Sullivan, formerly physician of Bellevue Hospital (Outdoor Dept.), New York, and the Westchester County Hospital. Nuxated Iron often increases the strength and endurance of weak, nervous, run-down people in two weeks' time. It is now being used by over three million people annually, including such men as Hon. Leslie M. Shaw, formerly Secretary of the Treasury and ex-Governor of Iowa; former United States Senator and Vice-Presidential nominee, Charles A. Towne; General John L. Clem (Retired), the drummer boy of Shiloh, who was sergeant in the United States Army when only 12 years of age; also United States Judge G. W. Atkinson of the Court of Claims of Washington, and others. Nuxated Iron is dispensed by all good druggists everywhere.

Frail, Sickly Children Improve Rapidly on Vinol

The reason we so strongly recommend Vinol for frail, sickly children is because it is a non-secret remedy which contains Beef and Cod Liver Peptones, Iron and Manganese Peptonates and Glycerophosphates — but no oil — the very elements needed to build them up. It is delicious to the taste, and children love it.

These Two Mothers Have Proved This.

Bainbridge, N.Y.
"My little daughter, 13 years old, overworked and was run-down, tired all the time, nervous, had headaches, couldn't eat and had to stay out of school. Vinol has built her up. She has a good appetite, no more headaches and has returned to school again."—Mrs. Lester Andrews.

Williamson, W. Va.
"My little boy was weak, puny, and tired all the time, did not want to do anything. Vinol was recommended and it built up his strength and made him healthy. Now he romps and plays like other children. We certainly believe in Vinol for children."—Harley Clay.

THE WIFE

RUTH HEARS THAT BRIAN AND MOLLIE DINED EXPFNSIVELY

CHAPTER XLIX

Brian had gone out immediately he had told Ruth he had taken Mollie King out to dinner. He certainly had nothing to hide, or he would not have told of having been with Mollie. So Ruth thought. But while his frankness had made her much happier, she wondered how many times Mollie had been with him. In his sleep he had said:

"To spend so MANY evenings with an old married man." She would ask him, that very evening, but ask it in such a way he could not think she as either prying into his affairs, or was jealous of Mollie King.

"But I am! horribly jealous!" she said to herself. "Oh, Brian, I wish I knew what to do." Not for a minute did Ruth consider giving up her position. It would be impossible now, even should she desire. Brian never could pay the rent of the new apartment and their food, with what he alone earned, and have anything left for other expenses. She could not go back into the kitchen if he could. No, there must be some way to adjust matters so that they could be happy, so that her work would not make Brian feel hurt and angry, and so drive him to Mollie King for comfort And she must find that way.

When Ruth reached the shop Mr. Mandel greeted her rather effusively for him. He spent the morning listening to her report of the work she had done, then, as they had not quite finished their discussion, he proposed they lunch together and do so over their food.

"We will save time," he said, seeing refusal on Ruth's face.

"Very well," she had then replied. He was her employer, she had no right to say she wouldn't talk business with him when and where he chose.

They went to Delmonico's because it was near. As he ordered a light, but delicious luncheon, Ruth wondered if Brian would care if he knew. She would tell him shrdl ushdruluh Should she tell him? She decided that she would. He had been frank about Mollie King, a friend. Why shouldn't she be perfectly honest and tell him of her lunching with her employer, to save time?

"You look very serious, a penny for your thoughts," Mr. Mandel said as he finished giving the order.

"I never have been here before, save with my aunt, then we ate in the other room. I was thinking how lovely and cool this room was."

"Yes, I prefer it to the main room." They were in the palm room, which noon-day habitues of the place. "I was fast filling up with the regular lunch here, usually."

Ruth imagined as much, for so many men either spoke or bowed to him as they came into the room.

"I feel quite grand. It is quite a change from the little lunch room where I usually go."

"I don't see why you should not lunch where you please when your"—He stopped as if embarrassed.

"What were you going to say about—my husband?" Ruth asked calmly, although her heart was pounding "What has he been doing that would warrant my being extravagant?" She tried to speak lightly.

"I spoke without thinking. But I saw him twice while you were away. Once at the Vanderbilt, then at Claremont. Surely if he can patronize those places, you can afford to lunch in agreeable surroundings."

Ruth ached to ask if Brian were alone, but restrained herself. She would find out someway. She could not know that Arthur Mandel had watched them so closely hat he had sensed Mollie's attitude of making Brian happy, and had put his own construction upon it.

"He is very lonely when I am away. My husband is a sociable sort of man and sometimes I think I should never have taken a position that required me to leave him. He really cannot endure to eat his meals alone." Ruth smiled disarmingly into Mr. Mandel's eyes. "I will not let him see that I distrust Brian," was her thought.

"No man likes to eat alone when he can have a charming women sit opposite him," he returned enigmatically, but with a nod in her direction that left Ruth puzzled as to his meaning. Had he referred to her or had he meant that Brian had a "charming woman" with him?

Before she could frame an answer Mr. Mandel had plunged into the unfinished business talk and during the remainder of the meal one listening would have heard only terms used by decorators and artists.

As usual Ruth forgot everything but her interest in the business "her profession" as she loved to think of it. She described minutely all the features of the house which might be kept, and so reduce the expense to the owner; and she also gave him an outline of what she needed to make the old house thoroughly modern—as the owner had stipulated—yet artistic.

"Your ideas are good. We will follow them," Mandel said rather shortly as he paid the check. "I will not return with you, I have an errand to do," he also told her, accompanying her, however, to the door.

Ruth was glad of the reprieve. She wanted to think. She had only a very short walk to the shop, then it would be business again until closing. She wanted to think about Brian. How could he afford to go to such expensive places? And had Mr. Mandel meant that he had a "charming woman" sitting opposite him?

To-morrow—Mr. Mandel's Knowledge of Brian Puzzles Ruth.

RECEIVING WAR CROSS

The patriotic spirit and devotion with which Canadian women have so far performed war-service work and made sacrifices has never been equalled in the history of any country. Mothers, wives and sisters support this burden with strength and fortitude. But those who are already miserable from the complaints and weaknesses which are so common to women, should take the right temperance tonic for the womanly system.

If a woman is borne down by pain and sufferings, by nervousness or dizzy spells, by headache or backache, "Favorite Prescription" should be taken. It can now be had in tablet form as well as liquid at most drug stores. Send to Dr. Pierce's Branch at Bridgeburg, Ont., for a 10c trial pkg. of tablets.

For fifty years Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets have been most satisfactory in liver and bowel troubles.

Windsor, Ont.—"Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription made a new woman of me. For about six years I suffered with woman's trouble, during which time I became all run-down, weak and nervous. I would have severe backaches and pains in my side. I doctored with the doctor but did not get cured of my ailment and was so bad that I could scarcely walk across the floor when I began taking the 'Prescription.' When I had taken two bottles I was much improved and four bottles completely cured me, and I have enjoyed better health than I ever did before taking this medicine. It is truly a wonderful medicine for women."—Mrs. Martha Mulcaster, 4 Albert St.

Troops in England to be Rushed Home

EIGHTY THOUSAND CANADIANS FORM ARMY OF OCCUPATION IN GERMANY

BRANTFORD, Nov. 25.—Major-General Ashton, Adjutant-General, who was here to-day on a business visit, expressed the opinion that it would be the better part of a year before the return of the Canadian corps could be expected, as the corps was now in Germany and would be used as part of the army of occupation. The demobilization of forestry and railways corps would be proceeded with at once and carried out according to plans already announced. The return of married men from the army of occupation will be expedited. The troops now in England are now being returned as rapidly as possible, from 20,000 to 30,000 per month, the number being only limited by the railway facilities in Canada and not by shipping. Major-General Ashton estimated that there were 150,000 Canadians on the west front, of whom 80,000 belonged to the army of occupation, while here were considerably more than 100,000 in England awaiting return.

HERE RESTS A HUN.

(By United Press.)

PARIS, Nov. 8. — (By Mail.) — Among the vast quantity of material the Germans left in their wake when the Yanks smashed into them on the British front was a huge tombstone intended for the grave of a German colonel. On it wah chisled an iron cross and the familiar "Gott Mit Uns."

In organizing the conquered ground, the Americans found the grave of the German colonel. So a detail of Yanks carried the tombstone to the grave and erected it. As the stone was set in place a bugler sounded taps over the grave.

A Woman With Mysterious Code is Ordered Interned

Hun Spy Suspect Declared to Have Communicated With Agent in Colombia.

NEW YORK, Nov. 26.—The interment by the Alien Enemy Bureau of Miss Emmy Wiedenhoffer as a dangerous enemy alien revealed one of the most puzzling cases of a suspected German spy that the Military Intelligence officials have had to deal with since the beginning of the war. Although she is known to have been in communication through several codes with Gustave Lubinus, German Consul General in Columbia, South America, so cleverly did the woman conceal her movements the army officials admit they have been unable to gather sufficient evidence upon which to obtain her indictment under the Espionage act.

A telegraph code and an unusual cryptogram code, which the government officials are convinced she used in communicating information to Lubinus in South America, are in the possession of the authorities, but army experts in Washington admit that, after trying in every conceivable manner to decipher the cryptogram code, their efforts have gone for naught.

Unusually intelligent and prepossessing, the woman, who is thirty years old, has steadfastly refused to divulge any clew that might aid the government in its quest for definite evidence.

GLASS OF SALTS CLEANS KIDNEYS

If your Back is aching or Bladder bothers, drink lots of water and eat less meat.

When your kidneys hurt and your back feels sore, don't get scared and proceed to load your stomach with a lot of drugs that excite the kidneys and irritate the entire urinary tract. Keep your kidneys clean like you keep your bowels clean, by flushing them with a mild, harmless salts which removes the body's urinous waste and stimulates them to their normal activity. The function of the kidneys is to filter the blood. In 24 hours they strain from it 500 grains of acid and waste so we can readily understand the vital importance of keeping the kidneys active.

Drink lots of water—you can't drink too much; also get from any pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast each morning for a few days and your kidneys will act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean and stimulate clogged kidneys; also to neutralize the acids in urine so it no longer is a source of irritation, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to keep their kidneys clean and active. Try this, also keep up the water drinking, and no doubt you will wonder what became of your kidney trouble and backache.

COAL OUTPUT LOWER.

Investigation at Washington and the Reasons.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 25.— Anthracite production and methods of distribution occupied to-day's session of the Senate manufacturers' committee's coal investigation. Joseph B. Neale, director of production for the fuel administration, gave figures on anthracite shipments, showing an increase of 1,183,447 tons during the first six months of 1918, compared with the same period last year. Production from April 1 to Nov. 16, 1918, decreased to 50,810,000 from 51,889,000 for the same period in 1917, Mr. Neale said, largely because of the Spanish influenza epidemic.

The witness went into detail to explain that 75 per cent. of all anthracite production is controlled by railroads, which in normal times handle only the products of their own mines.

ACIDS IN STOMACH CAUSE INDIGESTION

Create Gas, Sourness and Pain How to Treat.

Medical authorities state that nearly nine-tenths of the cases of stomach trouble, indigestion, sourness, burning, gas, bloating, nausea, etc., are due to an excess of hydrochloric acid in the stomach and not as some believe to a lack of digestive juices. The delicate stomach lining is irritated, digestion is delayed and food sours, causing the disagreeable symptoms which every stomach sufferer knows so well.

Artificial digestents are not needed in such cases and may do real harm. Try laying aside all digestive aids and instead get from any druggist a few ounces of Bisurated Magnesia and take a teaspoonful in a quarter glass of water right after eating. This sweetens the stomach, prevents the formation of excess acids and there is no sourness, gas or pain. Bisurated Magnesia (in powder or tablet form—never liquid or milk) is harmless to the stomach, inexpensive to take and is the most efficient form of magnesia for stomach purposes. It is used by thousands of people who enjoy their meals with no more fear of indigestion.

Twenty Thousand Firms Rely Upon Us

There is not much about our business to fire public imagination. Most people are unaware of our existence.

Yet if the manufacture of Dodge Transmission Machinery were to cease it would seriously hamper Canadian industry for a while, because Dodge Power Transmission Machinery is fundamental to our industrial life.

Whether it be a small print shop or A terminal elevator—a small laundry or a big flour mill—a little machine shop or a great munitions plant—some twenty thousand firms in all, depend upon us to some extent for their Power Transmission Equipment.

Think what it would mean to them if we stopped production.

By affecting them it would adversely react upon every wage earner in the country.

This responsibility is ever present with us. The thought of it has shaped and guided our policy for 32 years. We admit it has paid us, for to-day we rank among the largest manufacturers of Power Transmission Machinery. And it is a matter of industrial pride with us to stay in this position.

"SMALL CAN OF WHALE" MAY BE DAILY ORDER

(By United Press.)

VANCOUVER, B. C., Nov. 26. — Whale canning is Canada's most flourishing infant industry.

A whalery in this province has packed about 30,000 cases of whale meat in neat tin cans, for this winter's consumption.

Whales taken near the coast yield from 3 to 12 tons of prime whale meat, the whalers say. Boston at present is the best customer for frozen fresh whale.

ARMENIA SEEKS FREEDOM

ASKS THAT TURKISH TROOPS BE WITHDRAWN AND REPLACED BY ALLIES.

PARIS, Nov. 26.—(Havas.)—Representatives of the Armenian settlements in Egypt and the Soudan at a meeting in Cairo, according to a despatch to the Temps from Cairo adopted a resolution addressed to the allied powers declaring that the Armenian nation has been the victim of might used by barbarians. It is added that the Armenian nation claims its right to independence and sovereignty over all of Armenia and requests the immediate return of a provisional government. It asks also that Turkish troops be withdrawn from Armenia and their places taken by allied and Armenian contingents.

OUR DAILY SHORT STORY

Larry's Lighthouse

By JOHN TRENT

Copyright, 1918, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

When Larry Delmore was ten years old he had stood on the beach at Quetchet and flung a taunt at the little girl with flaming red hair who had wrinkled her nose at him.

"Redhead!" taunted Larry ungallantly. "Lighthouse!" he added, as the little girl pulled her white sunbonnet over her gorgeous curls and scurried away to her nurse.

"Nurse!" pouted Jean. "Am I a lighthouse because my hair is red?"

"No—no—Miss Jean," laughed nurse, looking up from her sewing; "your hair is very pretty, indeed, just like your mamma's; you musn't mind what that naughty little Delmore boy says!"

"I shan't mind a bit," said Jean, comforted; but in spite of her resolution the memory of the taunt lingered and rankled, so that as the years went by she grew positively to dislike the name of Delmore—especially Larry Delmore—and she was always hearing it, although they never met after that summer.

Larry Delmore was the sort of young man whose name is always confronting one. He excelled in everything. He was honor man of his class at college, a famous halfback, the driver of a winning automobile in a famous race, an aviator, a musician, and last, but not least, an excellent business man.

Jean Lloyd heard of these things in her remote boarding school and later at the fashionable finishing school, but always she discounted his cleverness by her bitter recollection of his taunt that midsummer day 15 years ago.

"I could never endure him," she told her best friend one day. "A horrid, grubby little tow-headed boy! I can fancy just how disagreeable he must be now."

Miriam Smith looked wide-eyed at Jean. "Haven't you met him since then?" she wondered.

Jean shook her glorious, ruddy-crowned head.

* * * * * * *

From his towering height Larry Delmore looked across the hotel ballroom and saw a tall, graceful girl gowned in white. About her snowy throat was twisted a wonderful string of pearls, and, save for the high-piled masses of her hair, there was not a bit of color about her.

"Who is that girl?" he asked the first man he met.

The man glanced in the direction indicated by Larry's eager gray eyes. "You mean the one with golden hair?" he asked.

"No, no," protested Larry, "the tall girl in white—the girl with auburn hair."

"Oh, you mean Miss Lloyd—Jean Lloyd. May I present you?"

"Not just now," decided Larry, and for some inexplicable reason he turned his back on Miss Lloyd's beautiful face and wandered out to the balcony.

"There is something very striking about that girl," thought Larry, plucking at the geraniums in the flower boxes. "Confounded funny feeling I had when Morton offered to introduce me. I wanted to go like the dickens, but—somehow, she had such a haughty poise to her head that I'm dercedly afraid she wouldn't be as charming as she looked. I'm going to find out later."

When he returned to the ballroom Miss Lloyd had disappeared, and he saw her no more that night. By careful inquiry he learned that she and her father were stopping at the Quetchet hotel for the season.

The next morning he arose with the sun and went down to the ocean for his early swim. He had the beach to himself save for one lone swimmer who was breasting the surf with easy grace. It was a woman wearing a red bathing cap he decided at first. A further inspection revealed that the glistening copper glory was crowning the head of Jean Lloyd and that her head was uncovered.

So Larry plunged into the sea and disported himself like a young porpoise. Larry Delmore was a swimmer of note in addition to his other accomplishments, and when he saw Miss Lloyd's glowing head turned steadily out at sea while the flash of her white arms cut the blue-green surface of the waves like a veritable mermaid, he followed her, in the masculine spirit not to be outdone by a mere woman.

But the water was cold that morning and perhaps Mr. Delmore was not up to his usual form; at any rate, he suddenly stopped his long, steady strokes, blanched at the agonizing cramp that seized his limbs, uttered a low cry of alarm and went down.

The girl heard the cry and turned just as he disappeared. When he came up she was calling to him to hold up—that she was coming—coming—! Through the flying spray and the rocking green and white of the waves he caught the glimpse of her red hair and her white face coming nearer.

When he rose to the surface again, still writhing in that awful cramp, it was to see the solacing red of her hair close beside him, to feel the support of her arms under his shoulders.

"I cannot carry you in," she panted, "but I can hold you up until help comes. Can you shout?"

He nodded and shouted hoarsely.

A boat put hastily off from shore and two or three life-savers took them in.

"I declare, if it isn't Mr. Delmore!" marveled one of the men as he applied a flask to Larry's pale lips.

Jean, white and exhausted, sat up and looked at the young giant she had rescued. Was it possible that this handsome blond youth had been the tow-headed little boy whose taunt had rankled so long? It could not be possible that she, Jean Lloyd, had been the means of saving this champion swimmer's life!

About that time Jean fainted away, and it was a half hour later in her own room at the hotel that she sat up in bed, warm and dry, and uttered a remark that caused her worried father to stare.

"I suppose I must have looked like a lighthouse to Mr. Delmore," she said.

"Then you are all right, my dear!" asked Mr. Lloyd.

"Right as can be, daddy," she smiled.

It was late in the afternoon when Larry Delmore was admitted to the Lloyds' private parlor to express his gratitude.

Jean, pale and lovely, met him with a curious look in her eyes.

Larry stumblingly expressed his thanks. No man, he declared afterward, could govern his tongue while that vision smiled at him.

"You looked like an angel to me," he finished in a rush of words; "you were a lighthouse of hope, toward which I tried to swim!"

Jean laughed musically. Her eyes sparkled. "Do you know, Mr. Delmore, that this is not the first time you have referred to my hair by calling me a lighthouse?"

"Oh, you don't understand," he protested. "I never thought of your lovely hair. I swear I never saw anything save your eyes, and these are blue. You never heard of a blue light—"

"No, I never did," interrupted Jean, "but I have been on Quetchet beach before, Mr. Delmore. Fifteen years ago I was a five-year-old girl with red curls; you were a tow-headed boy who called me a lighthouse, because of the color of my hair. I've hated you ever since," she ended calmly.

Larry Delmore stared. "I remember," he confessed. "I was a little duffer in those days. Believe me, Miss Lloyd, I've gotten over it, really! I recollect that you pulled your sunbonnet down over your curls and ran away crying. I was ashamed of myself. Why didn't you slap me?"

Jean laughed, and with her laughter went the last flicker of her smoldering resentment toward Larry Delmore.

One morning he went down to the sea again, and as it had happened before he saw Jean's head far out in the surf. He plunged into the water and soon came up with her. They faced each other in the golden glory of a new day.

"Jean," he said quietly, "I'm going to call you my lighthouse once more. You have shown me a safe harbor of love; the light of your eyes has guarded its entrance. Shall I have a safe voyage home?"

And the steady glance of her eyes wavered for a moment and then met his fairly. Their first kiss was bathed in the golden rays of the rising sun.

Albert Puts One Over.

"Albert," says his wife, severely, "I am very much grieved at your deception. You have always led me to believe that your Green Cloth club was a highbrow literary society. But this paper says 'The chief of police has said that unless there is some change in the secretive tactics of the Green Cloth club the place will be raided. The doors to the place are always locked to those outside the pale, but the click of the ivories can be plainly heard.'"

"Great Scott, Maria, they've got us wrong. 'Click of the ivories,' eh? Why that's our officers getting their heads together."

But Albert went out silently and swiftly that he might be safe from embarrassing questions.

TORTURING, ITCHING ECZEMA

Mrs. J. B. Horth, Pasepebiac, Bonaventure Co., Que., writes:—"Thanks to Dr. Chase's Ointment I have been completely cured of that horrible disease eczema. I was held as if in prison from going among other people, for I was ashamed of the raw, flaming sores. Doctors could do nothing for me and I was almost desperate with suffering when I began to use Dr. Chase's Ointment. In one month I was completely cured and think that this was little short of a miracle."

ITALY LOOKED AHEAD TO "AFTER THE WAR"

(By United Press.)

ROME, Nov. 26.—Italy has taken the initiative as perhaps no other Allied country in resolving in advance so far as possible the problems of the transition from mobilized to civilian life and the inevitable problems of "after the war."

A commission of 600 members has been working on the steps to be taken for months past and is now holding day and night sessions. These 600 members are divided into 27 sections, each section having exclusive charge of one of the big problems that demobilization will entail.

Come Mother, This Castor Oil Is What You Need---Don't Cry!

If you, mother, had to swallow the awful dose---Think back to your childhood days---Ugh!

Give your children Cascarets instead. Cascarets taste like candy. Every child loves to take a Cascaret. Besides Cascarets act better on the little liver and bowels when the child is bilious, constipated, feverish and sick. Cascarets are delightful---harmless---cheap!

Each 10 cent box of Cascarets, the pleasant candy cathartic, contains directions and dosage for children aged one year old and upwards. When the little one's tongue turns white, breath feverish, stomach sour, there is nothing better to "work" the nasty bile, souring food and constipation poison from the child's system. Give Cascarets, then never worry.

Try Making Your Own Cough Remedy

You can save about $2, and have a better remedy than the ready-made kind. Easily done.

If you combined the curative properties of every known "ready-made" cough remedy, you probably could not get as much real curative power as there is in this simple home-made cough syrup, which is easily prepared in a few minutes.

Get from any druggist 2½ ounces of Pinex (50 cents worth), pour it into a 16-oz. bottle and fill the bottle with syrup, using either plain granulated sugar syrup, clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, as desired. The result is 16 ounces of really better cough syrup than you could buy ready-made, and saves easily $2. Tastes pleasant and never spoils.

This Pinex and Syrup preparation gets right at the cause of a cough and gives almost immediate relief. It loosens the phlegm, stops the nasty throat tickle and heals the sore, irritated membranes so gently and easily that it is really astonishing.

A day's use will usually overcome the ordinary cough and for bronchitis, croup, whooping cough and bronchial asthma, there is nothing better.

Pinex is a most valuable concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, and has been used for generations to break up severe coughs.

To avoid disappointment, ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with full directions, and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded. The Pinex Co., Toronto, Ont.

Shackleton's men, marooned on Elephant Island, whose death from starvation was predicted if they were not rescued, do not appear to have been in real danger of any such fate. A letter from one of them, written at Punta Arenas, describes their life on the island:

The day began with breakfast, which consisted mainly of penguin fried in blubber, with a drink of water. The morning duties were clearing away snowdrifts and catching penguin. Lunch was served at one o'clock; it consisted of biscuit and raw blubber. The afternoon was occupied with regular exercise over a track 100 yards in length.

At five o'clock, when darkness fell, came dinner, consisting of penguin breast and beef tea. Lacking tobacco, the men smoked grass from the padding in their boots. Their pipes were carved from birds' bones and wood. The members of the party took turns in reading aloud from the only available books, namely, the Bible, an encyclopedia, Browning, Bacon's Essays and Carlyle's French Revolution. Saturday evening was always marked by a concert, the feature of which was banjo playing. A banjo was the only musical instrument in camp.

On one occasion there was a welcome addition to the diet; we found several undigested fish in the stomach of a seal, and greatly enjoyed them. They were the only fish we caught during our stay. In August there was a change in our diet, for we could gather limpets and use seaweed as a vegetable. We were in the midst of one of these seaweed and limpet lunches when the rescue boat was sighted. "When was the war over?" was the first question we asked.—London Chronicle.

Want Culture.

The demand among the expeditionary forces for cultural and educational activities is well illustrated by the following incident: "When a university president gave a talk to a group of soldiers within a mile and a quarter of the Germans, with the pounding of guns in front of us, the constant buzz of airplanes above us, and the incessant coming and going of men to and from the trenches, I noted there such attention as is seldom found in a college classroom. In another place a Y.M.C.A. secretary, a former college professor, gave lectures on psychology for twenty successive nights, and not one soldier deserted the class. Dr. R. O. Dale, professor of geology at Harvard, has given in the huts talks on astronomy and physical geography, and these subjects—which at home might have attracted only a highly intellectual group—held these boys spellbound."

The Saskatoon Star naively says: "The Winnipeg girl went home with $32 and a Victory loan bond."

Dominion Friction Surface Belting

Conserves Power and Labor, Increases Production and Cuts Manufacturing Costs

The lowest possible manufacturing cost is obtained only through highly efficient equipment that will conserve power and labor and "speed up" production.

Dominion Friction Surface Belting is the most economical and efficient transmission equipment obtainable.

Dominion Friction Surface Belting is more than water-proofed fabric—it conserves power by taking a "bull dog" grip on the pulleys that practically eliminates slipping and transmits the maximum force that can be transmitted by a belt.

The entire belt is saturated with friction rubber so that, even when worn thin, it retains its tenacious pulley grip.

With a marked shortage of man-power, it is more important and just as profitable to conserve labor as to conserve power.

The economy, uniformity and dependability built into each foot of Dominion Friction Surface Belting insure long and continuous service which saves much time, energy, trouble and worry for employees, and prevents idle machines by removing the cause of most transmission troubles.

Both operators and employers are certain of a satisfactory and profitable average output whether on piece-work or straight wage basis.

Dominion Friction Surface Belting "speeds up" production by giving long and continuous service — by conserving power and labor and insuring satisfied operators.

Our belting engineers can help to cut your manufacturing costs just as they have helped other manufacturers.

PRINCE MAX IS HUMANE HUN

Always Recognized Aa s German Moderate.

STRENGTH TO BE TESTED

James W. Gerard, ex-Ambassador of the United States to Germany, Speaks Well of the Character of the New Imperial Chancellor, Who Did Not Believe In Frightfulness or Cruelty.

EVEN though the Kaiser and the militarist party of Germany may intend to make Prince Max of Baden, the new Imperial Chancellor, the tool of their pan-German intrigues, there can be no doubt that Prince Max is the highest type of man who has so far been given a high office in blood-stained Germany. His sincerity will now be put to the test.

Mr. James W. Gerard, ex-Ambassador to Germany, in his book "Four Years in Germany," writes in two places regarding Prince Max of Baden as follows:

1. "As I have said, from the 10th of August, 1914, to the 25th of September, 1915, the Emperor continually refused to see me on the ground that he would not receive the ambassador of a country which furnished munitions to the enemies of Germany, and we were thoroughly blacklisted by all the royalties. I did not see one, however humble, after the outbreak of the war, with the exception of Prince Max of Baden, who had to do with the prisoners of war in Germany, and in other countries."

PRINCE MAX OF BADEN

2. "Another royalty who was busied with the prisoners' affairs was Prince Max of Baden. He is heir to the throne of Baden, although not a son of the reigning duke. He is very popular, and for my part, I admired him greatly. He travels with Emersons essays in his pocket, and keeps up with the thought and progress of all countries. Baden will indeed be happy in having such a ruler.

"Prince Max was a man so reasonable, so human, that I understand that von Jagow was in favor of putting him at the head of a central department for prisoners of war. I agreed with von Jagow that in such case all would go smoothly and humanely. Naturally von Jagow could only mildly hint at the desirability of this appointment. A prince, heir to one of the thrones of Germany, with the rank of general in the army, he seemed ideally fitted for such a position, but unfortunately, the opposition of the army, and particularly of the representative corps commanders, was so great that von Jagow told me that the plan was impossible of realization. I am sure if Prince Max had been at the head of such a department in Germany, she would not now be suffering from the odium of mistreating her prisoners, and that the 2,000,000 prisoners of war in Germany would not return to their homes imbued with an undying hate.

"Prince Max was very helpful in the organization of the American mission to Russia for German prisoners, which I had organized."

Swiss Cattlemen Trapped.

For years Swiss farmers have been in the habit of hiring French pastures for their cattle. Early in the spring the Swiss would drive their cattle across the border and in the fall they would bring their droves back again.

Last spring, as usual, the Swiss received permission from French authorities and drove their cattle into France, but when the farmers, after leaving their cows in charge of some hired men, wanted to return to their native soil, they found the frontier had been closed to any and all sorts of traffic. For weeks and months these Swiss farmers have been kept in France.

It is true the frontier was opened several times since, but only for 12 hours at a time. It would take some time before the Swiss would hear of the frontier being opened, and by the time the men reached the border it would be closed again.

Her Proposal.

"I'd like to go to the circus," said the young man.

"Well, why don't you go?" replied the sweet young thing.

"I haven't any little boy who wants to go."

"But suppose you knew a little girl who wanted to go?"

"Well, if she was my little girl I'd take her."

"Come on. Let's go."

TURN HAIR DARK WITH SAGE TEA

If Mixed with Sulphur It Darkens so Naturally Nobody can Tell.

The old-time mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur for darkening gray, streaked and faded hair is grandmother's recipe, and folks are again using it to keep their hair a good, even colour, which is quite sensible, as we are living in an age when a youthful appearance is of the greatest advantage.

Nowadays, though, we don't have the same troublesome task of gathering the sage and the mussy mixing at home. All drug stores sell the ready-to-use product, improved by the addition of other ingredients, called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound" for about 50 cents a bottle. It is very popular because nobody can discover it has been applied. Simply moisten your comb or a soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, but what delights the ladies with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, is that, besides beautifully darkening the hair after a few applications, it also produces that soft lustre and appearance of abundance which is so attractive. This ready-to-use preparation is a delightful toilet requisite for those who desire a more youthful appearance. It is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.

BAPTISTS MAY PROTEST DR. CODY'S PORTFOLIO

TORONTO, Nov. 26.—The Baptists of Ontario are going to protest against Hon. Dr. Cody occupying the position of minister of education and also retaining his rectorship of St. Paul's Anglican Church in this city, according to a statement attributed to Rev. Dr. W. J. McKay, of the Ontario and Quebec Baptist Association, in an interview here. Dr. McKay is credited with the statement that no religious denomination among non-Catholics would be the cause of more suspicion than the Church of England because the traditions of the church were for state churchism. The question is likely to come up at the Baptist convention to be held early next year.

Scottish Valor On Every Field

Kin gand Queen Welcomed at Edinburgh—Tribute to Troops.

EDINBURGH, Scotland, Nov. 25.—Their Majesties, the King and Queen, together with the Prince of Wales, were the recipients of the most hearty reception to-day here, where they attended the thanksgiving service at St. Giles' church and received an address of welcome at Usher Hall.

His Majesty, replying, paid a tribute to the patriotism of Scotland, and stated that every theatre of war had testified to the valour and unconquerable spirit of the Scottish troops, whose deeds would live forever in history.

New York to Start Building at Once

(By United Press).

NEW YORK, Nov. 26.—Construction of more than $200,000,000 worth of dwellings is scheduled to begin here just as soon as men and materials, released from war work, are available.

Most of the buildings will be large apartment houses, plans for which have been drawn and ground for which has been ready for many months.

New York's overpopulation and underconstruction was one of the problems that has grown rapidly more acute since the nation abandoned itself almost entirely to war work. Rents have become so high that efforts were made several times to interest the Federal Government in rent regulation or apartment house construction.

Within one year from the signing of the armistice housing facilities for at least 100,000 more people should be completed. Construction work then will be at its height, contractors say. Thousands of men, released from war jobs, will be employed in building apartments, and much structural steel and other building materials already bought or contracted for by the Government probably will be assimilated quickly in this dwelling construction work.

TOKIO, Oct. 25.—(By Mail.)—K. Maruyama, a train boy, whose run is from Tokio to Kobe, has been arrested on the charge of reaching into berths and extracting purses from men's clothing. His arrest is being made a warning to scores of other boys employed on trains of the Japanese government railways.

The Word "Crater."

The word "crater" from the hole made by a mine, and afterward fought for, has thoroughly established itself in the language of the trenches. It is a highly obvious and inevitable borrowing from the volcano. But the volcano itself took the word from the original "crater"—the mixing bowl (from the verb meaning to mix), in which the Greeks, from the earliest known times, mingled water with wine. These craters, which stood in conspicuous positions in the hall, were often of huge size, and the resemblance to them of the volcanoes orifice struck all ancient observers who used the word "crater" in the modern volcanic sense.

Situation in Germany Appears to be More Calm According to Late Despatches

Decisive Action of President of Bavarian Republic is Uniting the Anti-Bolshevik Sentiment.

A STRONG MAN

(Ed. L. Keen)
(By United Press.)

LONDON, Nov. 27.—The situation in Germany appears to be more calm, though the country is not yet safe from Bolshevism.

The decisive attitude of Kurt Eisner, President of the Bavarian republic, is uniting the anti-Bolshevik sentiment throughout Germany. Right now he is probably the strongest man in the whole country. His adherents have made it plain they will not stand any nonsense, and have issued a warning notifying Field Marshal Von Hindenburg to keep out of politics.

On the other hand, it is reported that there are 70,000 armed soldiers in Berlin over whom Karl Leibknecht self-styled Bolshevist, is trying to get control in order to start a counter revolution.

Damage Action Concluded To-day

Automobile Collision Aired in County Court.

The action of Dr. F. L. Robinson against Mr. A. A. Fowler, was tried in the County Court before His Honour Judge Huycke, yesterday and was finished about one o'clock today. Mr. Daniel O'Connell and Mr. J. R. Corkery appeared for Dr. Robinson and Mr. G. N. Gordon appeared for A. A. Fowler.

Dr. Robinson's claim is that Mr. Fowler was driving westerly on Hunter street on the evening of August 23rd 1916, while Dr. Robinson's taxi cab was coming southerly on Aylmer street and at the intersection of Hunter and Aylmer street a collision took place and Dr. Robinson's taxi cab was badly damaged. Dr. Robinson claims that his taxi cab had the right of way, while Mr. Fowler contends that he had not yet proceeded to the middle line of Aylmer street, and that taxi cab was on the wrong side of the street, driving in the centre southerly on Aylmer street and this was the cause of the accident.

Considerable evidence was given by the defendant's witnesses and experts who were called in by the solicitors.

His Honour Judge Huycke, intimated that he would reserve judgment and look through the examinations and exhibits filed in the case, and will give judgment Thursday morning at the opening of the Special Sittings of the County Court before him.

Projects May Be Approved

OTTAWA, Nov. 27.—The Ministers of Railways and Canals and Public Works were called upon this morning regarding the public building and drydock, also the Hunter street bridge for Peterborough, by Mayor Duncan, Mr. S. R. Armstrong, Alderman Jones and Mr. J. H. Burnham, M.P. At the close of the conference the deputation expressed the opinion that all three projects will be approved by the Government. The matters were gone into thoroughly and the Ministers seemed most favourable. In response to an invitation from Mr. J. H. Burnham and the Mayor, the Hon. Mr. Carvell will speak in Peterborough early in the New Year.

WILHELM CAN ONLY BE EXTRADITED BY GERMANY

This is the Opinion of the Dutch Authorities—Holland's Precautions Against Plotting.

MOVEMENTS RESTRICTED

(By Lowell Mellett.)
(United Press.)

LONDON, Nov. 27.—While the legal authorities of the British government have decided that the Allies are entitled to demand the extradition of the former Kaiser, it is learned that Holland is not yet persuaded of that right. The Dutch government is understood to maintain that Wilhelm can only be extradited by Germany, or if his fate is decided at the peace conference, he will then be given up in accordance with that decided, inasmuch as Germany will be represented. The reason the unwelcome guest is on their hands, the Dutch say, is only that Holland is the nearest neutral point to Spa, from which his flight began, otherwise he might have gone to Scandinavia or Switzerland.

Bill Is Impatient.

Holland's precautions against any plotting are known to include a cordon of troops around the Amerongen Castle. The former Emperor is not permitted to cross the moat. The country around the castle is low and generally unattractive. Wilhelm it is reported, constantly displays irritation and impatience, while the Dutch mostly are frankly contemptuous because he failed to face the music.

The former Crown Prince's abode is on a barren island, where the only habitation is the rector's house, where Friedrich Wilhelm is quartered. The Dutch say the Allies would be unable to provide a more unpleasant prison.

MILITARY POLICE PARADE STREETS IN OLD NEW YORK

Will Guard Against New Outbreak of Soldiers and Sailors.

Special to The Examiner:

NEW YORK, Nov. 27.—The military police paraded the streets here to-day to guard against a new outbreak of soldiers and sailors against "Bolshevik" meetings. Major P. L. Thomas is in command. It is understood that the provost guard is to be reinforced and that the navy will establish its own police.

A CHRISTMAS TREAT FOR SOLDIER KIDDIES

The people of Peterboro are reminded of the appeal of the Great War Veterans' Association for assistance in their annual Christmas treat for the children of Peterboro soldiers. Arrangements are well under way for the big event at which it is expected that hundreds of little folks will be entertained. Although the fighting is over, the fathers of the children who are to be the guests of the Veterans, are still far away. For some of them it will be the fifth Christmas that they have been overseas, and without the entertainment arranged by the Veterans, the Christmas season would be a drab affair for their children. The public is asked to support this splendid movement by donations of cash or of supplies. Donations may be left at The Examiner office, or with any member of the G.W.V.A. committee. The following have already been received:

G. N. Gordon, $50.00.
Great War Veterans, $50.00.
The Examiner, $10.00.

The committee in charge is also anxious to secure information as to the number of children for which to prepare. The mothers of all children who are going to attend, are asked to send in their names to the G.W.V.A. rooms, George street, as soon as possible in order that the Veterans' Committee may be able to complete their plans for the Christmas treat.

A WORLD CONCLAVE

Holland is Preparing to be the Host to a Congress of Nations, Including the Neutrals.

LEAGUE OF NATIONS

(By Raymond Clapper.)
(United Press.)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 27.—Holland is preparing to be the host to the Congress of Nations at The Hague, following the peace conferences of belligerents at Versailles, Dutch Minister Cremer told the United Press to-day. The League of Nations should be organized at The Hague, he believes.

Plans are conditional upon acceptance by the Allies. All neutrals would sit in at The Hague conference—making it a World Congress in contrast to the meeting of the belligerents at Versailles. Holland, along with other neutrals, sees hope in peace.

Standing Firm.

The Dutch people long for a League of Nations, which would protect small nations against greedy and powerful neighbours such as Germany was in 1914, Cremer said.

Holland is probably as bad off for food as Belgium, having been under heavy blockade for four years without such relief as the Belgians received through the Hoover Commission. Since 1914 Holland has been held motionless by Germany, which kept its guns levelled at the small kingdom until Hindenburg's army collapsed.

The menace of Germany's mailed fist was scarcely removed when the German Bolsheviki began their activity in Holland. Revolution was threatened for a brief moment, but the Dutch people, who have had democratic freedom for many years, shifted to the middle ground and are now apparently standing firm against the Bolshevik firebrands.

Sympathy For Allies.

Minister Cremer is strongly in sympathy with the Allied cause—his acquaintance with England and America being very extensive. He is married to an English woman and has spent much time in English-speaking lands. He represented his country at the Hudson-Fulton celebration in New York in 1909, and attended the opium conference between Holland and the United States in 1911, 1913 and 1914.

Holland, Minister Cremer believes, is an appropriate place for the organization of the League of Nations, the Hague, having been the seat of two important conferences, looking to this event. A third conference was scheduled for 1915, but the war interfered.

Preparations have been going on meanwhile, and the vast international law libraries at The Hague are in readiness for the world conclave when it decides to meet.

Funeral of Late Charles Seymour

The funeral of the late Charles Seymour, who died suddenly on Sunday in Toronto, took place this afternoon at 2.30 o'clock, from his late residence, 193 Smith street.

Deceased, who was well known in the city, practically all his life was a man of rare culture and a great student. He leaves his wife, one daughter, Mrs. W. McCarthy, London, Ont., and four sons, Charles of the Bank of Montreal, Jack of Warren, P.A., Fred with the Canadian forces overseas, and Norman at home.

The floral tributes were many and beautiful. Rev. Canon Davidson officiated.

THE WEATHER

A year ago this morning the thermometer was at 1 degree below zero. This was the introductory number of a long series of below zero records during the winter. The winter had, however, been in good running order for a week previous to this date, and locally there was good sleighing. The coldest we have had this season as yet was yesterday morning, when there was a reading of 14 degrees above the zero mark. A few places in the prairie provinces have had temperatures down to the zero point already this year, but the weather generally has not been very severe. W.P.

HUGE ORDERS EXPECTED

Hon. Mr. Maclean Says Building Materials for France Will Reach 10 Billions.

CONTRACTORS JUBILANT

OTTAWA, Nov. 27.—At a late hour yesterday evening the Committee on Permanent Organization for the general contractors, sub-contractors and supply men of Canada, now meeting in convention here, decided on a resolution to be submitted at the general meeting, asking that a central organization, to be known as the Association of Canadian Building Industries, shall be permanently located at Ottawa, and that all Builders' Exchanges, associations and bodies composed of similar interests, and Boards of Trade in localities where there are not such bodies, should be invited to affiliate and co-operate with the national body. All individuals, firms and corporations having permanent offices in the Dominion of Canada are entitled to membership. George Oakley, Toronto, is Chairman of the committee which will bring in this report.

Large Lumber Orders Coming.

Great enthusiasm was aroused among the delgates from all parts of Canada to-day when Hon. A. K. Maclean, acting Minister of Trade and Commerce, and Chairman of the Reconstruction Committee of the Cabinet, informed the members that arrangements were nearly completed by which very large orders for lumber would come to this country from the devastated parts of Europe. He estimated the building materials necessary to reconstruct France alone at ten billion dollars, but pointed out that it would have to be Canada's part to finance both France and Belgium to the full measure of the materials which will be supplied them. In addition to this the building programme in England called for the construction of between three and four hundred thousand houses, and Canadians, as producers of certain kinds of building material, must participate very largely in this business.

Demobilizing Looks Less Serious.

So far as regards demobilizing 400,000 soldiers in Canada and overseas, and taking care of 200,000 munition workers, Hon. Mr. Maclean said that the problem did not look nearly so serious as it did a few days ago. The war had caused an increase in the demand for dwellings, while repairs had ceased; the cost of building had gone up, as had the rate of interest, and the supply of building material had ceased, as well as going up in price. In 1913 there had been $185,000,000 worth of building in 35 leading cities, outside of railways, bridges and so on, and in 1913 $165,000,000 worth of buildings. In the past three or four years this had dropped to about $40,000,000 a year. That meant that there was a deferred construction in Canada of at least one hundred million dollars a year, and for the whole time of at least half a million dollars in these big cities, and of one billion dollars for the whole of Canada.

It had been suggested that the Government could help by erecting public buildings, and loaning money. That might be done to a certain extent, but the fact remained that there would be a demand for construction, that Canada has the building materials, and will have the labour. The last Victory Loan showed that the capital is here.

GUILT IS CONFIRMED

Canadian Press:

LONDON, Nov. 27.—(British Wireless Service.)— Newspapers here devote much space to discussions of revelations made by Bavaria in the publication of telegrams which passed between Berlin and Munich just before the war broke out in 1914. They agree that the guilt of Germany and Austria, persistently denied during the past four years, have been proved by the Bavarian government.

Germany has been challenged again and again to produce the whole correspondence between Berlin and Vienna during July, 1914. Says the Times:

"She never dared produce it. Will the new government dare just to show the gulf between it and its predecessors."

"Thus was the blood bath prepared. Is the Kaiser to be allowed to go with trial," is the comment of the Express.

"Greet America for Me," Said the Former Crown Prince to United Press Correspondent

The Correspondent Travelled on the Same Train With the Crown Prince—Latter's Future Depends on the Revolution—Has Been Interned on a Lonely Island—Had Little to Say.

(United Press.)

AMSTERDAM, Nov. 27.—"I hope that when peace is signed America will remember that she and Germany were once friendly," Friedrich Wilhelm, former German Crown Prince, declared in an interview with the United Press to-day.

The correspondent travelled with the Crown Prince from Swaelmen Castle to Wieringen, where he was interned. He appeared in good health, smiled frequently and was well dressed in a sporting suit of brown tweed. He was accompanied by Major Von Mueldner and Major Von Zobelitz. They rode in a first-class compartment, but it was unheated.

Friedrich Wilhelm was discovered by the correspondent at a time when the former was temporarily alone.

"I am unable to make any formal statement, as my mouth has been closed by orders," the former Crown Prince said.

"I do not know how long I will stay in Holland, where I have been accorded nice treatment.

"My future depends on the revolution. I hope to see Germany again, but I must be patient. My only knowledge of events is obtained through the newspapers.

WANTS TO KEEP IN GOOD RUNNING CONDITION

"I have not seen my family for weeks—even my father, who, I am told, also lives in Holland. I have not heard anything regarding my wife, my children or my friends. But have I friends left?

"I hope that when peace is signed America will remember that she and Germany were once friendly. That is all I can say."

The former Crown Prince was effusive regarding food conditions.

"The food in Holland is good, but I eat very little," he said. "I wish to retain my slender, sportsman's figure. I cannot afford to get fat."

Friedrich Wilhelm hopes to indulge in skating at Wieringen, which is a lonely island, where a rented parsonage is the only good house. He has ordered a piano and billiard table sent there. He also plans to dictate his war memoirs.

Offering the correspondent a cigarette, he terminated the interview with, "Greet America for me."

Cross of Calvary Triumphs Over the Cross of Iron

Billy Sunday Tells What He Thinks America Has to Give Thanks For—The Prussian Beast.

AN EPITAPH

(United Press.)

FORT WORTH, Texas, Nov. 27.—Billy Sunday, working here, paused to-day long enough to tell the United Press what he thinks America has to give thanks for.

"We are thankful," Sunday said, "that the white-winged dove of peace has at last burst through the storm clouds of war.

"That the Prussian beast and his whelps have been caged, and we will check their baggage to St. Helena.

"That Christ is mightier than Krupp.

"That the Cross of Calvary has triumphed over the Cross of Iron.

"That the darkest moment in history, God armed the American nation and sent her into the fight with legions of angels and battalions in khaki and saved the world for a Christian civilization.

"That the flags of the Allies wave over the Jerusalem instead of the Star and Crescent of the Mohammed.

"That we have cattle and sheep enough on our hills, and hogs enough in our pens, and grain enough in our granaries to feed the hungry world.

"That we have been able to dig this grave and carve this epitaph: "Here lies buried Prussian Militarism and German Kultur, Slain by the Help of Almighty God, and the Army, and the Navy and Marines of Uncle Sam."

PHILLY MUST FOREGO MUMMER'S PARADE

(By United Press.)

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 26.—Philadelphia's far-famed mummer's parade will not be held next New Year's day. The late war and the failure of the city to lay aside an appropriation are given as causes for the postponement.

In past years this event has attracted thousands of persons from all parts of the country. The New Year's appropriation in other years was from $6,000 to $10,000.

MAYBE HE DIDN'T LIKE STEPS THEY DANCE

(United Press.)

TOKIO, Oct. 25.—(By Mail.)—An all-night festival dance, celebrated annually in the grounds of the Shozanji temple, Kamiyama, was broken up at 1 a.m. by a rank outsider, who threw a bomb into the midst of the dancers.

Whether the bombthrower had some grievance against the god, or just disapproved of dancing in general, has not been learned. A dozen persons were injured, and a stranger who happened to be in the neighbourhood was arrested on suspicion.

SHOP EARLY

Christmas is only twenty-seven days away. Take four Sundays out of this and you have twenty-three days left in which to do your Christmas shopping. You help yourself when you do your Christmas shopping early, and incidentally help the merchants and the army of clerks that has been mobilized to serve you. In addition to this, you get a better selection of goods, and that alone is sufficient reason why you should shop early and avoid the rush.

Special to The Examiner:

LONDON, Nov. 27.— (British Admiralty Wireless).—The Berlin Tageblatt says the Kaiser's pretence of sharing in his people's hardships was the grossest hypocrisy, and to prove it the newspaper reproduces the menus for Sept. 3 at Great Headquarters, the originals of which are in its possession. They are as follows:

Lunch: Fish patties; partridge and apple jelly; sienna pudding; desert.

Dinner: Crayfish; rice; partridge; salad; egg cake and fruit.

"Peterborough Presents Possibilities Unsurpassed."

WEDNESDAY, NOV. 27TH, 1918.

REMEMBER THE CHILDREN.

There should be a hearty response to the Great War Veterans' appeal for assistance in giving the annual Christmas treat to the children of Peterboro soldiers. It is desirable that this first peace Christmas should be a memorable one. The soldiers' families will still however be on a war footing because the demobilization of the Canadian army will not enable any of the men now overseas to be back for Christmas, and for their children this Yule-tide, like its immediate predecessors, will be affected by the fact that their fathers are still unable to be with them. The Veterans' Christmas treat will bring cheer and brightness into the lives of many little ones. Arrangements are under way for a programme of a nature to delight young hearts, and it is hoped to have a visit from Santa Claus. The people of Peterboro are urged to help to make this possible by donations of cash or of toys, oranges, nuts, candies, etc. The Examiner will be pleased to receive donations for this worthy cause.

THE NEW STAMPS.

The new war savings stamps introduced by the Dominion Government and which will be on sale on and after the second of December promise to be in much demand. Although their sale is not now necessary for purposes in conection with military activities, yet a vast amount of money will be needed during Canada's reconstruction period and the war savings and thrift stamp system may reasonably be expected to raise a huge total. The plan offers the small investor an absolutely safe investment at an unusually good interest rate and without any consideration of the patriotic duty of helping to finance Canada, the offer is such an attractive one that it is easy to see a splendid demand for the stamps when they are put on sale.

The war savings stamps will be redeemed by the Government on January 1st, 1924 at $5. During December and January these stamps may be bought by the Canadian people at $4 each, and afterwards the price gradually increases each month until at the end of next year the cost of a war savings stamp will be $4.11.

Associated with the war savings stamps there are to be sold thrift stamps. The latter will be sold at 25c each, and will be used in payment for a war-savings stamp.

The system is a simple one. The intending purchaser of a war savings stamp may secured one for the payment of $4 at the post office, banks or other authorized agents. At the same time he will be given a war-savings certificate, a pocket-sized folder, containing ten spaces upon which war savings stamps may be attached. When the certificate is filled another can be secured free of charge. The price of the stamps increases in each month, of course, because the stamps are earning interest.

For those who cannot afford to pay the full price of a war-savings stamp, the thrift stamp offers an easy solution of the problem. For twenty-five cents you can secure a thrift stamp at the post office, banks or other authorized agents and at the same time secure a thrift card to hold 16 thrift stamps. As these are bought they are affixed to the card and when the latter is filled it may be exchanged for a war-savings stamp, the purchaser of course paying in cash the few cents difference between the $3 worth of thrift stamps and the price of a war-savings stamp for the month in which the exchange is made.

The advantage of the new scheme is that it encourages every one to save. In the United States wonderful results were obtained by the sale of stamps. People found that they could do without many little extravagances and the result was that the small sums that were usually spent on things that were not necessary went to the purchase of thrift stamps. The same result is expected in Canada. The children should be encouraged to invest their small change in thrift stamps, and there will be general surprise as to the quickness with which the thrift cards will be filled up and exchanged for war savings stamps.

THE WAR MEMORIAL.

There should be a large and representative attendance at the public meeting called by the City Council to-morrow night to discuss the the vitally important question of a war memorial for Peterboro to do honour to the memory of the soldiers from this city who gave up their lives on the battlefields of Europe in the Great War. Needless to say, every citizen of Peterboro is interested in this matter and the meeting to-morrow night should leave no doubt as to the anxiety of the people of the of the city to adequately express their gratitude to those who died that we might be free. It is a problem that cannot be dismissed lightly, or settled at one meeting There will be a number of plans suggested, and there should be no hasty decision, neither should there be any acrimonious bickering over the question of what form the memorial should take. Differences of opinion are to be expected but the subject should be approached in a dignified, considerate manner, in a spirit worthy of the men for whose memory the memorial is to be dedicated. There is no one who does not feel that there could be no honour too great to commemorate the death of Peterboro's gallant sons, but it can readily be understood that every one will not see eye to eye in determining the best policy to adopt. Let the subject be discussed fully and frankly, and at length, because no definite action should be taken until the whole people have spoken, but at the same time let the advocates of each plan proposed appreciate the fact that all are actuated only by the desire to do something that will be a fitting recognition of the service that has been rendered.

PEACE NEGOTIATIONS.

Almost every day in the news columns of the daily papers, there now appears some announcement of some Canadian gentlemen who are on their way or preparing to take their departure for Europe to take part in the coming peace conference on behalf of Canada. Sir Robert Borden, Sir George Foster and others have gone, and Major General Mewburn, Lloyd Harris and others are on their way. It has been suggested that ex-premier Scott should be taken along. Just how many and who the Canadian representatives will be has not yet been announced, but up to date, there is no indication that any Canadians who have suffered one particle in purse or person during the war, will be given a seat at the peace table. The soldiers have done the fighting and now the politicians will say, "Thank you boys," and proceed to dicker and barter with the defeated foe. There are men in Canada who went to war and killed an odd German or two and were smashed up in the process. They have returned to Canada and resumed civil life. They knew enough of Canada's war aims to risk their hides in their promulgation, and they have seen enough civil life since they returned to make them conversant with the problems facing the nation in times of peace. Still they do not seem to be so eminently fitted to deal with the peace problems as home-fire politicians whose greatest contributions to the war were political mistakes and explanatory words. One or two of the men on the olive-branch chatauqua now preparing to tour Europe should be men who fought for peace in lousy shirts and dirty weather.—Turner's Weekly.

TO HONOUR THE FALLEN.

"In Flanders' fields the poppies blow,
Between the crosses, row on row."

So begins the beautiful poem of Lieut-Col. John McCrea, the verses being probably the best known poetry written during the war. There is a suggestion in the lines quoted of a simple yet splendid way of honouring the memory of the soldiers who have fallen. The poppies referried to by the soldier poet are characteristic of the land in which our heroes made the supreme sacrifice. These beautiful flowers spring up everywhere, even close to the trenches, and in no man's land, and so the happy idea of planting great beds of poppies in the parks of Canada has been proposed. The Chatham Agricultural Society is endeavouring to secure poppies from Flanders for the purpose, and the plan might well be adopted by other societies throughout the country. Poppies in the parks of Peterboro would be a constant reminder during the summer months of the men who lie buried beneath the poppies in Flanders.

The same plan might be followed in individual gardens, as suggested by a Gravenhurst man, Mr. George L. Catton, who in a letter to a Toronto paper, says:

"This summer coming I am going to dedicate a quiet little corner of my flower garden. I am going to border it with pansies — those sleepy little faces that bloom all summer. I am going to weed it, and water it, and care for it. And I am going to plant poppies in it.

In memory of those who "sleep where poppies blow" I am going to plant a Flander's Field.

And somehow it seems to me that could we look over a neighbour's fence and see a "Flander's Field"—just a tiny corner set aside in memory of those who sleep—it would help us to keep faith. Would it not?"

EDITORIAL NOTES.

A war savings stamp is a splendid Christmas gift.

Thrift stamps will help to reconstruct Canada. They also teach the lesson of how to save. Two excellent reasons why they should be in demand.

General Winterfeld of the German army complains that the German line was never broken. The General must have missed a lot of the excitement during the past four or five months.

Many a Conservative stand-patter is waiting in breathless anxiety to hear the result of the Bob Rogers banquet to-morrow night. Something sensational is expected from the ginger group and the old guard is all aquiver with excitement.

The German warships surrendered to the British are said to be in a dirty state. No wonder after the dirty crews they have been carrying.

Chili and Peru are sparring for an opening. An international policing of the world would prevent the difficulty from getting beyond the sparring stage.

CITIES IN BATTLE ZONE.

Interesting Items of French and Belgian History.

Interesting facts about some of the cities of France and Belgium which are involved in the present intense fighting are as follows:

Cambrai is an ancient fortified city of French Flanders which previous to the war had a population of 23,000 inhabitants. Though most of its finest buildings were destroyed during the French Revolution, it has a magnificent cathedral, a handsome town hall and a library of 45,000 volumes. Cambrai was an important city at the time of Julius Caesar, and for a considerable period was under Roman rule. It has belonged to France since 1678.

St. Quentin, which formerly had a population of nearly 50,000 people, is situated on the river Somme. It was at this city, during the war of 1870, that the French suffered a terrible defeat at the hands of von Goeben. St. Quentin has a richly decorated church which was built during the 12th century, and has important manufactures of cotton and woollen stuffs.

Lille, a large fortified city of French Flanders, which had a population of about 215,000 people, and though now in the hands of the Germans, was one of the most beautiful cities in Northern France. It is regularly laid out, with many open spaces and squares. It has a number of handsome churches and many other beautiful structures, including the Porte de Paris, which was built during the 17th century in the form of a triumphal arch to commemorate the union of French Flanders with France. Lille is rich in art, has several universities, and a public library of 100,000 volumes. It holds a prominent place in the textile industries of the world.

Laon, historical through the victory of Blucher over Napoleon, is picturesquely situated 87 miles northeast of Paris. It is a first class fortress, and was an important place during the middle ages. The cathedral of Laon was built during the eleventh and twelfth centuries, and is one of the most interesting churches in France. It had a population of about 10,000.

Ghent, which has an uncertain origin, is first mentioned as a town in the seventh century, but acquired no importance till the twelfth century, and at the end of the thirteenth century had reached the height of its importance, being then much larger than Paris. In the bloody feuds which agitated Flanders up till the middle of the fourteenth century Ghent took a leading part. It suffered much during the aggressions of Louis XIV., the campaigns of the Duke of Marlborough and the French Revolution. Its population is about 160,000 inhabitants.

Bruges, is a diminishing city of Belgian Flanders, which once had a population of 200,000, which up to the present war had dwindled down to about 50,000. It acquired its name from the number of bridges, about 50 in number, which cross its canals. Many fine churches, which contain masterpieces of art, are to be seen in Bruges. And the town hall has a library of 100,000 volumes.

Dixmude, a small town of West Flanders, Belgium, with a population of about 4,000, and outside of the present war has taken no outstanding place in history.

In Bohemia.

It is reported in the newspapers that butter is selling for $8 a pound, and that eggs cost 40 cents apiece, in Bohemia. Was it not a Boston poet who sang:

I'd rather live in Bohemia than in any other land,
For only there are the values true—

and so on? He was dreaming, of course, about a fanciful Bohemia, and not about the Bohemia that is now largely in revolt against Germanism and paying the penalty. As things are going with the Teucho-Slovaks however, anyone with a proper regard for the heroic endeavor of a liberty-loving people, even with butter and eggs at present quotations might be proud to live in Bohemia.

With Daughter's Voice.

Mrs. Suddenriches—Frankly, now, what do you think of my daughter's singing?

Mrs. Speeker-Mynde—I think it was off the key.

Mrs. Suddenriches—That's what I thought, but that seems to happen every place we go. It's a wonder people wouldn't get their pianos tuned occasionally.

(By United Press.)

ROME, Nov. 27.—Italy expended over 100,000,000 francs ($20,000,000) in care of refugees brought here by the war. With Italy's entrance into the war some 120,000 Italians from the irredeemed provinces immediately flocked into Italy for protection. Later this number was increased by those who fled before the Austro-German invasion, bringing the total number up to 700,000.

Geddes Tells of "Mystery Ships"

British "Q Boats" Were Decoys to Trap Submarines.

Sir Eric Geddes, first lord of the admiralty, writing in Answers, London, says:

"I am going to tell a story that has never been told before—a story of the British navy, which has never been told by anyone before because it concerned a ruse of war which was very effective.

The story is about the Mystery Victoria Cross and our "Q" boats, or "mystery ships."

I will tell you what a "mystery ship" is. It is a decoy on the waves of the deep; a decoy for use in modern warfare and known in the service as a "Q" ship.

She may be an old wind-jammer, sailing ship, tramp, or a collier, but she is something more than that. In the admiralty records she is known and registered as the "Q-50."

Here real name might be the "Mary Blunt" or something of that kind—a merchantman which, in a few seconds, can be turned into a formidable man-o'-war.

The ship I am going to tell you about was, to all appearances, a dingy old collier. She sailed under sealed orders, which informed her captain that German submarines were sinking British and American vessels in such and such a position, and ordered him to proceed to the spot forthwith.

As I have said, she sailed looking like a collier, with a crew that looked like a merchant crew, and the captain a merchant captain—a fairly undisciplined lot on the whole, and yt beneath the guise of merchant seamen and officers were the clothes of our bluejackets, a captain and officers of a British warship. Let us look into the captain's bunk, and we see the cap of the royal nacy and the jacket with the brass buttons of the royal navy. The same thing applies in the case of the other officers aboard, and also of the quarters of the men. The "Q-50" also carried a white ensign and had a little gun mounted on her stern.

The Chase.

It was a summer morning, a brisk breeze blowing, and the "Q-50" steered out into the Atlantic to the spot indicated in the captain's orders. About two hours passed by, when, to the starboard bow an enemy submarine was sighted, and the "collier" turned to run away, as she did so commencing her ruse of zig-zagging and putting on steam, until she raced along at the rate of eight knots, amid volumes of thick black smoke.

The submarine was giving chase. Meantime the "Q-50" fired her little stern gun intentionally short.

Soon the submarine began to overhaul the "Q-50" and begin shelling. Some of the shells were now dropping on the deck. Hands were being killed and wounded. The "Q-50" kept steadily on, and then gradually slackened speed, first to seven and then down to six knots. She then made a signal in plain English, "submarine following me,' and kept on her course, the submarine still overhauling. Then, again another signal, "Submarine shelling me." And still another and final, "Am about to abandon ship. Help! Help!"

Stick to Posts.

The captain of the U-boat by this time began to think he had an easy prey. He watched panic take place among the "collier's" crew and a party leave her in the small boat. A very, very undiciplinary lot of fellows they were, these "merchantmen." Then still a few more left the ship, one taking with him a pet parrot.

Just then a shell from the U-boat struck the poop of the "Q-50," blowing up the little gun and he gun's crew. Other shells hit her. The poop was on fire.

The captain, who remained on board secreted with other members of the crew, knew that, as the fire approached it, the magazine would explode. They stuck to their posts.

U-boat Led On.

Again at this time more of the men jumped overboard, trusting to luck to be picked up by the small boat.

At last! The U-boat now came along. It gradually got nearer, very, very slowly, but the smoke from the burning poop now interfered with the range of "Q-50's" guns—the real guns.

Shells again fell all about the ship. This time an explosion took place; and the "Q-50's" after gun, together with the plucky gun crew were blown up, and then last of all, the fire had reached the magazine. A terrific explosion took place and the second aft gun went hurtling through the air. "This was indeed a misfortune," the captain wrote in his report, "as the submarine had only to steer another 20 yards and I should have had three guns bearing on her at 400 yards' range."

The "Q-50" by this time was blazing and sinking. The stern was raging with fire. It was quite clear now that the submarine knew she was a "Q" ship, and quickly submerging, she fired torpedo after torpedo.

The captain instantly gave the order "abandon ship." And blue-jackets again scrambled over the side into the water, getting on to a raft as best they could.

Loud explosions were taking place as the fire spread, but the U-boat, which had come up again, was still suspicious that there were more men on board, so again more of the crew of the "Q-50" took to the water, and then the enemy came on nearer toward the "Q-50." She got for'ard. In a flash the for'ard gun was unmuzzled. Shell after shell was discharged. One took away with it the U-boat's conning tower; another hit her broadside. She was gone—like many of her kind.

The fight lasted from 11 in the morning until 4 in the afternoon. Warships lying in wait behind the horizon picked up the crew of the "Q-50," which had done its work and was abandoned in the grip of fire, the ammunition exploding.

The enemy now know of this ruse, and there is no need of further secrecy, but my friend and colleague, Admiral Sims and I have more ways than that which we employed to trap submarines.

This story is a record of but one of numerous fights with U-boats that took place day after day in the routine of our soldiers' lives aboard these decoy ships—watchdogs of the sea.

CHANGES IN SOLDIERS' SETTLEMENT BOARD

(Special to the Examiner.)

OTTAWA, Nov. 26.—Changes are pending in the soldiers settlement board from which Charles F. Rolland of Winnipeg recently resigned. It is understood that Major Ashton, chairman of the Commission will be shortly going to England to take charge of the agricultural training work arranged for by Honorable Arthur Meighen, Minister of the Interior, and that Professor Black former Head of the Manitoba Agricultural College and at present a member of the soldier settlement board will become chairman of the Board at a salary of $6,000 a year S. Maber will be a commissioner at $5,000 a year and will also be acting secretary.

YOU CAN'T FIND ANY DANDRUFF, AND HAIR STOPS COMING OUT

Save your hair! Make it thick, wavy, glossy and beautiful at once.

Try as you will, after an application of Danderine, you can not find a single trace of dandruff or falling hair, and your scalp will not itch, but what will please you most will be after a few weeks' use, when you see new hair, fine and downy at first—yes—but really new hair—growing all over the scalp.

A little Danderine immediately doubles the beauty of your hair. No difference how dull, faded, brittle and scraggy, just moisten a cloth with Danderine and carefully draw it through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. The effect is immediate and amazing—your hair will be light, fluffy and wavy, and have an appearance of abundance; an incomparable lustre, softness and luxuriance, the beauty and shimmer of true hair health.

Get a small bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any drug store or toilet counter, and prove that your hair is as pretty and soft as any—that it has been neglected or injured by careless treatment. A small trial bottle will double the beauty of your hair.

Too many men attempt to pass through this world on the reputation of their ancestors.

CATARRHAL DEAFNESS MAY BE OVERCOME

If you have Catarrhal Deafness or head and ear noises, or are growing hard of hearing, go to your druggist and get 1 ounce of Parmint (double strength), and add to it 1-4 pint of hot water and a little granulated sugar. Take one tablespoonful four times a day.

This will often bring quick relief from the distressing head noises. Clogged nostrils should open, breathing become easy and the mucus stop dropping into the throat. It is easy to prepare costs little and is pleasant to take. Anyone who has Catarrhal Deafness or head noises should give this prescription a trial.

I.M.B. Will Sell Munitions Plants

Trenton Factory Will Likely be Used for Chemicals.

OTTAWA, Nov. 25.—Anticipating a closing down of its activities from sixty to eighty days the Imperial Munitions Board is taking steps to dispose of the series of splendid plants which it has erected in different parts of the country. While no definite sale has yet been made negotiations, it is learned at the Board, are under way with every prospect of success.

The report from Toronto that the Board has sold the Leaside munitions plant there to a newly-formed company capitalized at ten million dollars is officially denied for the reasons that the I.M.B. has no financial interest whatever in the Leaside plant. It is a private company, to which munitions contracts were awarded, and which is now being reorganized presumably to go on in other lines.

The plants of the Board in Toronto which, it is hoped to dispose of, are British Forgings, Limited, and Canadian Aeroplanes. The extensive plant at Trenton, known as the British Chemical Co., is likely to be sold to a company for manufacturing chemicals. At Montreal a plant covering seven acres is also the subject of some inquiries looking to purchase. The explosive plant at Parry Sound may be closed up.

It was announced in Vienna that a new Austrian loan would be raised from "new sources or revenue" because of the financial situation.

HER IMPROVEMENT AMAZES FRIENDS

Looking After Sixty-two Room House No Task to Mrs. Le Plant Now.

"All my friends know and can tell you that for a long time I was almost a nervous wreck, and this Tanlac has made such a wonderful change in my condition that they are simply amazed at my improvement," said Mrs. Ella La Plant, who conducts a large rooming house at 412 Puyallup Avenue, Tacoma, Washington, D.C., U.S.A., the other day.

"For the last twelve years," she continued, "I had been in a terribly run down condition and during that whole time hardly a day passed that I did not suffer from awful headaches. I had no appetite at all and what little I forced down would ferment in my stomach and distress me for hours. My kidneys were out of order and worried me night and day, and my nerves were so unstrung that after going to bed any little sound, even the rustling of a newspaper would wake me with a start and it would be some time before I could drop off to sleep again. I had a very large house to look after and I was so weak and miserable that a couple of hours work would exhaust me so that I would just have to quit for the rest of the day. The fact is loss of sleep and lack of nourishment had undermined my nervous system and I was just wearing myself out.

"I spent all the money I had on medicines and treatments that did me no good, and I had about given up hope of ever getting well when I began to read about the good Tanlac was doing others and I thought I might as well try it. Well sir the way I began to pick up right after starting on it, surprised even me, for after experience with other medicines I did not expect such quick results. My appetite is just fine—too fine, the way prices are now, for I feel hungry most all the time. My kidneys don't worry me at all now and I am rid of that terrible backache at last. Those awful headaches are all gone too, which is a grand relief, besides I sleep all night like a child and feel so strong and rested when I get up in the mornings that I don't mind at all the the work that I have to do in looking after a sixty-two room house full of people. My father is now taking Tanlac and says he is just feeling fine."

Tanlac is sold in Peterboro by W. B. Warne Drug Co., Ltd.; in Havelock by A. C. Denike; in Lakefield, by Tanner Drug Co., Ltd.; in Fowler's Corners, by W. A. Hunter; in Gelert, by A. J. Scott; in Westwood, by G. Pringle & Son.

Tank Battalions First to Return

Ten Thousand Men Coming Back Within Next Two Weeks.

OTTAWA, Nov. 25.—Demobilization in Canada is proceeding rapidly from fifty to two hundred men are being discharged daily at each depot and by January first the force in Canada will be completely demobilized except for some four thousand men who are being retained for garrison purposes.

Within the next couple of weeks the first ten thousand men will be returned from overseas. The first units to arrive in Canada will be the two tank battalions which recently arrived in England and had not yet seen service. Tank battalions are no longer requified, and they are returning at once. The remainder of the ten thousand will be lower category men. The demobilization of the fighting troops will not commence for some time. It is not expected many will leave before the New Year.

In the meantime the Canadian army at the front under General Currie consisting of a hundred thousand men is moving forward towards Germany and will occupy part of the invaded country. These will be an occupation army possibly for several years. Any Canadians who form part of this army will likely be volunteers. It is understood the Canadian army in France is anxious to at least get its foot in German territory before it is demobilized. Some 3,500 convalescent soldiers in England will be moved in December.

Sat Up In Bed To Get Her Breath

Palpitation of the heart, shortness of breath, inability to lie on the left side, feelings as if smothering, oppressed feeling in the chest, dizzy and faint spells, tired weak, worn out feeling, involuntary twitching of the muscles, sleeplessness, restless, etc., all point to the fact that either the heart or nerves, or both, are not what they should be. Any of these conditions should be remedied immediately so as to avoid a complete breakdown of the whole system.

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills will bring energy to the weakened constitution, strengthen and regulate the heart, and tone up the tired, overstrained nerves.

Mrs. William Steeves, Chemical Road, N.B., writes:— "I have been a great sufferer from nerve troubles and palpitation of the heart, which was so bad I had to sit up in bed to get my breath. I could not lie on my left side at all. I tried doctor after doctor, also several different remedies, but got no help from them. My mother insisted on me trying Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills. By the time I had used one box, I was feeling very much better. I took in all three boxes, and now I am in perfect health and can enjoy a good sound sleep, and can lie on my left side without any trouble."

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills are 50c. a box at all dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

Women to Upset Old Customs in Commons House

(By United Press.)

LONDON, Nov. 6. — (By Mail.)—Members of the House of Commons stand self-accused, and women are beginning to understand why there was so much opposition on the question of their being allowed to sit in Parliament.

"The House of Commons is not a fit and proper place for respectable women to sit in," said Sir Hedworth Meux, making a speech in regard to the proposal. "I oppose this resolution," he continued, "not because I do not love the female sex, but because I adore women. But is it a proper thing for women to be sitting here until 11 o'clock at night? When we sit until 2 and 3 in the morning the historic cry of 'Who goes home?' will become 'Who will take me home?'"

In future the big Strangers' Gallery will be open to women as well as men, but the Ladies' Gallery will still continue to be restricted to the exclusive use of women, so that whatever of privileged sex position still remains in Parliament will be to the advantage of the gentle sex. Thus are the tables turned.

Many amusing queries are being put to perplexed politicians. The concentrated wisdom of a thousand years had made rules, and the rules have been for men only. One thing that becomes a problem is the etiquette of the hat. A rule in this connection is that if a member wishes to address the House he must remain "uncovered." Male members now have visions of the new women member standing up to remove her latest Paris creation. Of necessity she must have a mirror to arrange her disheveled locks. Another point of etiquette decrees that when rising to speak in debate the member must be "covered." Will she in a hurry grab the hat off the nearest victim so as to be in order? This hat problem becomes more and more complicated as matters proceed. When a member is referred to in a speech by another member—especially in the case of a compliment from a Minister (and the male members gloomily foresee that women will get the lion's share of these)—he acknowledges it by raising his hat. By the time the female member has finished wrestling with half a dozen hatpins the Minister will be through with his compliment and on to the next subject of debate.

These, and many other similar problems are vexing political etiquet. What is going to happen in Parliament if all the formalities and rules are to be swept away in a tempestuous whirl of petticoats? The honorable male members don't know—but the women declare that the time thus saved will be spent in making common-sense laws for the good of mankind.

HE'D GIVE HIS SKIN.

(By United Press.)

LONDON, Nov. 10.—(By Mail.) — An offer of self-sacrifice has been written by a London boy of 13 to one of the hospitals.

The boy began by saying that as we might have peace very soon, he would not be able to do any real fighting in this war. But, if the hospital got any more wounded soldiers who needed skin grafted over their wounds, or soldiers who had lost blood and wanted some more, he was quite willing to supply his own and would feel proud to think he had been able to do something in the war before it came to an end.

NERVOUS PROSTRATION

May be Overcome by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound — This Letter Proves It.

West Philadelphia, Pa.—"During the thirty years I have been married, I have been in bad health and had several attacks of nervous prostration until it seemed as if the organs in my whole body were worn out. I was finally persuaded to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and it made a well woman of me. I can now do all my housework and advise all ailing women to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I will guarantee they will derive great benefit from it."—Mrs. FRANK FITZGERALD, 23 N. 41st Street, West Philadelphia, Pa.

There are thousands of women everywhere in Mrs. Fitzgerald's condition, suffering from nervousness, backache, headaches, and other symptoms of functional derangement. It was a grateful spirit for health restored which led her to write this letter so that other women may benefit from her experience and find health as she has done.

Few Canadian Soldiers Will be Home by Christmas Says Minister of Militia

First Over First Back—Gen. Mewburn Says There Will be No Priority—Married Men Before Single Ones.

HAMILTON, Nov. 27. — Demobilization was the important subject dealt with by Major-General S. C. Mewburn, Minister of Militia and Defence, during an address at a victory luncheon, held by the Canadian Club of Hamilton.

Amid tremendous applause, the gathering unanimously endorsed the resolution of the Canadian Club of Montreal, which called upon Sir Robert Borden to demand on behalf of the men and women of Canada that William Hohenzollern, ex-Kaiser, be brought to the bar of justice, and also other Germans responsible for atrocities. President Benson Johnston announced that a telegram to that effect would be immediately sent to the Premier.

DEMOBILIZATION.

Major-Gen. Mewburn stated that those who expected the Canadians to be home in time to eat the Christmas pudding would be disappointed as it was an impossibility. Demobilization plans were already made and the first Canadians to come back would be married men and widowers, according to their length of service overseas, and then single men, according to their length of service overseas. There would be no priority, and the Minister of Militia declared that he could not conceive of any officer who would so degrade his uniform as to wish to come back ahead of his men.

Demobilization depended on two factors, he stated. The first was railway, and the second shipping. The department had at is disposal two winter ports, Halifax and St. John, and four in the summer, with Quebec and Montreal added.

IN 500 LOTS

The maximum number that could be handled was 800 per week, or 3,200 per month. The men would be brought back in lots of 500, and it was expected that it would only take one day to turn them into civilians.

Canada, the Minister of Militia declared, had been divided into twenty three demobilization areas. The troops would not come back in divisions as they had fought at the front owing to the fact that they had been split up overseas. They would be permitted to be demobilized in any part of the Dominion, which meant that the men received in British Columbia would be demobilized in Ontario. Already literature classifying all the industries, trades and callings in the Dominion had been sent overseas to the soldiers to act as a guide to re-establish them upon their return. Furthermore, they were also being supplied with pamphlets to enable them to immediately learn where their particular demobilization centre was located.

DEPENDENTS FIRST

One of the present problems of demobilization confronting the Government was the 40,000 women and children of Canadian soldiers in England. Major-General Mewburn stated that the Government wanted all the dependents to return to Canada before the troops started to come home, but that in any event they would not return on transports carrying troops. There were 2,000 widows of Canadian soldiers in England, a large number of whom had never seen the shores of Canada, and the Government would provide transportation for those who were destitute.

42,000 HOSPITAL CASES.

Steps were being taken by the Government to secure the release of Canadian prisoners in Germany, so that they could be brought back to England and sent to Canada with the unit they left with. Major-General Mewburn stated that there were also 32,000 wounded Canadians in England, and 10,000 in France, but they were all not severe cases, and their relatives could rest assured that while in English hospitals they could receive the most wonderful medical treatment.

Referring to the Military Service Act, Major-General Mewburn stated that while a good many of his former friends wanted to assassinate him, he did not think that he had broken faith with them. When the armistice was signed there were 7,000 Canadians on compassionate leave, and 16,000 helping the farmers. While he felt that he had handled the situation effectively, there was a large number of the farmers who likely would never agree with him.

He suggested that upon the return of the men from overseas, they should at once identify themselves with the militia units with which they had been connected before the war.

Restoration of the Court House Has Cost $45,000

Unforseen Extras and High Price of Materials Increased Expected Outlay for the Work.

$7,000 MORE NEEDED

The cost of rebuilding the Court House has approximated $45,000, as shown by the report of the special Construction Committee of the County Council presented this morning by Reeve M. Brown. The total sum provided for the work has been $38,200 of which $19,500 was insurance on that part of the old building that was destroyed by the fire of December 11th, 1916. Hence there is left about $7,000 which will have to be provided for.

The report explains the extras as follows,—"Abnormal prices, the collapse of the sheds and repairs necessary to the wings entailed beyond any calculation. There are some repairs to the Sheriff's office which will be attended to after this session.

The allocation of the offices is awaiting the decision of the Court. It is the second decision to be given as to our Crown Attorney and the County.

I would suggest that the Attorney-General be requested to have the Inspector of Legal Offices stand between the County and lawsuits for it matters not if we win them all, much time is lost.

The former gentlemen filled the offices of Crown Attorney namely the late Judge Weller, R. E. Wood K.C., and Joseph Wearing all in harmony and satisfaction in so far as office was concerned and although double provision is made for Mr. Hatton (not surpassed by three counties in the province) we are subject to be sprung unto by lawsuits the same as the African traveler is liable to be sprung upon by a lion.

The greater part of the work was carried on under the supervision of Mr. Anderson as chairman and much of the credit is due to him.

County Clerk E. Elliott Discusses Good Roads System

(By E. Elliott.)

County Provincial roads follow county roads and do not relieve the farmers of more roads, save where a shot may be made into the colonization road district where the government is relieved of that much road, at the expense of the farmers of the county at large.

Terms are what the ratepayers all should have a voice in, before the majority of them are unduly taxed where they do not benefit by it. The military sect of Germany as a result of power vested in them, above the powers vested in the people, taxed all Germany for 40 years with a view to dominating the whole world, and the results are being reaped by Germany to-day.

At a peace conference terms are submitted, and must be approved of by the board to be acted upon. The county road system, and its follower, the county provincial road system, are set out in terms by the government, and unless accepted by the counties, will not obtain, unless the government passes an Act compelling the same. The terms are as follows:

In the first place the government collects the auto fees, which means in the neighbourhood of twenty thousand dollars, from within the boundaries of the county, including the city, for 1918. Then a system must be designated by the Council, a by-law passed, a road superintendent appointed, all must be approved of by the government.

The government pays 40 p.c. of construction and 20 p.c. maintenance on county road system, and on a part of such county road system, if county provincial road system is adopted, the government pays 60 p.c. of construction and maintenance.

Considering the above, how much money would all of the farmers of the county have to raise on the percentage basis laid down, to earn back the twenty thousand raised as a result of auto traffic, to improve the roads, and then the systems only cover one-fifth of the roads of the county, or a direct benefit to only one-fifth of the farmers of the county.

You can figure for yourself without any municipal adviser or politician. You can also weigh the value of "promises" of a minister to a politician for his riding, as you have had plenty of "promises" in your experience as farmers, and the special protection provided for you. Be sure of the terms and also make sure you have a voice in such terms.

Again, I say, note the deputations from the Eastern Good Roads Association that waited on the government a short time ago, requesting the government to take over the roads running through Ottawa, and maintain them by the province, the same roads now being county roads.

Quebec has set aside ten million dollars to be expended on the main highways, without any percentage asked from the farmers, and we trust Ontario, whose resources are greater, will not be behind in this matter.

If "promises" of the Minister mean anything, the Automobile Association that is pressing the government for better main roads would be pleased if Mr. Thompson would secure the auto fees for the counties, less cost of collection; secure beyond doubt a through provincial maintained road from Toronto to Ottawa, coming by way of the Port Hope road to the city, thence east through the county out by way of Norwood, Havelock and Blairton. Also a county road system with the auto fees available for such, and the county paying 60 p.c. of construction and maintenance of such county system, then we will have main roads that are desired.

For twenty years the County Council of the County have refused to adopt the system from the fact that the "terms" did not appear to be fair to all of the farmers, and to-day the democracy of this country demands that such action should have the voice of the ratepayers. If, as the promoters claim, the system is correct, why then railroad it through county councils over the heads of the ratepayers?

References, as editorials, with a strong individualizing taint, does not change the aspect of the scheme, but rather uncovers the centralization objective. I have yet to meet the ratepayer who says the auto fees belong to the government, or do you find any reference in the newspapers to such as being correct, but on the other hand practically all say the fees should be expended on the main roads, where autos travel, without exacting from all of the farmers 80 cents to get 20 cents of the auto fees for one-fifth of the roads of the county. Why not expend all of the auto fees, less cost of collection, on the same one-fifth of the roads of the county? Then the farmers would not object to having all of their fees expended with the fees of the ratepayers who own autos, from the city, on the same main roads, although only a percentage of the farmers use them, when practically all of the city autoing is done on those main roads?

Do not be carried away with the promises of culvert assistance. Where county provincial roads are in operation, any culvert, to get the assistance from the government, must be 24 feet wide and all the assistance is gone in extra unnecessary width.

The County Council, with all other ratepayers, are anxious for good roads, and it is up to Mr. Thompson and all members of the Provincial government to speed up and pay over the auto fees to where they belong, and make a substantial appropriation, as Quebec has done. Then, a county system, with the percentage basis, will be of some use to further the scheme.

Take a vote of the ratepayers, then the Council will be justified in taking the initiative. This railroading through County Councils is not, to say the least, democratic.

Mr. Thompson is at sea to know how to earn $14,000 of auto license money the county would have to raise $56,000. Mr. McClean, the Provincial Highway Engineer, says that in 1916 the government collected from Peterborough $14,000. Then under a County Road System the government pays 20 per cent of maintenance, and the county 80 per cent. of maintenance. I hope Mr. Thompson is enough mathmetician to see the following:

One per cent equals fourteen thousand over twenty. Eighty per cent. equals fourteen thousand over twenty, and multiplied by eighty equals fifty-six thousand dollars.

Northumberland and Durham raised $35,000 this year; the government pays $7,000, the same percentage.

THE NEW WATCH ON THE RHINE

(By Charles B. Driscoll.)

(Written for the United Press.)

There sounds a voice, like trumpet call,
Above the noise of thrones that fall,
"The Rhine, the Rhine, the noble Rhine!
Who guards to-day that silver line?"

Chorus:

Humanity, no danger thine,
Humanity, no danger thine;
The Yanks now keep the watch, the watch on Rhine!
The Yanks now keep the watch, the watch on Rhine!

The tryanny that used to dwell
Beside the Rhine has gone to hell;
Now Yankee hands, so firm and true,
Plant there the old Red, White and Blue.

The Yankee soldier, head held high,
Swears here an oath that will not die;
While flow thy waters to the sea
Thy banks of tyrants shall be free!

There flows no more brave Belgian blood
To stain with shame thy rushing flood;
Along the Rhine the world now sees
The Starry Flag flung to the breeze.

Bright emblem of a world redeemed,
Emblem of dreams our fathers dreamed,
Thy stars of hope in triumph shine
Along the Rhine, the noble Rhine!

General von Besseler, known as "Battering Ram," and other German officers were granted safe conduits to leave Poland for Berlin.

MILK

Both Food and Drink

Milk is not merely a delicious beverage. It's a food.

Nature combines in milk all the food elements your body needs. Some produce bone and muscle. Some rebuild it. And some create energy. And they are carefully balanced. So that you get the right proportions.

Professor Rosenau of Harvard says you would have to buy and prepare ¾ pound of beef, or 8 eggs, or 2 pounds of chicken or codfish, to get the nourishment contained in a single quart of milk.

Milk is a concentrated food, you see.

EAT LESS—DRINK MORE MILK

Fresh milk is the ideal food for men and women who work with muscle or with brain—people who are doers. Milk drinkers are always temperate.

Milk drinkers seldom over-eat. They keep their bodies in fine physical trim. Their efficiency is 100 per cent. every day. They are ready for emergencies.

Then heed the advice of great food specialists. Dr. J. H. Kellogg says: "Most people will find that they can reduce their daily rations by one-third, sometimes one-half, without any inconvenience whatever."

FOR YOUNG AND OLD ALIKE

For the growing child, for the young man and woman, and for the mature years, milk is a needed food.

Drink it slowly—eat it. That insures complete digestion. Consider milk in the place of the heavier, slowly digestible foods. Begin to-day to drink more milk. Teach every member of the family to know its value.

Vim depends on Victuals. PASTEURIZED MILK is the only Safe and Pure Milk. Clarified first, then Pasteurized. Clean, every drop, from the

Peterboro Soldier Describes Damage Wrought by Huns

Big Shell Blew Four Horses to Pieces Five Yards From Where Saddler Orville Hooper Was Sleeping.

Saddler Orville Hooper of the 52nd Battery, writes the following interesting letter to his father, Mr. Walter J. Hooper, 504 Rubidge street. He tells of the devastation wrought by Huns in France.

France,
October 27

Dear Dad,—Just a line to thank you for your letter and money of last month which was very welcome and also to let you know I am well and having a whale of a time living with the French people whom we liberated. This is the first Sunday in four years in which they have been under their own flag. You talk of people living happy but you should have seen them here when we came. People in Canada could not use us any better The lady with whom we are staying was not as bad off as some of the people of France but she had her hardships too. She has one daughter and two sons and I think the father is expected home any day now, from Paris. I guess he got away before the Germans got him. It will be the first time they have seen him since 1914. They do not get very much to eat but what they have they want to give the soldiers but nothing doing. When we first started to reach the cities the people had plenty of American cocoa and condensed milk from the relief fund and I never got away with so much to drink in my life and they will not take any money for it.

HUNS TOOK LIVE STOCK

Fritz took all the live stock with him from here. All they have left is a few rabbits which they hid in the cellars with themselves. We have a nice room in a swell brick house. I suppose it has been their parlour in peace times. It is certainly fine and Madame is always scrubbing the floor. Lately it has been raining and not very nice but madame says it is all right for the English but not when the Germans were here. She told them to stay away. Every morning when we get out of bed, she has coffee for us and then again after breakfast there is nothing too good for us Here every night we have had dancing but here is something that you may not believe but while we were on the run one night we had a dance 200 yards in front of the guns and while we were enjoying ourselves the word came for action so we all came from the dance to the guns. How would you like a battery of guns out on your lawn and firing. I would not have missed this last trip for the world. We are having a band concert this afternoon. I suppose it is for the French people.

FLOWERS ON TABLE

The madame has just come in and fixed our fire and put a swell bunch of flowers on our table. The first night I was here the Hun put a shell five yards from where I was sleeping and blew four horses to pieces but close ones do not count over here. The great trouble is that we cannot get smokes or writing paper. We go too fast for the Y.M.C.A. to keep up. The place we are near has a fishy name? I think if we keep going we will be in Berlin by Christmas.

Best regards to all,
As ever,
ORVILLE.

Spinach needs to be washed very thoroughly if all the grit is to be removed. Put it through three waters at least and strip off all old leaves.

WARDEN ANDERSON'S ADDRESS TO THE COUNTY COUNCIL

In his address to the County Council at the opening of the November session yesterday afternoon, Warden Anderson gave first place to the victorious conclusion of the war. The armistice which the Germans had accepted was to all intents and purposes an admission of defeat which had been conclusively accomplished by the surrender of the enemy's fleet a few days ago off the east coast of Scotland. While the happy termination of the war had been celebrated by great rejoicing, Warden Anderson said that it would renew the sorrow of those who had lost their sons and husbands in the conflict.

"We offer out sincere sympathy to the families of those boys who won't come back. This county will show a large percentage who will not return. Otonabee for example has one and one - half of her population in the list, and the township had been steadily depleted during the last eight or ten years."

The Warden mentioned the fact that many of those who had gone could not readily have left their work and farms. "However, we are glad the trying part is ended," he continued. "Canada has gained a place in the Empire greatly different than she formerly held. The bravery of our soldiers has put us in the eyes of Europe in a place we could not have reached had it not been for our share in the war. Our products will be needed and we should be practically as busy as in the days of the war."

Appeals for Aid.

"During this session representatives of the Y.M.C.A., the Knights of Columbus and the Salvation Army are asking for assistance for their work with the men overseas. We can readily see that it will be more difficult to determine your duty than if the war was still going on. There is another fund that is appealing to us, the Navy League. You will not find it difficult to determine your duty in this case. Had it not been for the wonderful work of the British sailors and seamen the end would not have been as favourable as it is. The outstanding feature has been the part played by the British navy and the seamen. Canada's prosperity could not have been maintained had it not been for them.

Question of Good Roads.

Warden Anderson then touched upon the good roads question which will doubtless be thoroughly discussed before the Saturday adjournment. With the war successfully ended and the Court House restored, nothing stood in the way of the Council, the Warden said, to take up this subject. It was the duty of the Council, he believed, to see that the people were properly informed of the merits of the Good Roads system before the Council made a decision.

"We should know what they want us to do. It is not our business to hold back a project if the people want it, nor should eight or ten men decide that the county should have it."

Court House Completed.

"The Court House has been completed and will compare favourably with the best in the province. The business has carried on smoothly this year, and we thank you for your assistance. All the committee have attended promptly to the business that was referred to them."

MUST KEEP GERMAN NAMES

JUSTICE BENEDICT WILL NOT SANCTION CHANGES IN HIS COURT

Supreme Court Justice Benedict in Brooklyn has refused the petition of Dr. Isadore Charles Weinzweig, of 14 Lewis place, Brooklyn, to change his name to Irving Warner. The physician recited in his petition that his German name was a detriment and embarrassment is his business.

"It is true," said Justice Benedict "that persons may adopt such names as may suit their fancy. But when they apply for leave to change their names under the sanction of the court, I for one, will not grant such leave, where the effect of doing so is to enable persons of Germanic extraction to conceal their origin and practice deception on persons who deal with them in ignorance of such origin.

"Neither will I permit the adoption of the name of American families of foreigners. Such subterfuges cannot, or at least, ought not be tolerated. While it is undoubtedly disagreeable in these days to bear names which suggest our enemy, loyal citizens of foreign birth can exert themselves by act and deed to exhibit their loyalty, rather than by assuming names to which they have no proper claim or just grounds for adoption.

Abraham Lincoln's Wedding Trip a November Event

Honeymoon Short Because Their Funds Were at a Low Point—Groom Was Said to be Despised Because of His Poverty.

STORMY NOVEMBER EVENT

It was on a blustering November day just seventy-six years ago that Abraham Lincoln married Mary Todd of his own home town of Springfield and started off on a honeymoon of a whole week. They did not go far—time and money were both scarce—merely along the main street and down Jackson avenue to the "Springfield Arms." They might not have gone this far, the Todd home being quite roomy and well furnished, only for the fact that Mary's people despised the groom for his poverty.

The Springfield Arms was an expensive place (in those times), charging four dollars and fifty cents per week for the two of them, but it was peace at any price with Lincoln that day.

Mary Todd was no belle, and as for cleverness, well, we are so used to thinking of the groom as "Old Abe" the grand orator, statesman, splendid example and all the rest of it, we forget that youth and love, yes, and "the jealously of love," had him and held him just as they do others. He wasn't concerned about her cleverness. Perhaps it had occurred to him that he had enough for both, who knows? She was a dear, rosy-cheeked, plump domestic girl not a bit out of the common. But her parents, bless you, saw in her a combination of all the virtues, and naturally (it must be naturally or parents would not always take this attitude) resented the winning of her by a long, gangling young fellow-myland with hands rough from rail-splitting, his homely face worn already from over-study trying to be somebody. We wish we could say that Mary's mother stood by him—one likes to believe in the intuition of the sex—but no, if she felt one thrill over her commonplace Mary capturing that wonderful Abe she forgot to put it on record. Of course nobody dreamed that the almost penniless young attorney would ever become President of the United States, not even Mary.

LINCOLN TOO EARNEST

In truth Lincoln was not a satisfactory lover, perhaps because of his earnestness. Mary was not his first sweetheart or his second. Not that he was a Lothario at all—the very opposite. At twenty-one he was engaged to a Miss Owens, of whom his chroniclers say only that finding a more congenial life partner she asked Lincoln to realese her. This he did willingly, having arrived at the conclusion that they were not "made for one another."

And when he clerked in a country store he fell deeply in love with young Ann Rutledge. It was a pity on his part, at first. Ann had been jilted (mit end was the word in the little country place) by a farmer, and so well did Lincoln comfort her that she transferred her affections to him. Poor Ann died in the flower of her youth, and some writers assert that he mourned her to the day of his death. At the time the dear human fellow declared he would never marry; no woman would or could fill Ann's place. But, you know how these things go—every little churchyard has its "Forever" forgotten by the one who set it here. A year or so later he was doing his best to "cut out" a wealthy merchant and secure Mary Todd to wife. In excuse (of course, he had an excuse, for, mind you, this is not the Gettysburg hero, orator, or the idol of the people, but a headstrong young fellow, head over heels in love, who afterward achieved a name to move men with. I like this lover first-rate. I think I like the President better for this glimpse of his youth and foolishness)—his excuse, I say, was old as the hills; Mary came from the same Kentucky town as he did.

The course of true love, etc., Mary on the day when their engagement was announced, accused Lincoln of carrying "a countenance so sorrowful it led people to think he had regrets. In vain he assurred her that the happier he felt the more rueful his expression invariably became, and the quarrel ended in a broken engagement. So acute was his grief at the thought of losing her that his friends feared for his reason.

"I am now the most miserable man living," he wrote. "If what I feel were equally distributed to the whole human family there would not be a happy face on earth. I cannot stand this pain. I must get better or die."

What was her answer? We do not know for sure, as it does not appear among the records, but likely she told him the truth that it was all her fault, she was too mean to live, but had earned for herself that

"To be wroth with one we love Doth work like madness on the brain," and so on and so forth. Anyway, when November came that year of grace, 1842, Abraham Lincoln and Mary Todd married and took their famous honeymoon trip to the Springfield Arms.

REEVE McINTOSH'S REPORT ON COUNTY ROADS AND BRIDGES

The report of the Roads and Bridges Committee read by Reeve McIntosh at the County Council meeting this morning was, in part, as follows:—"I beg to call your attention to Robson's and Dunlop's bridges newly built this season. Tenders aggregated $4,500 for the bridges proper without steel reinforcing and approaches, and when all the claims are in I do not anticipate the complete bridges and approaches will exceed that amount. I think it is incumbent upon me to say that the work carried on by Messrs. Finnie and Gordon has been most satisfactory.

Apsley bridge was visited and instructions given to Mr. Lean, which I expect were carried out.

With the expressed opinion of my predecessors when reporting on Pidgeon Creek bridge, I quite agree as to the importance of this bridge, and of the necessity of the Counties urging upon the governments their responsibility in the matter as the result of the whole length of bridge necessitated less a few feet by dam building for public navigation.

As a result of meeting the South Monaghan Council with reference to its amalgamation with Peterborough a public meeting of their ratepayers is to be called to consider the matter.

I have heard nothing since the last session about the Wallace Point bridge, but the matter is in Mr. Maybee's hands, who no doubt is looking after it. Other local bridges in Monaghan are as they were save temporary repairs. I will leave the reeves to report on their respective bridges.

AIRMEN KNOW CLOUDS

(By United Press.)

LONDON, Nov. 9. (By Mail.)—Clouds play an important part in modern aerial tactics and an intimate knowledge of their peculiarities is one of the items gathered by airman during their war experience.

Clouds are classified according to their form and general nature, and any particular type is always found at the same height. Heavy black thunder-clouds or Nimbus, with rain streaming from their ragged edges, are rarely found higher than 4,500 feet, whereas a 'Mackerel' sky or cirrostrutus, is usually something like 5 miles above sea level.

At this immense height clouds are composed of minute particles of ice, below that height, of fine particles of water. These particles are in a constant state of motion, which accounts for the strong currents and whirl winds an airman experiences when he penetrates into a large cloud. His machine is then tossed about like an ark in a mountain torrent.

Clouds are, of course an excellent weather guide, and the airman soon learns to interpret their meaning with the confidence of an old master mariner. For instance a mackerel sky is a sign of rain or snow, small puffy cumuli means fine weather, massed of heavy ragged-edged nimbus, rain for certain.

THE REINDEER.

An Arctic Animal That Has Proved Its Value.

In speaking of the Eskimo dog, Jean Henri Fabre, in "Our Humble Helpers," thus refers to the reindeer: There is but one species of this sort that can live in these desolate regions, and that is the reindeer, which is about as large as the stag, but more robust and thickset. Its horns, or antlers, are divided each into two branches, the shorter one pointing forward, the other (the longer) pointing backward, and both ending in enlargements that spread out somewhat like the palm and fingers of an open hand. It is content with a kind of food that none of our animals would touch. It is a lichen, white in color and divided into a multitude of branches, close together and presenting the appearance of a little bush a few inches high. It grows on the ground, which it entirely covers for immense stretches. During the winter the reindeer scratch the snow with their fore hoofs and uncover the coarse plant, softened by moisture; and this plant they browse. Thus it is that interminable fields of snow supply sufficient pasturage for these animals. This lichen, last vegetable resource of the extreme north, is called reindeer moss, and is found everywhere, in the most arid lands, between the poles and the equator. Among the underbrush of our most barren hills, you will find it in abundance, fresh and supple in winter, dried up and crackling under the feet in summer.

In Lapland, the reindeer is a domestic animal. There it fills the place of our cattle and serves at one and the same time as cow, sheep and horse. The Laplander lives on reindeer milk and its products. When the ground is covered with snow, he harnesses the reindeer to his sled and travels as many as thirty leagues a day, his swift equipage with its broad runners gliding over the snow and hardly leaving a trace behind. The reindeer is not rare in Greenland, but there it lives in the wild state, for the Eskimo, much less civilized than the Laplander, has not yet learned how to win it to his uses and accustom it to domestic life. It runs at large.

To His Superior Officer.

There can be no question who will command in the household of Capt. J. L. Morrison, formerly professor of history at Queen's University and now with the 52nd Divisional Headquarters, Imperial Army. He has just been married, his bride holding colonel's rank and having twice been decorated.

Canada Not Thriftless.

Canada has not been a thriftless country in comparison with others. The savings banks of this country have been extensively patronized, to a degree indeed that has aroused admiration in the United States. On the other hand, we have not been thrifty in the French standard.

Allowed to Unbend.

Sergeant (in a shred rainbow)—'ass, ma'am, we fought has' to has' oh foh days and foh nights.

Interested Old Lady—I don't see how you stood the tension.

Sergeant—Wall, you see, ma'am, we on' stan' at 'tention when we's fightin'.

CAUGHT WITH STOLEN CAR.

BELLEVILLE, Nov. 25.— Edward Cronk, Leo Carnham and Hunter Servish, three young men of this city, were yesterday placed under arrest near the village of Tweed on a charge of stealing an auto, the property of the Greenleaf Limited, of this city. The car was stolen Friday night, and the trio were in possession of it when arrested. They were, by Magistrate Masson, remanded to jail for a week.

KING GEORGE AND PARTY LEFT FOR PARIS TO-DAY

Special to The Examiner:

LONDON, Nov. 27.— King George, the Prince of Wales and Prince Albert, with their suite, left for Paris this morning. They will make a brief visit to General Headquarters en route.

"Advertise NOW, and never let up."

WITT K. COCHRANE, the well-known Advertisement Agent, thus cleverly "sizes up" the advertising situation:—

"It is inconceivable that any merchant or manufacturer should cease—or even curtail—his advertising just when the country is on the threshold of a tremendous double harvest—the NATURAL harvest of our own unprecedented crops and the LOGICAL harvest consequent on the war in Europe.

"It is under such conditions as these that advertising reaches the zenith of its power. The man who listens to the yellow pessimist and sits back to 'wait for things to settle down,' is yielding his common sense and enterprise to the baleful influence of idle sentiment, and actually starving the goose that lays the golden egg.

"Keep the columns of the daily newspapers bristling with your announcements and thus open wide your doors for the flood of prosperity that is bound to rush in. Make hay while the sun shines. We won't have another chance like this in a hundred years."

"I have noticed with a feeling of profound disgust the conservatism and business cowardice that have set in in America since the Kaiser threw down the guage of battle. We, the very people who will logically profit by the war abroad—and profit immeasurably—are acting as though we were at war ourselves. We are talking blue things, pinching the pennies cutting down our advertising and forcing prosperity to stand back.

"As a matter of fact this is the very hour when we should rush into print to a greater extent than ever before, because, unless the earth opens and swallows us up, there will be greater prosperity in America this fall than ever in the history of the Republic.

"We are not at war. We are not likely to be. The warring world looks to us for its supplies and we can't keep posperity down no matter how hard we try.

"If my advice is worth anything to you business men, it is here conveyed to you in six words:

"ADVERTISE NOW, AND NEVER LET UP."

"Advertise NOW, and never let up" in "The Examiner."

BROCK STREET RINK TO BE OPERATED THIS SEASON

Hockey and Skating Will be Given Every Consideration.

Whether the Brock street rink will fall into the hands of new owners, or for this season remain under the present management, it will be operated as a hockey and skating rink, and put into shape just as soon as possible, in order that the young men and the citizens generally may have the advantages it offers in the shape of good, clean, healthy sport.

A City League, several Junior O. H. A. teams, and an intermediate team, are talked of. There are several known hockey players residing in the city who have been here for some time, and no doubt there are others in the city who have not been discovered.

Hockey meetings should be held right away, as the O. H. A. annual meeting is to be held on the 7th of December, and entries should be made by that time.

SPORTING COMMENT

Harry Sparrow secretary of the Yankees will st rt in to-day to take stock of his ball-players. He will get into communication with as many of them as possible, so that they can be reached when the proper time comes, the proper time being after the leagues have held their annual meetings and have a clearer idea of where they stand for next season. It will be hard to establish communication with all of the Yankees. Shawkey is in the navy somewhere. McGraw is in France and Sam Vick, who is in the army, is supposed to be in either California or Siberia. The last heard of Howard Camp he was at Camp Upton.

Al Baird, utility infielder of the Giants writes that he will be in line next season, unless navy, in which he enlisted, is still keeping him. Benny Kauff thinks he will be mustered out in thirty days, and if he is he will head straight for New York, which little old and all that sort of thing habitation is good enough for him.

SUGAR KINGS TIE WITH THE "A" CLASS LEADERS

Last night at the Water street alleys the Grocers and High Rollers met in 'A' Class 5-Pin League game, and after a very exciting contest, in which several high scores were made, the Grocers took two games out of three from the Rollers. Ross for the Grocers was high man with 615, while J. Gillespie had high single with 248. Scheffel, for the Rollers, was high with 580, while Barrette had 536. The scores:

To-night the Rex. vs. West Lawn Bowlers.

Ernest Quigley, National League umpire in summer and St. Louis University football coach in fall, has a scheme of his own to make men expert in eluding tacklers. He has them practice running astride a telegraph pole lying on the ground. The idea is to have them run with feet apart so both legs can't be tripped at once. A better scheme would be to [illegible] run the natural [illegible] fast tacklers couldn't get hold of either leg.

Peace came and knocked out the arrangements to make a cold storage plant of the Polo Ground.

Ruth led in home runs with eleven, and in times struck out with forty-eight. He either hits the ball on the nose or hits it where it ain't.

Czar Johnston he is called. If so he is the only one left.

BOWLING NEWS

Y.M.C.A. BOWLING LEAGUE

The Invincibles and Rosebuds who were tied for leadership for the Bowling League met last night in a League fixture in which the Rosebuds won all three games by a fair margin.

Several of the members of each team had the pleasure of joining the Quince Club which is accounted for by their low scores of less than 100 pins for a game.

Following are the scores which will show that both teams were off color and did not roll their usual steady game.

New Travelling Regulations

Persons Embarking at U. S. Seaports Must Procure Permission Before Leaving Canada.

UNDER an order issued by the Secretary of State, Washington, effective November 11th, 1918, all persons going from Canada to foreign destinations by way of United States seaports must procure permission for embarkation before leaving Canada.

Such permission must be arranged for either by executing declaration and procuring vise on passport before one of the American Consuls in Canada, or by making formal application before any of the United States immigration officers located in Canada upon forms furnished by the said officers.

In order to allow sufficient time for investigation, transmission of papers to Washington, etc., applications should be filed either with the Consul or the Immigration Officer at least 17 days prior to the date of proposed departure.

The State Department invites special attention of prospective travellers to the fact that unless they have obtained vise by an American Consul, the said Department must decide whether or not departure from an American port will be allowed, such decision being based upon the application submitted through the immigration officers. Passengers are accordingly warned not to proceed to the port of embarkation until they are in possession of either the Consular vise, or proper certificate from the U. S. Immigration authorities showing that permit for departure has been granted.

The foregoing applies to all persons not citizens of the United States, and it is effective regarding all destinations, including Mexico, U. S. Insular possessions, etc., but not including Bermuda.

United States citizens seeking to proceed to foreign points are required to have passports issued by the State Department, applications for same being obtainable from the various American Consuls.

Tunics have sometimes the effect of rather large pockets.

FROM SAHARA TO SIBERIA.

Varied Experiences of Canadian Medical Man In Great War.

Not many months ago in the heat and sand of the Sahara desert, and now about to take up his work in Siberia. Such are two extremes the great war has brought to Capt. H. Lewis, of Melita, Man.

The town of Hearts' Content, Newfoundland, was his birthplace thirty-three years ago, but he did not remain in there, and was a graduate M. D. of Manitoba College, and had taken post-graduate work in London and Edinburgh some years before the war began. Then came the call, and early in 1914 Capt. Lewis enlisted, and became medical officer on a troopship crossing the Atlantic.

There was need of medical men at the Dardanelles, and thither the Newfoundland man was sent, remaining until the evacuation of this position. Down into Egypt into the Sahara desert the troops were called, and Capt. Lewis went with them, and afterward to Saloniki, where he was in the front lines as a member of the Royal Engineers. On his way home the ship was torpedoed, and for ten hours he floated on a raft in the Mediterranean until picked up.

He reached England in January, 1917, and for the following twelve months was stationed at the Duchess of Connaught Hospital, Cliveden. At the beginning of 1918 he was made embarkation officer of hospital ships returning to Canada. And now this fine Canadian, who has had such varied experiences, has been given a place with the special Canadian mission to Siberia. And with him will go his brother, Staff Sergt. Llewellyn Lewis, who will probably be stationed at the base in Vladivostok.

The equipment the young men will take with them makes an interesting list. Among them gauntlet gloves, with all the fingers but the index one missing; sheepskin-lined sleeping bag, chamois vest, knitted vest, two pairs knee-length stockings and two pairs heavy socks for wear on the outside of the boots. The entire list was made out by the Arctic explorer, Sir Ernest Shackleton.

Capt. Lewis is the son of the late Rev. H. Lewis. His wife and their three-year-old boy, "Sonny," were among the passengers on the hospital ship Carissa, which a few weeks ago so narrowly escaped destruction when a convoy ship was torpedoed close beside her.

The Wrong Kind of "Trap."

In promoting the sale of hand traps for throwing clay targets some interesting correspondence is received, especially by the distributing jobbers. Here are two letters received by a Manitoba jobber from one of his customers, and printed in the Du Pont Magazine:

"Send me the Hand trap, Best Hand trap in the world, Throws Clay Birds up to 45 yards in any direction, Price $4.50. Send me by mail as quick as you can as you please, send so quick, send me as quick as you can as your possible as you please. Send by mail and send me a good kind Hand trap.—H. P. H."

"Just a few lines to tell you that I am sending hand trap back by express. Please send me these other thing which I ordered from your catalogue. Please send by express to Rosthern. Send me for the sum of $3.25, hand trap price $4.50, and I paid for express 75c, total $5.25. Please send me these things which I order. And hand trap I am sending back by express from Rosthern. Reason why I send back hand trap I could not catch nothing with that hand trap, it is no good. Send me those things which I order from your catalogue. Please send me by express to Rosthern. Do not send me hand trap. Send me these other things which I order soon as possible as you can as you please. Send by express to Rosthern or money back.—H.P.H., Esq."

Pere Marquette.

An interesting point is raised with regard to the explorer in Canada's early days. Pere Marquette, by the publication of a picture of the destroyed French village of Beaurieux. As a sample of German ruthlessness, it is doubtless an excellent record of what the enemy has effected in the Aisne district, but as a picture of the birthplace of Marquette it becomes open to question. In the brief biographies of Pere Marquette, given in encyclopaedias, and also in the pages of an authority like Larousse, Laon is consistently given as his birthplace. There is no reference to Beaurieux as being linked to Canada through the Marquettes. The point, of course, is not a vital one; it is much more important that the last remaining descendant of this famous family, according to the Ottawa Citizen, is actively helping the cause of the Allies.

Sugar Beets In Alaska.

Gold mining during the war has become such an expensive operation, in Alaska, that many of the people there have turned to the cultivation of the sugar beet. If they succeed in producing sugar now, as they view the matter, they will not need to go back to digging for gold after the war. Some of them must have been down east lately and seen sugar measured out in the restaurants as gold dust is measured out at the mint.

Publicity or Bankruptcy?

Bradstreets statement that 84 per cent of all failures are among non-advertisers is significant.

Intelligent advertising has become absolutely essential to every modern industry—

But what shall the advertiser do in the face of war conditions, when he finds it difficult to get goods to fill his orders?

First of all, remember that the fundamental purpose of advertising is to fix indelibly the trade mark or the trade name in the public mind.

A let-up in that campaign must be fatal to any product.

The American Rolling Mill Company declares its purpose to continue its advertising, although for two and a half years it has been unable to supply the demand for its product.

"We are building," they say, "a permanent business edifice, and some day we would have to spend millions of dollars buying back the business and goodwill of our clients if they are forsaken in this emergency."

Unless advertising is kept up without break the advertiser loses the results of all previous effort.

Here is a warning to the advertizer who neglects the dull season in summer—

When advertisements are fewest is the very time when a message to the public may get the most attention, providing, of course, that the character of the advertising deserves it.

We have the stock, personally selected, and content ourselves with the swank (without the extra profit), giving our customers the benefit of smart style and long-wear service. "Y" REPRESENTATIVE SAYS OVERSEAS WORK MUST BE CONTINUED

"I have heard it stated that no place in Canada has suffered in the number of its men killed and died of wounds than has Peterborough," said Mr. A. S. Hopper of Toronto, a representative of the Y.M.C.A., in an address to the County Council yesterday regarding the payment of the contribution which, he said, the Council had made to the Association's Overseas fund at the June session. The Council, he said, had made a grant of one mill on the dollar. "There is an opinion," he continued, "that because the war ended there will be no further need for funds. This is a most erroneous idea. A great number of the men may not be back for two years yet, and the cessation of the war creates a new problem of taking care of the soldiers under the relaxation of peace."

Mr. Hopper told of the success of what might be termed the camp colleges for the men who are anxious to continue their studies and also for those who recognize this opportunity of fitting themselves for a position on their return to Canada. The work had been vastly extended, and the professors in charge of the subjects that are taught have reported that the soldiers are exceptionally keen to learn and are most earnest in their studies. Many of them, in examination, have secured one hundred per cent.

Navy League Asks $9,000.

A communication from the Navy League petitioned the Council for a grant of $9,000 to help the dependents of the sailors and seamen who have been killed in war.

Keen Interest Felt

(Canadian Press Despatch)

COPENHAGEN, Nov. 27.—Keenest interest is felt throughout the German Empire in the result of the conference of representatives of the Federal States at Berlin. The questions of summoning the national assembly and insuring unity of the Empire are being discussed everywhere. It is generally expected that a decision will be reached to call national assembly at the earliest possible moment, otherwise Bavaria, Wurtemburg and Baden are reported to be considering the formation of separate republic. Hesse, Hanover and German Austria are also credited with demanding a meeting of the national assembly. It is stated that the feeling at Bremen and Kiel is against the Spartacus party. At Bremen the soldiers and workmen's council voted 61 to 20 in favour of the national assembly. The sailors council at Kiel has denounced the action of the spartacus adherents. Philip Schiedemann, writing for Vorwaerts ascribes the change in the situation to Dr. Karl Liebknecht's attempted coup de'etat.

IN MEMORIAM

To Mrs. Emile Lange, (nee Sarah Smith of Dummer).

Sad was my heart, and tears fell fast, the day
I learned that my loved friend had passed away
By dire disease, before the steps of time
Called sudden hence, in life's meridian prime.

Leaving behind a husband all forlorn,
And a sweet babe, a mother's lose to mourn,
The light of love that erst so purely shone
Around a happy hearth, is now withdrawn.

Yet wherefore weep, as if our faith were vain,
Our bitter loss, is her eternal gain,
For in blest mansions of our Father's Home
She lives for aye, where Death can never come.

Fain would pay a last fond tribute due,
To one, who from life's earliest dawn I knew,
And ever cherished more from year to year,
A friend so trusty, steadfast and sincere.

A saintly soul, above reproach, or guile,
The world was brigher, for her kindly smile,
Well worthy of the name of friend, I ween
That such in sooth are few and far between.

And tho she sleeps not, mid her kindred dead,
In dear old Dummer's peaceful churchyard bed;
As deep and sweet and calm will be her rest
Beneath the blue skies of the distant West.

If we forget our friend, so leal and true,
Because awhile she's passed beyond our view
Then may it be in that bright world of bliss,
She thinks no more of those she loved in this.
Nay tell me not she can forgetful be,
For love is changeless through eternity,
And at the gate that ever open stands,
She waits to welcome us with outstretched hands.

MRS. A. F. CALDER.

One Million Austrian Deserters Camped in Southeastern Europe

Militarism is as Dead as a Gravestone—Bolshevism is a Fearful Menace that Has Come to Take its Place.

PARIS, Nov. 28. — A detailed account of conditions of South-eastern Europe, where the presence of a million Austrian army deserters who have established themselves in fortified camps in various districts, as well as hordes of reelased prisoners, has created a dangerous situation, is given in the report recently prepared for Colonel C. M. House by William J. Ross, an agent of the Slovene Government, now in Laibach, the new capital of Slovakia, and of the Polish Provincial Government in Austrian Silesia.

He suggests various measures to avert Bolshevism, which he affirms is the danger threatened by the conditions he describes.

"On Nov. 5," says Mr. Rose, in his memorandum, "seeing how anxious the intelligent men in Sielsia were as to the failure of their country, and hearing rumours of the presence of an entente deputation in Vienna, I volunteered to make a journey (from his home near Cieszanow, Austrian Silesia), to Vienna equipped with some sort of diplomatic papers and to present a request that a mission be sent without delay into Silesia, and that as soon as possible on to Laibach, where it was hoped some organization of the retreating Polish divisions from the Italian front might be achieved. By conversation with all sorts and conditions of men en route who had been eye witnesses of what was happening in all corners of the land, that belonged to Austria-Hungary, I learned of the fearful perils that were hanging over the whole Central Europe, which might be summed up in the word Bolshevism.

"When I say that the enemy is Bolshevism I use the term loosely to describe what is the perfection of anarachy and the negation of law and order. Militarism is as dead as a gravestone as long as the men live who have fought for the Hapsburg th his war to tell their grandchildren what they suffered. This is no show of danger that it will rise again but a fearful menace has come in its place that has become a matter of life and death."

GRAIN MARKET

After a sharp setback in the corn futures the markets picked up again before the close, but closed 5-8c. below Tuesday's close. WOMEN'S RIGHT TO SIT IN PARLIAMENT

Question Will be Raised at Coming Session in Ottawa.

OTTAWA, Nov. 23. —The question will be raised this coming session as to the right of women, now that they have the franchise, to sit in parliament. It is understood that a number of ardent upholders of the women's suffrage propose to press the issue. The matter has not been considered by the government, but individual ministers express themselves as favourable, and it would nto be surprising if the cabinet introduced a bill as a government measure. They have the precedent of the British Parliament, which recently extended the right to the women. In addition Lady Rhondda, wife of the late Food Controller, has announced her intention to make an issue as to her right to take her husband's seat in the House of Lords. If members are allowed to sit in the House, why not in the Senate? ask Ottawa politicians. They are already discussing the effect on that venerable body of having female senators.

Brougham's Opinion.

The British Parliament has travelled a long way since Lord Brougham, speaking less than a century ago on the then revolutionary proposal that a Ladies' Gallery should be provided in the House, declared that the ladies would not be surprising if the cabany other way than in attending Parliamentary debates.

There are several women candidates in the field for the coming British elections. Miss Mary MacArthur is the candidate of the Labour Party in Stourbridge Division, where she is supported by the enfranchised female munition workers.

Mrs. Philip Snowden is another Labour candidate, while there are a half dozan independent women candidates.

Women in Legislatures.

There are already three women sitting in Canadian Provincial Legislatures. Alberta has two female members. Miss MacAdams, a nursing sister, was elected as one of the soldiers' representatives for Alberta last election, Mrs. Louise McKinney was elected at the same time as member for Claresholn as a representative of the Non-Partisan League. In British Columbia Mrs. Frank Smith was elected at a bye-election to succeed her husband, the late Hon. Ralph Smith, as one of the members for Vancouver.

The Scandinavian people often lead the way in constitutional evolution, and the enfranchised women of Norway are eligible not only for election to Parliament, but for appointment to the Council of State or Cabinet.

Gracefully Vacated.

No Norwegian woman has yet secured election to Parliament, but some years ago one was elected a deputy-member. The Norwegian Constitution contains the curious provision that every member of Parliament shall have his substitute, who can take his place if he is prevented from fulfilling his duties. It is reported that in the case in question the male member gracefully vacated his seat for a fortnight in favour of his deputy. Women are eligible for election both to the Danish and Finnish Parliaments, and at the 1916 elections in Finland, 24 women, or 12 per cent. of the total number of members, were returned.

Very high draped cuffs are one of the new sleeve features.

Chuddah, poplin and shark cloth are used for black skirts for winter.

Bright plaid skirts are apt to have blue for a predominating colour.

HER FIVE CHILDREN

Had Whooping Cough At the Same Time

Whooping cough is one of the most dangerous diseases of children, especially to those under five years of age. It first starts with a fever and cough, sneezing, watering of the eyes and an irritation of the throat. Later the coughing increases, the child becomes livid in the face, the eyes appear as if they would burst from their sockets and suffocations seems imminent till relief is brought by the "whoop."

On the first sign of whooping cough we would advise the use of Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup. This fam ous remedy will clear the bronchial tubes of the collected mucous and phlegm, and in this way ease the racking cough and in a short time make it disappear entirely.

Mrs. Walter McGaughey, North Battleford, Sask., writes:—"I have five children, the eldest thirteen and the baby two years old. They all had the whooping cough at the same time. I tried two or three cough remedies, but none gave the same satisfaction as Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup. A home where there are young children should never be without it. I will highly recommend it to those who want a quick cure."

There are many imitations of Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup, so be sure you get the genuine by insisting that the package is put up in a yellow wrapper; three pine trees the trade mark; price 25c. and 50c. and manufactured by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

SOFT COAL IN A DOMESTIC FURNACE.

In a letter to the press, Mr. J. W. Clipsham, of Sparrow Lake, says: Regarding the burning of soft coal in domestic furnaces, I was unable to obtain any hard coal last winter, and put in a supply of soft coal. It soon clogged the furnace completely. I then found that by burning a little wood with it I could use it without trouble, and soon continued to burn it all winter. The burning of the wood seems to consume the soot of the coal smoke, and cleaning out the furnace three times in the winter kept it working. A little experience in the stoking taught me to keep the wood at the back of the furnace and the fresh coal at the front, and, of course, one has to "fire up" oftener than with hard coal.

Carrots stuffed and baked are delicious.

-THE WIFE-

BY JANE PHELPS

Mr. Mandel's Knowledge of Brian Puzzles Ruth

CHAPTER I.

Suddenly Ruth stood still. How did Arthur Mandel know Brian? She was sure they had never met, because she had asked Brian to call at the shop for her and so meet her employer, and he had refused, saying he didn't want to know him, not even to know what he looked like.

That she herself had told Mandel, as plainly as if she had spoken, that it was her husband they saw the day in Washington Square, she had no idea. And that Mandel had taken pains to verify his suspicions, she would scarcely have believed. Why should he?

Ruth had no slightest idea that Arthur Mandel was becoming intensely interested in her. Community of interest, fondness for the same things, are good groundwork for close relations This she did not realize And when added is the idea that the husband is enamored of another woman, what more natural than to try to make an impression if one cares enough—and Arthur Mandel was beginning to care a great deal for Ruth Hackett

From the day he had seen Brian Hackett and Mollie King together, a feeling that sometime he might win Ruth for himself to.. shrlu shriduuu hur Mandel. But he was wise enough to realize Ruth's innate purity, and to understand that he might lose her altogether—even from the stop to consider what the aptitude of expression.

That Mollie, artist and Bohemian, had offered to help Brian pass the time because the pitied him for having married Ruth, was something Mandel could of course know nothing of, or even conceive. Neither did he stop to consider what the aptitude of most people would be toward Brian—that they would mostly say:

"What can anyone expect? His wife goes off and leaves him alone. Why shouldn't he enjoy himself with another woman."

A man's conscience is gullible. It is very elastic, especially as regards his love affairs. Brian's conscience was much like that of the majority of men. He soothed it by blaming Ruth. While Mandel did not attempt to intrigue himself that he was not going to do all he could to win Ruth, he also blamed Brian for neglecting her.

Ruth thought often of Mandel's kindness to her. There was a sense of comfort when she thought of him. he had given her congenial work to do, instead of slavery—as she called it—she had been doing for Brian. He had let her feel her worth to him in a business way, so that she ten she earned not what he gave her, but more. He had accurately appraised her abilities; and then had trusted her to make good.

Naturally Ruth was fattered when she thought of these things. How happy she would have been could she have discussed them with Brian! But as yet he had shown no slightest interest in her work—as work. Perhaps later she would be able to get him to view it in something like the same manner in which she did—as a profession; and an artistic one of which he should be proud.

But now his relations with Mollie King; his extravagance in going to those expensive places, were uppermost in her mind

As regarded money, Ruth was a strange contradiction. Nothing was extravagant if you had the money; but debt that to her was a horror. She had only known one person who had been the kind who runs in debt and he had been held up to her as an example. One of her aunt's neighbors had such a husband, and they had lost their home, everything they owned, and the wife had died—people said of a broken heart, because of it.

Not that she would ever die of a broken heart from the same cause; no, she could take care of herself. But people had talked so terribly about old Mr Lovelace. Had called him such awful names. And she remembered with a shudder, that she had read a list of his creditors, and how much he owed them, in the county paper.

Perhaps Brian had made some extra money! That would explain it all. She would ask him, the very first thing when he got home.

The afternoon wore away. Ruth was very busy and she forgot Brian for the time But as soon as she reached home it all recurred to her. Mollie—the restaurants—everything.

She waited until they had finished dinner then said:

"Now tell me where you dined while I was away! did you discover any new places?"

"Yes, Mollie guided me to a little restaurant down-town. A sixty cent dinner."

"Cheap enough. Where else did you go?"

"Oh, I ran around. I didn't go twice to the same place. It doesn't cost any more, and is more interesting."

"Did you take Miss King to these other places?" it was out. Ruth avoided looking at him when she asked the question, but glanced up when he hesitated to answer, and caught the flush that swept his face.

"Yes! I told you I wouldn't eat alone!"

To-morrow—Brian Claims the Right to Take Mollie Out in Ruth's absence.

Germany Has Great Man Power

SOMEBODY is always taking the joy out of life, according to Briggs, the cartoonist, and we observe that every time the Allies make a plunge forward and take a few thousand prisoners and a few square miles of territory from the Germans, some military expert is on hand to warn us against undue elation. We despise such advice, and act on the theory that when there is an excuse to cheer we ought to rise up on our hind legs and cheer. We do not suppose that the British soldiers, for instance, will refrain from cheering when they occupy captured towns just because it does not happen to be Berlin. By turning loose a few hearty cheers now they do not necessarily incapacitate themselves from cheering later on. Some people talk as though we had just a certain number of cheers to emit in the course of a lifetime, and that if they are dissipated now we shall not have any by us to fall back upon in riper years when there is more need for them. We maintain that the present is the time to cheer, and that no loyal subject can outcheer himself just now.

Having thus gone on record we can afford to listen with due respect to what Andre Cheradame says on the subject of German man-power in the New York Times. M. Cheradame is an expert, but being rather uncertain as to whether he is an expert on international affairs, military matters or politics, we shall simply introduce him as an expert Frenchman. He says that the Allies have greatly under-estimated Germany's manpower, and equally over-estimated her permanent war losses. He is of opinion that the war cannot end by mere attrition, for however long the war lasts, Germany will not be bled white. In fact, according to his way of calculating, no nation can be bled white, for he reasons, rather paradoxically, that the longer the war lasts the longer the nations engaged in it can continue to fight. This is because of the natural increase of population. For instance, if the war should last another ten years the children in Germany between the ages of six and sixteen will grow into soldiers.

M. Cheradame insists that the reason such critics as Belloc and Repington have made mistakes as to the exhaustion of German man-power is because they have not taken account of the fresh soldiers that are constantly being added to the German army by the calling up of new classes. He strikes us as being rather unfair to Col. Repington when he recalls that in January, 1916, the English expert said that some time in that year the Germans would not be able to furnish reserves to fill up the holes made by the assaults of the Allies. Every calculation made about the war before the Russian collapse was necessarily falsified by the Russian desertion, and there can be not the slightest doubt that if Russia had continued to fight as stoutly as the Allies whom she betrayed, the war would now be over. If, early in 1917, anyone had dared to make forecasts of the war based on the supposition that Russia would sign the Brest-Litovsk treaty he would have been arrested as a traitor.

M. Cheradame says that practically all the allied calculations as to the strength of the German armies have been based on the assumption that the German population is 68,000,000, and, while this may have been the population in 1914, the population in 1918 is probably 70,000,000. At this point it might be mentioned that a short while ago a writer declared that for years Germany had been concealing her population with the purpose of deceiving Europe as to her military strength and that the real population was several millions more than announced. The French writer does not make this point, but he calculates that for the four years of war there have been drafted into the German army from 733,000 to 754,000 men annually, making a total of nearly 3,000,000 soldiers who have come of military age since 1914.

He does not believe that German losses have been exaggerated and sets them down as 5,300,000 up to the first of last June. He says that in 1914 the mobilized forces of Germany were about 13,600,000, but that most calculators make the mistake of subtracting the former figure from the latter and arriving at the conclusion that Germany has left only 8,300,000, whereas to this figure ought to be added the 3,000,000 men who have become soldiers since 1914. He says that Germany has in reality more than 11,000,000 soldiers, of whom there are 7,000,000 on the western front. This leaves only 4,000,000 for operations in Russia, in Turkey and for assuring the security of German communications over immense territories which the Germans occupy and which are inhabited by hostile populations. The point which he desires to make is that 4,000,000 are not enough for this purpose, and that it would be good policy for the Allies not to concentrate upon the western front, but to attack on other fronts as well, for there Germany is not so strong. At present, when things are going so well on the western front, it is not likely that M. Charadame will be able to convince many of the soundness of his strategy, whatever they may think about the accuracy of his figures.

CHATEAUBRIAND.

French Writer Found Inspiration on This Continent.

An interesting early connection between North America and France was established by Francois-Rene de Chateaubriand, born 150 years ago. Chateaubriand, a native of St. Malo, and a member of an ancient Breton family, had a childhood solitary and melancholy, his companionship being chiefly with the waves and woods. At seventeen he already seemed worn with the fatigue of unsatisfied dreaming. In 1791 he left France for America, with the idea of discovering the Northwest Passage. The exact length of his stay on this side of the Atlantic and the extent of his travels remain largely undetermined. Chateaubriand's account of his experiences belonging rather in the realm of fiction than of fact. His stay, however, made an indelible impression on him, and some of the best of his later work is imbued with the spirit of the American wilderness and the American aborigines.

The news of the execution of Louis XVI. decided Chateaubriand to return to France, where he sided with the Royalist faction, joined the army, was wounded and retired to London as an "emigre." In the English metropolis his poverty was extreme, but he published his first work, an essay on revolutions in which he expressed extreme pessimism as to all progress, social or political. Later he began the composition of his greatest work, "The Genius of Christianity," which revived the cult of the Middle Ages, emphasized the beauty of religion and had a deep influence on literature, social manners and the progress of religious thought. One portion of this work consists of a tale called "Atala, or the Romance of Two Savages in the Desert," the scene of which is laid in North America and the chief characters of which are types of "the noble redman" whom Cooper later made familiar. "Rene," likewise a part of "The Genius of Christianity," is in the same way the forerunner of the favorite hero of Byron.

Chateaubriand returned to France during the rule of Napoleon and became admittedly the chief French writer of the Napoleonic era. In "The Natchez," brought out in 1826, Chateaubriand describes American scenery and idealizes the American Indian. This is regarded as one of the greatest of his works. He continued to publish romances and accounts of his travels in various lands, the latter not always clearly distinguishable from the former. He occupied offices and engaged actively in politics. From the position of Royalist he advanced to that of Liberal, and after 1830 seemed to be a mixture of both. He wrote a history of English literature and translated "Paradise Lost" in his latter years. The last of his works, issued by an indiscretion of the publishers before Chateaubriand's death in 1848, was his "Memoirs," a brilliant account of his own life. His tomb is on the rocky islet of Grand-Be, off the coast of Brittany.

Chateaubrian was a great landscape painter in words; he aided in restoring to art the sentiment of religion, he interpreted the romantic melancholy of his age. He was a great poseur, and as an Englishwoman who knew it expressed it, he "wore his heart in a sling," but he measurably enlarged the range and power of the imaginative literature of his day.

GIRLS! LOTS OF BEAUTIFUL HAIR

A small bottle of "Danderine" makes hair thick, glossy and wavy.

Removes all dandruff, stops itching scalp and falling hair.

To be possessed of a head of heavy, beautiful hair; soft, lustrous, fluffy, wavy and free from dandruff is merely a matter of using a little Danderine.

It is easy and inexpensive to have nice, soft hair and lots of it. Just get a small bottle of Knowlton's Danderine now—it costs but a few cents—all drug stores recommend it—apply a little as directed and within ten minutes there will be an appearance of abundance, freshness, fluffiness and an incomparable gloss and lustre, and try as you will you can not find a trace of dandruff or falling hair; but your real surprise will be after two weeks' use, when you will see new hair—fine and downy at first—yes—but really new hair—sprouting out all over your scalp—Danderine is, we believe, the only sure hair grower, destroyer of dandruff and cure for itchy scalp, and it never fails to stop falling hair at once.

If you want to prove how pretty and soft your hair really is, moisten a cloth with a little Danderine and carefully draw it through your hair—taking one small stand at a time. Your hair will be soft, glossy and beautiful in just a few moments—a delightful surprise awaits everyone who tries it.

After working for nearly a quarter of a century among the Araucanian Indians of Chile, the only tribe who fought the Spaniards for 250 years without being conquered, Rev. Charles A. Sadleir, of Hamilton, Ont., has returned to Canada with a view to serving in the war. Born in Hamilton, the son of a well-known barrister, Mr. Sadleir went to Winnipeg in 1883 as private secretary to Mr. E. P. Leacock, M.P.P. He also served as secretary-treasurer of the County of Selkirk and later was Clerk of the House and of the Executive Council during the Norquay Administration in Manitoba. In a few years he gave up the Civil Service and entered Wycliffe College, Toronto, being ordained in 1892. He was the first Eastern Canadian Anglican missionary to the northwest, being sent out by the Wycliffe Missions. After serving there for a time he decided to go to Chile, as there were plenty of men to carry on the work in Canada. He went on his own initiative, selling his household effects, leaving his wife in Canada and taking with him a young Englishman who had been converted in his district. They had to go to Chile by way of England, and whilst in England learned that the South American Missionary Society were looking for a clergyman and a layman to start a mission to the Araucanian Indians. Upon arriving in his new parish, Mr. Sadleir learned that his people were the only tribe who had fought the Spaniards for 250 years without being conquered. The war with them cost the Spaniards more money and men than all their other wars on this hemisphere. Spanish generals who had fought in Flanders went out against the Araucanians, and had to admit that in strategy and otherwise the Indians of Chile had no superiors.

Mr. Sadleir was shipwrecked on the way out to Chile. Upon reaching his destination he found the Araucanians scattered throughout the south central part of the country, much as the farmers are scattered about Ontario. There were no towns or villages. "Our object was to get the sons and daughters of the Indian chiefs into a centre and educate them and send them back to work among their own people. They could neither read nor write," says Mr. Sadleir speaking of his work. 'I had the privilege of translating large portions of the Scriptures into their language for the first time in conjunction with some of the converted chiefs. We founded an agricultural and industrial school for them later on. I had to learn the Spanish and Indian languages, because we had to work among both the Chileans and the Araucanians, and later on amongst the scattered English settlers out there, for whom there were no educational facilities. Later on we had to branch out into medical work, and a free hospital was built. A dispensary had been in existence from the beginning for the Chileans and the Indians. A Canadian doctor, Surgeon Colonel G. A. Baynes, of Montreal, went out with his family and took charge of the medical work, and later Dr. Walker, an Englishman, joined him. The latter is now at the front, and Dr. Baynes is in the Royal Herbert Hospital at Woolwich, so that the medical work is nearly at a standstill.

"Perhaps my heaviest work," proceeded Mr. Sadeir, "has been in connection with the Indian land question.. Although the Chilean laws guaranteed a title to every Indian for the land he effectively occupied, a continual struggle went on with parties encroaching on their domain. Notwithstanding the efforts of the Government, who appointed special protectors of the Araucaniams—members of the legal profession—the Indians in many cases were deprived of their lands by squatters. I worked with the protectors of the Indians and got several of them turned out for not doing their duty and got others appointed.

"Many of the leading families of Chileans have Araucaniam blood in their veins, and are proud of it, and that is what has given the Chileans the name, the English of South America.'

"We founded, in conjunction with some of the Indians trained in our schools, an Indian society for their protection. Farther south the scholars organized a mutual protection society among themselves, which was incorporated under the laws of the country. Some of the lads have even founded schools of their own."

Three Canadian War Authors

Arthur Hunt Chute.

Among the many recent books of war experiences, "The Real Front," by Arthur Hunt Chute, has particular interest for Canadians, as the author, although an American citizen, went overseas with the first Canadian Expeditionary Force and for two years was in the Ypres Salient. "If where an Englishman," he says, "is buried in a foreign soil is called 'a little bit of England' then we may call the Ypres salient 'a mighty bit of Canada. If anyone were to enquire what is the most important city of Canada, we might answer unhesitatingly, 'The city of Ypres.' The hosts of our young men who have fallen in battle around that city have hallowed the name for all Canadian hearts, and rendered the place ours in the deepest sense."

Mr. Chute suggests in a wonderful way the atmosphere of the actual fighting line and the psychology of the men while under fire, their nervous strain reaching at times to physical agony and yet their unconquerable determination to "carry on." "The Real Front" is published by Harper & Brothers, of New York.

Ralph S. Kendall.

No body of men has been associated with more romantic interest than the Royal North-West Mounted Police—whose work in maintaining law and order in the prairie provinces of Canada during the period of settlement and in the more remote North has inspired many an author to write a stirring story. For the most part, however, these stories have too much fiction and too little fact, with the result that the "Riders of the Plains," as they have been called, are rather shy of the professional writer. "Benton of the Royal Mounted," a new novel published by S. B. Gundy, of Toronto, has this advantage, that the author, Sergeant Ralph S. Kendall, has himself been for many years a member of the Force, of which he is still Sergeant-in-Charge at Calgary. This is a real man's book, in which the men talk the language that men do talk out West. One feels also that the many stirring incidents that occur have their basis in fact. "Benton of the Royal Mounted" is a book that should find a place on the shelves of all who are interested in the development of Canadian literature.

F. A. McKenzie.

Mr. F. A. McKenzie, the War Correspondent, who has come to Canada straight from the fighting front to deliver a series of lectures on the recent battles in France, is a Canadian by birth, although he has lived most of his life in Great Britain and other parts of the British Empire.

Mr. McKenzie's main lecture is "Through the Hindenburg Lines," in which he tells a first hand story of Canada's fighting men and their great victories. His second lecture, "Britain Hits Back," deals with the effort and sacrifice of the English people, and gives an intimate and first hand account of how England has fought her way through to victory. Three Governments have placed their moving pictures and photographs at Mr. McKenzie's disposal for these lectures.

Mr. McKenzie is the War Correspondent of a group of prominent Canadian daily newspapers. He saw much of war before this campaign. He has a straightforward story to tell the Canadian people of what their sons have done. Mr. McKenzie's book on the war, "Canada's Day of Glory," has just been published by William Briggs of Toronto. His one claim for it is that it tells what he has seen and is a faithful first hand picture of war as it is.

OUR DAILY SHORT STORY

The Dolly Varden Gown

By SUSAN CLAGGETT

(Copyright, 1918, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

In the attic Eleanor Brooke dived into the old horse-hair trunk that had once belonged to the great aunt after whom she was named. She was looking for and hoping to find something she could shape into a dress for the dance on the fourth. Whenever she was at a loss for finery Aunt Eleanor's trunk had been a veritable treasure trove, but so often had the girl gone through the contents she had small hope of finding anything that would be suitable for the party toward which she was looking forward with more than usual anticipation.

Aunt Eleanor's gowns were all of the heaviest brocades, velvets and satins, so stiff they would stand alone. She had never been stinted in money, as her namesake frequently was, and rich dresses, with here and there a time stain, that had come from London and were of a bygone style, had lain for long in the horse-hair trunk under the eaves until young Eleanor one morning pulled it into the light. With little exclamations of pleasure she opened the carefully wrapped packages and found herself heir to much that was totally unsuited to her youth and petite figure, even in a day when maids were gowned in costly stuff.

But when one loves dances and has not the wherewithal to buy vanities, the fact that material is unsuitable has little weight, and she always carried the day against her mother's more certain judgment of things fit and unfit. But if her gowns were not always what she should have worn, that fact was lost in the pleasure one found in looking at the animated face and the absolute joyousness of the girl herself. For this little story is of a time when girls, young girls, were not so sophisticated as at the present day and their pleasures, coming far apart, made them all the more desirable, simple though they usually were.

This dance had been heralded for weeks. General Washington had signified his intention to be present, pausing for a few hours in Upper Marlborough on his way to Annapolis. Naturally everyone was on the qui vive, and Eleanor Brooke forthwith went into the attic to search for a gown brave enough to do honor to the occasion.

She knew what she wanted and lovingly fingered the heavy brocade covered with pink roses and the underskirt of pink satin that had long been her utmost desire. And more daring still was the wish to wear the gown just as it was, quaint in its looped-up overdress and watteau plait.

She shook out the folds of satin and held it against her height. It was long, very long, for Great Aunt Eleanor had been a tall woman. But she had also been slight, and when later her namesake stood in her own room and twisted and turned before the mirror to get a glimpse of her back, she decided the only change needed was in length.

It was a lovely gown and she would have been a very indifferent girl if she had not been thrilled by the vision that peered half shyly at her from the gilt-framed glass. It was the first time her face had impressed her and the daintily-colored oval with its shining eyes, framed in waving hair, made her wonder if it really was herself. Her color flamed at a deeper thought which she tried to hide from her consciousness, but it would obtrude, and at last she faced it. "Would he like it." Even to herself she hesitated to call his name.

For before all others she wished to appear fair in his sight. She gave no thought to other guests who would come from Georgetown, Alexandria, Baltimore and Annapolis on horseback and in great coaches, drawn by four horses. Four horses were always used upon state occasions, and what more important event could there be than this ball, the first after the Declaration of Independence? There had been much rain and the roads were deep, and the maids in and about Marlborough watched the clouds and prayed for a south wind that would dry the mud, while the young men of the county made the assembly room brave with flags and greenery.

Even with greatest interest Eleanor Brooke watched the clouds, for she lived a long way from Upper Marlborough and was to stay with her grandmother at "Croome" over the fourth, and for a little visit thereafter. There was the chance her father would think the mud too deep to drive from near Mattapony Landing, and whenever that thought occurred there was a sinking at her heart for fear she might lose the long-looked-for pleasure.

But the day of her expected visit rose clear and bright, and with her horse-hair trunk strapped tight on the rumble and Uncle Clem and Jake in front, she set out with her mother for "Croome."

It was a wehry way through the mud and night had fallen before the carriage encircled the drive at her grandmother's, but weariness was forgotten as she gazed out at the brightly-lighted windows and recognized voices and faces as the house door was thrown open and a group of young people rushed out to greet her, for Eleanor was but one of a group of cousins gathered together for the Independence ball.

Even as she spoke to the gay crowd while waiting for Uncle Clem to let down the carriage steps, Eleanor looked about, longing, yet afraid to meet the quizzical eyes of John Eversfield, and her heart sank when she did not see him. The pleasure she anticipated turned to a dull ache and she twisted her lace kerchief between her fingers as she leaned further forward hoping to gain a glimpse of him.

Then pride came to her aid. He had promised to be the first to meet her, and she must not let this crowd of cousins sense her disappointment. With a light laugh that well covered the ache at her heart, she accepted the extended hand of Allan Bowie and descended from the high carriage.

This was two days before the ball.

"Isn't it too bad," Ruth Worthington whispered to her that night, as they went up the stairs together. "Cousin John sent John, Jr., to Baltimore upon affairs of importance. I think it a shame. He might have waited until after the ball. Although John told me nothing but death would keep him away, there is always the chance of something happening. But even if he does get back in time for the dance, he will miss the good time we are having, and Cousin John was certainly mean to choose this opportunity for pressing business."

Eleanor's heavy heart lightened after hearing this and she took her full share of the gayety that filled every minute of the day and evening. Although no coquette, as were some of the other pretty cousins, time did not lie heavily upon her hands. Allan Bowie saw to that, and Alec Worthington. Both young men were bewitched, and between them she was kept fully occupied. The night of the dance, as she descended the stairs, brave in her Dolly Varden gown, no maid among them all was lovelier, and the two gallants, beruffled, powdered and dressed in the height of fashionable attire, all but came to blows in their effort to win her favor.

But, mistress Eleanor minded not that. She accepted their admiration shyly, which was most becoming, but underneath her pleasure was the hope John Eversfield would also find her good to look upon. Yet, when they left the house, early on account of the roads, he had not come, and there was a tiny misgiving lest he might not be in time to see her in the wonderful gown or to claim the minuet he had begged for.

Ruth pinched her as she was about to step into the carriage, whispering, as she handed her a small package:

"I wonder if you can guess what this is? John Eversfield's Tom brought it. I'm dying of curiosity. Slip back into the house and open it before grandmother comes. There's time," and giving the girl a push, Ruth stepped into her place and gave back tit for tat, as the two young men called for an explanation of Eleanor's sudden disappearance.

And in her room the girl was looking with fluctuating color upon a pearl-encircled miniature while she opened with fingers that trembled the note twisted about the slender golden chain. There was only a line, but it made of life a beautiful thing for it asked for that which she was glad to give.

Over and over she read the single line: "Dear, will you wear this for my sake?—John." Then she slipped it into the bosom of her dress. With hesitating fingers she clasped the chain about her neck, but overcome by modesty at so flaunting her lover's miniature for curious eyes to look upon, she hid it among the ruffles of her gown and hastily ran down the stairs, a radiant thing that took away one's breath.

Measure after measure was danced before John Eversfield appeared that night, and when he came, one arm was in a sling. "An accident," he told them lightly, as he made his way to Eleanor's side, where he stood so as to cut her off from the view of others.

"Tom did not reach 'Croome' in time?" he asked, leaning toward her.

"Yes," she answered breathlessly. "I wear it here."

"But not before them all?"

The color came and went upon her face. "I could not with you not present. I had no courage."

"And now?"

She drew the miniature from among

"Why I have these headaches is more than I can understand"

"I THINK it is a touch of indigestion," perhaps you say, not realizing that headaches and indigestion are among the first indications of an exhausted nervous system.

Women are the greatest sufferers from headaches, because their nervous systems are more highly strung and their conditions of life are more conducive to exhaustion of the nervous system.

Worry, anxiety, shock from accident or bad news, extreme grief—such are frequent sources of nervous trouble—as are also too little exercise and too much indoor life.

When the nerves are exhausted almost any unusual exertion brings on nervous headache. There is such a shortage of nervous energy in the system that any unusual demand starves the brain and produces pain.

The most natural and rational way to overcome this condition is by increasing the amount of nervous energy in the system by using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

The use of powerful drugs to stop headaches is a most harmful and dangerous practice, because the temporary relief is obtained at enormous expense to the nerves, and the evil day of nervous collapse is brought nearer.

The object of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is to remove the cause of trouble by building up the system and increasing the nervous energy in the body.

Mrs. R. Hicks, Napanee, Ont., writes:

"About five years ago I suffered continually from nervous headache, and was almost a complete wreck, weighing only ninety-nine pounds. I could neither sleep nor eat, and could gain no relief in any way. A friend told me she thought Dr. Chase's Nerve Food would help me, so I dubiously began a treatment of this medicine. To my surprise I very soon found that it was helping me, so I continued using it until I was quite recovered and felt like my former self. In two months my weight increased ten pounds, my headaches were relieved, my appetite improved, and I could rest well at night. I think Dr. Chase's Nerve Food an excellent medicine, as are also any of his other medicines that I have used."

The persistent use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food enriches the blood, builds up the nervous system and increases the vigor and vitality of the human body. 50 cents a box, 6 for $2.75, all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Ltd., Toronto. To protect you against imitations the portrait and signature of A. W. Chase, M.D., are on every box.

Aesthetics and Health.

"The connection between individu health and beauty, though seldom re ognized in theory, is intimate in pra tice," says the New York Medical Jou nal. The St. Bernard Pass is of historical renown. It connects the valleys of the Rhone and the Dora Baltea. It was traversed by Roman legions thousands of years ago. In mediaeval times the pass served the armies of conquerors and the bands of mercenaries. Napoleon crossed the Alps at this point in 1800.

The great monastery was built in the middle of the 16th century. It was maintained for the relief of travellers who were surprised by snowstorms while crossing the pass. The St. Bernard dogs were used to find the frozen victims of the storms in the snowdrifts. They were specially trained for this work of relief and carried the first aid to the injured in a little basket attached to their collars. These dogs rescued thousands of human beings, many of whom were of historical prominence. And for the first time in the history of this famous monastery the dogs had to be slaughtered for want of food.

At other times a report of this sort would create profound interest in Paris, but at present the human race is thinking of its own necessities and cares less about dog heroes living more than 8,100 feet above the surface of the sea.

To-day the people of France are restricted in the consumption of meat, bread or any other article of food in the making of which dough or flour is used and sugar. There are three meatless days, and to prevent anyone buying meat in advance the rule restricts purchases to 200 grams of meat on a day preceding a meatless day.

The sale of meat is prohibited on Wednesdays, Thursdays and Fridays. In hotels and restaurants no guest is entitled to more than 100 grams of meat as part of a meal Tuesdays. This restriction is aimed at hoarding. Even slaughter houses are entirely closed the meatless days. Thus the attempt is made to prevent as far as possible any violation of the rule.

Of course any attempt at enforcing restrictions of this sort in the provinces would be needless. French peasants eat little meat, once or twice a week at the most, if at all.

The average Englishman consumes much more meat. England had three meatless days a week, applied to restaurants and similar dining-rooms, beginning in the summer of 1917. However, these meatless days were abolished, the order taking effect May 17 this year. In place of the former restriction a meat card was issued. This card entitles the holder to a certain amount of meat, which he may buy four specified days of the week. Englishmen are consuming about double the amount of meat eaten by the same number of Frenchmen at present.

French frugality in meat is the more remarkable as it accompanied by a similar and much more drastic restriction in the consumption of bread. "A Frenchman," according to a peace time wit, "is a gentleman who wears a decoration and orders an extra portion of bread." Bread has been the staff of life for the French people.

Still, France is in a better position than adjacent countries. Meat is very scarce and costly in Belgium. In Antwerp one has to pay 20 francs for a pound of meat and 30 francs for a pound of bacon. In Meerle near Antwerp, a butcher paid 2,625 francs for a two-year-old steer. Cows are sold for 5,000 and goats for 500 francs.

At Val de Travers, Switzerland, two butchers were found guilty of having violated the Government rule regulating the price of calves. The butchers were fined 1,500 francs each and will have to pay the cost of the trial, while fifteen farmers, to whom the butchers had paid more than the maximum price allowed, were acquitted by the jury.

In the course of proceedings in the court it was shown that an army officer of the Commissary Department in buying cattle for the army had also paid more than the maximum price permitted. Now the state's attorney is going to prosecute the army officer for the same offence for which the two butchers were found guilty.

In Vienna meat rations for hotels, dining-rooms and boarding houses were cut 20 per cent., beginning July 1. Even meat supplies for hospitals were reduced 10 per cent. This caused increased prices.

When Chums Fall Out.

"She's giving a very elaborate party."

"Gotten up solely on my account."

"I thought you were on the outs."

"We are. And that's the reason she got up the party."

From a report—"The grounds were beautifully lit up; otherwise it was a temperance party."

Green tomatoes are very good cut in half-inch slices, sprinkled with salt and fried in a little fat until tender. If you wish them browned, dip in flour or bread crumbs or first in egg and then in crumbs before frying.

DON'T BE DYSPEPTIC.

The dyspeptic has thought only of the stomach when the real source of trouble is the Liver, Kidneys and Bowels. Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills thoroughly cleanse and purify the digestive and excretory system and in this way put the organs of digestion into splendid working condition. A little patient urging on of the organs when sluggish will restore the habit of healthful digestion.

What's the Use?

The mischief has been done. Canada entered the war helpless at sea. That fact, whatever the cause, cannot be questioned. But what is the good of crying over spilt milk or over Dreadnoughtless water?

If the controversialists so hotly engaged in accusing each other of "treachery" and "shamefulness" and "sinfulness"—though the latter theological conception would appear to the ordinary mind foreign to the issue—would only think out a naval policy for Canada after the war how much greater the benefit to their country!

Let us give each other absolution for the past and start again. That is the way of common sense.

You Can't Get Along Without 'Em.

Could you get through your day without women workers, Mr. Man? We mean the ones who are doing brand-new jobs.

Now a woman sells you your subway ticket, a woman chops it; the guard's cry "Let 'em out" has changed to a soprano chorus. A woman traffic cop raises her hand and your crossings are made safe. "Floor, please. Watch your step," is the song of the elevator woman. The postwoman whistles as loudly as if she were a man.

But you see only the vanguard of the army of women workers; thousands clean engines, wire armatures or fill shells. Others weld and cut metals with an oxy-acetylene flame and wear goggles as a protection against the ultra-violet light.

Still other thousands are back at the oldest of industries, planting, tilling and reaping.

You wondered how the work of the world would be done when the men had gone to war. The women's answer is, "For every man who goes over there one woman will go into industry over here." — World Outlook.

The laws of gravitation decree that what goes up must come down. This is a comforting theory to apply to the high cost of living.

The medicine closet should be carefully gone over every month and unused medicine thrown away. It is most important to have the closet in good order that things may be easily found.

Saving Lives in France and Belgium

THOUSANDS of tins of Klim, pasteurized separated milk in powder form, have been sent by the "Friends of France" and other organizations to the starving French and Belgian people. A nurse writes: "Please send us more Klim. It is the greatest benefit to the refugees, the old men and women and the children."

Get Klim for use in your own home from your Grocer. It has the natural milk flavor. It is genuine. Use Klim from the tin as you need it. Mix dry with flour, sugar, eggs, etc., in cooking. Make into liquid for table use, by whipping into water according to directions.

Order a tin to-day and reduce your milk bills. A pound makes four quarts.

PETERBOROUGH, THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 28, 1918

Britain Must Maintain Her Naval Supremacy Declared Winston Churchill

For the Third Time in History the Freedom of the World Has Been Saved by the British Navy.

HUNS MUST PAY

Special to the Examiner:

LONDON, Nov. 28.—(British Admiralty Wireless).—"Nothing in the world, no arguments, however specious, no appeals however seductive, must lead you to abandon that naval supremacy on which the life of our country depends," declared Winston Churchill, Minister of Munitions, and former First Lord of the Admiralty, in a speech here.

"For the third time in history the freedom of the world against a military tyrant has been preserved by the British Navy—against Philip II. of Spain, against Napoleon and against Kaiser Wilhelm. Without it not only should we have been lost, but all the world would have been cast back for centuries.

League of Nations.

"I am a hopeful and sincere advocate of the League of Nations. I will do everything in my power to make such an instrument a practical, powerful reality. But the League of Nations is no substitute for the supremacy of the British Fleet.

"Let us preserve our great and old renown as the first of free and liberal nations as the birthplace of pilgrims, as the pioneer of popular government and as the unfailing fountain of enlightened thought and humanitarian sentiment.

Fruits of Victory.

"That does not mean we should give up the fruits of victory. Practically the whole German nation was guilty of the crime of an aggressive war, conducted by brutal and bestial means. It is no use their pretending that their late Government is solely to blame. They were all in it, and must all suffer for it. Particular individuals, against whom definite breaches of the laws of war on land and sea can be proven, or who can be proven to have treated prisoners with cruelty, should be brought to trial and punished as criminals, however highly placed. Alsace Lorraine must be restored to France. Poland must be reconstituted a nation, with access to the sea, and Germany must give up her Polish provinces. None of the German colonies will ever be restored to Germany, and none of the conquered parts of Turkey will ever be restored to Turkey.

"Reparation must be made by Germany to the utmost for the damage she has done. I cordially sympathize with those who say, 'Make them pay for the expenses of the war.' If the Allies have not claimed this it is for one reason only. It is not physically possible for them to do so. Reparation for damage alone will soon run into thousands of millions."

IN COMMUNICATION WITH RUSSIANS.

Canadian Press:

HAMBURG, Nov. 27.—The Foreign Secretary brought the charge that the Hamburg Soldiers' and Workmen's Council is in independent communication with the Russian Soviet Government. This charge appears to be based on the fact that marines in charge of the wireless station here are constantly interchanging messages with the Bolsheviki.

GERMAN AUSTRIAN NATIONAL COUNCIL IS NEGOTIATING

Canadian Press:

BERLIN, Nov. 28.—The German Austrian National Council is negotiating with the Hungarian and Czech Governments for the purpose of securing their co-operation in the publication of diplomatic pre-war documents, and in an investigation into the responsibility for the conduct of the war, the Vienna correspondent of the Vossiche Zeitung reports. 6

Censorship is Removed

News Regarding Peace Conference Will Have Right of Way.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28.—The most important announcement that has yet been made in connection with the official plans for the peace conference came here. It was that there would be absolutely no censorship on the news which the American newspaper correspondents sent back home. At the personal request of President Wilson, both the British and French Governments, will entirely relax all censorship on all American newspaper despatches telling of the deliberations. Furthermore, to facilitate the transmission of news to this country, the Government through its recently acquired control of the cable lines will give news a preference in transmission second only to Government official business. News will take preference over all commercial business of the cable lines.

Replicas Will Be Distributed Among Men Who Captured Mons.

Canadian Press.
By J. F. B. Livesay.

FRANCE, Nov. 28. — With the Canadian Corps. — Before leaving Mons, which the Canadians captured just before the armistice was signed, Sir Arthur Currie, the Commander of the Canadian Corps, was presented by the city with a medal in gold specially struck in his honour and inscribed, as a souvenir of the liberation of the city by the Canadian corps. Replicas will be distributed among the troops who took part.

The men of the First Division were given a great reception upon their entry into the city of Nivelles, on their march to Germany.

Leave was granted to the men for visits to Waterloo and the historic battlefields in the neighborhood and considerable contingents of Canadians attended the offiial entry of the King and Queen of the Belgians into Brussels.

The public plans of the demobilization of the Canadian army have not been received with enthusiasm by the men, who hoped and believed that they would have an opportunity of returning to their bases as soldiers of units with which they have so long been associated.

"Instead of this," on western soldier put it, "we are to return, not as soldiers at all, but as a mob of farmers or bakers or clerks, which our country apparently wants to get rid of as quickly as possible. I and thousands like me, wanted to march into our own home town with our regimental flag waving and band playing the fighting battalion march that won fame on every field from Ypres to Cambrai, where the Canadian arms have been engaged."

Public Meeting This Evening

A public meeting will be held in the City Council Chamber this evening when matters pertaining to the erection of a suitable war memorial in Peterboro and an edequate reception to returning soldiers will be discussed. Similar questions were discussed at a meeting called by Mrs. J. Knox and held in the Y.M.C.A., on Tuesday evening. The results of this meeting will probably be revealed at the meeting to be held this evening which will be presided over by Mayor Duncan.

CONSTRUCTION PUBLIC WORKS

Minister of Works Says Work Will be Proceeded With at Once.

COST OF LIVING

OTTAWA, Nov. 28.—Hon. F. B. Carvell, Minister of Public Works, was the guest of honour at the luncheon given yesterday by the Canadian Building and Construction Industries in conference at the Chateau Laurier.

In regard to the housing problem, Mr. Carvell would not lay down any definite policy, speaking from a Governmental point of view.

The Public Works Department had in the past been putting on the brakes as hard as possible, as the Minister did not believe it was his duty to spend money, but to save it for the purposes of war. Now the problem had assumed a different aspect. The speaker stated that wherever the money could be spent on public works in Canada, he felt that the Government was fully justified in authorizing this expenditure.

"It would surprise you if I were to tell you the amount that is being spent by the Government in rents," said the speaker. "In Ottawa alone we have to give the landlords $700,000 per annum. In every city the rentals amounted to more than the interest and depreciation would be on buildings and departments owned by the Government."

Mr. Carvell stated that his sole interest in advocating the construction of public buildings would be to supply work for the labour class.

Taking up the matter of tenders, he stated that since he had assumed office all contracts except two had been awarded by public tender to the lowest bidder. He stated that he would like the work to be distributed, but that those working on Government contracts persisted in getting into that "easy, comfortable, Government feeling." If the conference could suggest some remedy to offset that feeling, he might consider the distribution of contracts.

ELECTION MANIFESTO

Canadian Press:

LONDON, Nov. 28.—In an election manifesto the British Labour Party warns the Coalition Government against opposing the new European democracies and demands immediate withdrawal of the Allied forces from Russia, free trade, nationalization of land, mines, railways, shipping armaments and electric power. The party also demands that taxes be levied on capital and that there be complete abolition of conscription.

Winston Churchill, Minister of Munitions, in a speech last night advocated nationalization of the British railways.

LEADER OF GANG TRIED SUICIDE.

PRINCE ALBERT, Sask., Nov. 27.—Dr. Gervais, one of the Steep Creek gang, attempted to commit suicide yesterday in his cell. He took the sheet off his bed, tied it around his neck and fastened the other end to a hook on the wall, then he jumped from the bed. He was almost strangled when the jail guards found him. He protests that he does not desire to live.

MARCHING TO THE RHINE.—Belgium, France and Alsace-Lorraine are being evacuated by the Germans and the Allies are steadily, if slowly, pressing on towards the Rhine. In the sector marked 1 the Belgians are taking back their own country; in 2, the British—and this includes the Canadians—are advancing towards Cologne; at 3, the Americans have occupied Luxembourg; and in 4, the French have already occupied Strassburg and the greater part of the "stolen provinces." When the Rhine is reached the British army of occupation will stand along the Rhine, with a spearhead thrown across the river at Cologne, and spreading like a fan on a 30 kilometer circle. At Coblenz the Americans will occupy a similar position, and at Mainz, still farther up the river, the French will hold the third great highway into the heart of Germany. Thus three great roads to Berlin itself, held by a strong, fully equipped army ready to sweep forward at a moment's notice, will constitute a threat against which there can be no organized resistance. All of Germany will stand at the mercy of the occupying forces.

Political Pendulum Has Halted Midway

At Present There is Reasonable Promise of Some Sort of Unified Government in Germany.

PLEDGE SUPPORT

(United Press Service.)
(By Ed. L. Keen.)

LONDON, Nov. 28.—The political pendulum in Germany, which has been swinging between Bolshevik Socialism and Bolshevism, seems for the present to have halted midway, giving reasonable promise of some sort of unified government with which it will be possible for the Allies properly to negotiate peace.

This situation is largely the result of the forcefulness of Kurt Eisner, president of the Bavarian republic, who gave the federation clearly to understand that Bavaria and the other states will not tolerate either the old gang or a Bolshevik dictatorship.

The Social Democrats, under Philip Scheidemann, and the Independent Socialists, under Dr. Haase, although temporarily partners in the Socialist coalition, are still rivals, as formerly. Moreover, each is now especially suspicious of the other. The Independent Socialists firmly believe the Social Democrats, who opposed the revolution, continue to be dominated by the old regime. At the same time the Social Democrats accuse the Independent Socialists of Bolshevism, although the latter's leaders repudiate the charge.

Scope Uncertain.

In the meantime Karl Leibknecht's Bolshevik movement must be reckoned with. Its scope is uncertain, owing to its underground methods it is probably growing in the industrial regions, but apparently is making no headway in the army. Many soldiers' organizations already have strongly resolved to support the present government and national assembly. Therein, together with the natural Teutonic tendency toward organization and discipline, probably lies the assurance that the new Germany will not follow in Russia's footsteps.

FORTY-SIXTH ANNIVERSARY OF GEORGE STREET CHURCH.

The forty-sixth anniversary of the George Street Methodist Church will be observed on Sunday next by appropriate services. Rev. J. P. Wilson, D.D., will preach in the morning, and the pastor, Rev. A. J. Thomas, in the evening. The choir, under the leadership of Prof. Renwick, are preparing to give an especially attractive musical programme of solos, anthems and other selectoins.

George Street anniversary has in past years been an event of great interest, and nothing is being left undone to make Sunday another day of inspiration and blessing. The members and friends of the church are asked to plan to be present at both services. Let there be an enthusiastic tally of individuals and families. Strangers and visitors in the city are cordially invited. A hearty welcome awaits everybody.

Jealousy Among European Allies

Writer Just Returned From Europe Says Neither Britain or France Loves the United States.

TENSION AND STRAIN

Canadian Press:

BALTIMORE, Md., Nov. 28.—In an article from Frank R. Kent, its managing editor, who has just returned from Europe, the Baltimore Sun today asserts that while there will be no imperilling of humanity's happiness through a splitting up of the nations that won the war, Paris at present is seething with international jealousies, friction and feeling between the United States and her European allies. He says there is a tension and strain which the censors will not allow spoken of on the cables, and this was the reason for the "S.O.S." call to President Wilson to cross the Atlantic.

Pershing Not Popular.

Kent says that in political and governmental circles, neither the British nor French love the United States at all over there, and that Gen. Pershing is not popular with the Allied commands. He maintains that Great Britain wants a just peace alright, but she wants Great Britain to be the club to enforce this peace and is preparing to cling to her position as the dominant sea power of the world as she clings to life. Kent admits there are sound and excellent reasons for her position in this respect, but it will force the United States into the big naval game.

WILL APPOINT A COMMISSION.

Canadian Press:

PARIS, Nov. 28.—Edouard Ignace, Secretary for Military Justice and Pensions, announced in the Chamber of Deputies to-day that Parliamentary commissions would be appointed to witness the execution of the clauses of the armistice pertaining to war prisoners. "Meanwhile," the Secretary said, "automobiles, convoys and revictualing trains under guard would be despatched to the various concentration camps for war prisoners."

SHOP EARLY

Christmas is only twenty-six days away. Take four Sundays out of this and you have twenty-two days left in which to do your Christmas shopping. You help yourself when you do your Christmas shopping early, and incidentally help the merchants and the army of clerks that has been mobilized to serve you. In addition to this, you get a better selection of goods, and that alone is sufficient reason why you should shop early and avoid the rush.

FORMER KAISER CAN BE EXTRADITED SAYS LAW EXPERT

Atrocities Ordered by William Hohenzollern Constitute Common Law Crimes.

PARIS, Nov. 28.—Wm. Hohenzollern can be extradited in the opinion of Prof Bathelemy of the Paris Law Faculty, who explains that his guiding principle is that when there is an apparent conflict between law and commonsense the solution is always found by following the latter. The atrocities ordered by Former Emperor William, the professor continues, are condemned even in a state of war by International Law and constitute common law crimes.

Mr. Daly was born in Peterborough only thirty-five years ago.

"END UNION GOVERNMENT"

Hon. Walter Scott Calls for Retirement of Liberal Members of Present Cabinet.

NOT REPRESENTED

MOOSE JAW, Nov. 28.—In a signed editorial in The Times, Hon. Walter Scott, formerly Premier of Saskatchewan, and hitherto an outspoken Liberal supporter of the Union Administration for the carrying out of the Military Service Act and other war measures, withdraws his support and calls upon the Liberal members of the Government to retire from it.

Disappointed in Government.

The termination of hostilities, Mr. Scott says, now leaves him free to deal with the disappointing administration of the union and its failure, in his opinion, to rise to its obligations and opportunities. He sharply criticizes Premier Borden's departure to attend a Peace Conference which has not yet even been called, and refuses to consider himself "safely or properly represented upon economic issues in the conference by any single gentleman whom Sir Robert Borden has selected." Mr. Scott further charges that "Union Government has refused to raise an effective finger toward proper — or even any—preparation for the conference" or its problems as they affect Canada and her returning soldiers.

Kept Curb Upon Tongue.

The ex-Premier's signed editorial concludes as follows:

"I kept the curb on my tongue — more than that, I talked in favour of Union Government — right up to November 11. I justified Mr. Calder's votes last session for the War-times Election Act and in support of Sir Robert's childish threat on the title question. As usual, it was the whole hide or nothing with me; and so long as we had the German to defeat and the fearful menace of possible subjugation confronting us, I should have been almost willing (as I said more than once) to join hands with Beelzebub himself. In the trench, in the face of an attack, our boys did not ask if the man to right or left was sweet and clean—all he wanted to know about the comrade was whether he had the 'sand' to give the enemy the full length of the bayonet. Out of the trench, back of the lines, our boys might be particular. Likewise, with the menace removed, I become particular in respect of my political company.

Calls on Liberals to Withdraw.

"A former colleague at Regina, more familiar with Scripture than I, used a term to me recently in a letter which I shall repeat—and quit for to-day. Referring to Messrs. Calder, Carvell, Crerar and some other present Liberal-Unionist Ministers, he said that these men, if they would be reinstated in the estimation of Liberals, must first 'come out from among them.' My correspondent was not a supporter of Union Government—on the contrary, I was then a supporter. I am a supporter of Union Government no longer. If many men who, as Liberals, upheld Union Government, have minds that work like I find my mind working, then Messrs. Calder, Carvell, Crerar, Mewburn, Rowell, etc., will 'come out from among them' without loss of time or—they may as well, so far as I am concerned, stay with their Tory associates for 'keeps.'"

Lives in Plain Little House

The New Abode of Former Crown Prince.

Special to Examiner:

LONDON, Nov. 28.—(British Admiralty Wireless).—The Amsterdam correspondent of the Morning Post gives a description of the former Crown Prince's new abode at Oosterland. "This plain little house of eight rooms is thoroughly suburban, with its front garden and flower bede," the correspondent said. "In fact it is just the sort of place one might expect to pay two or three guineas a week for, furnished at Sheern Bay or Felixstone, neither better or worse."

"The men servants are German. The only person in uniform about the place is the orderly. The table is laid in a modest dining room and through the folding doors one sees a not too new billiard table. On the sitting room table are the family portraits, including one of Friedrich Wilhelm himself.

"The island is by no means unattractive. It lies not far south-east of Texel, and between forty and fifty miles north of Amsterdam.

"Peterborough Presents Possibilities Unsurpassed."

THURSDAY, NOV. 28TH, 1918.

OTHER OPINIONS

In connection with the meeting to be held tonight to discuss the question of a war memorial for Peterboro, it might be of interest to point out that the general tendency in other cities seems to be that war memorials should take he form of buildings that would be of service to the community. In York County, for instance, the proposal has been made that a memorial hospital or a children's home be erected and dedicated to the memory of the York County soldiers who have perished in the great war. In Kingston, where the matter is just now the subject of a lively discussion, two plans have been suggested; one advanced by the Great War Veterans Association, which, like the Peterboro branch of the Association, favors a memorial building for the use of veterans, and the other by the Army and Navy Veterans who advocate the erection of a memorial public library, at least three stories high, and containing a public hall that could be used free of charge for all patriotic and benevolent purposes. The Army and Navy Veterans also suggest that the proposed library contain a place for a museum of war souvenirs, that a fitting tablet containing the names of all Kingston men killed in the war be given a prominent position, that a properly bound record of the names and units of the Kingson men who served in the great war be kept for exhibit and reference and that photographs of the men who have been killed be prominently displayed

In Grey County the County council is favoring the erection of a building as a memorial, and the general opinion in the places where the matter has been publicly discussed seems to incline that way as against the erection of a monument.

INFORMATION WANTED.

The plan that is being advocated by the Great War Veterans of erecting a memorial building for the use of returned soldiers, and to be dedicated to the memory of the Peterborough men who gave up their lives in the great conflict that has just come to a close seems to have many supporters in the city and no doubt will be brought before to-night's meeting. In connection with the proposal, the Examiner has been asked a number of questions regarding the nature of the building in mind, and probably if they could be answered at to-night's meeting, those interested in the establishment of a suitable memorial—and who is there in Peterborough who is not— might more easily make up their mind as to the best policy to be adopted.

In the first place the question is being asked whether the building advocated by the Veterans would be for the use of all returned soldiers or would be confined to the members of the G.W.V.A. In this regard it is pointed out that there are men already home from overseas service who have not joined the Great War Veterans, and it is possible that out of the number yet to come there will be other returned men who may not see fit to identify themselves with the Association. Would such men be denied the use of a memorial building because they were not members of the G.W.V.A.? Or in other words, is it the desire of the G.W.V.A. to have a building erected solely for their own use or for the benefit of returned soldiers generally. A number of citizens have asked information on this point, and for that reason the question should be answered as quickly as possible.

Other people in Peterborough have suggested the advisability of having the memorial building contain a large auditorium, available for public use for lectures, concerts and meetings for charitable and patriotic purposes. The advocates of this plan point out that there could be rooms provided in the same building for the use of the Veterans for purposes of recreation and social enjoyment and for carrying on their important work on behalf of those who have suffered in the war. In effect the whole building, with the exception of the main hall, would be given over to the returned men and they, of course, would share with the general public in the use of the auditorium. It would be valuable to know the feelings of the Veterans in regard to this plan.

To-night's meeting should bring out a lot of useful information if these points and other plans suggested are thoroughly discussed.

THE OLD GUARD LINE UP

The banquet to be given to Hon. Robert Rogers in Toronto to-night, camouflaged as a celebration of the end of the war, is generally regarded in political circles as the beginning of a campaign on the part of the old line Conservatives to wreck the Union Government and restore the political situation to the old footing. The truce—or whatever passed for one—is to be broken and the ginger group is going to run the "Jolly Roger" up to the masthead and set sail into the uncharted seas of party warfare.

That there is little doubt of the intention of those responsible for to-night's gathering is indicated by the tone of the letter of invitation sent out which reads in part as follows:

"As the great war is virtually over and we must expect an end at any time to the political truce which exists at present, it has been deemed advisable that the Liberal-Conservative party—the party of the war—should celebrate its triumphant conclusion by a complimentary dinner, etc. ..... The guest of the evening will be the Hon. Robert Rogers who with other prominent Liberal-Conservatives from the various provinces will be present."

The language of the invitation leaves little to the imagination and it must be galling indeed to the Liberal members of the Coalition Government to hear that the Conservatives are the "party of the war."

To-night's gathering will be a real old time gathering of those who love the pork barrel and the plum tree With "the man who wins elections" as the guest of honor it could hardly be anything else.

It looks as if Sir Robert Borden had better have remained at home and set his house in ordtr before he undertook to solve the European problems that are to come before the Peace Conference.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

It is not love for Bob Rogers that will bring 500 Conservative stalwarts to Toronto to-night.

While Sir Robert Borden gives interviews in England, the "ginger group" are going over the top at home.

The importance of to-night's meeting to consider the question of a war memorial for Peterborough should result in a representtaive attendance.

An Interesting Letter From Company Sergeant Playford

Peterboro Soldier Describes the Allied Occupation of German Held Territory—A Message in French.

Mrs. A. M. Playford, 371 Burnham Street has received the following letter from her husband, Company Sergeant-Major Jack Playford formerly of the 93rd Battalion. Sergt. Playford enlisted early in the war, but when returned after being incapacitated he promptly enlisted again and is at present in France in the reclaimed region from where this letter has been written:

France,
Sunday, Nov. 3rd.

Dear Ada:—

Just a few lines in the hope that I find you in the best of health as it leaves me a present. I expect, if everything goes well to be in England next Sunday. In my other letter I told you how good the people are getting along here. Put yourself in their place, to be under German rule for four years and then to be suddenly set free. If the Germans wanted anything they took it without asking for it. They were surprised when we offered to pay for anything we got and they wanted us to take their beds and let them sleep on the floor. Of course we would not let them do that. There is nothing too good for us. I told the lady where I am billeted that I had been in this war for over four years. The people were told by the Germans when they left the village that if they hoisted any French flags they would be shot, but we had hardly driven the Huns out before there were all kinds of flags flying They must have had them hid for years. It is amusing to see them going out and digging up stuff that they had buried years ago. Why, the Germans even took the brass off their doors and electric lights and if he wanted anything in their gardens he used to go and get it without asking and he would put them in prison for the least thing or heavily fine them. But things are different now. The women's husbands and sons who were away working are coming home every day. Twice a day the women go to church to pray for the brave Canadians as they call us. I tell you, we feel like heroes as we walk down the street. This has been my best experience during my soldiering in France and I would not have missed it for worlds. It is a treat to see the happiness in their faces and the best part of it is that the villages are not destroyed up this way It is great to talk to civilians even supposing we do have a hard time to make them understand, but somehow we get along good with broken French and signs From your loving husband,

Jack.

Bonjour, Mme. Playford, Bonne Saute et bons courage ainsi qu' a vos enfants, Mme. Playford.

You will notice some writing in French at the bottom of this letter. The girls where I am stopping would insist on writing. I believe it is "good luck to you and the kiddies."

SIR ARTHUR CURRIE,
Who was presented with gold medal, struck in his honour by the liberated citizens of Mons.

Hope of a Christianized Church Before Many Years

Interesting Address by a Returned Missionary—Conference in St. James' Church.

At the afternoon session of the Peterborough District Women's Missionary Society, Miss Harrison, who lately returned from teaching and mission work in China, gave a most interesting account of mission work and of German intrigue in the Orient.

She said she would not speak of China's greatness because such knowledge may better be gained from other sources, but rather of the work of the Women's Missionary Society and the new opportunities open to the society.

The W. M. S. started their work in China in 1881, under adverse conditions. Missions were little known to the Chinese in those days and unfavourably looked upon, but in spite of all difficulties, the work was continued until a footing was gained, and the growth of mission work became phenomenal. Not many years ago in Cherto alone a church was built which would hardly hold 150 people. In 1911 the converts had grown to such an extent the church would not hold the members.

In every branch, hospitals, schools and churches built by the W. M. S., the work has extended each year. Houses in which the missionaries were not allowed are now offered to the society to carry on their work. There is every hope of a Christianized China before many years.

German Intrigue.

Miss Harrison spoke at length of German intrigue in China. Twenty years ago Germany sent a baron to investigate the possibilities of the coal and iron mines. He returned to report enough coal in China to supply the world for 1,000 years. Immediately Germany's nets were cast in an endeavour to bring the wealth into her hands, and with this end in view, when China began to reorganize her army, German soldiers were sent to train them. Even in such inland towns as Chento and Szchawn, 1,000 miles west of any port, German officers directed the Chinese armies.

Concluding, she said from her personal knowledge of the Germans, that though to-day the nation stands beaten, it is not crushed from another attempt at world dominion.

Meeting Interrupted.

A novel feature was introduced into the general business of the meeting, when the session was interrupted by the wedding of Mr. W. H. Wheeler and Miss McKinlay. The delegates paused in their work while Mr. Greatrix married the young couple.

Thankfulness.

Mrs. John Speer gave an interesting address on "Thankfulness," touching upon the great gratitude due to God for the cessation of the war.

ROYAL ARMS NEEDED AS FINISHING TOUCH TO THE COURT ROOM

In their desire to furnish the court room to the last essential detail the County Council intimated to Judge Huycke that they would be glad to receive any suggestions he had to offer. Yesterday afternoon His Honour pointed out several inadvertent omissions which he stated would not escape the observation of visiting judges. One of these was the royal arms over the bench, a traditional symbol of the King's court. During the fire the old coat of arms disappeared, and every search failed to discover a trace of it. Judge Huycke told the Council that this item was necessary. Some judge might take objection to its absence and make more or less trouble. Hence, the best course was to anticipate their demand for the symbol of the King's power vested in the judiciary by purchasing a new coat of arms to be placed above the judge's throne.

Judge Huycke also called attention to the omission of a mirror in the ante-room provided for the judges. By inference it was gathered that their Lordships of the Supreme Court are careful to see that their ties and hair are on straight befitting the dignity of their position. Another recommendation from His Honour was that the clock be removed from its position on the east side of the court room, and that a plaque or complete figure representing Justice be set up in its place. It was a most appropriate adornment, and indeed was found in most court rooms. Judge Huycke explained the significance of the blind folded Justice holding the scales in one hand, figurative of that "even-handed" justice that is always associated with the law courts. Under the plaque, Judge Huycke added, should be the subscription, "Fiat justitia, ruat caelum" (let justice be done though the heavens fall).

"You have made a great success of the court room," Judge Huycke said. "It is beautiful and dignified. There is a slight echo, but I don't know whether that can be well disposed of."

LIMITED SUPPLY OF COAL FOR FARMERS

Fuel Commission Met Last Evening —The Resolution.

The Fuel Commission met last evening in the City Clerk's office. Present were Chairman J. Wearing, M. A., Mr. A. Murray, Mr. Walter Stocker and the Secretary, City Clerk Armstrong.

Requests from four farmers for a supply of coal was received. They will be allowed small quantities of the black nugget.

Mr. Wearing intimated that he had received complaints from coal dealers that other dealers were selling coal to farmers. These dealers will be checked up by the Commission and reminded that they must not sell coal to farmers without the permission of the Commission. This regulation will be fully enforced.

The Ministerial Association will be asked to supply a copy of the resolution on fuel conservation passed by the last meeting of the ministers.

Mr. E. L. Cousins, Assisant Fuel Administrator for Ontario has forwarded forms to the city to be filled out by owners or lessees of all buildings, other than residences. No person is compelled to fill out these forms if he uses less than 20 tons of coal a year. The secretary of the commission was instructed to fill the forms out and return them to Mr. Cousins.

Kinmount Bridge Question Before the County Council

The County Council went into Finance Committee this morning and discussed the requests for grants that have been made by several patriotic organizaitons. The appeal for the Navy League claimed the committee's organizations. The appeal for the Solicitor E. A. Peck was instructed to investigate certain conditions under which a contribution may be made this week. Further action was deferred until his report has been received. Deputy-Reeve Fred. Eason occupied the chair.

The Roads and Bridges Committee, with Reeve McIntosh presiding, heard Mr. Peck's statement regarding the gathering action arising out of Victoria County's renewed demand that Peterborough assume half the cost of maintaining the Kinmount bridge. Mr. McIntosh, Warden Anderson and Reeve John Clark were appointed a committee to assist Mr. Peck in the presentation of this case before the Ontario Railway and Municipal Board.

ALL CHILDREN LOVE "SYRUP OF FIGS" FOR LIVER AND BOWELS

Give it when feverish, cross, bilious, for bad breath or sour stomach.

Look at the tongue, Mother! If coated, it is a sure sign that your little one's stomach, liver and bowels need a gentle, thorough cleansing at once.

When peevish, cross, listless, pale, doesn't sleep, doesn't eat or act naturally, or is feverish, stomach sour, breath bad; has stomach-ache, sore throat, diarrhoea, full of cold, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," and in a few hours all the foul, constipated waste, undigested food and sour bile gently moves out of its little bowels without griping, and you have a well, playful child again. again.

You needn't coax sick children to take this harmless "fruit laxative;" they love its delicious taste, and it always makes them feel splendid.

Ask your druggist for a bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly on the bottle. Beware of counterfeits sold here. MUSIC IN THE HOME

WEAKNESSES IN ENGLISH MUSICAL LIFE.

Sir Thomas Beecham points out two inherent defects in English musical life. One is the failure of educational authorities to create for the young a better standard of taste; the other is the partial failure of an exceedingly gifted group of musicians to realise and exploit their own undoubted powers. He regards the problem of education as simple, "for nearly every other country in the world can provide us with a better model for imitation than our own." The second defect is less easily remedied. English artists have not wanted encouragement in the past, but Sir Thomas is of the opinion that this encouragement has generally taken the wrong line. Initial efforts made with excellent intentions have been sporadic or misdirected. His remedy is more institutions founded on a permanent basis, more orchestras in the larger towns, more opera companies, and, to begin with, a few opera houses. These he points out, should not be asked to pay their way, a thing no one ever dreams of demanding of museums, art galleries, or public libraries.

SPALDING ON WAR'S EFFECT ON MUSIC

"Albert Spalding, formerly a well-known professional violinist, and who is now a Lieutenant in the American Aviation Service serving is interestingly quoted in the New York Sun on "Music and the War." When asked to express his views in regard to musical Italy and the effect in general that the war will have on music, Lieut. Spalding had the following to say in part.

"It is my belief that music will take a more prominent place in people's lives, and, in fact, is taking a more vital place now than ever before. Guglielmo Ferrero, the historian, once said 'Art is a pleasure without a need.' I wonder if he would repeat that statement to-day. Life, from a material standpoint, has, during the past four years, come to be made of sterner stuff than it was in the inconsequential days which preceded the war.

"People have sacrificed and suffered to the utmost extent. Material pleasures have had to be given up one by one. Distraction, luxuries and manifold interests have narrowed themselves down and become merged into one great spiritual, mental and physical effort—winning the war for democracy.

"The psychological result of this will be to prepare and fit people more for the great consolation and mental uplift that art, and especially music, can give. For the pleasures of the body will be substituted the pleasures of the mind, by necessity at first and by choice afterward. Books will be read, pictures looked at and music listened to with greater interest and concentration than ever before."

AFTER THE WAR

An interesting thing after the war will be to see what happens to the plain uncritical music lover, who starts concert going after abstention of two or three years. Some, no doubt, who were just beginning, after considerable practice, to follow the subtler windings of modern music will have lost some of their technique of hearing, and will find much of the newer music a closed door to them. They will revert with a sigh of relief, to the familiar good things. They will have for company all the men, who after the nervous tension of the war, will relax emotionally, and will fly for consolation to the music that has within it the eternal simple verities. On the other hand, there will presumably be many whom their experiences will have keyed up to such a pitch that in music, as in politics, old shibboleths will be the merest sawdust, and even simple accepted truths will appear to them as shiboleths But, here again, will it be seen the war will leave the musical world very much where it is at present, so far as the tastes and appetites of the hearers are concerned.

REDEEMING FEATURES

Even the most fascinating and congenial employments have their moments of boredom, while the most dismal occupations have some redeeming features. Music teachers should make the most of the pleasant features of their work, and avoid impatience at its occasional drawbacks. As Douglas Jerold once said: "The ugliest of trades have their moments of pleasure. Now if I were a gravedigger, or even a hangman, there are some people whom I could work for with a good deal of enjoyment.

Wonderful Accomplishment of Britain's Merchant Marine Told to County Council

In Support of Navy League's Appeal for Grant of $9,000 for the Disabled Sailors and Families of the Men Who Lost Their Lives in the Almost Unnoticed Service of Transportation.

THEIR HAZZARD UNRECOGNIZED

Probably the last request to the County Council for a patriotic grant was made yesterday in behalf of the unsung heroes of the Merchant Marine by a deputation from the Peterboro branch of the Navy League including Rev. J. A. McKenzie president of the Ministerial Association, and Lieut. Elliott of Toronto representing the Ontario Division of the League. The other members present from the Peterboro branch were Judge Huycke, president, W. H. Dunsford, treasurer, A. L. Killaly, W. R. Morris J. G. Campazzi, J. A. Aylmer and C. H. Pennefather.

The contribution expected from the county and city of Peterboro, Lieut. Elliott said, was $20,000. The amount apportioned to the County was $10,000 but Lakefield and Havelock had given a total of $1,000, and the balance of $9,000 was suggested as the Council's grant. The request was referred to the Finance Committee and will be dealt with before the present session closes.

Judge Huycke congratulated the County Council on the conscientious way in which they had taken up the many patriotic demands. The members had risen to every occasion and were no doubt proud of the record they had made in the past four years.

"Though it meant much money," said His Honour, "it was worth it. The county had never been backward in taking up its end of the stick, and they have borne it willingly and well."

He declared that but for the navy and the merchant marine Canada's soldiers could not have been transported safely overseas. "For that alone we owe a debt of gratitude. Furthermore, the cheese, grain and other supplies produced by our farmers was carried by the mercantile marine, guarded by the British navy. Hence there is a debt in money that we should consider, but above all that is what they did for the Empire of which we are proud to form a part. The war would not have lasted six months but for the navy."

APPEAL FROM KING GEORGE

Judge Huycke explained that there were no pensions for the disabled sailors of the Merchant marine, nor for the families of those who had lost their lives in the service. The present appeal came from King George to help for the time being until other provision was made for these dependents. His Honour asked the members of the Council to work in their respective communities in the interests of the Navy League, to inform the people of its purposes and to endeavour to form local branches.

DEPENDENTS NUMBER 40,000

Rev Mr. McKenzie ably supported the appeal. Fifteen thousand merchant sailors had given their lives in the war, leaving forty thousand dependents. "It is for us to do our share to lighten the anxious burden that presses upon the wives and mothers and children who have been left behind," he said.

MEANS 50 CENTS A HEAD

Ontario had been asked to raise fifty cents per capita, Mr. W. R. Morris explained, and the city of Peterboro had given $11,000. Lakefield and Havelock had made nearly their fifty cents a head, and the same basis might be considered for the rest of the county. The money was to be used for the men of the Merchant Marine, who had manned the transports and mine sweepers.

A WONDERFUL RECORD

Lieut. Elliott's speech was a rapid fire of pregnant facts that told ever so briefly something of the wonderful record of the Merchant Marine in the accomplishment of the defeat of Germany and her allies. The Merchant Marine had transported 22,000,000 troops, and 91,000,000 tons of food. Likewise it carried 400,000 Canadian soldiers to Europe and never lost a man. The marine made it possible for Canada to export $909,000,000 worth of supplies, and $1,800,000,000 worth of munitions. Before the war these sailors received $15 a month, but this was increased to $60 when war broke out. Neither pensions nor separation allowances are provided for them and their dependants, and they are unable to obtain insurance.

LOST IN NAVY'S EVOLUTION

"Britain's right arm is her navy, and the army is her left," said Lieut. Elliott, "but the Merchant Marine is recognized by neither. At one time men for the navy were recruited from the Merchant Marine, but with the coming of the cruisers the Admiralty was forced to secure and train her own crews. In this way they lost sight of the Merchant Marine. Four thousand merchantmen have been prisoners of war, but they never received a box. One hundred and seventy-six of ships that left England were never heard of again. Fifteen thousand sailors were lost with them, and forty thousand dependants were left behind."

Both Judge Huycke and Lieut. Elliott referred to the Navy League canvass in the city that had produced $11,000 of which $2,000 was from the City Council. His Honour explained that the City Council did not have sufficient funds to enable them to make a larger contribution, but they promised that if more money was needed they would provide for it next year.

ANOTHER TRIBUTE TO PETERBORO

Lieut. Elliott stated that he knew from his own experience that Peterboro had sent one of the best battalions seen at Barriefield. It had field kitchens, recreation tents, and all comforts. Peterboro had carried her share of the Victory Loan splendidly.

"The sailor has never asked anything from you yet," he added. The quota expected from Peterboro county and city for the Navy League was $20,000. "Your share of that would be $10,000", said Lieut. Elliott, "but $1,000 should be deducted as the contribution from Lakefield and Havelock."

SPANISH INFLUENZA STRIKES ITS VICTIM WITHOUT WARNING

Pneumonia Often Results, Making Precaution Doubly Necessary.

Much of the difficulty experienced by health authorities in checking the spread of the Spanish influenza lies in the fact that it strikes its victim without warning.

Although authorities are taking every possible precaution in their effort to stop the spread of the epidemic, the disease in many sections of the country has gotten entirely beyond control and is claiming its victims by the thousands.

It is universally agreed by all well informed persons that the surest preventative is to get the system in the best possible physical condition in order to be able to throw off the infection. As has been previously stated it is possible to perfect the powers of resistance of the human system so that it can throw off almost any infection, not excepting Spanish influenza, which is one of the most contagious diseases known.

Medical authorities agree that people who are weak and run-down are the earliest victims of the influenza epidemic. If you find yourself weak or losing flesh, or if you are in a generally run-down condition, you are really in great danger if you should come in contact with the influenza germ.

As a powerful reconstructive tonic and system builder, Tanlac is without equal. This is a statement of facts and is fully supported by recognized authorities. According to all accepted reference works, including the United States Dispensatory, Encyclopedia Britannica and leading text books used in the school of medicine, the principal ingredients of Tanlac possess the most valuable tonic properties known to science. This statement is further proven by the fact that millions of persons who have actually taken Tanlac have testified to its extraordinary merit as a medicine.

Tanlac restores health and strength to the weak and run-down system by enabling every organ of the body to perform its proper function in nature's own way. It creates a strengthening tonic for persons who are in a run-down condition and who are suffering from the after-effects of influenza, Grippe or Bronchial troubles.

Tanlac is sold in Peterborough by W. B. Warne Drug Co., Ltd., in Havelock by A. C. Denike, in Lakefield by Tanner Drug Co., Ltd., in Fowlers Corners by W. A. Hunter, in Gelert by A. J. Scott, in Westwood by G. Pringle & Son.

Fiercest Fighting at Cambrai Writes Lance-Corp. Leo Sullivan

Killed German Officer With Rifle Butt and Called Machine Gun That Wiped Out Thirty-six of the Enemy—Was Worse Than Vimy.

IS SERIOUSLY ILL —

A glimpse of the battle of Cambrai, in which the Canadians smashed the Hindenburg line on Sep 27, is presented in the following letter from Lce.-Corp. Leo Sullivan to his brother Mr. J. E. Sullivan, 468 Gilmour street. Lce.-Corp. Sullivan enlisted with the 155th, Batt of Belleville, had been through two years and one half of the fighting and was previously wounded in 1916. At Cambrai he was wounded and gassed, and although his letter of Oct. 4 indicated that he was sufficiently well to write, complications subsequently set in and in the three recent letters from nurses report his condition grave. Prayers for his recovery were offered at St. Peter's Cathedral on Sunday. Two of his brothers are with the American forces, on of them being with the Flying corps. He is a Dnuro Township boy, but went overseas from Belleville. His interesting letter is as follows:

October 4th, 1918

Dear Brother Jack:—

I am writing to inform you of my return to England, after being wounded and gassed at Cambrai. I arrived here last night and was indeed glad to get away from France, as it is a perfect hell now I have been through all the big battles during the summer, but Cambrai was the worst of all I could not begin to tell you what it was like. I thought we had it rough on Sept 21, when we took the Canal du Nord, but the battle of Cambrai has anything beaten I ever went through even Vimy. We were advancing over one hill and Fritz had his heavy artillery on the other, a short distance away, and was firing point blank on us. Oh! the sights were something terrible. I have been in several battles and over the top, but never before got close enough to a Hun to use my rifle butt. It was different, however, at Cambrai; we were into it hand to hand and made good use of the bayonet and rifle butt.

We captured a battery of his heavy guns. I was up on the bank and there was a Frits officer down in the gun pit. I called to him to come out but he refused and I started down after him when he fired three shots. The first hit me in the left arm, the second broke my entrenching tool and the third went wild. I did not use my bayonet, but caught my rifle by the muzzle and, swinging with all my strength, hit him on the head with the butt, so he was "Napoo" I then called for the machine gun and with one blast from it, we killed thirty-six.

I will tell you the way Fritz is fighting now. He has two officers with every machine gun section and if the men don't stand and fight to the last inmate, the officers shoot them down.

We captured an officer the other day and he said the Canadians did did not fight fair, that we got behind them. There was a big woods and Fritz had it consolidated so that we could not get him with a frontal attack, so we just surrounded them and made a clean-up.

It is great sport chasing the Fritz. If it was only the machine gun fire, it would not be so bad, but oh! the shells. When he gets his guns back and set, then you would imagine hell had broken open. You have no idea what those shells are like. He has the 5-9" shell, also the 11" and they make a hole ten to twelve feet deep and twenty feet square. You can imagine what it is like to be near when they explode. When we took Upton woods I was near a bursting shell and was lifted off my feet and landed in a shell-hole about fifteen feet away, but was not injured only dazed for a few moments, and then up and away again.

I will close as I have nothing more of interest just now. Best love,

From LEO.

Poultrymen Met Last Evening

Getting Ready for the Big Show to be Held in January.

The Peterborough Poultry Association held its regular monthly meeting in the Labour Hall last night. President Geo. Paxman was in the chair, and there was a fair attendance of officers and members. The secretary reported that a greater number of applications for prize lists from outside points had been received than ever before at so early a date. The printing committee reported that the list was well on the way and would be ready for the printer very shortly.

As the time draws near for the annual show, the boys become more enthusiastic, and they are all working hard in order to make it greater and better than ever. There will be several demonstrations put on by the Poultry Branch of the Department of Agriculture, and in order to successfully stage some of these it will be necessary to secure more floor space. Consequently it was decided to secure the armouries for the annual show, which will be held on January 7th, 8th and 9th, and Secretary Fred Holmes was instructed to get in communication with the proper authorities at once.

It was also announced last night that the services of Canada's most popular and competent judge, Mr. Wm. McNeil, of London, had been secured to place the awards at the coming show.

A letter was received from W. W. Lord, secretary of the Water Fowl Association of Canada, announcing that there would be a bumper exhibit of water fowl and turkeys at the Peterborough show in January.

The next regular meeting will be held in the Labour Hall on Wednesday night, Dec. 11th.

Canada's Revenue is Nearly Double Pre-War Figure

OTTAWA, Nov. 28.—The Dominion revenue, for the fiscal year ending March 31st, 1918, as a result of the success of the business profits taxation, income and other taxes, will reach nearly three hundred million dollars. This will be sufficient to meet the interest on our debt, the pensions account, all domestic administrative expenditure, and pay off probably one hundred million dollars of this year's war expenses.

This enormous revenue, almost double that before the war, will be reached despite the considerable drop in Customs revenue due to restrictions on imports. If the same revenue could be continued, Canada, despite her pensions bill, which may total $60,000,000 a year, and interest on her debt which will reach from forty million to fifty million dollars, would be able to pay off her war debt at the rate of a hundred million or more a year. However, without doubt, some of the taxations, such as the war profits taxation, will have to be dropped next session.

The expenditures for this coming year will be on a war basis. It will take fourteen months to demobilize the troops, while every soldier on his discharge gets three months' pay.

There has been a statement going the rounds of the press that the Minister of Finance had intimated to the provincial conference that additional revenue to the amount of $100,000,000 would have to be raised by the Federal Government through taxation during the coming year. This is without foundation. Sir Thomas White said at the conference that compared with the expenditures of the year before the war the expenditure of the Dominion during the coming year on account of additional interest upon the national debt attributable to the war and on pensions account would reach $100,000,000 or more.

SALVATION ARMY HUTS FIRST IN THE FIELD, LAST TO APPEAL TO THE PUBLIC FOR ASSISTANCE

Deputation Asked County Council Yesterday for Financial Help to Enable Them to Complete the Work That Has Been Carried on Since August, 1914.

$25,000 FROM CITY AND COUNTY

An appeal to the County Council for a generous contribution to the Salvation Army Huts fund was made yesterday afternoon by Brigadier General Gideon Miller, property secretary for the Salvation Army in Eastern Canada. He was accompanied by Col. W. J. Morehen and Adjutant Bunton of the Salvation Army, and also by J. A. Aylmer, Ald. Dobbin and G. N. Gordon.

After sketching the Salvation Army's work for the soldiers from the very first days of the war down to the present, and outlining the plans that have already been put into effect for the care of the returning men until they settle down again in civilian life, Brigadier Miller said that the Army hoped to get $25,000 or $30,000 from Peterborough city and county, and he suggested $10,000 as the county's contribution.

Mr. Aylmer introduced the several speakers, strongly recommending the work of the Salvation Army to the Council's sympathy and generosity.

"The Salvation Army has been so busy working for the soldiers that we haven't had time to ask the people for aid," Brigadier Miller explained. "We were first in the field and last to appeal to the public for their support, and we come now because we need help to carryon our work. We have in fact overdrawn our account, but we feel confident that when the people are fully aware of the extent and the success of our activities that they will give us every support.

Referring to the incention of the Army's work for the soldiers, Brigadier Miller stated that on August 18th, 1914, Lieut. Colonel Mary Murray, daughter of General Murray of the British Army, reached Belgium with a Salvation Army Corps of helpers, and had remained with the men from those first days. In recognition of her services she has been awarded one of the most coveted decorations of the war, the Mons Medal, presented by the British government. The Salvation Army's co-operation has grown since then to a vast organization that can not be adequately visualized from the statistics of the work of the past four years.

Brigadier Miller told the Council of the 45 motor ambulances, manned by Salvationists, 40 rest rooms, supplied with papers and books, in charge of the Salvation Army officers; 96 hotels for the use of sailors and soldiers overseas, with 5,317 beds; 197 huts in the army camps; 50,000 Salvation Army officers and men who fought with the Allied armies. Apart from these activities common to all the organizations that are working for the soldiers, the Salvation Army has many women in the hospitals and in huts whose influence has been everywhere recognized and appreciated as particularly desirable and beyond the scope of other associations working for the soldiers. In Ontario a chain of hostels for soldiers are being opened. There are already hostels in Toronto, Kingston, London and Chatham and others are in prospect. Roomsa nd meals are provided for returned soldiers who have no homes, practically at cost."

The provision of comforts and clean, wholesome places of amusement for the soldiers must be continued for a year or more, Brigadier Miller told the Council as an emphasis of his presentation of the needs that have not been suddenly removed with the signing of the armistice or the declaration of peace.

Support the Request.

Ald. Dobbin assured the Council that there was little probability of another public appeal for contributions to the Patriotic Fund. Hence the County could look forward to relief from this demand upon their revenue in the coming year. For that reason, apart from the merits of the Salvation Army's work, Ald. Dobbin suggested that the Council might find themselves free to make a substantial donation to this cause.

The Army Fund was also heartily commended by Mr. G. N. Gordon, who said that he was moved by his appreciation of their work to support the petition of the Army's representatives.

"My partner, Capt. Widdifield, who has just returned from France, tells me that the Salvation Army is one of the most wonderful institutions at the front. He said that it was worthy of a place with the Red Cross and the Army Medical Corps."

Mr. Gordon mentioned the moral support the Army had given to many men, saving them from the dangers of leave.

The Army's request was referred to the Finance committee which is composed of all the members of the Council, with Deputy-Reeve Eason, of Otonabee, chairman.

Voice of The People

To the Editor of the Examiner:—

Dear Sir,—Not being able to attend the public meeting tonight I would like to state that I heartily agree with Mr. Patterson in his suggestion for a permanent artistic memorial of the present war. To my mind this memorial and the building required by the Veterans are both needed and should not be treated as alternatives. This city and county should not hesitate to erect a suitable building at once for the purposes outlined by the present President of the G.W.V. the night of the election. We owe it to them without question and my opinion is that it should be paid for out of the funds of the city and county. On the other hand there should also be erected a fitting memorial which will be standing long after the present generation has passed away. My opinion is that this should be a work of art symbolic of the efforts put forth by all who did their share in winning this war—men and women alike. I feel that this should be paid for by public subscription and should be of a nature to be source of pride to the city. Someone suggested a huge granite boulder and it reminded me that some say that Stonehenge was built to celebrate victory. At least it has stood the test of time. My plea would be for something which would be a pleasure to look upon.

It is reported that in Italy every town has what is called a "Golden Book" containing the names and records of all who enlisted in the war. These are to be kept in the archives. Peterborough would do well to record now for the knowledge of posterity the names of all those who had the vision and the courage to take up arms from here.

Yours truly,
JOSEPH WEARING.

KING SAVES COAL TOO.

(By United Press).

LONDON, Nov. 10. (By Mail). — The King is busy cutting down his coal ration.

With the Queen and the Court he has returned to London and to a fireless palace. A plan to economize fuel is in operation in all the Royal palaces. In Buckingham Palace, Windsor Castle and Sandringham the grates have been bricked up and the number of fires greatly reduced.

By Royal command the household fires have not yet been set going for the winter. Lighting of passages, corridors and ante-rooms has been cut down by more than half, and in the King's private apartments a similar practice has been followed.

MUNITION WORKERS FACE CHEERLESS CHRISTMAS

American Contracts Cancelled—Government Has Done Nothing to Relieve the Situation.

(Special to The Examiner.)

TORONTO, Nov. 28.—With the cancellation of American war contracts in Canada the munition workers of Toronto are faced with a cheerless Christmas. Local firms engaged in the manufacture of munitions have recived intimation through the United States Ordnance Department of the Imperial Munitions Board to the effect that the munitions now being supplied to the United States Ordnance are not now required, and that the production is to cease under the terms of the various contracts. Some of the contracts contain a clause which will give the munition factories a month for the date of cancellation in which to close up on munition work. Other contracts are interpreted to mean that all work must cease immediately notice of cancellation is received. Many contracts have been signed for work which was not to be commenced until January 1919, and these will not be executed. Approximately 15,000 munition workers are at present engaged on American contracts in Toronto, and as far as can be ascertained practically the whole of these men and women will be out of employment within the next thirty days. Few firms have as yet any plan for working on a peace footing, and all are agreed that for some time to come they will not require anything like the same number of employees to carry on. Practically nothing has been done by the Government to deal with the situation.

PROFITABLE SOUVENIRS.

(By United Press.)

TOKIO, Nov. 2.—(By Mail.)—The first American war savings stamps have just been placed on sale in Tokio and Yokohama, and are proving quite a curiosity. As the number on hand is limited, the stamps are being snapped up as souvenirs of the war.

Inspiring Addresses by Well Known Speakers at St. Paul's

"What are We to Do With the Fighting Instinct Now That the War is Over?"—Asked Dr. Sedgwick, of Hamilton.

Dr. Sedgwick of Hamilton, Rev. R. B. Cochrane, B.D., of Toronto, and Hon. Mr. Justice L. Sutherland, also of Toronto, were the speakers last evening at St. Paul's Presbyterian church. The meeting was under the auspices of the Peterborough Presbytery, which is at present holding sessions in the city for the purpose of furthering the forward movement. Rev. J. P. McInnes, of Omemee, the Moderator, presided.

"I do not think that the Allied nations made it too harsh for the conquered enemy," said Dr. Sedgwick, the first speaker. It was reported that the Germans when surrendering their fleet to the British, asked a written guarantee of good faith that the Hun prisoners would be well taken care of.

"It is enough that you are going to England," was Admiral Beatty's laconic reply.

There is no undue tendency to a feeling of invincibility on the part of those who have won. The pride of conquest has been silenced by the sense of a great deliverance. Domestic, financial and political problems will need solutions, but there is one problem more perplexing which must be solved by the Christian people and the Christian church. What are we to do with the instinct that has formed an outlet during four years of war—the fighting instinct. It is not enough that we make war no more. We must learn the arts of peace. We must turn to agricultural, educational and religious pursuits.

Rev. R. B. Cochrane, B.D.

Rev. R. B. Cochrane, B.D., a well known minister, and who conducted the anniversary services at St. Paul's church over a year ago, made a plea for the Presbyterian church. He produced figures showing that although the Presbyterian church was steadily growing, yet the number of young men entering the ministerial field was decreasing instead of increasing.

"What is the war to come after the war?" asked Mr. Cochrane.

"What is the world programme?" I believe that there is only one organization among men who are capable of uniting Christendom in a world campaign. That is the Christian church. We must gain more men to enter the service of the church.

Mr. Justice Sutherland.

Mr. Justice Sutherland, a distinguished member of the Supreme Court of Ontario, gave a brief outline of the history and traditions of Ontario, what it stood for and its attitude in this, the Great War.

"Britishers at present are taking a great pride in their king, their country and their Empire. The finances, the navy and the army saved Britain, but above all good faith. Her self-sacrifice has won the respect of the Allies, and also the neutrals. She also won at first the respect and then the fear of the Hun. The position of the king is a great one, but as we look back to the early days of the war and see how close we were to destruction and our armies with their backs to the wall. Then came the sudden breaking up of the enemy. It was the King of Kings and Lord of Lords who gave us the victory.

Civilization and Christianity failed before this war began.

One of the greatest elements of stewardship is the handing down of the traditions of our ancestors, and another great stewardship is the respect toward the returned soldier.

TRACTION MAGNATES KITE FARES TO 1½ CENTS.

(By United Press).

TOKIO, Nov. 3. (By Mail).—Kobe residents are kicking because of the rise in street car fares which was instituted Nov. 1. The new rate, 2 cents, includes a transit tax of half a penny and commands universal transfers.

Those who buy $1.50 books of tickets pay about one and one-third cents a ride.

The increased fares are expected to speed up efficiency of conductors, who get more pay, and also to reduce crowding, as ten more cars are added, increasing the total number in operation to 70. In Tokio, the street car fare is almost two and one-third cents a ride, with transfers anywhere. In Yokohoma the fare is 2 cents, but the car line doesn't serve any part of the city that is frequently by foreigners, so rikisha men get all the foreign custom.

LADIES! DARKEN YOUR GRAY HAIR

Use Grandma's Sage Tea and Sulphur Recipe and Nobody Will Know.

The use of Sage and Sulphur for restoring faded, gray hair to its natural colour dates back to grandmother's time. She used it to keep her hair beautifully dark, glossy and attractive. Whenever her hair took on that dull, faded or streaked appearance, this simple mixture was applied with wonderful effect.

But brewing at home is mussy and out-of-date. Nowadays, by asking at any drug store for a 50-cent bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get this famous old preparation, improved by the addition of other ingredients, which can be depended upon to restore natural colour and beauty to the hair.

A well-known downtown druggist says it darkens the hair so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, it becomes beautifully dark and glossy.

Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound is a delightful toilet requisite for those who desire a more youthful appearance. It is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.

FOCH'S ATTITUDE COLD BUT POLITE SAYS HUN ENVOY

"Enmity and Hatred" Shown Only in "Hard Conditions" of Armistice.

AMSTERDAM, Nov. 22.—The armistice conference between the German delegates and Marshal Foch and his associates, which were held early this month, were carried out in the most business-like manner possible, and apparently without notable incidents, according to a long account of the conference given the Berlin Vossische Zeitung by a member of the German party.

After the French met the German commissioners they were driven for ten hours in automobiles to an appointed rendezvous. "It seemed to me," says the narrator, "that the drive was intentionally prolonged in order to carry us through the devasted provinces and prepare us for the hardest conditions which hatred and revenge might demand. One of the Frenchmen pointed to a heap of ruins, saying, 'Behond St. Quentin.'

"We entered a train, with blinds drawn, in the evening, and awoke in the morning in the midst of the forest of Compiegne, surrounded by soldiers.

"There were two trains, one occupied by Marshal Foch and his staff and the other by the Germans. In these we lived, worked and negotiated for three days. We had everything in abundance. There was nothing to find fault with. The great enmity and hatred that apparently prevailed against us were shown, however, in the negotiations and in the terms imposed."

The narrator remarks that the French officers and Vice-Admiral Wemyss, British representative, maintained a cold attitude. "Never tempered by a friendly word."

Marshal Foch, whom we only saw twice, at the beginning and at the end of the conference, is a stern, plain man. He did not speak a single word to us in the tone which formerly distinguished the chivalrous French nation.

"It is not true that Foch told us there could not be any question of negotiations, only the imposition of conditions, and whatever coldness he displayed was never ill-mannered or rough.

"Really, there was nothing to negotiate. We pointed out the technical impossibility of some conditions.

"Finally we were obliged to sign."

During the discussion the French handed the Germans the Paris newspapers, announcing the abdication of Emperor William.

"We observed no smile of triumph on their faces," adds the writer, "but could discern their hatred."

Allies Along Ice-Filled Stream

Hold the Line Against the Bolsheviki on the Middle Section in the Region of Kadish.

ARCHANGEL, Nov. 28. — In log huts and wind shelters made of birch boughs, American and Allied troops are holding the line against the Bolsheviki on the middle sector of the northern front in the region of Kadish. After ten weeks of fighting in swamps and thick undergrowth, the Allies are now snowed in and are bivouacked along an ice-filled stream on the opposite bank of which are the camp fires of the enemy.

Under British command and co-operating with British forces, the American infantrymen on this sector probably have had more fighting and more hardships than any other American units in Russia. The force has been operating between the Dvina River and the Vologda railroad through a territory of swamps and forests. The roads have been in bad condition and the only means of transporting supplies to a greater part of the front has been wheelbarrow-shaped carts drawn by sturdy Russian ponies.

Began in August.

The campaign began early in August, when a British and French force entered Seletskoe, a large village about midway between the Dvina and the railroad on the river Emtsa. They were forced to move to another sector and the Bolsheviki occupied the town only to be driven out a few weeks later when American reinforcements arrived. Since early in September the opposing forces have battled back and forth along the road leading toward Petrograd through tiny five-house villages.

Seletskoe has changed hands twice and the village of Kadish, which is near where the road crosses the Emtsa River, twenty miles south of Seletskoe, was captured by the Americans in the fighting. The village is now in the hands of the enemy.

The Bolsheviki at times try the force of their "oratorical artillery" on the Allies. On two nights during the last week English-speaking Bolsheviki appeared in no man's land and made speeches advising the Americans not to fight. Great red banners printed in English also are strung along the enemy bank of the river.

American troops also are operating on the Mehrenga River, 50 miles south of Seletskoe, and in a more thickly populated country. The villages there are strongly anti-Bolsheviki and Russian detachments are aiding the Allies. On Wednesday a Russian detachment surprised and defeated an enemy force, killing nearly 100.

Confesses Murder to Save Girl From the Electric Chair

DISSUADED BY PAL FROM KILLING ACCUSED GIRL AT TIME OF DEED.

NEW YORK, November 28. — Jas. Regan, a Sing Sing convict, has confessed that it was he who killed Mrs. Helen Hamel in her boarding house here last February, exonerating Miss Elizabeth Baksa, of Freemanburg, Pa., 19 years old, now on trial charged with the murder.

Regan declared that he had intended also to kill the Pennsylvania girl when she came into Mrs. Hamel's house, where she roomed, just after he had strangled the elder woman to death. The pleadings of a "pal" in the crime, who said, "don't do that, Jim. One is enough," induced him, he said, to let Miss Baksa go.

MUST SAVE GIRL FROM CHAIR.

Convicted six times of burglary and grand larceny, and sentenced last May, three months after the murder, to the term he is now serving, Regan told the district attorney, after ten hours of questioning, which terminated at 2 o'clock in the morning, that he could not allow an innocent girl to go to the electric chair for a crime which he had committed.

He refused to divulge the name of his accomplice, but said that they were robbing Mrs. Hamel's house, when she discovered them and began to scream. Regan killed her, he confessed, by knotting a towel around her throat to suppress her cries.

GIRL'S TRIAL IS ADJOURNED.

Regan wrote from his cell to Judge Rosalsky, asserting that Miss Baksa did not commit the murder and that he would tell who did, after he had read in the newspapers of the trial. He refused at first to give any details of the crime unless he was promised immunity from prosecution, but finally made a full confession, which he said that he would swear to in court. It is expected that if his story on investigation, is found to be true, he will be permitted to plead guilty to manslaughter. Pending this inquiry the Baksa trial was recessed until next Monday.

Sunday School Lesson Questions

Joseph sold by his brothers. Gen. 37:18-28.

Golden Text: Hatred stirreth up strifes, but love covereth all transgressions. Prov. 10:12

1. Verse 18. When a man would like to kill another, what reason have we for thinking that God records against him he sin of murder, whether he kills him or not?

2. What had Joseph done to his brothers that they conspired to slay him?

3. What is it that real goodness and ability frequently stir jealousy and hatred, instead of aprobation and love?

4. Verses 19. 20. Which is the more Culpable, to devise evil in cold blood or to execute the evil thus devised?

5. What was the experience of these brothers, concerning peace or enjoyment, while they were plotting murder in their hearts?

6. What reason is there, if any, to believe that bad men can either temporarily or permanently upset Gods plans?

7. Verses. 21. 22. Did Reuben act well under the circumstances as was possible, and why should you say, or not, that he did well to conceal his real motives concerning Joseph?

8. Why is it right or wrong to even plan for a minor moral evil, to prevent an evil of greater gravity, as illustrated in this case, and for example, in licensing the liquor traffic and, in some countries, the social evil?

9. Verse 23. Would you say or not, and why, that Joseph bore all this indignity and equanimity, or in oriental fashion, manifested grief and terror?

10. Verse 24. They put Joseph into a pit to dies by starvation; when envy reigns in the heart, what is the limit of its cruelty?

11. We learn from Gen. 42:21 that Joseph besought them in great soul anguish to spare his life. But their malice was only increased. How do you explain that the more barbarous an act is, the more malice is gratified? (This is one of the quesions which may be answered in writing by members of the club.)

12. Verse 25. Whose lot would you rather covet, and why, Joseph in the pit, or the brothers eating bread in pit or the brothers eating bread a he mouth of the pit?

13. Verse 25. What reason is there to believe that the righteous at the time of his sorest trial, is more blessed, than the wicked at the time of his greatest triumph?

14. Verses 26, 27. "What profit" is there in the most delicious sin?

15. Was Judah's plea to sell Joseph as a slave rather than let him slowly die in the pit, prompted by pity or by profit, and why?

16. Verses 26, 27. How do you trace the hand of God in this change in their murderous programme?

17. Verse 28. Would you say or not and why, that it was a part of God's original plan that Joseph should be sold into Egypt in this way,

18. If Joseph could have seen the end from the beginning his heart would have shouted for joy as he was lead away into slavery; what is the certain proof, that the experience of Joseph is truly prophetic of the results of all trouble to true Christians?

Brian Claims The Right To Take Molly Out In Ruth's Absence

CHAPTER LI.

Ruth waited in silence for a while, then said:

"But you haven't told me where you went? I am so interested, Brian." By a desperate effort she kept her voice calm and steady.

"Oh, I went to the Della Robia room of the Vanderbilt, one night—had a snack there; and out to Claremont another night. Then to the Brevort—the place you don't like, you remember."

Brian had spoken sulkily. He had not relished the confession he was obliged to make.

"Did you have some new clients, dear?"

"No—what makes you think that?"

"Why, aren't those places terribly expensive?"

"That's right! begin about money! that's what a fellow gets for giving in and letting a woman have her own way! If I hadn't consented to your going to work for that Mandel, you wouldn't have dreamed of quizzing me about what I did with my money. I'—

"Why, Brian! I had no idea of 'quizzing' you. I simply asked if those places weren't expensive. Of course you have a right to spend your money as you please," anxious now to placate him, "but Brian, please don't borrow again. I can let you have a little if you need it, I only thought perhaps you had made some extra money and for that reason you felt you could afford to go to such expensive places."

Brian made no reply, but sulked the remainder of the evening. While Ruth wondered how she was going to make him reasonable if he became angry any time they talked.

After he had gone to sleep, she rose quietly and tucked a ten dollar bill in his vest pocket, the pocket where he kept his change. He would be sure to find it there. Then she crept back to bed. That, with the twenty she had given him in the morning, would perhaps prevent his borrowing.

The next morning at breakfast he himself brought up the subject:

"Now see here Ruth, we might as well have this thing out! If you go away and leave me to eat alone for a week at a time, I shall take Mollie King or someone else with me and eat out. If you stay at home like a woman should and attend to your house, I'll come home too. That's fair. Anyway, its what I shall do."

"I said nothing against your taking Miss King to dinner," her heart sinking. And I think you have a right to take her or anyone you want to. I trust you Brian, perfectly. But perhaps it may cause talk if you take ONLY Miss King. Talk about HER I mean," she added, seeing the quick frown at her words.

"I'll risk that! Mollie isn't afraid of Mrs. Grundy anyway. The girls in the village aren't as a rule."

"But you wouldn't want unkind things said of her because she went out with you—a married man?"

"I'll look after that, too."

Ruth said no more. What was the use when Brian was in his present mood? By putting the onus on her, he had robbed her of all her arguments. She smiled a little as she though tha always follows or comes else from a lawyer. So, to change the subject she began to talk of his work.

"Now that we are settled so nicely, Brian, why don't you bring your books home and read a little law at night? I want you to be a famous lawyer some day. You can if you try." Ruth had tried very hard to be tactful with Brian. She realized only lately his intense egotism. That he could do anything he set his mind upon. So she now told him "You can if you try."

"Oh, I'm getting on all right."

"I know you are dear, but I want you get on faster, if possible. I don't mean the money, Brian, although tha always follows or comes with success, but I want you to become known in your profession. By the way, I asked Mrs. Crawford if she knew anything about that nice couple who live across the hall, and she said he was a young lawyer with offices on Pine Street. His name is Roberts. Kenyon Roberts. I do hope they will call.

"They probably will after a while." Brian was interested in spite of himself.

"It would be so nice to know them. We could occasionally play bridge, or something in the evening.

"Yes—if you stay at home." Brian said slow to relinquish his grievance even for an hour.

"I shall not go away for some time, Mr. Mandel said so." Ruth was looking directly at Brian as she spoke. She was surprised and hurt to see, instead of the deight she thought to see, a look very much like disappointment cross his face.

Could it be that he was having so good a time with Mollie King—that, in spite of his grouching and blustering, he was glad to be left free to be with her?

To-morrow—Kenyon Roberts and His Wife Call Upon Ruth and Brian.

CANADA TO HELP TOMMIES.

Woman Would Have Soldiers Develop Saskatchewan Farms.

When Tommy comes home "after the war," he will find many kindly hands stretched out to help him in the tedious task that awaits him of reconstructing his life.

One of the most interesting of these offers of help comes from a Canadian, who states that she is prepared to "give 3,000 acres in the Carrot river valley (about fifteen miles from the town of Tisdale), Saskatchewan, on the condition that money can be provided to develop it into twenty" farms for discharged British soldiers, their wives and families. These are excellent black loam agricultural lands, quite level and ready for development. There is plenty of water and the roads are made—somewhat rough, as they are in any part just opening up—and the railway is nowhere more than twenty miles distant."

The writer of the above letter, addressed to the editor of the Army and Navy Gazette, London, is a Miss Wallace-Farries, daughter of an American mother and Scottish father, who was born and bred in Canada, where she farmed successfully for many years, before crossing over to England to help in the big fight in the capacity of ambulance driver.

The proposed gift of 3,000 acres of "good" Canadian land for British soldiers must be broken up, planted with wheat; a shack and stabling accommodation must be provided, and the future tenant started, with about three horses, three cows and the usual farming implements. Otherwise there would be the risk of men's becoming discouraged through having to wait too long for results, and the difficulty of providing for their families in the meantime.

Miss Wallace-Farries would like to see her little colony that-is-to-be watched over by some one who had graduated from an agricultural college and would act as adviser and scientific agricultural expert in such matters as the best kind of machinery to use; the best kind of antidote to employ should a new weed crop up; some one, in a word, who would "understand farming inside and out."

Such a small beginning might form the nucleus of an ever-growing colony of men—men who want to get "on the land," and who left their jobs when "their king and country needed them," to the extent of one out of every four males, from birth to nonogenarian, in the entire population of the British Isles.

PROVED GENIUS IN GREAT WAR

Lord Shaughnessy Faced Unique Conditions.

HE HAS NOW RETIRED

President of Canadian Pacific Railway Took Office While Still Young and His Record Is One of Remarkable Achievement In the Building Up of Country—Climax Four Years Ago.

LORD SHAUGHNESSY retires from the presidency of the Canadian Pacific Railway after a special four-years' proof of genius. From August, 1914, the railway company was in the war in a peculiar and vital way. Plans had to be devised. Troops had to be transported, terminals had to be guarded. The company's confidential agents uncovered many plots to break the service, by blowing up tunnels, by destroying bridges, by sinking ships, and by killing soldiers in transit. Co-operation with the Government secret service put an end to the plotting and finished the career of most of the plotters. All the ocean liners of the C.P.R. were put at the disposal of the Admiralty. Several of them were torpedoed at sea. Yet Lord Shaughnessy at his last public appearance in Toronto said that despite the losses, the tonnage under control of the company was larger than before the war.

LORD SHAUGHNESSY.

The plan of operating temporarily all the railways of the country under a Joint War Board was accepted eagerly by the Canadian Pacific Railway Co., and the experience of the high officials thrown into the common fund. Thus roundabout routing of freight was avoided and the best possible use was made of the railway resources of the country. It is unnecessary to mention in detail all the sharp difficulties which the company met, particularly in the purchase of supplies, and by reason of the shortage of labor, skilled and unskilled. The Government and the country know that Lord Shaughnessy's administration during the war has been marked by uncommon brilliance and vigor.

It is interesting to see another young man in high office. The retiring president, while he was yet in his forties, was appointed to succeed Mr. Van Horne. So, after the C.P.R. manner, Mr. E. W. Beatty comes to his own at the driving age of 41. Educated like any other Toronto boy of good parentage, at public school, high school, and university, he studied law and almost immediately joined the legal staff of the Canadian Pacific. His rise has been steady, as his ability and industry have been proved. No native Canadian has a bigger task. The direction of so great a corporation during the coming days of reconstruction will test Mr. Beatty to the last mental sinew.

Your Labor Counts—every ounce of work you do helps some soldier who is fighting over there! This war is being fought as truly in the household and in the work-shop as it is in the trenches.

Some of our Canadian women are borne down physically and mentally, by the weaknesses of their sex. They suffer from backache, dragging sensation, very nervous and pain in top of head. If they ask their neighbors they will be told to take a Favorite Prescription of Dr. Pierce's which has been so well and favorably known for the past half century.

Weak women should try it now. Don't wait! Begin today. This woman's tonic and nervine will bring vim, vigor and vitality. Send Dr. V. M. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., 10c for trial pkg., tablets.

Paris, Ont.—"About three year ago I was ill in bed and suffered severe pain. The doctor said I had gall stones, but his medicine did not help me. A neighbor had been taking 'Favorite Prescription' and it had benefited her so much that she urged me to try some of hers, and that first dose helped me so much that I sent at once for a bottle. I was very much surprised at the prompt relief this medicine gave to me after the doctor had failed, and I have never had such a spell since, but whenever I feel the least bit run down or in need of a tonic I take 'Favorite Prescription' again for a few days. It has never failed to restore me to perfect health."—Mrs. Elizabeth Brown, P. O. Box 763.

The Aeolian-Vocalion

"The Vocalion produces the sort of music we want in our home"

"I was intensely interested by the very first record that was played for us by the Vocalion. The black disc which upon many a machine had sent its typical talking machine tone to my ears—the self-same disc under the sound box of the Vocalion filled the room with the wonderful throbbing tone of a 'cello.

"Ah! here was genuine music. I fairly could see the swing of the bow, the strong, nimble fingers of the cellist leaping upon the strings.

"Before we heard any more we had determined that there was a place in our home for the Vocalion.

"It was not until later that we understood the full significance of the Vocalion expression device—the Graduola. How greatly the actual practice of musicianship adds to the pleasure of listening to music, experience alone can disclose."

OUR DAILY SHORT STORY

"A Delightful Romance"

By MARY CLAY HARPOLE

Zip! Gordon Blake threw up his hand involuntarily as a whizzing object grazed his ear, decided it was some insect in swift flight, and resumed his way down the tree-lined country road.

Bing! This time he felt the contact of a small hard substance, which struck his collar, glanced and rolled along the ground in front of him. He picked it up to view a minute, round pebble.

"Somebody making a target of me," he soliloquized, glancing all around, but no one was in sight. Then he walked on a bit, slipped into a nest of bushes and, kept his eye keenly set back along the route he had come.

A straw-hatted, blue-jeaned farmer came down the road driving a drowsy team. A clay pipe was between the lips of the ruralite. Suddenly—crack! and, neatly as if struck by a rifle bullet, the bowl of the pipe parted from the stem.

"Whoa!" yelled the startled, dozing one, and swiftly dismounted. Whip in hand he walked straight up to a tree, glanced up and yelled out: "I see you. Trot down here and take your medicine!"

There was the whisk of a nimble figure through the branches and a bright-eyed, pleasant-faced lad descended to the ground.

"Hold on, now," he hailed, with a roguish twinkle in his eye as the farmer raised his whip. "It was only this sling-shot and a few small pebbles. Don't hit me till I explain that I'm in the service."

"Service? What? How?," demanded the farmer suspiciously.

"U. S. A., of course. I can't go to the front, but I'm practicing to get expert when I can go. See? And I have to take what targets come along. You see, I'm a sniper."

Just then Blake emerged from his covert. He placated the farmer by offering him a cigar, and, as he returned to his wagon, addressed the boy.

"You look like a capable lad," he observed. "Do you want to make a dollar?"

"Sure I do," responded the boy promptly.

"All right. I want to get a note to a certain lady in the village. I don't want anybody but herself to get it, or see her get it. If you can't get a chance to meet her outside, try and devise some way to have it reach her."

"I'm wise," said the lad, and accepted the dollar and a small enveloped note. "Who is the lady?"

"Miss West. Do you know her?"

"I should say I did."

Now Ned Archer reached the village, hung around the home of Miss West, waited for her to come out, got tired and climbed a fence inclosing the house, weighted the note with a stone, utilized his sling-shot and sent the missile squarely through an open window.

The note was signed by Gordon Blake, a man in love, and it read: "Dear Miss West: Since your folks seem to have an aversion to me, and I fail to meet you, won't you come to the hazel dell in the little park at eight this evening and let me tell you once more how I love you, for I am leaving the town in the morning."

The weighted note sped across the room and landed against the cheek of a man seated there. Its contact quite made his face sting and tingle. He picked up the missile, inspected the note, flared red and furious, left the room, jammed his hat hard down over his head and muttered:

"Miss West will find me gone when she comes downstairs! Double dealing, eh? Another suitor.

At eight o'clock Blake, pacing a moonlit path near the favorite lovers' trysting place in the park, was rudely seized by a pouncing figure.

"You Mr. Gordon Blake?" challenged the man who had received the note by mistake.

"That's my name," assented Blake.

"Then let us see who's the best man," and the other in a fine frenzy threw off his coat. "I am Miss West's accepted suitor, and you dare to write her—and of love! Oh, Lucinda! False though you may be, I am man enough to avenge myself."

"Lucinda?" repeated Gordon, vaguely.

"Yes, and I've got your note, and—"

"I wrote a note to Miss Ethel West," observed Gordon. "Aren't you laboring under a mistake?"

"Miss Ethel West—her niece! Say, you prove that you weren't after my Lucinda, and I—I'll bless you!" flustered the ardent lover.

Gordon had not known that there were two Miss Wests in Brookville, and 'the sniper' had delivered the note to the wrong house.

The anxious elderly lover compelled Gordon to accompany him to the home of the spinster Miss West, where Gordon explained matters fully.

"Why, what a delightful romance!" gushed out the sentimental Lucinda, when the story was told. "And I'm going to help you win the most charming girl in Brookville, Mr. Blake—just because I think you ought to be as happy as Leonidas here and myself—eh, dearie?"

And Gordon did not leave town, and, artful plotter that she was, Miss Lucinda brought affairs around so that he became an accepted visitor to the home of the girl he loved.

Was Troubled With BOILS FOR SIX MONTHS.

From the days of Job to the present time, boils have been one of the greatest afflictions of the human race.

Very few people escape from having them at some time.

All the poulticing and lancing you may do won't cure them and stop more coming.

Boils are caused by bad blood bursting out, and the bad blood must be made pure before the boils will disappear.

Burdock Blood Bitters is the greatest blood purifier known. It cleanses the system, and purifies the blood by removing every particle of foul material from the system, and when this is done, never another boil comes and health and strength are permanently restored.

Mr. C. H. Bridges, 470 Barton St. E., Hamilton, Ont., writes:—"I was troubled with boils for about six months and tried several remedies without any relief until I tried Burdock Blood Bitters, and the effect has been wonderful. After using two bottles, I was rid of them all. I feel like a new man; my appetite is better, and I sleep better than I have for years. I can highly recommend B. B. B. to all who are troubled as I was."

Burdock Blood Bitters has been on the market for the past 40 years, and manufactured only by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

Canadian Railway Earnings.

Recent rate increases and the more rapid movement of western grain toward the end of the month are both factors in an increase of approximately 20 per cent. in gross earnings of the Canadian railroads in September. Even with earnings of the Grand Trunk's American lines now excluded from the figures, combined gross earnings of the three principal systems are the largest ever reported for the month. Gross earnings for September by companies, with the increase in each case, and the aggregates follow: Canadian Pacific Railway, $23,292,000, increase $1,340,000, or 11.2 per cent.; Grand Trunk Railway, $6,346,525, increase, $1,383,904, or 42.2 per cent.; Canadian Northern Railway $4,050,900, increase $709,200, or 21.2 per cent.

Fire Prevention.

The campaign of fire prevention in Canada suggests a few circumstances which from time to time make news items. Here are some:

He looked for a gas leak with a match, and found it.

He lighted a match to see if his gasoline tank was empty. It was not.

He smoked while filling his auto tank, but will do so no more.

He smoked in bed, so did the bed clothes.

He threw the matches into the waste paper basket. He is wiser now.

He threw a cigarette stub into some rubbish.

He saved his oily waste and oily rags and they burned the shop.

He washed his hands in gasoline near the stove. The doctor washes them now.

He did not worry about fires as he had "plenty of insurance," and forgot the safety of his wife and children upstairs.

He stuffed up the chimney holes with paper and rags.

She cleaned her gloves with gasoline and saved fifteen cents, but paid the doctors and druggists fifteen dollars.

She poured kerosene into the lamp while the wick was burning.

She put gasoline into the wash boiler on the stove to make washing easier.

She dried clothes too near the stove.

She used the wrong oil can.

She burned sulphur all over the house to fumigate.

She used the wood box back of the range as a waste paper receptacle.

She gave matches to the children to go out and burn leaves in the yard. The cotton dresses burned easier than the leaves.

She was "coming right back," so left the electric current on in her iron.

She swung the gas bracket too close to the curtains.

She fixed up a fine tissue paper shade for the lamp.

She filled the tank of her gasoline stove while one burner was going.

Many of the scenes of action were in ashes and too many of the actors are maimed or dead, more will follow, no doubt, as they are prone to ignore the advice and experience of others instead of profiting by their errors and sufferings.

SLEEPLESS NIGHTS WITH ECZEMA.

Mrs. Link, 12 Walker Street, Halifax, N.S. states: — "After three years of miserable torture and sleepless nights with terrible eczema, and after trying over a dozen remedies without obtaining anything but slight temporary relief, I have been perfectly and entirely cured by using Dr Chase's Ointment. After the third of fourth application of this grand Ointment I obtained relief and a few boxes were sufficient to make a thorough cure

He Stayed at Home.

"Well—no," said the ancient Arkansawyer, "I hain't never did much of what you'd call traveling. I was 97 years old, last grass, born and raised right yur in Shagbark township, and hain't been outside of the county but once. That was when I was about thirty years old. I went over to Torpidville, and they just nacher'ly took and started to lynch me the minute I got to town, for something or nuther, I never did find out what. One foot was already in the air and the other barely touching the ground when some feller came running and hollered that they were making a mistake — I wasn't the guilty party a-tall. As soon as they turned me loose I lit out for home as the crow flies, and I hain't done no traveling to speak of since. I always figgered that on the next occasion the feller that knowed it was a mistake might not get there in time to do me any good."

KULTUR IN RURAL GERMANY.

Poor Gleaners Lashed When Caught on Rich Nobles' Estates.

Under the heading, "Culture Sketch from Pomerania," the Berlin Vorwarts recently reprinted the following advertisement from the Koslliner Zeitung of August 22:

"The women who were present when Herr von Schmeling, Gudenhagen, whipped and intentionally ran down a young girl gathering grain on Wednesday, Aug. 21, are asked to send their addresses to Friedrich Rutzen, Gudenhagen."

On Aug. 27 the Volksstimme of Frankfort reprinted under the heading, "An Idyl of Life on an Estate in Upper Silesia," the following excerpt from a private letter printed by the Schleswig-Holstein Zeitung:

"On a beautiful August day we were wandering through the fields. To our left lay broad stretches of grain fields, to our right was a meadow, and back of that a field where the grain had been harvested. In order to prevent any kernel of grain from going to waste some seventy to eighty poor women and children were eagerly gleaning the ears left lie by the harvesters—a picturesque scene. Suddenly a wagon was driven up to the field, a man sprang out and, cursing and raging, approached the gleaners. The women and children scattered before him like a drove of sheep before a wolf. The younger and sprier ones escaped, the older and less active were halted by the man. He was evidently an inspector for the estate, and he cried: 'Shell out!' And the frightened women and children had to empty all the bags with the grain they had gathered with so much labor.

"When they didn't move quick enough he took a hand himself and ran from one to the other dragging the empty bags behind him. Stopping before one group of three or four women, the inspector not only snatched their bags of grain from them, but also laid his riding whip lustily over the shoulders of these defenceless ones. Then he returned to his wagon, drove hastily to the nearby farmhouse and immediately sent out a wagon to bring the gleaned grain to the barns of the Baron Count von Bruhl, the owner of the estate upon which the incident occurred. The 'humane inspector's name is Sick, the farm is in Gross-Vorbeck in the governmental district of Oppeln.

"One of the women who were whipped was an old mother, another was in an advanced state of pregnancy, her husband is lying out there in the trenches helping to defend the field of grain where his wife was lashed with a riding whip. A picture of rural conditions in Germany at the beginning of the fifth war year that needs no comment whatever."

Two Irishmen were working together one day, when one remarked to the other who appeared very glum: "Arrah, Mike, what is the matter with you this morning?" "Well, Pat," replied the other, "I was dreaming that I dined with the Prince of Wales last night, and after dinner was over he asked me if I would have a taste of Irish. 'Yes, your Royal Highness,' said I. 'Hot or cold, Mike?' said he. 'Hot, your Royal Highness!' said I. While he was away for the hot water I woke up, and I am sorry I did not drink it cold."

Doughty Orduna Beat German Subs for Four Years

NEW YORK, Nov. 23.—The British transport Orduna, "the boat the Germans couldn't get," sailed into New York harbor with flags flying and sirens blowing last week, after four years of dodging and fighting submarines.

The Orduna is officially credited with having destroyed one U-boat and with having emerged unscathed from at least a dozen battles with the under-sea pirates.

Capt. Thomas M. Taylor, her commander, and members of the crew today revealed some of their thrilling experiences with submarines in the war zone.

The first attack on the Orduna was made July 8, 1915, off the English coast, Captain Taylor stated. He said a torpedo from a submarine missed his vessel by about six feet. Several shells were also fired by the U-boat before it was routed by British destroyers.

In November, 1916, Captain Taylor said that the German U-boat commanders had planned to "get" the Orduna while crossing with a load of Canadian troops. He made the trip safely, and upon arrival at Devonport, England, the captain said he found one of the submarines sent out to "get" him, interned with its crew of 90 men.

Three months ago, several submarines attacked the Orduna, although it was travelling under a convoy of destroyers. The big vessel rammed and sunk one of the undersea craft. Another was sunk by a depth bomb from a destroyer. A third is also believed to have been put out of commission by shell fire from one of the Orduna's guns. Capt. Taylor and his crew received two months extra pay for this exploit.

Capt. Taylor, a hardy Scotchman, was in command of the Orduna throughout the war. Although he is long past the age of retirement, he refused to "be chased from the seas by the Germans."

The Orduna is a Cunard liner of 15,500 gross tons. Previous to the war she was engaged in South American trade.

Cut onions quickly absorb impurities in the air, and therefore they are excellent as a disinfectant. The impurities they take up, however, make them unfit for food, so a cut onion should be used at once or thrown away and never saved for flavouring something at a later date.

THIN, NERVOUS PEOPLE NEED BITRO-PHOSPHATE

What It Is and How It Increases Weight, Strength and Nerve Force in Two Weeks' Time in Many Instances

SHOULD BE PRESCRIBED BY EVERY DOCTOR AND USED IN EVERY HOSPITAL

Says Editor of "Physicians' Who's Who."

Take plain bitro-phosphate is the advice of physicians to thin, delicate nervous people who lack vim, energy and nerve force, and there seems to be ample proof of the efficacy of this preparation to warrant the recommendation. Moreover, if we judge from the countless preparations and treatments which are continually being advertised for the purpose of making thin people fleshy, developing arms, neck and bust and replacing ugly hollows and angles by the soft curved lines of health and beauty, there are evidently thousands of men and women who keenly feel their excessive thinness.

Thinness and weakness are usually due to starved nerves. Our bodies need more phosphate than is contained in modern foods. Physicians claim there is nothing that will supply this deficiency so well as the organic phosphate known among druggists as bitro-phosphate, which is inexpensive and is sold by most all druggists under a guarantee of satisfaction or money back. By feeding the nerves directly and by supplying the body cells with the necessary phosphoric food elements, bitro-phosphate quickly produces a welcome transformation in the appearance; the increase in weight frequently being astonishing.

Clinical tests made in St. Catherine's Hospital, N. Y. C., showed that two patients gained in weight 23 and 27 pounds, respectively, through the administration of this organic phosphate; both patients claim they have not felt as strong and well for the past twelve years.

This increase in weight also carries with it a general improvement in the health. Nervousness, sleeplessness and lack of energy, which nearly always accompany excessive thinness, soon disappear, dull eyes become bright and pale cheeks glow with the bloom of perfect health.

Physicians and hospitals everywhere are now recognizing its merits by its use in ever increasing quantities. Frederick Kolle, M. D. editor of New York Physician's "Who's Who," says: "Bitro-Phosphate should be prescribed by every doctor and used in every hospital to increase strength and nerve force and to enrich the blood."

Jos. D. Harrigan, Former Visiting Specialist to North Eastern Dispensatory, says: "Let those who are weak, thin, nervous, anaemic, or run-down, take a natural, unadulterated substance such as bitro-phosphate and you will soon see some astonishing results in the increase of nerve energy, strength of body and mind and power of endurance."

Bitro-Phosphate is made entirely of the organic phosphate compound referred to in the National Standard Dispensatory as being an excellent tonic and nervine, and a preparation which has recently acquired considerable reputation in the treatment of neurasthenia. The standard of excellence, strength and purity of its substance is beyond question, for every Bitro-Phosphate tablet is manufactured in strict accordance with the U. S. Pharmacopoeia test requirements. Bitro-Phosphate is therefore not a patent medicine and should not be confused with any of the secret nostrums, so-called tonics or widely advertised "cure-alls."

Caution:—Although Bitro-Phosphate is unsurpassed for relieving nervousness, sleeplessness and general weakness, owing to its remarkable flesh growing properties it should not be used by anyone who does not desire to put on flesh.

The Showing of the R. M. C.

The splendid record of the Royal Military College, Kingston, in the present war is shown in an official statement to the effect that in all approximately 914 graduates and former cadets have served in the war; of these 353 have been cadets who were granted commissions direct from the college since the war began, and 41 who enlisted with a view to obtaining a commission. Of the number 127 have been killed in action.

No fewer than 340 honors and decorations have been given to date to those graduates and former cadets serving in the war. These comprise the following:

Our Losses.

To Aug. 14, 1918, the net losses in the overseas military forces of Canada in England and France were 115,806 officers, non-commissioned officers and men. This includes those killed in action or died of wounds, died, missing, prisoners of war, discharged as medically unfit, discharged to take up other lines of war work and those non-commissioned officers and men given commissions in the Imperial army.

It does not take into acount officers and other ranks wounded in action who have rejoined their units or are still fit for service overseas.

BRAVE WESTERN PIPER.

How "Scottie" Richardson Won His Victoria Cross.

Five new Victoria Crosses have been awarded, the recipients of three of which have been killed. The most thrilling account accompanies the award to Piper James Richardson, of a Manitoba regiment.

Prior to the attack he obtained permission to play his company "over the top." As the company approached its objective it was held up by very strong wire and came under an intense fire which caused heavy casualties which momentarily demoralized the formation. Richardson, realizing the situation, strode up and down with the greatest coolness. The effect was instantaneous. Inspired by his splendid example the company rushed the wire with such fury and determination that the obstacle was overcome and the position captured.

Later, after participating in bombing operations, he was detailed to take back wounded comrades and prisoners. After proceeding 200 yards he remembered that he had left his pipes behind. Although strongly warned he insisted on returning to recover his pipes. He was never seen again and is accordingly presumed dead through lapse of time.

Tragedy of Wounded Officer.

A very remarkable obituary notice of a young British officer has recently appeared:

Champney—Harold D'Arcy, 9th April, believed killed, bullet wounds, legs paralyzed, drugged, unconscious morphia, starved, heartbroken. Death 29th April, reported June 5, Fort 9, Ingolstadt, Bavaria. His telegram "prisoner slightly wounded, April 15," Limburg, was withheld fortnight to stop home news, and despatched Mayday; same day Huns buried him. Col. Champney informs newspaper home abroad camp commandants.

Col. F. D'Arcy Champney, Scarborough, the father of this officer, writes to us as follows: "Sir,—One wonders if the "spurlos' murder system is applied to British wounded in German hospitals like the 'spurlos versenken' devilry at sea. My son, officially reported killed in action in France, April 9, was at Limburg, April 15-17, filling up in his usual good handwriting three official postcards and a telegram: 'Slightly wounded, prisoner of war.' Then, tortured by four days' journey, April 17-20, to Ingolstadt, Bavaria; there said to have 'five light machine gun bullets in his back,' none extracted; why not? Rontgen Rays first discovered at Wurzburg; legs paralyzed, probably septic poisoning,' 'unconscious several days before death, April 29'; burial May 1. 'Shot through the spine and had very little chance of recovery,' according to letter from a Canadian officer prisoner at Ingoldstadt. "Spurlos vergifet'? (poisoned). His godfather, the Right Hon. L. Hardy, remarks: 'There is little to make one able to accept any statement from a German source as accurate'."

PETERBOROUGH, FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 29, 1918

Mayor Duncan Reminded the Hon. Dr. Reid That City Expects Contribution for New Bridge

Department of Railways and Canals Was Saved the Expense of Building a Swing Span and Maintaining it by Reason of the Height of the Overhead Bridge.

PROMISED EVERY CONSIDERATION

Hon. Frank Carvell and Hon. Dr. Reid must have thought that the city's deputation had mistaken one or the other of them for Santa Claus when, after making a strong plea for the early construction of the public works that had been promised Peterborough before the war broke out, Mayor Duncan gently insinuated that the Government should pay part of the cost of the new Hunter Street bridge. He reminded the Minister of Railways and Canals that the Department had dredged a turning basin above the bridge in accordance with their pre-war plans for Peterborough, and would have been liable for the cost and maintenance of a swing span for prospective navigation up the river to the Quaker Oats mills. The Department had notified the city that provision would have to be made for tugs and barges, but the Mayor pointed out on Tuesday that the new Hunter Street bridge would be much higher above the water than had been specified in the former negotiations. His Worship emphasized the fact that the Government was thus relieved of the cost of a swing span and its maintenance; it should not thereby consider its obligation wiped out. The Mayor suggested that the Department of Railways and Canals should assume some part of the cost of the bridge in lieu of the expense that was saved for the Government by the city's latest plans, which have been virtually adopted by the Council.

There was no definite sum mentioned as the Government's acquittal of their interests in the new bridge, but Hon. Dr. Reid assured the deputation that the city's request would receive a sympathetic consideration.

Mayor Duncan was accompanied by Ald. Jones, City Clerk Armstrong and also by Mr. J. H. Burnham, M.P., who remained with the deputation until the list of importunities had been delivered as urgently and impressively as possible.

Hon. Mr. Carvell was informed that the property had been purchased on George Street for the combined Post Office and Customs House, the construction of which would have been undertaken but for the outbreak of war. He promised that the sum required for this work would be included in next year's appropriations. The drydock scheme is also due for careful consideration, and the deputation returned satisfied that they had made a favourable impression with the two Ministers for a slice of the "reconstruction" money the Government is planning to spend next year.

On Wednesday Mayor Duncan attended what he had been led to believe was a meeting of municipal representatives to consider a broad campaign of construction. It turned out to be a convention of contractors and builders, for which he had all the necessary qualifications had they been demanded. At that he was recognized from the platform and introduced to the convention, staying to absorb whatever inspiration was in the atmosphere.

THE CLOSING OUT SALE

SHOP EARLY

Christmas is only twenty-six days away. Take four Sundays out of this and you have twenty-two days left in which to do your Christmas shopping. You help yourself when you do your Christmas shopping early, and incidentally help the merchants and the army of clerks that has been mobilized to serve you. In addition to this, you get a better selection of goods, and that alone is sufficient reason why you should shop early and avoid the rush.

Bolsheviki Shot Victims in Batches

Prisoners Went Bravely to Death, Says a Frenchman Who Made His Escape.

LONDON,—The sufferings of some of the British residents of Moscow in the prisons in that city, where they were kept for six weeks after having been arrested by the Red Guards on flimsy pretexts are vividly portrayed by Guy Beringer, a Reuter correspondent in Moscow, who was set free early this month and has reached Haparanda, Sweden.

Beringer, in his report wired from Haparanda, says he was arrested while in the home of the British chaplain adjoining the Britsh Consulate in Moscow, and together with the chaplain and several other English men and women was marched on foot two miles through the streets to the Lubyanka House of Detention.

"I was separated from my companions and was led to a room in which were some thirty prisoners, mostly civilians, including a few women," writes Mr. Beringer. "I spent five days and nights in this room, in which there was just sufficient space for the inmates to sleep on the floor. There was no bed of any kind. For food we had a piece of black bread and a few dips with a wooden spoon into a bowl of the thinnest possible cabbage soup, containing some herring heads. Eight of us had to share the contents of this one bowl. Many people who were without provisions from outside were literally in a state of starvation.

"Like the Russian prisoners, we were treated as helots, and were addressed insultingly in the second person singular by low brutes among the Red Guards.

"Late one night, when some of the other prisoners were singing, suddenly there was a deathlike hush. I looked up and saw a Red Guard officer and soldiers standing at the opening to the anteroom in which the prison guards were stationed. A list of twelve names of civilians and soldiers was read out. No one doubted what this meant. It was the list of those set down for immediate execution. It included two pairs of brothers. All the condemned men rose without delay and shook hands with their neighbors Not one showed the slightest fear.

"The iron folding doors between the big room and the anteroom were then closed. This was done only when prisoners were taken away for execution. The doors remained closed for a few minutes and were then reopened and the names of two other soldiers who had been previously overlooked were called out. These also rose without a tremor and the folding doors were shut a second and last time. The condemned prisoners were either shot in the basement of the prison, with their backs to the firing party, or they were taken out to the suburbs in motor lorries and there told to get out and get away. Then volleys were poured into them while they were walking or running away. The bodies are sometimes recoverable by relatives on payment of heavy bribes."

Kaiser Still a Serious Menace to the World

Dutch Citizen Says Ex-Emperor Has Many Adherents, and Counter-Revolution May be Attempted Before Long.

London, Nov. 29.—"It would be a great mistake to suppose the Kaiser is done with; he has many adherents in Germany who, are quite resolved not to take the recent defeat lying down," is the opinion given the Daily Mail's correspondent at the Hague by a Dutch citizen who spent the whole period of the revolution in Bremerhaven, and now has returned to Holland.

The returned Dutchman estimates the proportion of loyalists to revolutionists as one to two and he says a large number of soldiers are what might be called "true to the Kaiser."

It must not be imagined, he insists, that the German army, although smaller than before has ceased to exist. On the contrary he represents it as very much in existence, and moreover, commanded by generals devoted to the Emperor's cause.

The correspondent's informant did not doubt that something in the shape of a counter-revolution would be attempted before long. He said the red flag is still freely dispayed in Bremerhaven, but he heard that it had almost disappeared in the Rhine district.

FELT LIKE MUSCLES WERE TIED IN KNOT

That is Exactly the Way Tindall Says His Rheumatism Acted.

"I had never taken a dose of Tanlac in my life till some six weeks ago, but I have received more benefit from the three bottles I have just finished than from all the other medicines I have taken put together," said George R. Tindall, of 6002-18th Ave., South, Seattle, Wash., U.S.A., the other day.

"For several years," he continued, "I suffered terribly from muscular rheumatism and kidney trouble. The muscles of my right arm would draw up at the elbow, and feel like they were tied in a knot. I had no appetite, and the little I forced down didn't do me much, if any, good. My kidneys worried me night and day, I had an awful misery up and down my spine, and my back right over my kidneys would hurt so bad that if I stooped over it would almost kill me to straighten up again. I couldn't rest well at night, and many a time I would wake up at midnight and never sleep another wink the balance of the night, then my back would start hurting so bad that I could hardly get up out of bed.

"I guess I have taken most every kind of medicine sold without getting a bit of relief, and I was in mighty bad shape when I decided to see if Tanlac would help me. Well, I can honestly say that I haven't had an ache or a pain since shortly after I started on Tanlac. I sleep like a log at night and my wife tells me that I'm liable to eat us both out of house and home if I keep on with the appetite Tanlac has given me. I feel so well and hearty in every way that I have told the boys down at the ship yard how much good Tanlac has done for me, for I hope that my experience will be the means of helping others who may have troubles like I had."

Tanlac is sold in Peterborough by W. B. Warne Drug Co., Ltd., in Havelock by A. C. Denike, in Lakefield by Tanner Drug Co., Ltd., in Fowler's Corners by W. A. Hunter, in Gelert by A. J. Scott, in Westwood by G. Pringle & Son.

Hon. Newton Wesley Rowell and the Sanctified Life

Mr. R. R. Hall Says He Must First Cease to Bear False Witness Against His Neighbors and Then Love His Neighbours as Himself.

The Toronto Daily News of the 25th Inst., reports the Hon. N. W. Rowell's appeal to the Methodists at Centenary celebration as follows:

"Unless democracy can be sanctified and controlled by Christian "moral and spiritual ideals there "is no hope for our race," said Hon. Newton W. Rowell, President of the Privy Council in an address at the Toronto Methodist Centenary celebration servite held in Metropolitan Church last evening.

This makes refreshing reading in the light of the serious charges made by the Hon. Charles Murphy in the House of Commons on the 19th of March last, against the Hon. Newton W. Rowell, member for Durham.

The following is an extract from Mr. Murphy's speech:

But, reprehensible as were the statements with which I have already dealt in the hon. gentleman's North Bay speech, they were mild and inoffensive, indeed, when compared with his slanderous and unjustifiable attack on the members of the religious orders who came from France to Canada and who were here at the outbreak of the war. Let me devote a few minutes to an analysis of the statements made by him in that same speech in regard to these men. After he had denounced the attitude of the Quebec Nationalists towards the war, the hon. member for Durham said:

"In this attitude they were undoubtedly encouraged and abetted "by the members of the religious ord-"ers from France who found an asy-"lum in Canada, and used that asy-"lum to undermine Canada's "strength in the struggle."

This atrocious statement was made without a syllable of truth to support it. When challenged for proof, the hon. gentleman, after the manner of the tribe of Ananias, remained silent. On December 15, 1917, The Catholic Record of London publicly challenged the hon. member for Durham to bring forward a shadow of proof for his assertion; the hon. gentleman did not respond. At a later date this challenge was repeated by The Catholic Register of Toronto; but again the hon. gentleman remained silent. The fact that his statement in its foulness and falsehood was adopted and repeated by Mr. Stewart Lyon, of the Toronto Globe, does not in any degree mitigate the offence of the hon. gentleman for having gratuitously slandered both the living and the dead. Neither the hon. member for Durham nor Mr. Lyon could produce any proof, because proof there was none.

Not satisfied with one slander, the hon. gentleman uttered another when he thus further referred to the French religious in Canada:

"It is a misfortune that they did "not follow the example of the "priests of the Catholic church in "France, who threw themselves into "the struggle of their people to pre-"serve their national existence."

In these words the hon. member for Durham pictured the French members of the religious orders as remaining in Canada and shirking their duty to France. That statement, Sir, is even more wickedly untrue than the former one. The facts were available to the hon. gentleman as they were to any other person who would seek them; but the facts would not suit the hon. gentleman's purpose, and so he coolly ignored them.

Mr. Murphy then proceeded to show that all the members of the religious orders, who came from France to Canada and who were physically fit, returned to France shortly after the outbreak of hostilities with Germany, to take their places in the ranks of the great French Army.

He produced ample proof to show that the members of these religious orders, who were physically fit, proved themselves worthy and patriotic soldiers in the ranks of the great French Army, which for over four years held back the onward rush of the German barbaric host and nobly sacrificed their lives that freedom and liberty might endure.

Mr. Murphy further proceeded to show that many of the members of the religious orders who returned from Canada to France sacrificed their lives on the field of battle and others received distinguished medals and honours for conspicuous bravery. The record of the members of the French religious orders who returned from Canada shows that by their acts and deeds they nobly consecrated their lives and hallowed the ground of their native land, in order that the Canadian land of their adoption might continue to enjoy the liberties with which it has been blessed.

Mr. Murphy having thus shown how base and false were the charges made by the Hon. Newton W. Rowell in his North Bay speech then declares, according to Hansard:

If the hon. gentleman's statements were not made for a wicked and malicious purpose, then by every standard of public and private honour he is required to retract what he has said, to offer an apology to the living and to make reparation to the memory of the dead. Should he hesitate or decline to do this, then he will stand self-condemned before his fellowmen, stripped of the last vestige of any claim to public respect or public confidence.

It will be observed that these charges were made against the Hon. Newton W. Rowell in the House of Commons in March. His attention was drawn to them while he was sitting in the House and these charges have been repeated broadcast throughout the whole of Canada and yet down to this date Mr. Rowell has not had the courage to answer them.

It is submitted that before the Hon. Newton Wesley Rowell proceeds to preach the doctrine of Santification, he should first of all cease to bear false witness "against his neighbour and then love "his neighbour as himself." By so doing he will at all events have laid two foundation stones upon which may be reared a sanctified life and then there will be "hope for our race."

Farmers to Aid Soldiers

Council of Agriculture Discusses Back to the Land Plans,

WINNIPEG, Nov. 29.—"Strong sympathetic support will be given to demobilized Canadian soldiers by the farmers of the Dominion. This support will be included in an economic platform now under discussion by the Council of Agriculture," stated Norman Lambert, secretary of the council.

Hon. T. A. Crerar, Dominion Minister of Agriculture, spoke at length before the Council yesterday concerning the aiding of returned soldiers in securing farm work and ownership. An enormous "back to the land" movement is anticipated with the return of the men from overseas, Mr. Crerar said.

Co-operation of the Canadian Council of Agriculture was asked by Major G. W. Andrews, M.P., and R. B. Maxwell, president of the G.W.V. of Winnipeg, on behalf of the returned soldiers in the matter of land settlement.

SOLEMN GRATITUDE

Community Services and "Victory Celebrations" All Over United States.

A BIG DAY

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.—Deep feelings of gratitude and thankfulness, greater than come to a nation through material prosperity, provided the observance of Thanksgiving Day in the United States yesterday. Peace with victory after 19 months of war gave the day much added significance.

The declaration of President Wilson in his Thanksgiving proclamation that "this year we have special and moving cause to be grateful and to rejoice," appeared to express the true sentiments of the American peoples and made the occasion a "Victory day" as well as a Thanksgiving day.

Many celebrations of the day centered directly around the soldiers and sailors. Community thanksgiving services, community song service and "victory celebrations" were held in many parts of the country. In the training camps in this country, in the navy and among the forces overseas all efforts were bended towards making the day a memorable one. In this country citizens opened their homes to men in uniform while abroad and in the navy preparations had been made to bring as many home comforts to the men as possible.

Washington observed the day quietly and in accordance with the President's proclamation. In the churches were held services which were attended by high Government officials and department clerks. President Wilson and Mrs. Wilson attended Thanksgiving services. The Thanksgiving dinner at the White House was a simple affair, only the members of the President's family being present. Many of the envoys of foreign countries and especially those of the South American nations attended the annual Pan-American mass at St. Patrick's Church. Cardinal Gibbons presided at the mass.

Public Meeting Held to Discuss War Memorial and Reception to Soldiers

A Representative Body of Citizens Conferred With Mayor Duncan —A Memorial Hall Favoured.

ANOTHER MEETING

A representative body of citizens met Mayor Duncan last evening at a public meeting called to discuss fitting receptions for the men reurning from overseas.

Mayor Duncan said that in the past the boys have drifted home in small detatchments, sometimes before the authorities had been notified. Now that they are likely to come in large numbers, it is necessary to furnish some reception befitting such an occasion. The mayor explained the difficulty confronting the reception committee of the Council in which as times detachments of 30 or 40 might arrive and the band be called out; Again three or four might come in next day, deserving of the celebration as the men the day before. The question is to plan a reception to any number to which the relatives could take no exception.

Judge Huycke thought that the reception committee might keep up what they have been doing and an all-day jubilee be arranged for when all the veterans have returned. On motion of Mrs. S. T. Medd, the matter was left to the regular committee to carry on as they have been doing, and the committee be given power to add to their number and the matter of special returns to be left in their hands to provide for receptions.

ARRANGE MEMORIAL

While the meeting was primarily called to arrange for the veteran's reception most of the evening was devoted to discussions upon fitting memorials to the heroes and to the principles which they upheld.

Preceeding the discussions letters from prominent citizens were read by the secretary of the meeting, Ald. Dobbin, in which many suggestions on memorials were made. Canon Davidson wrote hoping that a memorial should be erected and suggested the amount could be raised by subscription. Mr. E. G. Patterson suggested in his letter taking a vote and assessing the citizens two or three mills, also the same suggestion, of a small taxation be made to the County Council. The money would be sufficient for a splendid monument.

Judge Huycke said he was glad of the suggestion of a united memorial from the town and county, but urged that the matter should not be gone into yet. He said he liked the idea of a hall for the Veterans, but would emphatically object to one for music and dancing. Such a hall should be sacred and not a place at any time for the enjoyment of slackers.

"A memorial, however," he said, should be a memorial. Something beautiful, artistic and suggestive— to live when we are gone." He favored the idea of some splendid specimen of architecture that people looking at might appropriate the meaning of.

A MEMORIAL HALL

Mr. Morrison president of the Great war Veterans favored the idea of a memorial hall similar to the Y.M.C.A. where War Veterans' business could be considered, auxilliaries met and a comfortable home be provided. Brass piates on the exterior of the building might be included bearing the names of the Veterans.

Rev'd. C. J. Phelan advocated some memorial not only ornamental but useful. What ever it might be, he said, it must be a credit to the city, the county and to the noble boys who fought.

Col. Mills said that whatever was done the memorial must be worthy and one which will be handed down from age to age. He said twenty or thirty thousand dollars is not to be considered but one hundred thousand dollars or let it alone.

Mrs. W. B. Morris reached the core of the matter in saying there are two things to consider is the matter of a memorial—if it is to be in memory of those who have fallen or of the principles for which they fought—what memorial would suit both is the question. Principles are what must come first. A memorial should be a memorial only. She was not in accord with a club house, which 50 years hence would cease to be a memorial. Mrs. Mills suggested a monument to the fallen and a club house for the Veterans.

Various other suggestions were made indicating that a club house and memorial will be possibly be the outcome, but no definite decision was reached.

PUBLIC MEETING

On motion of Mr. Duffus a meeting will be called at which a committee will be formed to work with the council and formulate further plans.

THE FREEDOM OF THE SEAS

"Nothing in the world, no arguments, however specious, no appeals, however seductive must lead you to abandon that naval supremacy on which the life of our country depends." This declaration by Winston Churchill will be applauded and endorsed everywhere throughout the British Empire. The British Navy was the dominating factor in the war. If the seas are now open, if peaceful merchantmen can sail where they like, in no danger of being sent to the bottom by an undersea boat pirate, it is because the navy of the British Empire made it possible to crush the tyrant who threatened the liberty of the world. Well may Mr. Churchill declare that without the British fleet "not only should we have been lost but all the world would have been cast back for centuries."

THE CANADIAN CLUB

The announcement that Hon. Dr. Cody is to addres the Canadian Club at a luncheon at the Empress Hotel on Thursday evening of next week, should stimulate interest in the club and it is expected that there will be a very large attendance. Dr. Cody always a fascinating speaker will give some impressions of his recent trip to the front, a subject tha will afford a most enjoyable evening. It is a pleasure to be able to announce that the Canadian Club, whose activities were suspended during the war, has planned a splendid programme for the season. It is hoped to be able to bring to Peterboro some of the best known public men of Canada, and reconstruction will be the key note of the different addresses to be given. Every progressive citizen of Peterboro who wishes to hear some of Canada's leaders should identify himself with the Canadian Club and help to make this season the most successful in the history of the organization.

THE RED SHIELD DRIVE

The representatives of the Salvation Army and the other citizens who appeared with them presented a strong case to the County Council in support of their appeal for a grant towards the Army's war work. This is the first time that the Salvation Army has asked the people of Canada for assistance, although since the beginning of the war they have carried on a wonderful work among the soldiers. Peterboro returned soldiers who had an opportunity of viewing the Salvation Army's efforts at first hand are loud in their praises of what has been done and in subscribing to the fund Canadians can feel satisfied that their money is going to an organization that has been endorsed by men who have come back from over there.

The public should not make the mistake of thinking that work among the Canadian soldiers is all over now because the fighting is stopped. On the other hand the welfare movement and the comforts that the Salvation Army provides will be all the more necessary now that the Canadian army is not keyed up to fighting pitch. With the relaxaion that will inevitably follow there is greater danger that demobilization might become demoralization if the morale of our fighting forces is not kept up during the long idle days of garrison duty.

The Red Shield Drive in Peterboro will commence simultaniously with the Dominion campaign on Jan 19th and in view of the splendid record already made and the magnitude of the work yet to be done a hearty response is confidently expected. It is the positive statement of the Salvation Army leaders that every cent contributed will go toward the welfare of Canada's fighting force in the demobilization of the army during the next wo years, in the care of soldiers' widows and orphans and in the establishment of huts and hostels where these are needed. One million dollars is the Canadian objective, and it is none too big in view of the immensity of the effort.

THE CARE OF THE WIDOW

Recently the Dominion Government admitting that the increase in the cost of living made the step necessary, raised the separation allowance paid to the women of Canadian soldiers on overseas service from $25 to $30 per month. The increase was none too big in view of the cost of food and other necessities, but it will be appreciated by the recipients nevertheless. In awarding the new scale, however, the Government might well have considered the case of the widows of men who have given their lives for Canada. Although they are equally effected by the high cost of living the authorities have not seen fit to increase the slender yearly allowance upon which the widow and children of Canada's heroes are struggling to exist. In their memorandum submitted to the Government the other day the representatives of labor urged that the allowance to dependents of soldiers should be at least $100 a month. As a matter of fact the widows of a Canadian private under the present scale is expected to live and mainain her family upon a sum not much more than half that recommended by the labor deligates as absolutely necessary.

The erection of a memorial to the memory of the men who have died for us is a duty that must be carried out, but before that is done in the name of humanity, let the Canadians first see that the dependens of these men are comfortably maintained. How some of the manage to exist on the present allowance is a mystery!

EDITORIAL NOTES

If Billy Sunday is not any more accurate in his theology than he is in his ideas as to who won the war, he cannot be considered as a true guide to Heaven.

The British made the seas free to the world—hence any peace conference talk about "the freedom of the seas" which would tend to interfere with the British Navy cannot be tolerated.

A Baltimore newspaper says that Americans are not popular with the British and French overseas. A reason might be found in the boasting of the Hearst and other papers across the line.

The gentry who are distributing Bolsheviki literature in Canadian cities should be given the strongest punishment the law provides. There is no room in Canada for the Red Flag faction.

HATS OFF TO THE TRANSPORTS

(By 2/Lieut. J. B. Morton.)

The men in the trenches were wondering what could be happening behind the lines. The Germans were shelling a long way back. They looked over the parados, but it was too dark to see beyond the ragged edge of woodland and the remains of a sugar refinery.

"Behind that wood," said Tim (once a flourishing barber in Putney) "there's a road, and it's up that road that the transport comes to the ration dump."

Curly, the hard-bitten old regular, shifted the cigarette from the corner of his mouth with his tongue.

"No blinkin' rations for us, then," he said. "It's not possible, with all that heavy stuff comin' over."

There was comparative quiet in the trenches, so they settled down to cigarettes and desultory chat around the braziers. One or two wrote letters. Everyone realized that there are times when the transport simply cannot get through with the rations. The fact was not precisely nutritious, of course; it filled no internal voids; but understood in the light of the very real philosophy of the trenches, it sufficed to prevent complaint, spoken or unspoken.

Beyond the ragged edge of wood, hidden from sight by the darkness, up the long cobbled road, came the transport. An officer led the way, riding easily, body erect; behind him were the mule-drawn wagons. The riders had stumps of unlit cigarettes in heir mouths, and they looked at the road before them, ready to avoid some newly made shell holes or other pitfall. They rode at a steady pace with their minds intent on the business in hand. On either side of them stretched balck fields, and shells were bursting all about them. Sometimes one would land on the road behind or in front of the column. It seemed almost inevitable that there should be a direct hit sooner or later. But the little column never even checked is pace, and from time to time the officer glanced over his shoulder to see that all was well. The mules treated the shelling with contempt, and the officer's horse held his head as high as his master.

"Pretty warm, wasn't it?" said the Quartermaster Sergeant, while the rations were being unloaded at the dump.

"Interestin' bit of road, an' no mistake," answered a little Cockney.

When the work was done, the transport returned at the same steady pace along that "interestin' bit of road." But one man of the column lay still in one of the limbers. His work was done, for, as his mates phrased it, he had "gone west." A second, living still, was badly wounded, and in the field ambulance next morning one of his arms had to be amputated.

The men in the trenches lay propped against sandbags, drinking mugs of tea, and eating large slices of bread and jam.

"Hats off to the transport!" said Tim, the erstwhile barber of Putney.

THE TRYING TIME IN A WOMAN'S LIFE

Mrs. H. Membury, 325 Seaton St., Toronto, Ont., writes: "I have used Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills and found them to be of great benefit to me, in fact, I consider they saved my life, and I have told many of my neighbours about them.

Two years ago last November I was in poor health. The doctor said it was change of life, as I was over forty years old, and that I would have to be very careful of myself. Shortly after that I received an awful shock that nearly killed me. The doctor my husband sent for said I would soon be all right, and sent up some medicine, but it only seemed to increase the trouble. I was then taken to the hospital. The doctors examined me, but could not understand my case.

Then they sent for a specialist, as they began to think it was my mind.

When the specialist came he was baffled, for I answered his questions all right. Every day I was getting weaker, and when my husband came he could see that I was going, as I could read his thoughts, but said nothing.

Next day a friend came with a car and took me to their home. They got a box of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills. I started taking them and began to get better, and at the end of two weeks, I could walk around the room. I am now well and able to do my own work."

Find Tons of Spy Records in a Warehouse

PRO-GERMAN, "WHO'S WHO" AND LISTS OF PAYMENTS AMONG DR. FUEHR'S PAPERS

New York, Nov. 29.— Four tons of personal papers of Doctor Carl A. Fueher, who suceeded Doctor Heinrich E. Albert as "paymaster" for the German Embassy before the United States declared war on Germany, were discovered by agents of the Department of Justice in a warehouse in this city. A hasty examination of some of the papers it was learned here that Dr. Fuehr's connection with individuals and newspapers in the spreading of German propaganda throughout the Western Hemisphere and, according to one government official, are amazing in their importance.

Ever since the government started its investigation of the activities of German propaganda agents in this country the officials in charge have known of the existence of the papers, but until recently they were unable to find them. When they gained possession of the papers yesterday agents of the Department of Justice began an immediate examination.

It was learned that they had discovered thousands of telegrams to agents and newspapers in this country, Mexico and the principal cities in all the Central and South American countries, which not alone reveal the identity of those concerned but also uncover the amount of money received by each from the German government.

Cable messages from Dr. Fuehr to the German Foreign Office in Berlin, also were found among the papers. While many of the messages ostensibly relate to personal business matters, government officers do not hesitate to express the language used in them is part of a prearranged code.

In one of the first batches of papers opened by the officials were found a complete "Who's Who" of every German sympathizer in the United States and other countries on this side of the Atlantic. All the papers examined show German "efficiency" in the manner of arrangement. Dr. Fuehr, it is understood was a stickler for system in arrangement of his papers, and thus the work of government officers is being greatly facilitated.

Dr. Fuehr was the head of the German Information Bureau, No. 1,123 Broadway, when he hastily returned to Germany with Count Von Bernstorff, and it was through Dr. Fuehr that Sylvester Viereck obtained money from the German government to carry on his pro-German activities here. Otto Merkle, now interned as a dangerous enemy alien and Dr. William Bayard Hale were revealed by Alfred E. Becker, Deputy Attorney General to be associates of Dr. Fuehr in the spreading of pro-German propaganda through the "information bureau."

BRONCHIAL ASTHMA

Mrs. Graf Says Vinol Cured Her.

Darlington, Pa.—"I suffered from bronchial Asthma so badly I would often have to sit up half of the night or lean over the back of a chair, and so weak I could hardly walk across the floor. I had spent lots of money for different Asthma medicines without help—but Vinol helped me so I sleep well, and am so well and strong I am doing all my work on the farm."—Mrs. Emma Graf.

Vinol is a constitutional remedy which contains beef and cod liver peptones, iron and manganese peptonates and glycerophosphates. We strongly recommend Vinol.

U. S. War Contracts Cancelled To Extent of $2,000,000,000

Reorganization of Plants and the Reconversion of Capital Will Have to Be Effected Before Employment for This Labour Can Be Found.

NEW YORK, Nov. 28.—Cancellation of Government contracts is producing a very much more serious attitude in business circles than had been expected. According to authoritative factors in the trades most directly affected the amount of these cancellations, now variously estimated at from $1,500,000,000 to $2,000,000,000, a figure increasing from day to day, is promising to produce derangement and extreme caution in several important directions. These are substantially as follows:

In the case of a number of concerns the immediate result of cancellation is to suspend production. This is true of the particular kinds of industry which are devoted to the manufacture of war products. In some of these cases the product in question is already enormously overstocked by the Government, and there is no possibility of further demand in any near future. Manufacturers, therefore, have no choice but to cease producing without delay from and after the date when the cancellation of this contract takes place. In these cases the immediate effect is to throw out of employment the labour which has been employed. The problem is then to find work for this labour in other directions.

Footwear Problems For the Civilians

Canada's Shoe Problem Is to Produce More Shoes Than Ever

A soldier in active service requires eight times as many shoes as he does in civilian life .The enlistment of every man helped to reduce the supply of labor available for the manufacture of essential products—shoes included. The materials from which shoes are made are scarce and are growing scarcer. Canada always has depended for its supply of leather to a large extent upon the United States. But the United States is confronting a similar problem of its own, and importations are entirely shut off. Canada is forced to depend upon its own limited supply of leather.

Canada's shoe problem, then is to produce more shoes than ever before, with less labor and less materials. And it is considerably to the credit of the Canadian shoe industry that it has thus far succeeded in solving that problem without the necessity of government regulations and restrictions, such as have been put into effect in the United States.

One of the most interesting developments of the situation is the use that is being made of advertisements to inform the general public as to actual conditions, and to lead them to buy wisely, so as to help relieve the situation instead of intensifying it. The advertisements of Ames Holden McCready Limited, the largest shoe manufacturers in the Dominion which are now running in The Examiner, are a case in point.

In times past the consuming public were left pretty much in the dark concerning matters such as these. A problem concerning the supply of an essential product, such as shoes would have been regarded as wholly belonging to the trade and as "none of the public's business." Hence the public would have been left to act blindly, and to make conditions worse instead of better.

That is not the modern business spirit however. The business man of today has learned to use the great power of advertising, not merely to sell his goods for him, but to influence the public to act in accordance with the great welfare.

At the present time it is somewhat difficult to provide enough serviceable shoes to go around among the civilian population and at the same time to supply Canada's quota of army shoes still necessary. The public can help to relieve the situation if they buy prudently. They will make matters worse if they buy carelessly. "Very well, then," says the leading Canadian manufacturer, "we will tell them how to buy wisely, and tell them why they ought to do it."

These Ames Holden McCready advertisements are a conspicuous example of the modern force of advertising as applied to fundamental business and social problems.

It has long been understood that advertising could be effectively used to recommend the purchase of particular goods, but it is only beginning be used to enlighten the public as to be used to enlighten he public as to fundamental conditions, and lead them to act in accordance with the common interest. There should be more of such advertising, and there will be more of it as time goes on.

No doubt this Ames Holden McCready campaign will pay for itself by selling more of the company's shoes. No doubt it will benefit the dealer who carries Ames Holden McCready shoes in stock. The chief significance of this advertising is the fact that it is an important step in the solution of a national problem, no less a problem than the supplying of shoes for every man, woman and child in Canada.

Peace and Pigs Share England's Thoughts

(By United Press).

LONDON, Nov. 6. (By Mail). — Two topics are uppermost in the nation's mind to-day—peace and pigs.

The great pig question is being argued north, south, east and west. The Government sent out a notice that all pigowners must kill their pigs before Christmas owing to lack of suitable food; whereupon the pig controller, with a tear in his eye and a sob in his heart, rose and asked the nation why hadn't he been consulted. In a pathetic speech he showed how the Government had taken this action right over his head, and as all pigs were to be killed before Christmas his position as pig controller was ridiculous and therefore untenable. Wherefore he resigned—amid the squealing of hundreds of little pigs who thought they'd rather be controlled than killed.

But the public doesn't mean to let this pig question die out so easily. Pigs must and shall be reared. So pig-lovers are orgahizing house-to-house collections of garbage in order to keep bright the prospect of pork. If they are able to keep the pigs going this way the Government might be induced to rescind the death sentence.

DRINK A GLASS OF REAL HOT WATER BEFORE BREAKFAST.

Says we will both look and feel clean, sweet and fresh and avoid illness.

Sanitary science has of late made rapid strides with results that are of untold blessing to humanity. The latest application of its untiring research is the recommendation that it is as necessary to attend to internal sanitation of the drainage system of the human body as it is to the drains of the house.

Those of us who are accustomed to feel dull and heavy when we arise, splitting headache, stuffy from a cold, foul tongue, nasty breath, acid stomach, can, instead, feel as fresh as a daisy by opening the sluices of the system each morning and flushing out the whole of the internal poisonous stagnant matter.

Everyone, whether ailing, sick or well, should , each morning before breakfast, drink a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it to wash from the stomach, liver and bowels the previous day's indigestible waste, sour bile and poisonous toxins; thus cleansing, sweetening and purifying the entire alimentary canal before putting more food into the stomach. The action of hot water and limestone phosphate on an empty stomach is wonderfully invigorating. It cleans out all the sour fermentations, gases, waste and acidity and gives one a splendid appetite for breakfast. While you are enjoying your breakfast the phosphated hot water is quietly extracting a large volume of water from the blood and getting ready for a thorough flushing of all the inside organs.

The millions of people who are bothered with constipation, bilious spells, stomach trouble, rheumatic stiffness; others who have sallow skins, blood disorders and sickly complexions are urged to get a quarter pound of limestone phosphate from the drug store. This will cost very little, but is sufficient to make anyone a pronounced crank on the subject of internal sanitation.

When buying woolen materials hold them up to the light and look through them—the best qualities are free from uneven and broken threads.

Agreement is Entered in Hopkins Separation Action

Husband and Wife Are to Continue Living Apart, Their Son to Be in Charge of His Mother, Except on Saturdays and Sundays.

NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—A settlement between Mrs. Beatrice Morrison Hopkins, and her husband, George A. Hopkins, a lawyer, of their domestic differences was recorded here when Justice Cohalan awarded custody of their son, George A. Hopkins, Jr., six years old, to the mother and passed judgment on the question of a legal separation.

As Hopkins and his wife have been living apart for several months, it was agreed not to interfere with this situation and that consideration only be given to the custody of the boy. Before Justice Cohalan announced his decision conferences were held between counsel for Mr. and Mrs. Hopkins to ascertain if it was possible for the couple to become reconciled.

However, the time proved too brief for the arbiters to accomplish a reconciliation, but they succeeded in persuading both to accept an arrangement for the care of the boy.

Through the decision Mrs. Hopkins is allowed the custody of her son until he attains he age of twenty-one. It also provides that Mr. Hopkins is to have him in charge each week from after school every Friday afternoon until six o'clock Sunday evening, and also on each alternate holiday. He also is to be permitted to call at the boy's home at reasonable hours and a like privilege is extended to the mother.

Justice Cohalan called attention to the agreement which stipulated that no alimony was to be paid Mrs. Hopkins and no provision made for the support of the boy while he remained in the custody of Mrs. Hopkins and her father, who has expressed a willingness to care for them.

Scheme to Sink Hun Ships Causes Surprise in U.S.

WASHINGTON, D.C., Nov. 29.—The suggestion from London that naval vessels surrendered by Germany under the armistice may be sunk to avoid possible disagreement among the associated nations degarding their disposition, was received by naval officials here with evident surprise. Secretary Daniels said that the proposition had never been mentioned to him and was certain American naval representatives had suggested no such plan.

No intimation has been given regarding the policy of the United States. Admiral Benson, the ranking officer among the American delegates, received full instructions before his leaving here, however, and undoubtedly this point was covered in his conferences with Secretary Daniels.

If the Versailles conference decrees that the German war ships are to be pro-rated among the Allies according to naval losses, the United States would obtain ony one destroyer and one armoured cruiser, the major ships going to England, France and Italy.

To Relieve Catarrh, Catarrhal Deafness and Head Noises

Persons suffering from catarrhal deafness, or who are growing hard of hearing and have head noises will be glad to know that this distressing affliction can usually be successfully treated at home by an internal medicine that in many instances has effected complete relief after other treatments have failed. Sufferers who could scarcely hear have had their hearing restored to such an extent that the tick of a watch was plainly audible seven or eight inches away from either ear. Therefore, if you know of someone who is troubled with head noises or catarrhal deafness, cut out this formula and hand it to them and you may have been the means of saving some poor sufferer perhaps from total deafness. The prescription can be prepared at home and is made as follows:

Secure from your druggist 1 oz. Parmint (Double Strength). Take this home and add to it 1-4 pint of hot water and a little granulated sugar; stir until dissolved. Take one tablespoonful four times a day.

Parmint is used in this way not only to reduce by tonic action the inflammation and swelling in the Eustachian Tubes, and thus to equalize the air pressure on the drum, but to correct any excess of secretions in the middle ear, and the results it gives are nearly always quick and effective.

Every person who has catarrh in any form, or distressing rumbling, hissing sounds in the ears, should give this recipe a trial.

ALD. EDGAR'S CRITICISM

Complained That Hydro-Electric Commission Has Not Treated Peterboro Fairly—Spoke at Toronto Meeting.

WEST GETS THE PLUMS

At the meeting of the Hydro-Electric Radial Association in Toronto yesterday Ald. John Edgar, Peterboro's representative seconded an amendment that called for an independent audit of the Hydro-Elec. Commission's affairs. It was moved by Mayor Buchanan of Ingersoll, and followed by a motion by Controller Maguire of Toronto seconded by Mayor McBride of Brantford, that the association express its gratitude for the vindication of the Hydro Commission as found in the Clarkson audit. The motion was submitted as an answer to the Financial Post's criticism of the Hydro-Electric Commission.

"The slanderous statements published in the Post have been reputed Controller Maguire declared, according to a report of the meeting. "If number of persons have been alarmed by the reports published, but the best reply to these statements is the result of activities of the Hydro. We have had an audit by a reputable firm with no motives but to make an honest report."

In submitting amendment Mayor Buchanan said he agreed with the resolution in the main, "but it is a principle that we should control the Hydro ourselves.

It is all very well to call the Post a paper of the 'interests.' It goes into too many homes to be ignored. The best way to refute the charges of the Post is to have an independent audit. The audit by a firm appointed by the Government is not a strong enough weapon with which to fight the dirty charges brought against the Hydro."

Con. Maguire: "This motion shows a want of confidence in the Hydro Commission."

Ald. John Edgar of Peterboro seconded the amendment and criticized the work of the Hydro in this city.

"It looks as if all we are expected to do is come here and vote for resolutions presented by the executive," he declared. "We might as well be in Russia. If there is no fear of an independent audit there should be no fear of it (Applause.) It is all very well for those in the West to come here and laud Hydro, but it is different in the East, where we do not enjoy so many privileges. Peterboro has reason for feeling that Hydro has not treated it fairly."

"GENTLEMEN, NOT RUBBER STAMPS."

Mayor Buchanan: "There is one regrettable thing I have found since joining this association, and it is that we positively have not been treated like gentlemen, but like so many rubber stamps, brought here to listen to J. W. Lyon and Maybr Church, although the Mayor has changed recently."

President Lyon called on the speaker to "sit down," but Mayor Buchanan refused to do so. He appealed to the meeting for 'fair play" and was told to "go on."

"I am not criticizing the Hydro or the Clarkson report," declared Mayor Buchanan. "But many manufacturers are becoming suspicious. Remember Bolshevikism starts with ignorance."

Mayor McBride: "I will not vote to help to feed the serpent of suspicion, and that is just what the amendment will do."

E. T. Sifton of Hamilton, wanted to know how many present had read the Clarkson report. Five held up their hands.

Mr. Sifton: "If we vote to endorse the report, we will look like a pack of idiots."

Mayor Burgoyne, of St. Catharines: "We have the word of the Premier that the report is favourable. Why some would not accept a report from the Angel Gabriel."

After further discussion, Controller Maguire's motion carried by a vote of 46 to 20.

Freedom of the Seas Defined by Leading Authorities in Britain

"The British Fleet Saved the World From German Domination," Says Lord Beresford—Non-Combatant Trading With Enemy Prolonged War.

DIFFERENCE OF OPINION

(By Ed. L. Keen.)
(Copyright 1918, by United Press.)

LONDON, Nov. 29.—The definition of the phrase "Freedom of the Seas" is the most important problem before the world to-day. In its relation to the League of Nations, it forms the basis for the chief point to be settled by the great forthcoming world peace conference. Responding to a request for their opinion of this all-important problem, leaders of British thought to-day revealed a wide divergence of views. Great significance is attached to this fact as a result of the action of the Allies in amending President Wilson's famous fourteen points so as to permit them to enter the peace conference without having been committed to any definition of the four words, "Freedom of the Seas," which seem destined to become the most vital feature of the new International relationship. Following are the answers to the request made by the United Press, for the British view of what the definition should be:

By Admiral Lord Beresford:

The British fleet insured victory. Without the British fleet the whole world would be under the domination of Germany. The German view of freedom of the seas would parallel their views of freedom on land. Before the war, America objected to some of the principles of our blockade. Directly it entered the war it adopted the same methods and helped us. The League of Nations is no counter-poise to the command of the seas by the British fleet. The British Empire will never consent to give up command of the seas, but would gladly welcome the assistance of English-speaking nations to retain that command.

By Admiral H. G. Wells:

Freedom of the seas means a guarantee by the League of Nations of transit, without discrimination in freights and fares over all seas and international land routes, free of discriminations and extortions by particular nations or combinations of private ship owners and transit companies.

By G. Bernard Shaw:

Freedom of the seas means that if you seize contraband of war you pay for it and for all incidental damage; also that all nations have internationally guaranteed the right of way over all indispensable marine highways.

By Lieut.-Col. Repington (famous military critic):

I have not the slightest idea what freedom of the seas means, nor have I met anyone who can tell me.

By A. N. Pollin (distinguished naval critic):

Germany was defeated largely because at the last she was effectively besieged by sea. Had neutrals been free to supply her the war might have continued another year. Had all supplies, especially from America, been stopped from the first, it would have been over long ago. Non-combatant trading with Germany has cost Europe and America millions of lives and fifty billion dollars. If this is freedom of the seas, it has been costly.

By Archibald Hurd (naval critic of the "Navy Telegraph":

In war, as recent events have shown, effective freedom of the seas, as of the world, demands maintenance of ancient sea rights which have been repeatedly proved to be the salvation of civilization. Philip II of Spain, Napoleon and the Kaiser were defeated, and the American Union was saved thereby in the Civil War. Abolition of this blockade and of contraband would reduce the value of sea power seventy-five per cent., because it would enable great continental armies to be sustained almost indefinitely. The sea controls the land, and so-called freedom of the seas means military autocracy by land.

By A. G. Gardiner (Editor of the "Daily News":

Freedom of the seas is universal and unqualified in peace time. In case of dispute between nations, if one nation rejects arbitration and the decision of the League of Nations and declares war, it will be denied use of the sea, while its opponent will have such use disregarded.

By Col. J. C. Wedgewood, M.P.:

Freedom of the seas means the abolition of the right of capture or destruction of private property at sea in war time and no discrimination at ports between the different flags in peace time. Submarines alter the old situation, but always, as a Liberal, I support President Wilson.

By Ralph D. Blumenfeld (Editor of the "Daily Express":

Until you abolish war there can be no such thing as freedom of the seas.

DELEGATES FROM SOLDIERS' COUNCILS

Special to The Examiner:

THE HAGUE, Nov. 29. — Soldiers' Councils on all fronts have been notified to send delegates to a special meeting at Baden December 1, to discuss participation in plans for re-organizing the German government, according to despatches received to-day.

Wanted to Fly the Flag

Admiral Beatty Reminded Germans That State of War Still Exists.

Special to The Examiner:

LONDON, Nov. 29.— Admiral Von Reuter, commander of the late German high seas fleet, in response to Admiral Beatty's order against hoisting the German flag, asked the cancellation of the order, according to an Admiralty statement. Von Reuter declared that the flag had been flown honourably, and maintained the order was unjustifiable and contradictory to international custom.

In replying Beatty pointed out that a state of war still exists, and that no enemy vessel is permitted to fly its flag in British ports.

Conference Will Discuss Procedure

Allies May Ask Holland to Remember Former Kaiser.

Special to The Examiner:

LONDON, Nov. 29.—Premier Clemenceau and Premier Lloyd George will meet here Sunday to discuss the procedure for demanding that Holland turn the former Kaiser over to the Allies, the Express declared to-day. France and Great Britain are understood to have agreed that such a demand be made, and the Dutch government is said to be ready to comply. The Express said Marshal Foch and Col. House may attend his conference.

WILL NOT JOIN.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.—The United States probably will not join the Entente in its reported plan to ask Holland to surrender the former Kaiser, according to indications at the State Department to-day.

FRENCH FOLK TEND OUR BOYS' GRAVES

By Webb Miller
(United Press Staff Correspondent.

PARIS, Nov. 7.—(By Mail.)— On the wooded slope of a hill that rises in a bend of the Seine just on the edge of Paris there is a little cemetery that is doing much to weld another link in the chain of friendship binding France and America.

Among the 700 graves of soldiers in this cemetery are many graves of American boys who have succumbed to their wounds in the hospitals in the suburbs of the city.

Almost every one of the American graves has been "adopted" by some French family, which takes care of the grave as though one of their own dead lay there. Many families have adopted 3 to 5 of the little mounds, and one prominent French professional man of Paris has "adopted" 15 and insists upon tending them with his own hands. The duties of the "foster parents" includes besides the care of the grave, an effort to get in touch with the relatives of the dead hero in America to tell them about the resting place of their fallen soldier.

Every one of the adopted graves is tended scrupulously. Fresh flowers are placed frequently and the American flag at the head of the grave is renewed when it is faded. On Sunday it is not unusual to see a dozen French women in deep mourning, sometimes accompanied by a troop of sober-faced children, reverently caring for the grave of an American who has fallen on the soil of France.

When a military funeral draws up to the gate of the cemetery and tenderly deposits another flag-draped coffin, the children gravely salute and follow the little procession to the new grave, and stand quietly while the chaplain reads the simple ceremony and the bugler sounds the final requiem.

HOW DOVER ESCAPED

Monitor "Glatten" Had to be Sunk When Found to be on Fire.

SHIP TORPEDOED

LONDON, Nov. 29. — The latest batch of interesting wartime happenings now released for publication contains a story of how Dover narrowly missed being blotted out just prior to the last Belgian offensive.

The harbour was packed with war vessels of all descriptions, including four monitors about to start out for the Belgian coast to co-operate with the land offensive. Suddenly an explosion shook the town, and soon it was discovered that the monitor Glatten was furiously ablaze in the harbour. It is stated that Admiral Keyes boarded the Glatten and, realizing the catastrophe that would result if the Glatten's magazines exploded, ordered air raid sirens to be blown to clear the streets. Orders were also given to sink the Glatten. The destroyer Broke succeeded in hitting her with three torpedoes in that part of the Glatten which was away from her magazine, thus sinking her and saving Dover.

Canadians Still Pushing Ahead

Special to The Examiner:

OTTAWA, Nov. 29. — It is understood here that the Canadian Army Corps which, since the armistice was signed, has been pushing on with other Allied forces to the Rhine, will occupy the fortress town of Mainz until such time as peace is ratified, or until the situation is such as to permit of patrial demobilization. At present the armies are pushing ahead, and at the same time maintaining carefully their lines of communication. The feeding of prisoners released from Germany and now pouring back into France renders this task one of increased difficulty.

THE WEATHER

The mild weather with showers still continues. Last night's lowest was but 39 degrees. The rainfal during the night amounted to a little over one-half inch, and what frost was in the ground has again disappeared. Such mild conditions late in the season are unusual, but do not necessarily presage an open winter. It is quite true, however, if we do not have winter weather previous to Christmas week we will not probably have much later on.—W.P.

THINK IT OVER.

Seeing is by far the most important sense of the human body. And still it is the one most frequently neglected. If your power of speech were impaired, or your hearing below normal, you would not hesitate about getting attention, and yet good eyesight is the easiest to restore if taken in time. If you are troubled with headaches or with your seeing power, consult Dr. Lacey, 410 George street.

AN INTERNATIONAL HIGHWAY— The good roads movement has been one of the first civilizing influences to make its effect felt in Europe, now that the era of war is ended. This map shows the route of a proposed international highway from the Adriatic to the Baltic. It would be built under the auspices of the various governments concerned, in control of an international commission, and would give immediate employment to large numbers of discharged soldiers.

German Soldier Refused to Salute Wilhelm Hohenzollern

"Damn the Hohenzollerns," Said a Member of Former Kaiser's Army—"Six Brothers Died for Them."

NERVES SHATTERED

Special to The Examiner:

AMSTERDAM, Nov. 29. — Count Wilhelm Hohenzollern soon will leave Amerongen Castle to undergo treatment for his shattered nerves, in a sanitorium near Arghem, it was understood here to-day.

He probably will live for some weeks at the home of Dr. Lingbeek at Rinkum. The former Kaiser is reported to be subject to frequent fits of violent weeping. Some days he is unable to write owing to spells of trembling. In well informed circles at The Hague it is expected that the Allies soon will join in inducing Holland to expel Wilhelm, offering him the choice of returning to the German frontier or surrendering to the Entente. Wilhelm seldom goes outside the castle gardens. During one of his first walks he met an interned German soldier who refused to salute. The former Kaiser demanded an explanation. The soldier silently produced a small red flag. An attendant asked him if he realized it was the Kaiser who stood before him. "Dawn the Hohenzollerns —six of my brothers died for them," shouted the soldier.

Since then the former Kaiser has taken no walks, always riding in a closed automobile on his infrequent trips away from the castle.

ORDERS-IN-COUNCIL TO DISAPPEAR SOON

Federal Legislation Will Be By Act of Parliament Henceforth.

OTTAWA, Nov. 29.—Assurance was given the representatives of Labour in conference here with members of the Cabinet, by Sir Thomas White, the Acting Prime Minister, that there will be a tendency henceforth on the part of the Government to abandon the war-time method of legislation by order-in-council and revert to the ordinary practice of legislation by Act of Parliament.

So far as the order-in-Council relating the I. W. W. and like organizations was concerned, Sir Thomas said it was intended to apply only to societies propagating doctrines subversive of public order.

He suggested that the Minister of Labour might consider whether or not it was too wide in its application. Sir Thomas spoke of the necessity of co-operation in Canada to maintain production for domestic and foreign markets in order to ensure revenue to pay increased debt charges and pensions due to the war and the continued prosperity of the Dominion.

BOLSHEVIK FORCES CAPTURE TOWNS

Special to The Examiner:

Campaign is Under Way

Bonar Law is Using the Regular Unionist Machinery.

(By Ed. L. Keen.)
(United Press.)

LONDON, Nov. 29.— Bonar Law is using the regular Unionist machinery. Lloyd George possesses no such organization, he and his followers having broken away from the regular Liberal party, but not from the Liberal fundamentals. The coalition is putting up candidates of various constituencies throughout the country—neither Unionist or Lloyd George Liberal — which seems the more likely of success. In the meantime Herbert Asquith, former Premier, is controlling the old "regular Liberal" machinery. His party is refraining from general opposition, leaving it up to the local organizations to decide whether they shall support the Lloyd George coalition candidates or put up their own Asquithian Liberals.

The Labour Party.

The Labour party, whose progressive platform is designed to attract the bulk of the workmen's vote, is bound to be a big factor, especially in view of the sympathetic attitude of leading, old-time Liberal organs, such as the Daily News, the Westminster Gazette and the Manchester Guardian, which are fondly hoping it is possible that a Liberal-Labour alliance may secure them domination of the coalition, which may be regarded as more Tory than Liberal. There is considerable uncertainty regarding the women's and soldiers' votes. The latter are likely to generally favour the coalition because the present government materially helped them to win the war.

Credentials O. K. of Circulation Men

Returned Soldiers Have Had Credentials Passed by Chief Thompson.

Six young men, all returned soldiers, are in the city to-day and will be until the city has been thoroughly canvassed, taking subscriptions for the Canadian Home Journal, Canadian Countryman and the Canadian Courier. As the residents of the city have been imposed on in the past by those not altogether entitled to the consideration of returned soldiers, these young men went directly to Chief Thompson to have their credentials passed upon. This he did and he found them entirely satisfactory in every respect.

WILHELM MAY RETURN

Reports Say German Revolution Is Being Managed by Officers of German High Command.

EMPRESS ARRIVES

Canadian Press.

LONDON, November 29. — The former German emperor contemplates an early return to Germany to reclaim his throne, according to the news received in London through a neutral source of high standing, says the Daily Mail.

The newspaper adds that the revolution in Germany is being managed by officers of the German high command with a view to eventually causing its collapse and the triumphant return of the former emperor to Berlin. Some of these officers in civilians clothes have been recognized in the streets of Berlin, many of them dressed as workmen. These officers harangue the crowds as "comrades," and invariably encourage the revolutionary movement. It is added, however, that if the opportunity offers they will abandon this disguise, and contend that the revolution is a failure, and begin a counter-revolution.

Agents of these officers, it is declared, are furthering this plot by spreading anti-British propaganda in Holland with the object of embittering the Dutch against the Allies.

EMPRESS ARRIVES.

(Special to Examiner.)

LONDON, Nov. 29th. — The "Mirror's Rotterdam correspondent says the former Kaiserin, garbed in a dark overcoat, arrived at Maasbergen yesterday morning, accompanied by the wife of the German minister to the Hague. They motored to Amerongen Castle, said the correspondent, where they joined the former Kaiser.

The Kaiserin's luggage is said to have consisted of twenty large trunks.

SERGT.-MAJOR EDWARD BELL BADLY WOUNDED ON 13TH OF OCTOBER

Sergeant-Major Edward Bell, brother of Reeve J. H. Bell, Monaghan, was severely wounded during the fighting in the early part of October, and is now in the Horton Hospital, Epsom, England, with his right leg paralyzed. In a recent letter received by his brother and sister, Sergeant-Major Bell wrote on October 29th, as follows:

"Just a line, hoping that it will find you all well. I picked up a machine gun bullet in the last "show" I was in. It hit me in the back just under the right ribs. I don't know how it got there, but it ended up in my spine, fracturing one of the lumbars and paralyzing my right foot.

I was trying to locate a German machine gun, but he located me first. The doctors cut the bullet out, but the foot is still "napoo" and my back is very weak. Kind of rotten luck to get hit so late in the game when everything was going fine. I lost everything I had except my watch. I was armed with two beauties of automatic revolvers, one of them carrying thirty-five rounds. They were worth sixty dollars, but I had to leave them just where I fell. I may be able to use my foot after a while. Give my regards to all the rest of the folks as I am too weak to write to all of them now. Your loving brother. ED.

Sergt.-Major Bell enlisted in Calgary with the 56th battalion as a private. He was later transferred to the 82nd and went overseas in 1916, and in France was again transferred to the 31st Battalion. He gained his promotions on the field.

ANOTHER CASE OF HUN HYPOCRISY

(New York Herald)

The more that is revealed concerning the internal conditions of Germany, the more certain it is that appeals made for food and assistance are hypocritical merely intended to arouse undeserved compassion and, if possible, cause a breach between the Allies. It is equally certain that the so-called revolution in Germany has been largely pre-arranged and that its pincipal object was to appear to meet the demand of the victors that a liberal administration be set up, subject to the people's will: one with which the various governments and the Peace Conference could safely deal.

Of all the various appeals for sympathy which have emanated from Germany since the armistice was signed none is more disgusting than that of the women of Germany to the women of France. These representatives of the creatures who spat in the faces of prisoners and tendered food and drink to fainting and famished men only to withdraw it from their lips, who never raised a voice against the foul outrages on the women of Belgium and France by German troops who ignored the appeal of French women against the deportation of young girls and other women from their homes to undergo the worst treatmen conceivable—these are the persons who now are whimpering over the terms of an armistice which are immeasurably lighter than the Germans deserve, and which bear no comparison with those that they themselves would have imposed had they been the victors instead of the vanquished.

From all credible accounts there is plenty of food in Germany The ration of bread is two pounds a week more than the Italian authorities are at present able to allow to the people of Italy. Shall the people of this and the allied countries deprive themselves in order to feed those of a country who have forgotten all right to sympathy or regard and who clearly are lying in the hope of thereby escaping justice?

As the German army is withdrawing from Belgium it is robbing and looting with much of its previous efficiency At the same time British and other prisoners coming out of Germany are found to be in a deplorable state of destitution. And this is the country whose men and women send whining appeals for mercy to the countries they have so foully treated, and are still mistreating as far as opportunities will allow them.

MERCHANTS WHO "CARRY ON"

The aggressiveness shown by the United States in all its yar activities is something that we in Canada must needs admire, and, le us hope, prilt by. One aspect of this tendency may be noted here. Hon. W. B. Colver, chairman of the Federal Trade Commission, has lately written a notable message to manufacturers, strongly urging them to continue their advertising without interruption during the war and reconstruction period.

He has pointed out to them the vital value of preserving for their products the asset of goodwill already created by their advertising, He has cited the fact that people have learned the value of certain products through advertising, and that a discontinuance of a serious curtailment of advertising in these times will go far toward undoing the work already accomplished.

The doctrine is sound and applies with even more force to local stores.

A store is not merely an interesting institution to the average person—it has much to do with the daily lives of the people.

What a merchant used to do, in the way of offering bargains and service, counts of course. It is a factor in the good-will asset which he has established. But he does not meet the present needs.

The people want to know day by day what the merchant is doing now. They want to determine in their minds how well he is measuring up to his old standards of service. They want to see how he acts under the fire of difficult merchandising conditions.

Through his daily news "communique," his store advertisement, he keeps in touch with them, keeps them informed as to to-day's offerings.

The merchant who "carries on," no matter what the trade conditions are, who demonstrates that his store is built upon the rock of service to its patrons, and that it is a factor in the in the community life—that merchant will win such a commanding lead that possible competition in the reconstruction period will beat upon the house in vain.—Kingston Whig.

Discourages Farmers' Party

Hon. Robert Rogers Calls on Conservatives to Reform Their Ranks and Fight.

TORONTO, Nov. 29.—Hon. Robert Rogers' address to the Conservatives of Ontario at the banquet tendered him last night at the King Edward Hotel contained nothing startling. The feature of the proceedings was the fiery effort of Col. John A. Currie, M.P., who called upon the Conservatives to reorganize.

If any strong, clear call was expected from the Hon. Mr. Rogers—and indications were not lacking that such was the case—the 600 odd Conservatives were disappointed. The only thing he had to offer was the forty-year-old National Policy of Sir John A. Macdonald "brought up to date."

Mr. Rogers did not go into details nor did he even hint how he would bring it up to date. He did say, however, that the school of Liberalism did not appear to be able to render very useful service, for the present at all events, in the pressing and necessary work of reconstruction and the restoration of public confidence. For the future he said Canada was sure to live in an age of a war of tariffs.

HIS RIGHT-HAND MAN

Col. Currie, who sat at the head table, at the right hand of Mr. Rogers, declared the party truce was over, and called upon Conservatives to re-form their ranks.

"The party truce is at an end," said the Colonel. 'We have that on the word of Sir Wilfird Laurier—who did not make the truce. Mr. Fielding and Mr. Scott say the truce is at an end."

DEMOBILIZATION PLANS.

Mr. Rogers referred to demobilization, saying:

'The work of demobilization should be quick, and carried through with common-sense business methods. Everything must be done by us to see that our returned men are settled in a way that will make them independent."

He wants I to know why Canada was unprepared for peace. "We must not for one moment forget," he said "that for some considerable time past the best men of the United States, the best men of England and the best men of all nations who have not been fighting have been preparing and making plans to provide for the future welfare of their respective countries to meet after the war conditions. We should have followed their example.

Fears Social Breakdown.

"The farmers in the West want a party. They are going in to get what they can for the farmers without any regard for the rest of the community. Unless there is a political organization that will interest itself and have the welfare of the soldiers at heart, then this country is going to have a social breakdown, almost as bad as what has been happening in Russia. This is a period of reconstruction, and the old Conservative party, with the assistance of Liberals of the Baldwin type, will have the courage to see it through. Those people who are talking about the formation of a new party are not friends of this Government. Those men who would undertake the formation of that party would be betraying grossly a very great trust placed in their hands. I don't think that is possible. I think there are thousands of Liberals who, when it is time for action, will be with us again in response to the call for patriotic action.

Voice of The People

Editor, Examiner:

Sir,—In your issue of Monday, the 25th inst., you have an article headed, "Thirty-five thousand children socially murdered each year," and you state the same in the article as coming from Dr. Shearer, but you do not say what lethal weapon is used to effect the homicide. He also speaks of twenty planks in the platform, but he fails to enumerate them. And what were the four questions turned down by the Senate? Will anybody throw a little light on the subject?

If thirty-five thousand children have their morals damaged every year, I suppose that would account for the terrible and widespread immorality of the grown-ups, but I do not see a word about that in the article.

Reading between the lines it appears to me our friends have in mind such things as drinking and smoking — things that are largely a matter of opinion and which many moral good people disagree with, but which our friends seek to force on all, no matter what their opinions or desires may be.

But will Dr. Shearer and the Councils he speaks of, take up the greatest moral question of the day? It is a question affecting morality more far-reaching than "touch not, taste not, handle not." If children were adversely affected by their environment it is safe to say the fault in the first place is on the parents. But the parents are so deeply steeped in immorality that nothing else can be expected.

The immorality I refer to is politely called race suicide. All over this fair Dominion, the United States and many of the European countries, families are systematically limited. Men dishonour themselves and their wives by the principles of Malthus and a large trade is carried on in the manufacture and sale of appliances and devices to the end that not thirty-five thousand, but ten times that number of potential children are murdered every year, and the perpetrators of these abominable and atrocious practices dare to meet and talk about morality!

The Roman Catholic church stands alone in teaching its members the gross character of these acts, and we consequently see Catholics with large families.

If the ministers of so-called religion would leave off teaching "doctrines of devils" (a scriptural phrase) and "touch not, taste not, handle not" and apply themselves to the discouragement of the degradation of the holy estate of matrimony that I refer to, they might effect more good in one month than these Councils will in ten years. The uncleanness of potential parents in this regard is the greatest blot of all on our social system, but so long as it is not a disgrace to be childless or nearly so, all other moral efforts are doomed to failure, and rightly so. If ever a local Council is organized I hope there will be another plank added to the platform and the matter handled without gloves.

Yours, etc.,
J. Guise-Bagley.

DUMMER HOME WAS DESTROYED BY FIRE

The home of Mr. C. A. Calder in Dummer was burned on Tuesday morning. The fire occurred about 8 o'clock. Mr. Calder had just completed a new addition to his house and it was in this part where the fire started. A portion of the household effects were saved but his loss will be heavy. Fortunately there is a vacant house on the farm opposite and this he has secured until such time as his own house can be replaced.

"HUSBAND" IS WOMAN.

Spy Suspect "Bert" is Really Bertha Schmidt.

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 29. — Suspected of being a German spy, "Bert" Schmidt, was arrested here last night and it developed that "Bert" is a woman. Upon this discovery the police arrested "his wife" to whom "Bert" was married October 12th last by a justice of the peace. "Bert" gave his age as twenty-three, and substantiated the assertion that "he" offered "his" services to the Government by producing a draft registration card. The woman told the police that she masqueraded as a man to obtain a man's salary. Both women are natives of Hungary.

"Bert" said her name was Bertha Schmidt, and the "wife" gave her name as Mary Assate.

J. A. Finlay, of Norwood, Says Peterboro Roads Are the Worst

What Advantage, He Asks, is to be Gained by Opposing the Government's Good Roads' Scheme—Suggests Series of Meetings to Discuss the Question.

SYSTEM IN ITS INFANCY

(From the Norwood Register).

To the Editor:

Dear Sir.—The letters which appeared in The Register recently from Mr. Thompson, M.P.P., and Mr. Elliott, are a move in the right direction, for the time has surely arrived that the County Council should take action to improve the roads in this district.

Mr. Elliott says the Good Roads System is not new to Peterborough County Council, having been explained by Mr. S. L. Squire on several occasions during the past few years, and he claps himself on the back for clear foresight in persuading the Council to turn down a modern method adopted by all other counties in the province, and approved by the Provincial Government.

It seems to me rather a very great lack of foresight to continue in the same old rut year after year upholding a system (if it can be called system at all) that should have been discarded years ago. Is it good business to permit our roads to become worse and worse until it takes eight to ten times the amount to repair them, that it would take if attended to in the proper time? The roads in this county are known far and near as among the very worst in the province, although we have an abundance of natural requisites for good roads, such as stone, gravel, etc., and should have roads equal to the best in Ontario.

Mr. Thompson very properly says this is not a political matter; it is one in which we are all intensely interested.

When Mr. Elliott shifts the responsibility for delayed action to the farmers, assurinrg us that they are not in favour of the new system, this seems unfair—true, the farmers have had the greater portion of the road making, but they have not had a fair chance, for it is absolutely impossible for any pathmasters to make good roads with two or three days' work once in twelve months and with no road machinery. It is a recognized fact that of late years roads require constant attention, and I think there are very few farmers so much in love with statute labor that they would not welcome more modern methods.

If the system adopted by the other counties is seriously objectionable, why should the Council sit mum? If there is the remotest chance of persuading the Government to return all auto fees (less cost of collection, etc.), as Mr. Elliott suggests, why not get busy? If not, it would seem like good business to adopt the system that will return the greatest percentages available as the other counties have done. What advantage is there in opposition to such measures? Even assume that subsequently it is found that the percentage or proportion paid by the province is not sufficient, would not united action by all counties have more weight than a kick from one lone county that never gave the system a trial?

In Ontario the system is practically in infancy, and it is not unreasonable to expect that certain changes may be found necessary, but what suggestions for improvement could be considered from a county that never made any honest effort to test its efficiency?

Personally I would like to hear more of the details of Good Roads System—there should not be any place these enlightened days for the man who adheres to the principle, "It can't be done." Good roads in this northern climate are quite a problem undoubtedly, but let us grapple with it unitedly, and win.

May I suggest a series of meetings throughout the county to discuss the question fully?

Amateur Night at the Grand

Last evening the Grand Opera House was crowded to capacity. A feature of the programme in addition to the regular run of high-class pictures, was the performance given by a number of local amateurs. The performers appeared in the following order:

Dorothy and Glen Donley. Their first number was a butterfly dance followed by the Highland Fling.

The Duggan Brothers appeared in the role of Coon Comedians. They contributed a number of excellent songs and a monologue.

Mack Murty showed real merit as a step-dancer.

Harrison and Pritchard contributed a number of songs, also a talking act.

It is the intention of the management to give an "amateur night" at various intervals throughout the season.

Anniversary Sale a Money Saver

An event that has become a permanent fixture in the business life of George street, is the Annual Anniversary Sale of H. J. Zacks. It has always been marked by a crowded store, and often difficulty in waiting on the people. That in itself speaks well for the way the store lives up to its offers, and is a sure sign of a well-pleased patronage. This year Mr. Zacks is promising the best list of bargains yet, and a look over his big advertisement on another page reveals an extensive feast of money-savers that will likely achieve the object of making this year's Anniversary Sale the greatest yet.

Banquet for King George

A Notable Event in the Worlds' History.

Canadian Press:

PARIS, Nov. 29.—The dinner given to King George at the Elysee Palace last night by President Poincaire, Paris newspapers declared, was one of the most notable events in the history of Great Britain and France. President Poincaire, in toasting Great Britain, recalled the agreement made between the two countries in 1904 and the efforts of both Great Britain and France to avoid the war in 1914. He declared that Great Britain, by her naval, military and moral effort during the war, had added an incomparable chapter to her splendid history. He praised the work of the British Army and the efforts of the British Navy.

King George recalled the vain efforts of Germany to capture Paris, and the final triumphant campaign of the Allies under the direction of Marshal Foch. Both nations, he added, have struggled for civilization and right, and had learned to appreciate each other. He paid a tribute to France's heroic dead, and toasted the future happiness and prosperity of the French people.

Team of Farm Horses Ran Away at Sudden Roar of Motor Car

With a loud clatter that sounded like a battery going into action, a team of horses owned by Richard Tebb of Smith raced down Simcoe street this afternoon, bumped across the street railway at George street, and finally missing their step in front of the City Hall, sprawled in all directions at the Water street corner. They had been standing stolidly in the yard of the Peterborough Creamery on Aylmer street waiting for a load of cinders. To all appearances their sprinting days were long since, and they seemed a steady-going, unemotional pair, one bay, the other white that could be depended upon in any noise. Just then some persons started the engine of a motor car that whirred with a roar, and the team of farm horses got away with the trigger, as they say in sprinting races. They turned sharply into Aylmer street, swerved in the other direction on Simcoe and with nostrils distended and tails on end they pounded along Simcoe street as if trying to escape from the demon in that engine. They might have run down to the river, but the white one slipped at Water street and carried its mate in a heap at the corner. An amusing feature of their stunt was that in their momentum one rolled over the other and tangled up the harness in knots. Otherwise it was a very ordinary runaway, and the only damage noticeable was a broken check ring, costing about twenty-five cents.

GERMANY MUST PAY

Special to the Examiner:

LONDON, Nov. 29. — "Germany must pay the cost of the war to the limit of her capacity," Premier Lloyd George declared in a speech here today. "The principle has always been that the loser pays. We must proceed on this principle in regard to Germany. Peace must be sternly just. Germany will not be permitted to pay the indemnity by dumping cheap goods in this country."

Referring to his stand in the coming elections, the Premier said: "I won't lead the Government if I am to be subjected to the old party conspiracies and intrigues."

"The submarine pirates must be punished, the Premier added, and whoever devastated the lands of another country ought to be responsible for it. Referring to the culpability of the authors of the war, Mr. Lloyd George said the Government intended that the investigation to be conducted should be perfectly fair but a stern one, and that it should go on to its final reckoning.

Can Command World Peace by Acting Together

Canadian Press:

LONDON, Nov. 29.—Sir Robert Borden, Canadian Premier, speaking at the Thanksgiving Day banquet of the American Society, approved of a plan to form a League of Nations, but stated that England and the United States are able to command the peace of the world by acting together.

He said: "Let us have a League of Nations if it can be realized, but at least let us have that understanding and unity of purpose and action between the two worlds. United by ties of grace, language, literature and traditions, the nations of the Britannic Commonwealth and States composing the great American Republic can command the peace of the world.

"By their overwhelming powers and unequalled influence, neither nation can divorce itself from these responsibilities. Let no minor consideration, no petty rivalry and no unworthy distrust divide these who, united, can command the world's abiding peace."

America's share in winning the war was praised by Viscount Chinda, Japanese Ambassador to Great Britain.

The banquet was the most elaborate held by the Society since 1914. Representatives of nearly all associated nations were present.

Case Dismissed in County Court

Each Party is Required to Pay the Costs.

In the action of Dr. Robinson against Mr. A. A. Fowler, His Honour Judge Huycke delivered judgment this morning in the County Court. Dr. Robinson had sued Mr. A. A. Fowler for $500 damages, alleging that Mr. Fowler had been guilty of negligence in driving his automobile west on Hunter street, said meeting Dr. Robinson's taxi cab driven by his driver, Charles O'Hara, at the corner of Hunter and Aylmer street, and as a result of the collision, on the 23rd of August, 1917, being a wet night, Dr. Robinson's taxi cab was completely wrecked against an electric light post at the corner.

Judge Huycke found that O'Hara was guilty of contributory negligence, and he also found that Mr. Fowler, by reason of driving a heavy car on a greasy pavement, at a dark corner at night, should have driven more slowly.

Under the circumstances, Judge Huycke dismissed Dr. Robinson's claim and also dismissed Mr. Fowler's claim of $28.00 for damage to his fender.

In his judgment, Judge Huycke intimated that in future cases of automobile drivers coming before him, that he would suggest his disapprobation of speeding, in every case.

Each party is required to pay his own costs of the action.

Mr. Daniel O'Connell and J. R. Corkery appeared for Dr. Robinson, and Mr. G. N. Gordon appeared for Mr. Fowler.

Special to The Examiner:

LONDON, Nov. 28. — Winston Churchill, Minister of Munitions, in a speech last night, advocated nationalization of British railways.

ORDER-IN-COUNCIL HAS BEEN RELAXED

Commander Ross Still Retaining Position.

Special to the Examiner:

OTTAWA, Nov. 29.—It would appear that certain leeway in the matter of making appointments has been conceded to Commander J. K. L. Ross, head of the Canadian Pensions Board. Two months ago Commander Ross straightly threatened to resign unless the interference of the Civil Service Commission in the matter of appointments to the commission of pensons were removed. He represented that the Order-in-Council creating the Pensions Board vested in it the right to make its own appointments. Apparently Commander Ross has secured his end for he is still head of the Pensions Board. A relaxation of the Civil Service regulations is said to have been permitted without the amendment of the law in his particular case. It is rumoured here that the reason for the resignation of Sir Clifford Sifton from the position of head of the Conservation Commission was the fact that under the new Civil Service regulations he could not even appoint a messenger without consulting the Civil Service Commission.

Lower Prices for Footwear

Everybody has been talking about scarce leather, and high prices of boots, with no prospect of any relief for some time, but a look at the big advertisement of D. Zacks, whose store is opposite the Examiner Office, puts an end to all anxiety on that score. It really looks as though you could buy your boots at prices that are gratifyingly low and much more favourably than was expected. It is safe to predict a rush at the Zacks store to-morrow, and the next fifteen days.

U. S. Employment Service Ready to Return War Workers and Soldiers to Industries

Through Government Agencies All Discharges and Demands for Labor Are Listed by Communities—Cancellation of Contracts Made So Readjustments Come Gradually.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 29.—Governmental agencies on which rest the responsibility of effecting the cancellation of war contracts, rapidly as possible without undue industrial disturbance have now a very definite policy and comprehensive programme This programme was made effective almost immediately upon the signing of the armistice. In the Labor Department, War Department and War Industries Board have worked in complete harmony.

There is no doubt, however, that the demand that Congress pass legislation repealing appropriations for war material, there by forcing the immediate cancellation of all contracts without regard to the effect on labor, and on the individual community is causing the gravest apprehension among the officials charged with the duties of industrial demobilization. Any such wholesale use of the axe on war time contracts, coupled with the present rapid demobilization of the army, is likely, it is feared, to bring about a serious situation

At the present time cancellations are being made as rapidly as possible under the circumstances and the transition of men and industries to a normal basis is going on with smoothness. In many instances where there is a complete layoff the men are returning to their homes or seeking other occupations without complaint and without calling on the government agencies. Several proposals of important cancellations which involve large groups of labor are being held back until the employment service is prepared to handle the work men and return them to normal occupations without appreciable loss of time.

CONTRACTORS ARE WARNED

While every protection is being given the contractor it is being plainly indicated to him that the must also seek normal commercial business and return to a peace basis as quickly as possible. Where articles are in process of manufacture they may be completed but the contractor will not be called upon to live up to his contractural obligations as to delivgries.

In his way he may gradually turn his organization back into the work in which it was engaged before the war without the necessity of any abrupt discharge of a considerable portion of his help.

Sanford H. Freund, director general of the United States Employment Service, and N. A. Smyth, assistant director, foresaw that the most perplexing problem with which the government would have to deal, should the war end abruptly, would be the labor question. Realizing the situation the reconstruction of United States employment service was begun. When peace came the service was read to handle the labor problem providing that cancellations or reductions were not made too suddenly.

Immediately after the armistice was signed the employment service arranged with the War Department and War Industries Board to be advised in advance of any proposed cancellations. The entire clearance division of the service was moved to the offices of the War Industries Board, where the director general now spends his entire time. The chairman of the fifteen hundred community labor boards were then instructed to report once a week on conditions in various communities direct to the War Industries Board.

Wants An Investigation

Canadian Press:

LONDON, Nov. .9.—Dr. Bethmann Hollweg, Imperial Chancellor, at the outbreak of the war, is eager for an investigation into his share of the origin of the conflict, according to a statement he has made in the North German Gazette of Berlin. The Ex-Chancellor says he is anxiously awaiting the day when his case may be judged by an impartial government tribunal. "We will admit our errors," he added, "but will not allow ourselves to be forced to make untrue confessions."

Hundreds Are Dying in Austria

Buried in Paper Coffins Because the Wood is Needed for Fuel—Existing on Soup and Sawdust.

LONDON, Nov. 29.—The population of Vienna is reported in a desperate condition from lack of food, according to a message to the Daily Express from its correspondent in Vienna, who claims to have had an official reception there and to have been given special opportunities for investigating behind the scenes.

The correspondent's message, which is dated Nov. 25, tells of the soup kitchens established in the city. Each of the ten, he says, is feeding daily six thousand men, women and children, who have to stand in line for hours awaiting admission.

Less Than Pint of Soup.

Each receives less than a pint of soup, made of rotten cabbage and flour, containing a quantity of sawdust. On Sunday a little horseflesh is added.

'All these human wrecks, with bones protruding," continued the correspondent, "exist on this soup. Hundreds die daily, and are buried in paper coffins, because the wood is needed for fuel." He says, incidentally, that the clerks in the Spanish embassy are dying of starvation.

"Vienna," the correspondent adds, "is in a sullen mood. The whole of German Austria is afraid of Bolshevism. I understand there is barely sufficient food here for three weeks and only enough coal for a fortnight. Unless help arrives quickly hell will break loose. Already the people are buying rifles and machine guns."

Want Pressure Exercised.

The officials, the correspondent reports, complain that Hungary has food and the Czechs have coal, but that neither will part with its supplies. The officials want the allies to put pressure on these Governments. He adds that the leader of the Red Guard, a young Jew named Kisch, says he wishes to avoid Bolshevism if possible. The Austrian Guards originally numbered 7,000, but thousands of them turned to Bolsheviki beliefs and have been dismissed until now, he says, only 800 remain.

REPRESENTATIVES WILL GO TO BERLIN TO EXTEND ARMISTICE.

(Canadian Press.)

AMSTERDAM, November 29. — A Berlin corespondent in the Cologne Gazette says it is understood that representatives of Great Britain, France and the United States, will shortly arrive in Berlin to discuss the extension of the armistice period.

GERMAN-AUSTRIA NOW WANTS A CLEAN BREAST

NEGOTIATING WITH HUNGARIANS AND CZECHS TO PUBLISH PRE WAR DOCUMENTS

BERLIN, Nov. 27.—The German-Austrian National Counail is negotiating with the Hungarian and Czech Governments for the purpose of securing their cooperation in the publication of diplomatic pre-war documents and in an investication into the responsibility and conduct of the war, the Vienna correspondent of the Vossiche Zeitung reports. Recent revelations have been made, he said, to the effect that former Emperor Charles had secretly drawn 1,500,000 crowns on the army account, while charges involving Archduke Frederick and other high officers in connection with army contracts are also to be looked into.

The diplomatic investigation will be conducted chiefly against Count Berchtold, who was Austria Hungarian Foreign Minister when the war broke out, and Count Czernin, later the occupant of that portfolio, the latter being accused of summarily rejecting alleged American peace propositions.

The statement made in the Bavarian disclosures to the effect that the late Count Tisza, then Hungarian Premier, was opposed to the hostile tone of the Austro Hungarian ultimatum to Serbia, is said to conform with the facts. Count Stuergkh, the Austrian Premier, on the other hand is represented as having proceeded in the manner of a ruthless dictator.

German Writer Tells of Lemberg Pogroms

DECLARES THOUSANDS OF CHARRED BODIES FILLED STREETS OF GALICIAN CAPITAL

Berlin, Nov. 29.—The charge that the Poles, after capturing Lemberg, the Galician capital, sacked the Jewish quarter, where the victims numbered several thousand, is made by the Lemberg correspondent of the Berlin Tageblatt, who says he left the Galician city on November 24. The casualties among the soldiers and civilians are estimated as in excess of one thousand, he says. A large section of the city was completely destroyed. The post office is a heap of smouldering ruins.

"Immediately upon entering the city the Poles proceeded to sack and burn the Ghetto district," continues the despatch. "The streets were filled with the charred bodies of murdered Jews. The Polish authorities were indifferent and declined to take measures to halt the slaughter. Polish legions roped off the streets leading to the Ghetto and calmly proceeded to pillage, rapine and burning.

"The Polish authorities are attempting to blame uniformed bandits for the programs, although it is commonly known that the terrorists are not only amply supplied with arms and munitions, but that they threatened the Jews in the event Lemberg was captured."

ST. ANDREW'S DAY AT ST. JOHN'S CHURCH

Change in Time of Sunday School Session.

St. Andrew's Day this year falls on Saturday, so the festival will be observed in St. John's church with the Advent services next Sunday. At 8.30 and 11 a.m. the Holy Communion will be celebrated and at the earlier service, members of the Senior and Girls' branches of the Woman's Auxiliary to the M.S.C.C. will make their corporate communion. The Missions of the Church will be the theme at the evening service and a hearty invitation is extended to all to take part in the intercessions to be offered on the festival of the great missionary apostle, St. Andrew. The Sunday school will observe Missionary Sunday by raising the first of their Victory bonds, and the session will commence at 2.45 instead of 3 p.m.

Children's Day envelopes not used last Sunday should be used and handed in on Sunday.

Postmen Want Half Holiday

PETERBORO LETTER CARRIERS JOIN IN REQUEST.

Backed by the Peterboro Branch, the Federated Letter Carriers' Association will wait upon the Dominion Cabinet in Ottawa this week to urge that the postmen be granted the Saturday half holiday. The postmen contend that the great bulk of mail is delivered in the morning and that most of the larger factories are closed on Saturday afternoon.

The movement was originated in the west, where business ceases on Saturday afternoon to a larger extent than in the east. December is not asked for because of the Christmas rush.

NEW UNIFORMS FOR LOCAL POSTMEN

NEW UNIFORM IS AN IMPROVEMENT OVER OLD ISSUE

Half the posties in the city have donned their new issue of tunics, the other half will get their biennial issue next year. The new tunics are a decided improvement upon the old as a warm comfortable turn down collar replaces the former chocker which "chocked" but did not keep out the old. Besides being more comfortable they are much nattier in appearance.

New Dam May be Constructed in Lakefield

Ground is Being Surveyed—Lakefield News.

LAKEFIELD, Nov. 29.—A survey is being made in Lakefield for a new dam which is very much needed as the present dam is in a very precarious condition. The necessity for a dam is apparent for in the event of the present one giving way the navigation of the Trent Canal would be held up indefinitely and the lumber interests would suffer.

The death occurred yesterday in Toronto of May Edwards, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Edwards, at the age of seventeen years. Miss Edwards had been ill for several weeks but the news of her death came as a shock to her friends in Lakefield. She was born in Lakefield but the family moved to Toronto more than ten years ago. She is survived by her parents and two sisters, Miss Ferne and Mildred Edwards, Mr. Theodore Crawford of Lakefield, is her uncle.

HERMIT HAD CASH HIDDEN IN HIS HOME

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 29.—Philadelphians are named as heirs of Edward J. Moore, the Parksburg hermit who accumulated more than $100,000 despite an eccentricity that kept him from touching money with his hands.

Moore, who died in the Lancaster Hospital, saved virtually all his wealth while conducting a small store in Parksburg. Thousands of dollars were taken in over the counter of the store, but none of the patrons could tell of one instance since 1900 when Moore picked up the money with his fingers.

The money was swept from the counter into the cash drawer with a piece of paper. When he found it necessary to make change, Moore took the money from the drawer with a small pair of pincers.

More than $40,000 of the estate left by the dead man was found in cash secreted around his two room shack. The coins and greenbacks recovered filled a large basket. Thousands of dollars more are believed to be secreted about the premises and a guard has been stationed about the property.

Moore was seventy-nine years old. In his youth he was known as the Beau Brummel of the town, and other young men frequently accused him of acquiring his fine complexion through the liberal use of cosmetics. His gay spirits and his ability as a violinist, however, gained him many friends who stood him in good stead when he opened his general store.

"NEPONSET"

STANDS THE TEST

Neponset is even better than we thought it was, and that is saying a good deal. The other day in conversation with the head of a large departmental store in a city about the size of Peterborough, the question of "NEPONSET" was introduced. This gentleman asked us if we had had a demonstration. We told him we had, and that we had a strip on the sidewalk for four days. He replied, "That's nothing. Last April I put a piece down in front of our opera-house which seats 2,500 people. I took it up the other day and there was not the sign of a hole in it." He wound up his conversation by saying, "I do not think you can wear the stuff out." This man put "NEPONSET" to a higher test than we ever dreamed of doing, and "NEPONSET" stood up under it.

General and Men Eat Meals at Same Table

Travellers From Germany Cite This as One of Amazing Changes in "Fatherland."

RUSSIAN WAS WELCOMED

BERNE, Nov. 30. — The amazing changes in Germany, especially to those who know the stern system of former days, are illustrated by many stories brought to Switzerland from Germany by travellers.

The Dutch diplomatic courier tells of his first trip after the break-up of the empire. He was unable to get farther than Cologne, because there was no room in the railway trains. He went to the Workmen's and Soldiers' Council to apply for a seat on a southbound train. He found a group of common soldiers seated in a big room, joking and smoking and spitting on the floor.

Dutch in Germany.

The leader of the soldiers asked the courier what kind of treatment the German couriers received in Holland. On learning that they were given an entire railway compartment the soldiers guessed the Dutch should have the same privilege in Germany.

They told the courier to go to the military commandant's office. There the courier found an old time officer, who at first sternly refused permission. He granted it instantly, however, when told that the soldiers had given their permission. He told the courier to be sure and get advise from the counsil before leaving.

On the train the courier found a general at a table. Soon three common soldiers entered, took off their haversacks and seated themselves at the general's table. Without saluting or even noticing the general they began to eat.

Russian Welcomed.

Another new arrival in Switzerland is a Russian from Odessa who entered Germany by way of Brest-Litovsk and Warsaw. He was worried lest his insufficient knowledge of German and his marked Russian accent might make trouble so he did not talk for hours.

Finally, however, speech became imperative. His fellow travellers demanded his identity, and when the Russian revealed it, they fairly deluged him with attention.

One traveller offered him a cigar and another a bottle of wine. The Germans conversed affably and adopted French as the language more familiar to the Russian.

The Russian reached Switzerland convinced that the Germans in overturning their Government also overturned most of their one-time customs. He said their habits of thinking had changed as no one ever had believed possible.

CATTLE MARKET

This week's markets opened on Monday with a run of about 2,500 head of cattle, over 3,000 hogs, and over 3,000 sheep and lambs. The demand for cattle of practically all grades proved to be well up to the supply, especially for the best grades of butcher cattle, and for heavy steers of export quality. Prices in these classes easily scored an advance of from 50c. to 75c. over the previous week for the same quality of cattle. In the common class of butcher cattle the advance was not so pronounced, but with a good demand for even the commoner stuff there was an advance of about 25c. Good butcher cows, bulls, canners and cutters continued in good demand all through the week, the latter class in particular gaining on the earlier advance to about 40c. to 50c. over the previous week.

In the class of medium quality light butcher cattle, and for light rough stockers, the market began to drag in the week and markets and prices failed to hold at the earlier advance, going back some 25c. to 25c. on the light stockers.

Good quality stockers and feeders maintained their early advances.

Choice quality veal calves held firm and strong, but the common quality grass calves were weak.

The lamb market weakened towards the end of the week under the continued heavy offerings. But choice lambs, outside of the Ottawa Valley class of black faces, sold from $14.25 to $15, the top. Sheep generally easier.

The hog market held fairly steady, but weakened a little the latter part of the week, the market getting down to packers' quotations of $18.25 fed and watered and $17.50 f.o.b.

Cattle Receips.

Union Stock Yards—Total receipts this week, 722 cars, with 10,876 cattle, 699 calves, 9,420 hogs, and 10,950 sheep and lambs.

City Cattle Market—42 cars, with 594 cattle, 1,139 sheep and lambs, 295 hogs, and 45 calves.

Fourth Annual Meeting of the Business Girls' Club

Organization Has Taken a Permanent Place in the Community—Work Accomplished During the Year—Officers Elected for the Year.

The annual meeting of the Business Girls' Club of Peterborough was held on Friday evening, Nov. 22nd, in the Green Room of the Y.W.C.A.

The reports of the work accomplished during the year were most encouraging, and were as follows:

The following report was submitted by Miss Bessie Latimer, secretary of the organization:

I beg to submit the following report, being the fourth annual report of the Business Girls' Club, for the year ending November, 1918:

During the year we have worked in a variety of ways, and for a number of different objects, but throughout "patriotism" has characterized every branch of our activities.

Last winter a "Rainbow Tea" was held, followed in the summer by a garden party at "Holmwood Hall," sale of refreshments at the bowling club bonspiel, and dance and sale of ice cream at the garden party at "Holmwood Hall," held under the auspices of the G.W.V.A. and the Progressive Club. From all of these, substantial sums of money were realized, enabling us to make donations to relief at Halifax, the G. W. V. A. Club-rooms, Prisoners of War Bread Fund, Navy League, Red Cross Society, and a number of other deserving calls, as well as the purchase of two Victory Bonds. Red Cross work has been carried on throughout the year, meetings having been held in the Red Cross Room each Thursday evening for that purpose.

Red Cross Work.

The members have also personally donated to the Red Cross Society through the medium of the club. Collection of these funds has been efficiently made by Miss Margaret Rae and Miss Jennie Richardson. Shipments of socks and comforts to boys at the front have been made, and many grateful acknowledgments received from those who have benefited therefrom. As to "manual labour"—last spring, in order to assist in the call for greater production, we decided to become "Soldiers of the Soil," and throughout the season operated a large plot of land at the rear of the Court-House, kindly loaned us by Mr. Nesbitt. Under the capable leadership of Miss May Byers and Miss Aleitha Davidson, the garden was a huge success, the members who pledged themselves to assist in the venture working faithfully and assiduously until the crop was harvested. Although the work was strenuous, many pleasant hours were spent. The reward for our labours was two-fold—a splendid crop and a financial gain of $43.45.

This year nine business meetings were held, at which there was an average attendance of eighteen members. At these and all other club gatherings no refreshments were served, it having been decided at the beginning of the year to abandon this custom on account of the food shortage. Among the many items of programme which added interest to these meetings, there are none more worthy of special mention than the addresses of Nursing-Sisters M. K. Douglas and B. M. Mowry, and Miss Sherlock's splendid paper on "The Song of Hiawatha." To all who have similarly favoured us, and done so most graciously, the club is deeply indebted.

New Method.

Last summer it was decided to adopt a different method of receiving new members. The method now is that the name of the party desiring admission be proposed and seconded at one meeting, and voted on by ballot at the next meeting, five adverse votes being a disqualification.

One of our most important acts has been our incorporation (under Letters Patent), which was accomplished last month under the official name of "The Business Girls' Club of Peterborough."

In all our undertakings the outstanding and most pleasing feature has been the hearty co-operation and spirit of good-fellowship that has existed among all the members, drawing us together more closely personally and enabling us to accomplish greater and better things in the interests of our organization.

War Garden.

In presenting the report of the Greater Production War Garden Committee, Miss Aleitha Davidson, said:

It was through the enthusiasm brought to the Business Girls' Club by Miss Rush of the Greater Production Committee last spring that the Club first received the idea of conducting a garden this past summer.

Miss Byers, Miss Ethel Rae and Miss Aleitha Davidson were first appointed a committee to look into the matter and lay plans. We found that we could secure at the Court House from Mr. Nesbitt a plot of ground 150 by 60 feet, and that the Peterborough Horticultural Society would give us a contribution of seeds.

Later Miss Byers and Miss Davidson were appointed supervisors with four sub-supervisors, who each had charge of a plot with six helpers.

The vegetables planted included onions, lettuce, radishes, carrots, beets, summer and winter beans, tomatoes, cucumbers and corn.

At the Business Girls' garden party at "Holmwood Hall" in July we had an exhibit of carrots, beets, lettuce and onions, which were sold, and from which we realized $6.85.

Total receipts of garden produce sold	$50.84
Expenditures	7.39
Balance	$43.45

Sock Committee.

Miss Olive English presented the following report of the Sock Committee of the Business Girls' Club, from November 1st, 1917, to November 1st, 1918:

Seven spindles of wool were purchased from the Red Cross Society, and knitted up by members of our Club or their friends. We have to date been able to send away to each of the following soldiers a package containing 6 pairs of socks, gum, chocolate and cigarettes:

Oscar Davidson, Angus Richardson, Alex. Gillespie, Grant Latimer, D. Powel, W. Gleadell, S. R. Hall, H. B. Carr, W. McGee, J. Bradbury, W. H. Griggs, Wm. Clark, S. J. Dunsford, G. Edwards, H. Latimer, H. McClellan.

Appreciative letters of acknowledgment have been received from these boys.

The President, Miss Helen Denison, who has for the past two years been a most capable leader, in her presidential address, thanked the officers, executive and the members personally for the kind and loyal support given her. Continuing, she said:

On behalf of my successor, I would bespeak for her the same support as I have enjoyed, as it is only through the hearty co-operation of every member that successful work can be accomplished.

To my mind, the Club has now arrived at the turning point in its career. During the war there was no difficulty in choosing what work should be done, or what policy should be pursued. The work was ready to our hands, and we had to do it if we were to be true to our King, Empire, and to those who had gone overseas for us. As conditions are gradually re-adjusted, it will be for us to decide along what lines we will develop. As I have often said, I think there is a great future before our Club, if we will only recognize our possibilities and are willing to shoulder the responsibilities connected with them. We can certainly count on the support of the public, in any work we undertake, as evidenced by past experiences.

Recognized Place.

We have now a recognized place in the community as an Incorporated Society, and must see to it that our standard is never lowered, and that the Business Girls' Club stands for all that is true, and right, and honourable.

Since the inauguration of the Club there seems to have been a spirit of kindliness and good fellowship amongst the members, to which, I am sure, the success of the Club has been largely due. Let us in the future try to extend this spirit in all directions, especially to all girls with whom we come in contact whether members of our Club or not, and show that the sacrifices made during the war have not gone for nothing, but that we have emerged from this great dark cloud, finer, broader women, and ready to "play the game" with our whole hearts.

Officers Elected.

The election of officers for the ensuing year resulted as follows:

Hon. President—Mrs. W. H. Denham.
President—Miss Sherlock.
1st Vice-President — Miss Helen Denison.
2nd Vice-President — Mrs. D. F. Drummond.
3rd Vice-President — Miss Jessie Waddell.
Secretary—Miss Grace Evans.
Treasurer—Miss Pearl Emmerson.
Executive Committee— Misses Lillian Hamilton, Aleitha Davidson, Margaret Rae, Edith Bryce, Bessie Latimer.

After business was concluded a short programme was rendered consisting of a solo by Mrs. Middleton, and a reading by Miss Muriel Harvey. Later, on behalf of the Club, Miss Lillian Crowe presented Miss Denison with a beautiful bouquet of 'mums tied with the Club colours, white and gold. Before dispensing dainty refreshments were served by the members of the Executive committee. The meeing closed with the singing of the National Anthem.

MOTOR MIGHT HELP ON THIS JAP TYPEWRITER

TOKIO, Nov. 3. (By Mail.)— The Japanese typewriter is a formidable dreadnaught sort of affair, with 3,000 characters. Therefore, when a national competition was entered by fifteen girls and fifteen men in Osaka, great speed was not expected. However, K. Oriuchi, of the Kuhara Copper Mining Company, Osaka, attained a speed of 76 characters a minute in copying a business letter, and of 54 characters in copying articles from the financial page of the Osaka Asahi, or Morning Sun. In both contests, Miss Konomi Mayeda of the Sumitomo Bank, was runner up, with 62 and 40 characters, respectively. While this typewriting is slower than championship speeds recorded in New York City, yet nothing like legibility can be attained at this speed in writing Japanese by hand.

ENGLISH LANGUAGE AT PEACE TABLE.

Prospect That Use of French in Diplomacy Will Be Superseded.

PARIS, No. 29.—The question of conducting the proceedings of the peace congress in English is being discussed, with some prospect that this innovation will be brought about. If it is, it will be the first great international congress with English as the official language, as French has long been recognized as the medium of diplomacy.

It was observed at recent sessions of the Inter-Allied Council that all but two of the delegates spoke English, whereas a considerable number did not speak French and were unable to understand the proceedings.

Insomnia Cured Without Drugs

INTERNAL BATHING RELIEVES THE CAUSE.

If you do not sleep there is always some cause. Don't start dosing with drugs. Nerves can't consume them. Relieve the cause and a good, sound sleep will be the result.

The system cannot be right if the Colon or large intestine is not kept clean, and free from all waste matter. Bathe internally if you want perfect health.

Mr. F. C. Voight, Rapid City, Man., writes: "For several years I suffered from Indigestion, Nervous Debility, Insomnia, and Constipation. Had no appetite, and the doctors did not expect that I would live throughout the winter. Your book interested me. I got a 'J.B.L. Cascade,' and in a few days obtained remarkable results I now sleep and enjoy my meals better than for years before. I regard the 'J.B.L. Cascade' as a God-send to me."

The "J.B.L. Cascade" as a perfected appliance for Internal Bathing invented by Dr. Chas. A. Tyrrell of New York, and has been the means of restoring thousands to perfect health. It is shown and explained by the Warne Drug Co., who will be pleased to give you an interesting book called "The What, The Why, The Way of Internal Bathing," on request. Ask for it.

AUTO-INTOXICATION OR SELF-POISONING

"FRUIT-A-TIVES" Absolutely Prevents This Dangerous Condition.

The chief cause of poor health is our neglect of the bowels. Waste matter, instead of passing from the lower intestine regularly every day, is allowed to remain there, generating poisons which are absorbed by the blood.

In other words, a person who is habitually constipated, is poisoning himself. We know now that Auto-intoxication, due to non-action of the bowels, is directly responsible for serious Kidney and Bladder Troubles; that it upsets the Stomach, causes Indigestion, Loss of Appetite and Sleeplessness; that chronic Rheumatism, Gout, Pain In The Back, are relieved as soon as the bowels become regular; and that Pimples, Rashes, Eczema and other Skin Affections disappear when "Fruit-a-tives" are taken to correct Constipation.

"Fruit-a-tives" will protect you against Auto-intoxication because this wonderful fruit medicine acts directly on all the eliminating organs.

THE WIFE

BY JANE PHELPS

Kenyon Roberts and His Wife Call Upon Ruth and Brian

CHAPTER LII.

That very night Ruth had her wish. Mr. and Mrs. Roberts called about eight o'clock. They were both delightful, as Ruth afterward said to Brian, and that she had not been mistaken in believing they would be, pleased her immensely.

Brian and Mr. Roberts had naturally drifted into a sort of business talk, so leaving Ruth and Mrs. Roberts to get acquainted. Ruth told her how she had wished they would call. Told it so naively that Mrs. Roberts wondered how she could be so charmingly girlish and yet be a business woman.

"I just knew they would be nice!" Ruth exclaimed enthusiastically when they had left. She would have been surprised and pleased, could she have heard Mrs. Roberts say to her husband: "She is perfectly lovely, Kenyon! I am sure we shall be the best of friends."

Equally interesting were the remarks of the two men:

"Rather an interesting chap," Brian had said when Ruth questioned him. "A likeable man if he could forget himself," Kenyon Roberts had said of Brian.

It was fortunate for Ruth that she formed Mrs. Robert's acquaintance just at this time. It kept her from thinking too constantly of Mollie King, as almost immediately she and Clara Roberts planned to spend considerable time together. They would play bridge twice a week, once in Ruth's apartment, and once in that of Mrs. Roberts.

"We will make a rarebit of some little thing," Mrs. Roberts had flushed a bit as she spoke, "Kenyon is trying very hard to work himself up, and we have to be most economical," she had explained.

"So we do!" Ruth had rejoined. "But I loathe doing housework, so I am doing something I love to do, and paying for the work."

"How fine! Your husband must be awfully proud of you. I couldn't earn a penny to save my soul. But I love to cook and keep house. We couldn't afford this apartment if I didn't do every blessed thing except the washing. But it is necessary for a professional man to live in a good locality. So I do everything I can, so Kenyon can afford the rent."

Part of this conversation Ruth repeated to Brian. The part having to do with the necessity for a professional man having a good address.

"Yes, I guess she's right," Brian looked about complacently.

"You remember, I said the same thing before we moved."

A grunt was her only answer.

"She is wild over our apartment. I promised to help her rearrange hers. She has awfully nice things, most of them wedding presents, she told me, but she hasn't an idea how to make the most of them."

"You ought to know; that's all you do, fussing about in people's houses. This is rather an improvement on the old place." It was the first word of praise Brian had given her for all her hard work in making the apartment so attractive.

"I think it is the only kind of thing I am good for," she smiled wryly. Brian's refusal to give her the last credit or encouragement always had hurt her more than he dreamed.

One evening Brian, restive, because things at the office were so slow, proposed they go and call on the Curtis's. Ruth readily agreed. She really liked both Mr. and Mrs. Curtis, and would be glad to see them, and they still owed their party call for the dinner party to which they had been invited.

"I am so glad to see you!" Mrs. Curtis said, insisting that Ruth lay off her wraps. "We'll have a game of bridge or something."

They talked a while before playing, then sat down at the table.

"By the way," Mrs. Curtis said, during one of the times when she was dummy, "I think you are the most generous woman I ever have seen."

Ruth caught Mr. Curtis's annoyed expression, but his wife, oblivious continued:

"I wouldn't be as generous with Mr. Curtis."

"When was I generous? I don't understand," Ruth said, as she finished playing her hand.

"I call it mighty good in you to let Mr. Hackett run around with Mollie when you are away. She was in, the other day, and she said she had a wonderful time all the week. I scolded her, but she said you knew all about it, that Brian had told you."

"Certainly I did!" Ruth answered, wondering when Brian had seen Mollie to tell her he had confessed being with her while she, Ruth, was away. "Why shouldn't he?" she added, rather enjoying Brian's embarrassment. He had flushed dully red, and looked terribly annoyed.

"Oh, I don't know! but not many women would like it. I shouldn't so don't you dare try it!" to Mr. Curtis, who laughed uncomfortably and replied:

"If I did I am afraid I shouldn't 'fess up," as Hackett has done. I wouldn't be brave enough." Then he changed the subject, and once more Brian was at ease.

"When did he see her to tell her?" kept running through Ruth's mind, causing her to play a very poor game, although, as a rule, she played excellently well.

A WORKING DEMOCRACY.

Man and Woman Power of Country Is Registered.

By the compilation of a national register, in June of this year, Canada virtually took a census of all the available man and woman power in the Dominion for the purposes of winning the war. The step is one of the most significant and far-reaching which Canada has taken in war-time history. In that registration every person in Canada, man or woman, of sixteen years of age or over, was obliged to answer a series of questions relative to his or her usefulness for national service at the present time. The returns show that about 5,000,000 people presented themselves for registration and answered the necessary questions. Thus Canada holds, to-day, a national inventory of the human resources of the country.

The figures themselves, indeed, justify the conclusion that the Government can supply all the farm labor necessary for Canada's war needs, can mobilize labor for any kind of war production, and, if need be, systematically ration the people. But thanks to the greater production of both foodstuffs and ships which the last year has happily witnessed, there is not the slightest prospect of a rationing plan being necessary, either for Canada or for the United States. What there is a likelihood of now is that, through the existence of the Canadian National Register, employers of labor will be, and doubtless are, getting into touch with the Government at Ottawa in order to explain their needs. Those persons who desire to engage in war work will be able to find the right employment, whilst the Government, by an organized system of redistribution, will be able to bring about the highest percentage of economic efficiency.

In the national register, as in the similar register of men and women which Great Britain prepared some time ago, Canada possesses an instrument, for the purpose of winning the war, of tremendous potential value. The question naturally forces itself to the front: How will the Government avail itself of the great opportunity? Canada stands before the world, to-day, a democracy in which every man and woman may be placed under orders, if called upon, in accordance with the true democratic ideal. The right use of the register, or rather the fullest use of it, to the end that some of the industrial difficulties with which Canada has been faced may be removed or ameliorated, is something which the Canadian people will naturally expect from the Government. Now the military and industrial problems which have been before Canada since 1914 are simple and clearly defined. The Dominion has had to supply the necessary man-power to re-enforce the fighting men at the front. It has had to provide as much foodstuff as possible for the nations of Europe, and it has had so to transform and reorganize conditions in Canada itself that the country could put forth its maximum efforts into the war.

As to whether the last objective has been achieved, there has been a diversity of opinion. The disaffection with regard to the wage question has, according to some, undone, or seriously affected the work of industrial organization in the country. The elaboration of that particular point, however, is beside the question at the present moment. Doubtless the wage difficulty, caused by the problem of meeting the ever-mounting cost of living, offers no really insurmountable barriers. If the purchasing power of the dollar has undergone a decided slump, if the war conditions, in other words, have depreciated the value of the money spent upon the upkeep of the Canadian workingman's household by from 60 to 80 per cent., the fact still remains that some proper dealing with the labor problem may yet remedy conditions. The call, certainly, is to the Government to meet that critical situation, and to put to an early use the instrument of the national register now at hand.

Gander Was Captured by Kraft.

Policeman Kraft of Kitchener has redeemed the promise of his name. When a wing-wearied gander alighted within the limits of his beat a short time ago, he cautiously gumshoed forward and made the bird prisoner. The victim of Kraft's craftiness failed to give a satisfactory account of itself and its case was remanded until Thanksgiving.

War-Savings Stamps

"War-Savings Stamps will provide financial assistance to the Government; an excellent investment for small savings; and a strong incentive to every-day economy".

—Sir THOMAS WHITE,
Minister of Finance.

Order-in-Council P.C. No. 2462 authorizes the issue of War-Savings Stamps for the purpose of assisting in the financing of Government expenditures.

The Stamps may be obtained at all Money Order Post Offices, Banks, and at other authorized agencies, and are interest bearing.

Issue of 1919——Payable January 1st, 1924

The first issue will be offered from December, 1918, to December 31st, 1919, and each War-Savings Stamp of this issue constitutes the Government's promise to pay the sum of Five Dollars on January First, 1924.

Price, $4.00 and Interest

During December, 1918, and January, 1919, the price of a War-Savings Stamp is $4.00. In February, 1919, the price is $4.01, and it increases one cent each month until in December, 1919, the price is $4.11—the extra cents representing interest earned.

$4.00 Grows to $5.00

Instead of paying interest twice a year, like a Victory Bond, the interest on a War-Savings Stamp accumulates, and is paid with the principal at the end of the term. Your $4.00 grows to $5.00 in the 5 years.

Surrender Privilege

When a person buys his first War-Savings Stamp, a certificate is issued, without charge, providing space for ten such stamps. If circumstances compel him to realize on his investment, his money is available. On the back of the certificate will be found the cash surrender value of the stamps at various dates before the end of the full term.

Registration Against Loss

A certificate with one or more W.S.S. thereon will be registered for you without charge by the Post Master at any Money Order Post Office. This protects the owner in case such certificate is lost, stolen or destroyed. By applying at the Post Office where your certificate was registered, you can have your money refunded.

W-S-S

In order to make it easier to acquire War-Savings Stamps, THRIFT STAMPS are issued at 25 cents each. These do not bear interest, but 16 of them affixed to a Thrift Card will be exchanged for a W.-S. S.

W-S-S

Issued under Authorization of National War-Savings Committee.

Early History of Cobourg and Northumberland County

County Officials Were Few and Far Between in 1825—Early Road Making—First Toll Taken on Port Hope-Cobourg Road.

An old resident of Ontario County telling of conditions there in 1825 made the statement that neither that nor adjacent counties were exactly crowded with officials. The nearest revenue or customs officer to them was Hon. Wm. Allen of York (Toronto). If a man wished to get married he had to journey to Andrew Mercer of Toronto for a license. To register a deed one had to visit Stephen Jarvis at Toronto. And if a man were killed in Ontario County there were only four coroners available, all of whom resided in Toronto. Similar conditions prevailed in other counties no doubt. Up to the year 1842 our municipal government was of the old town meeting type, when all householders were expected to attend at the courthouse or some other central place on the first Monday in January to elect a clerk, pathmasters, pound-keepers, fence viewers and an assessor and collector. These were the principal officials of any municipality. They all held office for one year and were eligible for re-election. In the year 1841 a bill was passed creating District Councils, this municipal body to be composed of two members from each township. The District Council existed until 1850. It may be interesting to note in passing that Wm. Weller and John Creighton were the first representatives elected from Hamilton Township. Then in 1850 a new law creating county and township council came into force. Before County Councils were established the Quarter sessions had power to lay out and open roads, and to grant sums of money to repair roads and bridges. The rest of the work had to be done and the roads kept in repair by Statute Labour. Early residents of Hamilton and other Northumberland County Municipalities walked, in some instances, the 70 miles to Toronto to get a deed of their farms, and what is more they did not seem to regard the one hundred and forty mile jaunt as any great feat.

Wagon Broke Down So They Stayed.

Speaking of early school days in Ontario County it is recorded that John Ritson and Reuben Hudson were the first two school-masters in the district. Greatly incensed at their treatment in the vicinity of the Ottawa River, where they were offered land instead of money after half a year's service, these two men journeyed west on the Kingston Road to a point now within the environments of the town of Oshawa, where they settled, "because their wagon broke down." Upon the land which these two men refused in payment stands now, it is stated, the principal business section of Ottawa.

No Millions For Victory Bonds in Early Years of 19th Century.

It would not have been easy to float a Victory Loan in those good old days when a man with one hundred dollars in cash was considered something of a capitalist. James Wetherel, who died in extreme old age, is said to have received the munificent sum of one dollar for driving a herd of cattle one hundred and twenty miles from Brock township to York.

James Mc—— "At Home."

An old store kept by an eccentric Scotsman had a sign at the front with the proprietor's name on this wise, "James Mc—— at home." In this log structure James received many callers, and yarns were spun the same as they are to-day in many a country store. But instead of receiving cash for his wheat, potatoes and dairy products, the farmer exchanged them for tea, molasses, calico and other household needs. With a public house or tavern every few miles on all of the travelled roads there was no lack of adventure, and the stories told in the village stores of eighty and ninety years ago were such as to make the exploits of Robin Hood sink into insignificance. One old resident of the Midland District states that on a sixteen-mile stretch of road, and the only means of reaching settlements farther back, there were fourteen taverns. This was the reason that many a public gathering was turned into a Donnybrook scrimmage before the day was over.

Joseph Smith Had Mission in Ontario County.

It is probably not generally known that Joseph Smith, the Mormon leader, before his pilgrimage to Utah, held meetings in this district. In Ontario County it is stated that the earliest school house in the district, situated just this side of the town of Oshawa, was used for his purpose, the founder of the Mormons preaching there occasionally, and exploiting his views which however, found little sympathy from the sturdy settlers of the locality.

Early Road-Making.

Probably because the automobile has come to stay, and because good highways are now acknowledged to be one of the very best assets to any community, roadmaking is a very live question to-day. In the early days, however, they were only regarded as a possible medium of access from one point to another. When our forefathers came here they found that the Indians had well defined routes of travel by water and along the shores of the lakes. Their journeyings from one of their stopping places to another had left fairly well market paths through the woods, while they also had their "carrying places" where necessary portages were made. Consequently many of the first roads were made to follow the old Indian trails. The main roads were at first marked by the blazing of trees, then boughs were trimmed off and after a bit a waggon road was made, with its accompanying corduroy section where there were soft places and the remainder graded with earth. In 1798 an American named Danforth made a contract with the Upper Canada Government to open a road from Kingston to Ancaster at the head of Lake Ontario. Some time later this road was built and is still our main travelled road.

Toll First Taken on Port Hope-Cobourg Road in 1848.

For seventy years citizens travelling to and from Cobourg and Port Hope have fumbled in their pockets and purses for a dime or more as a toll-gate came in sight and passed it on to the waiting gate-keeper. At first this was submitted to as a necessary accompaniment of good roads, but late years the general public has rebelled against it, although we still have these relics of antiquity with us. In earlier years also the toll gate was a not unusual institution along our much travelled stage routes, but in one locality after another they have passed with other primitive modes, until in Northumberland County alone of all of Upper Canada there exists to-day these relics of a ruder time. In the year 1847 Acts of Parliament were passed for the Cobourg and Port Hope gravel road, for the Cobourg, Grafton and Colborne gravel road, for the Cobourg and Rice Lake plank and Ferry Company, and for the Baltimore gravel road some time afterwards. The Cobourg and Port Hope gravel road was made in the summer of 1848 and toll was first taken on this highway in October of that year. The Cobourg and Grafton road was planked when first made, but the plank soon wore out and it was necessary to gravel it. Needless to say, lumber was not the dear commodity in those days that it is now, but even then it was found expensive to keep up. Seventy years have brought many changes although the toll gates are still with us. It was a notable day in Cobourg when the plank road was first opened, with a steady stream of vehicles of almost every description passing to and from the town. The Cobourg and Rice Lake road, a highway of much interest to local motorists was at first planked to the bridge on the 3rd concession, and the remainder of it was gravelled. This road proved costly to keep up and the company finally abandoned it in 1881.

Gillette Safety Razor

THE USEFUL GIFT

Ten million men have adopted the Gillette Safety Razor in preference to any other razor in the world.

Men buy the Gillette because they can get a cleaner shave with it, because it gives them a more comfortable shave, and because it ensures a quicker shave.

Any one of these would make success certain for the Gillette, but that this famous razor can claim all three advantages explains why ten million of them have been sold.

The shaving edge is absolutely rigid and free from vibration—hence the velvet smoothness of the Gillette shave.

The thin blade of finest steel permits perfect hardening and sharpening—there is no finer cutting edge made.

The No Honing—No Stropping feature is achieved by simply changing a blade that has become slightly dulled for a new one.

With a Gillette, shaving becomes a joy instead of a job; a man prefers to shave every day and he looks the better for it.

Every man prefers a gift that is really useful to some pretty but purposeless novelty. Particularly in these days, you should confine yourself to Useful Gifts.

There can be no question, then, that the gift for a man is a Gillette Safety Razor, if he doesn't already own one, and a Carton of Gillette Blades, if he has the razor.

Sold by jewelers, druggists and hardware dealers everywhere, at five dollars.

Freed from Chronic Pains

To those who are afflicted with the agonies of a chronic aching back, loss of strength, weight and vigor, the case of Mr. P. Herbert of Plesseville will appeal with special significance.

Mr. Herbert had suffered with Kidney trouble for years and failed to find a prescription that would give him any relief. Finally he tried Gin Pills because he was impressed by the fact that Gin Pills contained the beneficial ingredient of Juniper without any Alcohol being added.

Note these extracts from his letter:

"I suffered from Kidney trouble for several years, and tried numerous remedies without finding any permanent relief. My case appeared chronic.

I knew that Juniper without alcohol was excellent for the Kidneys, so decided to try Gin Pills. One single pill gave me great relief, and since taking four boxes, I find myself completely cured. I am no longer bad-tempered, have increased in weight, and am strong and vigorous again."

Here is another case. Mrs. M. B. Gardner, of Richmond, Que., writes:

"My husband was taken with severe kidney trouble last winter, and could not work for some time. He heard of Gin Pills, and after taking one box was able to resume his work. Two boxes relieved the pain in his back, and to-day he is well and strong again."

Gin Pills help others—surely they will do the same for you. Try them. 50c a box everywhere.

Keep the Bowels Regular And You Won't Be Sick

If the bowels do not move regularly, they will, sooner or later, become constipated, and constipation is productive of more ill-health than almost any other trouble.

The sole cause of constipation is an inactive liver, and unless the liver is kept active, you may be sure that headaches, piles, heartburn, biliousness, jaundice, floating specks before the eyes, and many other troubles will follow the wrong action of this, one of the most important organs of the body.

Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills will regulate the bowels so that you will have a free and easy motion every day, and one pill a night for thirty days will cure the worst cases of constipation.

They do this by acting directly on the liver and making the bile pass through the bowels instead of allowing it to get into the blood, thus causing many stomach and bowel troubles.

Mrs. Jos. Labrec, Louise Apts., Calgary, Alta., writes: — "I have been troubled with constipation for the last two years. I have tried numerous treatments, but have never been relieved by anything until I used Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills which are helping me wonderfully."

We do not claim that Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills are a "cure-all," but we do claim that there is nothing better for a sluggish liver.

MEAT CAUSE OF KIDNEY TROUBLE

Take a glass of Salts if your Back hurts or Bladder bothers—Meat forms uric acid.

If you must have your meat every day, eat it, but flush your kidneys with salts occasionally, says a noted authority who tells us that meat forms uric acid which almost paralyzes the kidneys in their efforts to expel it from the blood. They become sluggish and weaken, then you suffer with a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, your stomach sours, tongue is coated and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine gets cloudy, full of sediment, the channels often get sore and irritated, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night.

To neutralize these irritating acids, to cleanse the kidneys and flush off the body's urinous waste, get four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy here; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate sluggish kidneys, also to neutralize the acids in urine, so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, cannot injure, and makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink.

FARMERS GET 80 PER CENT.

Enquiry Into Butter and Egg Prices in Chicago.

CHICAGO, Nov. 29.—Investigations into the reasons back of the present unprecedented high cost of butter and eggs have brought forth assertions from produce dealers in Chicago that the farmer is receiving nearly eighty per cent. of the above-normal increase. The remainder was said to be divided among manufacturer, jobber, wholesaler and retailer. The best quality of butter in Chicago is selling at 73½ cents a pound, with strictly fresh eggs retailing at 78 cents a dozen.

J. W. Low, president of the Chicago Butter and Egg Board, in a statement said the present high prices were the result of market conditions, and denied a charge of profiteering by either the producers or dealer.

Ship, Afire, Sinks at Pier After Trip Marked by Bad Luck

FLAMES ON BOARD THE CITY OF LAHORE THREATEN CHRISTMAS PACKAGES BOUND FOR FRANCE

New York, Nov. 29.—Endangering thousands of Christmas packages ready for shipment to boys in France and causing a panic among Hindu and Chinese laborers employed aboard the steamship City of Lahore, a fire on board that vessel yesterday afternoon resulted in the sinking of the vessel at her pier at the foot of Forty-sixth street and the Hudson River.

The Christmas packages were stored on the second floor of the pier building, which is used as the headquarters of the mail service of the American Expiditionary Forces, and for a time it was feared that they would be destroyed before they could be removed to a place of safety.

The fire was discovered in hold No. 6 of the vessel by a United States naval guard who was on duty. He notified a policeman and an alarm was immediately turned in. Fire Chief John Kenlon responded, het fire boats New Yorker, Willard and Duane and two railroad bupt was rescued wwhte answering the call.

A load of ammunition was taken ashore before it could explode, but in the excitement a Hindu jumped overboard but was rescued by one of the Chinese

The Belgian relief ship Primier, laden with provisions and clothing, lay at the same pier, and Chief Kenlon ordered her towed into the river.

About an hour after the fire was discovered the vessel began to sink at the stern because of the tremendous volume of water sixty thousand gallons a minute poured into her.

The burning ship finally sank, only her smokestack and upper decks showing above the water, while dense volumes of black smoke continued to pour from her funnels, caused by the blazing cargo of parafin and lard. The damage was estimated at $25,000.

The fire was a culmination of a series of adventures the ship had met since sailing from Australia several weeks ago. During the voyage a Hindu stabbed to death a chinese, causing a mutiny among members of the latter race. The Hindu jumped overboard and drowned. Later the vessel was chased by a submarine for twenty-three hours but escaped. Then influenza spread among the crew and the ship was obliged to put into an Indian port for forty days. She was again chased by a submarine, but made port here in safety, after the peace armistice was signed

DECIDES AGAINST SWIFT AND CO.

New York Judge Rules Cold Storage Eggs Must Be So Marked.

NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—A ruling by the State Department of Farms and Markets that every cold storage egg sold in this State be stamped "cold storage" was declared valid by Supreme Court Justice Delehanty, who enjoined Swift & Company from selling storage eggs unless so marked. The defendant firm contended that the State Department regulation had been superseded for the duration of the war by the operation of the Federal statutes pertaining to food supplies.

"I do not see what hradships or injustice a merchant can experience by calling an article of food what it is," said Justice Delehanty, in issuing the injunction.

ONE OF NATURE'S COMMON TRICKS
Acts just like a wireless message and "ouch" is the answer

Press an electric button and you form a contact with a live wire which rings the bell. When your shoes press against your corn it pushes its sharp roots down upon a sensitive nerve and "ouch" you get a shock of pain.

Instead of trimming your corns, which merely makes them grow, just step into any drug store and ask for a quarter of an ounce of freezone. This will cost very little but is sufficient to remove every hard or soft corn or callus from one's feet. A few drops applied directly upon a tender, aching corn stops the soreness instantly, and soon the corn shrivels up so it lifts right out, root and all, without pain. This drug never inflames or even irritates the surrounding skin.

GRAIN MARKET

The strength of the market in futures of corn and oats yesterday was said to be due entirely to the active operations of the short interests, who readily absorbed all offerings, which were light. Mrs. Rundle, Bride of Aged Financier, Sues for Divorce

Danbury, Conn., Nov. 23.—The great interest aroused here last month by the marriage of Samuel H. Rundle, eighty-six years old, and Miss Gladys Brown, twenty-five years old, and by the later disappearance of the bride, deepened today when it became known that Mrs. Rundle had instituted divorce proceedings against her husband.

Mrs. Rundle whose stay at her husband's home in Main street lasted for a period variously estimated at from one to nine days, has sued at the Superior Court at Fairfield, for divorce, alimony and $500,000 damages. In her application for divorce she stated that she had suffered intolerable cruelty at the hands of her husband on numerous occasions between October 16, the day of their marriage, and November 16. The papers in the suit are returnable at Bridgeport next week.

Mr. Rundle who is a wealthy retired broker and one of the most prominent citizens of Danbury, refused to comment upon the new turn which his matrimonial affairs had taken. He stated, however, that he would fight to the finish any action brought against him in the courts.

The weath of Mr. Rundle is estimated at $5,000,000. He formerly was a hat manufacturer and for many years the president of the Danbury National Bank. He has another home in Hattington and is the owner of the famous Ridgewood Stock Farm of many thousands of acres. The head of president of Danbury Fair has been held by Mr. Rundle for many years. He also has extensive real estate interests in Danbury.

His first wife died a few years ago. Their son, G. Mortimer Rundle formerly Mayor of Danbury, is sixty-seven years old.

The friends of Mr. Rundle were greatly surprised when he announced his marriage to Miss Brown, member of an old and wealthy family of Washington, D. C. She is the daughter of the late Austin Brown, who amassed a fortune in Washington, where the young woman made her debut in 1911. Her uncle Andrew Freeman of Morristown, N. J., is president of the Morristown Trust Company.

It was said that Mr. Rundle conducted his courtship almost entirely over the telephone. After a brief honeymoon Mr. Rundle brought his wife to Danbury. According to one report, Mrs. Rundle breakfasted with her husband on the day after they arrived and then disappeared. Other reports gave October 25 as the date of her flight.

Mrs. Rundle is living at present with her mother, Mrs. Caroline C. Brown, of No. 619 West 127th street, New York.

COULD NOT SLEEP.

Miss Gertrude Pratt, Wolseley St., Barrie, Ont., writes: "I was very much run down and could not sleep either day or night, and my arms and legs ached so that life was very miserable. After using six boxes of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, I feel well and strong again."

THIRTY THOUSAND WOMEN EXPECTED.

That Canada is about to receive thirty thousand British brides of Canadian soldiers is an item of grave consideration in connection with repatriation work. Most of the women will be unaccompanied by their husbands, and but few will have any friends here.

Dr. George H. Locke, who is connected with repatriation work, has left for Ottawa and will present this problem to the authorities. It is expected that some women's organization will assist in extending a welcome hand to the women when they come.

Make Your Own Shampoo

Recent research on the part of hair specialists reveals the fact that many disagreeable and obstinate scalp diseases are caused and rendered incurable by the indiscriminate use of shampoo preparations.

Chemical analysis proves that most liquid preparations for shampooing contain an excess of alkali (a harmful irritant) which eats its way into the pores of the scalp, rots the roots of the hair, thus causing it to fall out.

The surest, safest and easiest way is to make your own liquid. Buy a carton of Venor at any drug store. Dissolve one of the small packets into half glass of fresh water and you will have an abundance of pure non-injurious liquid that will relieve itching of the scalp, falling hair and dandruff, also improve the natural color of the hair. Venor being in concentrated form never spoils and will keep forever.

"Siamese Twins" Prefer Lowly Home of Father to Wealth

SPURN OFFER BY PHILIPPINE ISLAND REPRESENTATIVE OF LUXURY AND WASHINGTON RESIDENCE.

NEW YORK.—Life in the modest home of their father in Manila, P. I., is better than a pampered existence in the big Washington residence of Representative Tedora R. Yangco, of the Philippine Islands, in the estimation of Lucio and Simplicio Godino, known at Coney Island as the "Siamese twins." They are joined back to back.

They were brought before Justice Benedict in the Supreme Court in Brooklyn on a writ of habeas corpus sworn out by their father, Leoncio Godino, who came from Manila to claim them. He is seeking to take them for the custody of the Children's Society and from Representative Yangco, who was permitted by the society to take them into his home. Mr. Yangco is wealthy.

Mr. Yangco testified that he was single and has a great affection for the boys. He said he wanted to educate them and give to them whatever other advantages his wealth and position could supply.

The twins were questioned separately. They said they wanted to go back to live with their father. They were happier with him, they testified, than with Mr. Yangco. From the time they were old enough to study, they said, they had had private tutors. They were sixteen years old, they declared, and had sent $50 of their wages every week to their father.

The father said he lived on a two story building which he owned and rents the first floor to Chinese merchants. He is in the hemp and cocoanut business, runs a cab line and is prosperous.

Justice Benedict adjourned the case at the request of George Adams Robinson, attorney for Godino.

THE HOME CIRCLE COLUMN

Pleasant Evening Reveries—A Column Dedicated to Tired Mothers as They Join the Home Circle at Evening Tide

When we launch our ship on the morning waves of the great sea of life, let us guide them by the light of home, with the helm of the cradle words of our mother. Not until we have left home and are wanderers in the curious strangeness of a strange land, unnoiced, unheeded, lonely and weary, will we know of a truth what a mother is. Then we feel that she is good and we bless her. Never can we repay our mother's kindness. Her withered form and her silver braids shall be defended till that day cometh when He shall make up His jewels—and then we ween, Heaven will know no kinder, no brighter, no purer angel than she. When the ever shining stars shall wane in the fading of our vision, and the noisy world will grow still in our sleep of death, will we forget her; not till then.

The cheerfulness which should be one of the chief characteristics of the home life is often sadly in the minority, simply because the example of a cheerful disposition is not set by the wife and mother. One glimpse of her face as she begins her duties of the day is sufficient for the rest of the family. If it bears the illumination of a pleasant smile as she passes from room to room, if her greeting to the others is bright and cheery, if she has a pleasant word for those with whom she mingles, they will catch the inspiration and the day will be bright and sunny thereby.

The woman whose life-book has love written on every page; who makes a home for a man, a home in a house and in a heart, a home that he is sure of, a home that is full of love presided over by one whose price is above rubies. She is the model wife.

Some stormy evening when the whole family is gathered about the fire, take up and discuss the feasibility of modern conveniences in the home. The kitchen sink with hot and cold water, the bath room, hot air, steam or hot water heat, are as much a necessity for convenience and comfort in the country as in the city, and may be had as cheaply. Every farmer's family may and should know facts regarding these desirable improvements.

To have a home of our own and to live distinctly and honestly within our means is essential to all married life. How many couples now in mature life and surrounded by luxury and wealth, look back to the days of early privations as among the happiest days of their life. No sensible person will deem it a hardship to begin on a moderate scale. And when we have descended to the top steps of prosperity, we may look back on the days of small things as the golden days of our hearts if not our purses.

We doubt if one instance in a thousand can be found of a young man's, making shipwreck hopes and character who was accustomed to spend his evenings at home reading good books; and we say to any parent that a well stocked library and an abundant supply of newspapers and magazines, with the habit of reading on the part of your boy, is worth more to keep him out of mischief, and to make a man of him, than any other single influence at your command.

Good breeding is like affection; one cannot have too much of it.

We hope all who read this column will endeavor to keep a few flowers in the home. In addition too their beauty and fragrance, they teach neatness and order. The wife and children like to have a clean room, so that the flower, in its purity and grace, may not shame them. And then, too, a poor man likes to feel that he has an ornament in his dwelling similar to that which a rich man chooses as the best embellishment of his drawing room.

There is no place in the universe for a lazy woman. We will care for the sick woman, we will tolerate a cross woman—but what shall we do to the lazy woman. Because the home keeper must be active, orderly and conscientious—these qualifications she must have, and if she can add to these thrift, intelligence and tenderness, we find wherever she is, that most blessed and beautiful of all earthly delights, a happy home.

There is nothing that can so lift a man up—that can inspire him to as great achievement, as the feeling that he has at his side a woman whom he can truly love, whom he can fully trust, and at whose feet he may bow in highest respect. You intensify his joy and blunt the keen edge of sorrow. It is true that it takes a grand woman to do this, but you can be the grand woman.

How kindness brightens and beautifies the home. As the gentle breezes, the warm showers, the sunshine of the springtime all call forth vegetable life and fruitfulness in nature, so kindness brightens, beautifies and enriches the home life, filling it with the sweetest peace and joy, memories that are more precious than the contents of an alabaster box.

Why are some people all smiles when their visitors are about, and all frowns when all are gone but home folks? Why not have some smiles for the family?

"That is a most disagreeable East wind. I nearly always catch cold in this kind of weather"

"WELL, I seldom have a cold, and you know that I go out, no matter what the weather is like."

"How do you account for that?"

"For one thing I always try to dress to suit the season, and then I am careful to keep my general health in good condition.

"As far as that goes, I am never very sick, but I do catch cold easily. I have always been inclined to be anaemic. The doctor says the blood is thin and I lack the reserve force necessary to ward off disease.

"That used to be my trouble, but a friend told me about using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food to build up the blood and make it pure and rich, and I followed her advice."

"How did that help you?"

"Well, as I understand it, the germs of disease cannot make much headway when the blood is rich and red. If they do get into the system the red corpuscles in the blood overcomes them and good health is maintained."

"There may be something in that."

"My experience proves it, for I used to be easy prey for every cold or contagious disease that was about."

"Well, what causes pneumonia?"

"Pneumonia, the doctors say, is usually the result of catching cold when you are tired and the system in an exhausted condition. That should be a warning to everybody to keep their vitality up to high-water mark."

"I never just thought of it that way before, but I guess you have studied this thing out about right. What did you say you used?"

"Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. When I first used it I was pale and weak and much run-down in health. My head ached frequently, and I had spells of indigestion. It took about fifteen boxes of the Nerve Food to get my system in good healthy condition, but it changed my whole life, for I have been so healthy ever since."

"How long ago was that?"

"Why, it must be ten years."

"And have you never used any since?"

"Yes, I have used a few boxes at odd times. Sometimes in the spring I don't feel any too brisk and find the benefit of using some Nerve Food, but I think nearly everybody is the better for a little restorative treatment then."

"Well, I must say you make out a good case for Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. There are so many of the same opinion I believe I will go in for the 'red blood idea' and see if I cannot prevent colds and stear clear of the grippe and pneumonia."

You can obtain Dr. Chase's Nerve Food from all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Ltd., Toronto, at 50 cents a box, 6 for $2.75. You are protected from imitations by the portrait and signature of A. W. Chase, M.D., which are on every box.

Which of these World-Famous Proverbs fits this Picture?

The hypocrite's hopes shall perish.
Hasty climbers have sudden falls.
He that sows iniquity shall reap sorrow.
Peace begins where ambition ends.
Where villainy goes before, vengeance follows after.
Peace came at last to the furrier.
Big heads have big aches.
Who takes up the sword shall perish by the sword.
Punishment follows close on the heels of crime.
To the wicked, misfortune comes triple.
Force can never destroy right.
The wicked shall not inherit the earth.
The punishment shall fit the crime.
Evil conduct is the cost of misery.
Ill deeds heap on thy soul.

LONG before peace came, twelve proverbs were discovered that foretold the defeat of Germany in the great war. Some of them were written centuries ago; others are of more recent origin, but they all point the same way—to the destruction of arrogance, tyranny, villainy, vice. We have represented these twelve proverbs by twelve pictures without the titles. $2,500.00 in grand prizes can be won by those who can fit the correct proverb to each picture.

New Trimmings and Change of Detail Make Old Things Look New

NEW YORK, Nov. 25.—What a gorgeous gown! I remarked to a friend as I met her at one of the hotels the other day. But how, I continued, can you afford to spend so much on your frocks when everything is so expensive? And she smiled a knowing little smile and then drew near to my ear and divulged the whole secret. Of course it was not a new frock, it was simply an old one of last year's, and having had a liberal amount of material in it, she herself cut it and remodelled it into the smart affair that I saw on her.

© McCall 8509

Developed in Serge.

This was a surprise at first, but soon I discovered that many of my friends were doing the same thing. It is quite a simple matter and with the aid of a good pattern, one has a charming new dress out of last season's. Illustrated here is an excellent idea for remodelling a dress. The coat is on simple straight lines and the skirt is equlaly simple. The braid design immediately gives a touch of distinction to it, and the contrasting vest just finishes it off right.

Hide Behind a Veil.

This seems to be the slogan of all smart women of to-day, for everywhere that one goes the sight of a bare face seems to be forbidden. Like the orientals, the women of New York are beginning to hoid a look at their face at a premium. But one look at these charming things will totally efface and obliterate all blame from the fair ones who deign hide behind the soft folds of these attractive screens.

A myriad of designs are being shown. Scroll designs and dots are favoured by the majority, while the plain octagon mesh still holds favour. The most becoming one that I have seen was bordered with dots quite large, which diminished in size as they approached the centre of the veil. This was really quite effective and looked awfully well over the small toque of feathers that it covered.

About The Furnace

The general directions for operating warm air furnaces are alike. Particular directions for each make will be supplied by the manufacturer.

Examination of Furnace.

Examine furnace and pipes; see that they are in good repair, and clean; that fire, ash-pit, and clean-out doors are tight when closed; that no other openings are in flue; that smokepipe fits tight to furnace, and is not inserted too far into the chimney.

Drafts.

Follow general directions for the use of drafts and checks. By forcing the fire and keeping the drafts open too long you waste the fuel.

Humidity.

Keep the water retainer in the air jacket filled with clean water. A shallow jar or evaporation pan should be kept near the registers, particularly those sending out the most heat. Change the water frequently, preferably every day.

Clean Flues Frequently.

Remember the clean-out door and why it is there. Brush off the soot once a week, or oftener.

Rapid Circulation of Air Essential.

It will be found there is a large cold air duct on the main floor. In many cases this is neglected, covered over in part or clogged with dust and dirt, thus interfering with that free circulation of air which is absolutely essential to the success of this system of heating. Keep this duct free of all obstruction and open always to a full supply of fresh air.

Covering.

All warm air pipes in the cellar should be thoroughly and completely wrapped with asbestos to prevent loss of heat.

Firing.

Follow general directions in regard to firing, keeping the ashpits clean, etc.

When a man can go into a pawn shop without a quickening of the pulse and a heightening of colour, it's a sure sign that he has been there before.

HERE'S A FINE UMPIRE GOING TO WASTE IN ARMY.

(By United Press).

LONDON, Nov. 3. (By Mail).—The w.k. coloured gentleman who scratched his head when hit on the pate with a crowbar has nothing on this British sailor, now enlisted in the Canadian army.

He can not feel pain, cold or heat, has no sense of taste or smell, does not know what fatigue means, and is apparently without any emotions, affections or dislikes. When his nervous system was put together, these things were left out.

He was discovered recently at a hospital at Aldershot, where he was being treated for mumps, according to Capt. E. D. Roberts, R.A.M.C.

"I myself have seen him hold a burning taper against his naked arm for 10 or 15 seconds and then unconcernedly pick off the sharred epidermis," Capt. Roberts says. "Blows on the head with a poker and plunging his fingers in hot water produced no effect; when his eyes were closed he didn't even realize anything was happening. His body is covered with scars from burns or wounds he has inflicted upon himself either for bets or to astonish onlookers.

"Otherwise, he is normal."

FURTHER DROP IN PRODUCTION

Further decrease in bituminous coal production during the week ended November 9 has been reported to the United States Fuel Administration by the Geological Survey. The output for the week, estimated at 10,409,000 net tons, fell below the figures for the corresponding week last year. The slump during the week was attributed partly to holidays due to the observation of election day, the advance celebration of the signing of the armistice, and continued through lessened effects of influenza among the miners.

Anthracite production was estimated at 1,587,000 net tons, as compared with 1,500,000 net tons during the preceding week. The average daily production was estimated at 265,000 tons, as compared with 329,000 tons for the coal year to date.

PEACE WILL NOT BRING ON A PANIC

(By United Press).

NEW YORK, Nov. 28.—Peace will not bring panic.

Financial experts here are confident of this.

Undoubtedly, prices of food, clothing, and most other commodities will drop, and there will be some friction between labour and capital, due to sudden increases in the available supply of labour. But these conditions will not lead to hard times or financial panic, financiers say.

Conditions immediately following the civil war are pointed to in corroboration of this belief.

Although wholesale prices fell off more than 30 per cent. between January 1 and July 1, 1865, there were remarkably few business failures. During the entire year 1865 there were but 500 failures, as compared with 5,900 in 1861.

The first decline in prices of commodities is expected to be shown in wholesale markets. Most retail merchants already have anticipated this decline, and are keeping on hand only the lightest possible stocks. When prices begin to drop, buying activity will be resumed, and the increased buying will tend to stabilize the markets.

Stocks Are Not Heavy.

Merchants who stocked up heavily at wartime prices may find themselves with stocks that must be sold in a declining market, but the coming of peace has been so long foreseen that few merchants have placed themselves in this position. Even those of poor judgment, who would have been willing to stock up heavily, have been prevented from doing so in most cases by government regulation of manufacturing. The merchant who wanted a heavy and complete stock of goods found that it would be impossible to lay it in until after the war, as factories had been turned over to war work, and manufacture of peace-time commodities strictly restricted. These restrictions will prove a blessing to many merchants now, or in the near future.

There will be an enormous increase in manufacturing of peace goods as soon as factories can be turned back to their old work, and the thousands of war-work factories built during the last two years can get started on constructive instead of destructive industry. There will be plenty of labour to run the factories of the world when the 50,000,000 men who have been carrying on the business of war return to the business of peace.

But there will be a vastly increased demand for the products of the factories.

Starving Will Cease.

A starving population does not furnish much business for factories. Many millions of people have been starving or near starvation during the last three or four years. Whatever arrangements are to be made by the statesmen, it is certain that these people will quit starving. They will insist upon it.

Generally speaking, everybody not in the fighting forces has been economizing. Clothing is pretty well worn out, and much new furniture is needed. Buying that has been curtailed during the war will be resumed as soon as wartime prices moderate a little.

Financiers agree that conflict between capital, following the return of the soldiers, would precipitate many unfortunate conditions, and are urging a liberal attitude upon both employers and employes in the matter of readjustment. Labour has gained much in the United States since war began, and unions are recognized in many factories where they were not recognized before the war. This ground of union advancement labour leaders are sworn to hold. If employers try to take advantage of the more plentifully supplied labour market by repudiating their new and perhaps enforced attitude toward organized labour, widespread trouble is envitable, say those who are anxious that the return to peace be made quietly and without unheavals.

Easy is the Word.

Some employers already have talked publicly of the lower wages they expect to enforce, and labour leaders are alert for further signs of change. Some manufacturers are preparing to continue their wartime liberalism toward labour, and the expression, "Unionism is better than bolshevism" is frequently heard in the councils of the employers. Most of the large employers seem to agree that the less stirring of the pot of industrial unrest is done at this period, the better for all phases of production.

The more gradually war workers are fed back into peaceful industry, the better for commercial and economic conditions generally, all students of the problem of readjustment admit. Already the infilteration process has begun, and there is no immediate prospect of violent reaction.

But only extremely bad judgment, acting epidemically, could bring on panic with the restoration of peace and normal producing conditions, the financiers are agreed.

Austria Anxious For Settlement

WILL BE ABLE TO PAY WAR DEBTS, DECLARES FORMER MINISTER OF FINANCE

VIENNA, Nov. 24.—"Provided the allies extend immediate help the Austrian republic will be able to arise from the position it is in at present," said Dr. Joseph Redlich, former Minister of Finance to the correspondent today. "We hope there is no revengeful desire on the part of the allies to see us remain in poverty," he continued. "Our enemies should be generous and remember at least that Austria did what she considered her duty to her ally and tried repeatedly to give up the war. If we can get food now we will be able to help ourselves. Our people are farmers and men of the industrial classes, all willing to work and not inclined to Bolshevism. Our financial position looks like bankruptcy on paper, but we will be able to pay our war debts.

PROMISE TO BE QUIET

"Our gold reserves are small—perhaps half a billion crowns—but that is of one great importance, in my opinion. What I urge is that we be helped back to a productive basis. If we can get food now we will be able to keep order. If we can get coal we will begin working. If we can get cotton, metals and raw materials production will go on. We will also be quiet politically, which is desired by the allies.

"Whether we are tied to the German federation or not is an unsettled question even among ourselves. It is my opinion that we must form a federation with the broken up parts of the former Empire for commercial purposes."

Ludwig Von Neupath, director of the Austrian credit bank, said to-day while discussing the situation: "The Austrian Republic must first be given a loan to be used for the purpose of sending food and coal into the country to prevent famine and disorder. Then it must obtain another loan of $50,000,000 to buy a six month's stock of cotton, wool and copper.

"Diplomatic pressure should be brought to bear against the Czechs, who are attempting to prevent the arrival of coal and metals from Galicia and other points The Peace Conference should also apportion the debts of the former Austrian Empire equally among the Czechs, Hungarand in an investigation into the redebt now totals 56,000,000,000 kronen, 32,000,000,000 of which is in paper money which is circulating in all parts of the country. If the Austrian republic is made to shoulder this war debt she is bound to be bankrupt. Before the war the normal expenses for the army totalled 2,000,000,000 kronen. If there is no army or navy in future, this sum will be sufficient to pay the interest on the country's debt."

NO BAN NOW ON ROAD OIL, ETC.

An order restricting the sale for road purposes of asphalt, road binders, road oil, tar binders and dressings has been cancelled by the United States Fuel Administration. Announcement is made that shipment of these materials can now be made without special permit and without filing application for road work through local State highway departments or through the United States Highways Council. Arrangements for delivery of road material may now be made in the same manner as before the issuance of the restrictive order.

Had Hacking Cough

Couldn't Sleep Nights.

Hacking coughs are very wearing on the system. The constant coughing disturbs the rest, and keeps the lungs and bronchial tubes in an irritated and inflamed condition.

Don't neglect the hacking cough. You can get rid of it with a few doses of Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup; the most prompt, pleasant and perfect cough remedy known.

Miss Catherine M. McLean, Craik, Sask., writes:—"Last winter I caught a heavy cold and was laid up for some time. I had such a hacking cough I couldn't sleep at night. I didn't think I would get over it. One day a friend dropped in to see me and was surprised to see how bad my cough was. She advised me to try Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup. The next day I sent for a bottle, and I soon got relief, and by the time I had taken two bottles, my cough was all gone, and now I am able to do my work again. I don't think there is anything to equal it."

There are plenty of "pine" preparations on the market trying to live on the reputation of "Dr. Wood's." The genuine is put up in a yellow wrapper, three pine trees the trade mark, price 25c. and 50c. a bottle. Put up only by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

THEY GOT THEIR MEDICINE — LATE.

(By United Press).

LONDON, Nov. 6.—(By Mail).—Some Londoners have found raid-dodging an expensive game.

Mr. and Mrs. Kelewski Lewis went to Brighton in July, 1917, to escape air-raids. In April this year thieves got into their London house, and when the police searched the place they found the attic floors covered with flour and sugar on which thousands of mice were feeding!

In addition to 448 lbs. of flour and 336 lbs. of sugar there was a very large quantity of tea and jam, and the mice had eaten through the covers and spoiled the contents.

This is what wartime nerves cost Mr. and Mrs. Lewis. The burglars got their silver, the mice got their food, and the magistrate got $1,000 of their good money.

The Lewis family has returned to town and decided to give up luxuries.

SPIRIT MESSAGES YIELDED $10,000 FROM MRS. PRATT

FINANCE AND THE OCCULT ARE BLENDED AT THE TRIAL OF DIVORCE ACTION.

NEW YORK, November 29.—Messages from the spirit world to Mrs. Katherine Sloan Pratt, advising her to surrender bonds worth $10,000 to her husband, Albert Houghton Pratt, which he later hypothecated for the benefit of his occult teacher, Mme. P. Mildred Parma, were read at the trial of her divorce action before Justice Davis in the Supreme Court here. Also there flitted across the judicial stage the wraith of Dr. W. H. B. Pratt, father of the defendant, whose communications with the outer world were sent through a Ouija board.

After Mr. Pratt became acquainted with Mme. Parma, he testified they united in several big business enterprises. These were financed principally by his contributions, the first being $10,000. Then followed sums of $8,492, $5,000, $2,000 and lesser amounts all of which were realized from the sale of his stock in the Houghton, Miflin Company.

It represented all the property he had, he admitted, and when additional capital was needed he requested his wife to furnish it as a loan.

"Did you reinforce that request by communications over the Ouija board?" he was asked.

"It always connected up," replied Mr. Pratt.

"From waht source?"

"From my father, Dr. W. H. B. Pratt."

"Your father being dead?"

"You call him so, but he was never so alive."

"Yet," said Justice Davis, "he was buried?"

Mr. Pratt said that was so, and then declared that the spirit messages were not intended to influence his wife, but simply to lay the facts before her.

"That sum constituted every dollar she had in the world," said the attorney.

That, Mr. Pratt acknowledged was true, and then he explained how the loan of $7,500 was raised on the bonds and turned over to Mme. Parma.

Part of his daily schedule at the Little White House, where Mme. Parma held sway, called another chapter of the trial. He arose at 4 o'clock each morning, he said, and his dress included a flowing silk gown. Then he would enter the Yellow Room, where he would spend an hour in prayer. Next was a walk at sunrise, and from six to seven o'clock he would study occultism with Mme. Parma.

OUR DAILY SHORT STORY

Playing With Fire

By LOIS ESTELLE WEBSTER

When Arthur Bell presented Muriel Dole with his pet collie, Norman, he gave her his love as well, and told her so. She was more than glad to have the gentle, faithful animal about the house.

"You see, we are going to break up the old home," Arthur explained. "My sisters are getting old and an uncle is willing to assure them a permanent home."

"And you will be without a roof!" mourned Muriel pityingly.

"Oh, no. I shall be quite comfortable at the hotel. There's a group of the clerical employees at the plant who put up there and I shall not be lonesome."

Norman followed Muriel around all day long, but every evening across the fields he would skither to the old Bell home, looking for Arthur.

"If you are coming to our house every evening," Muriel suggested, "why don't you come around by the old house and catch up Norman? I am sure it would be a great comfort to him."

The way Norman acted on these occasions later, fully indicated delight and satisfaction. It was at about the end of two months, however, that at least three nights in the week no Arthur would appear.

"Tell you," he would say, "since old Elston has left his son Rodney in charge of the works, us fellows feel it a matter of policy to cater to his ideas and we put in the evenings with him at the hotel."

Muriel accepted this explanation as reasonable, but one evening chanced to overhear her father make a remark to her mother that disturbed her.

"Bell appears to be a fine, manly fellow," were his words, "but a neighbor hinted to me that young Elston and his clerks have some high old times at the hotel evenings. They sit up at card games half the night, sometimes."

"Is this true," Muriel asked her fiance later. He looked flustered and bored at the imputation.

"Tell you, Muriel," he said, "those two young fellows last hired at the office, Jones and Ward, are what you might call 'high rollers.' They drink, smoke and gamble. Straight-laced as Elston appears, they've led him into the ring worse than the worst of them. I don't pretend to be in their class for a night or two ago there was over two hundred dollars at stake in one card game. I have to chip in at times, so as not to get sneered at as a puritan and lose Elston's good will."

"Oh, Arthur, give up your work and get a new position. It is neither manly, nor right that you should be compelled to graze temptation because you are afraid of offending your employer."

That was the last evening that Muriel saw her lover for many days. Before noon following the little town was in the throes of a vast sensation.

Elston appeared in the village about noon, drenched from the storm, hatless, dazed. He insisted on being taken to the plant at once and became frightfully excited as he examined the office vault. Then he recited a thrilling story.

He had been in the toils of employees who had speciously led him into gambling. He named Jones and Ward, and incidentally Arthur. He had been led to risk large amounts on cards, and the night before he must have been drugged, for he had a dim memory of a reckless automobile drive; of being abandoned ten miles from town, all his money, his diamond pin, and the keys to the office missing.

The landlord at the hotel testified that Jones and Ward had assisted Elston and Arthur to the automobile, the two latter acting stupid and helpless.

Muriel was fairly broken hearted, once the apparent fact that Arthur had succumbed to temptation and had joined evil associates in swindling and theft.

One evening a vaguely flitting form entered the garden of the Bell home. Arthur looked thin and pale. His eyes lightened as he noted tracks in the soft soil all about the yard, indicating the frequent regular search of Norman for his missing master. Suddenly the animal himself almost upset Arthur in his frantic demonstrations of delight and then made a wild dash in the direction of the Dole home.

Muriel, in the garden mourning over the absent one, was forced to accompany Norman for the intelligent animal seized her dress in his teeth and, she realizing, was inspired by some new and exciting impulse.

"Oh, it is you, at last," she cried, and weeping rested in the arms of her lover. Arthur recited an extraordinary story of being drugged, as young Elston was, of being held a prisoner by Jones and Ward, of watching his opportunity for escape and accomplishing it, carrying with him nearly all their ill-gotten booty.

"I have just seen Elston and he is assured I had no part in the plot to rob him," explained Arthur. "I have restored the plunder, and I shall resume work tomorrow. Do not doubt my entire innocence, Muriel, and do not fear that I have not learned my lesson. I shall start up bachelor's hall at the old house here, safe and sound under my own roof until—"

He paused. "Yes, dear, until—;" murmured Muriel shyly.

"Until you come as its mistress," added Arthur, fondly.

An Optical Illusion.

We all know an optical illusion makes the setting sun seem larger and often of an oval shape, but a recent explanation by W. F. Badgley of some of the causes which bring this about is interesting.

The atmosphere near the earth's surface, when hot and dusty, acts as a magnifying glass, so distant objects on the horizon are seen through a thick layer of air, which increases its size many times. Looking upward, we see through more rarefied air, which does not possess the magnifying power.

The oval appearance is due to the fact that the sun is seen through a thick layer of air, which increases its size many times. Looking upward, we see through more rarefied air, which does not possess the magnifying power.

The oval appearance is due to the fact that the sun is seen through the edge of an aerial lens, which may be clearly illustrated by drawing a small circle on a piece of white paper and placing a reading glass over it.

Under the centre of the lens the circle appears round, but if the glass is moved until the circle is near its edge its shape changes to an oval.

A "Dud."

A "dud," if you don't know it, is an enemy shell that, through some defect in the fuse or the bursting-charge, fails to explode. Instead of scattering death and destruction, it harms only the object with which it comes in contact. A captain of artillery tells of two experiences that his men have had with the frolicsome "dud."

"Not long ago," said the captain, inhaling a puff from his first cigarette in several days, "one of my men heard a 'whiz-bang' coming. He darted head first into a dug-out like a jack-rabbit. At the same moment, the shell entered and lodged right alongside him in the soft earth. For a fraction of a second the soldier thought that he was going to be an unusually complete casualty, but the shell just stayed there, rested quietly and didn't explode. That soldier is now firmly convinced that he was born to be hanged.

"Another time, one of the men in the battery was in a deep dugout when one of the big German shells came through the roof and lodged right at his feet. It was a huge shell and it looked as big around as a washtub to him. He fainted dead away when he saw it, for in a flash he figured that it had one of these delayed action-fuses and was all ready to blow up. When he came to and they told him that he had been scared into insensibility by a 'dud,' he was the maddest man you ever saw. He seemed to take it as a personal insult that the shell hadn't exploded and scattered him over five acres of France."

New Names Wanted.

New names for Arctic lands and seas probably will soon be wanted in Ottawa as a result of the discoveries of Vilhjalmur Stefansson, the returned Canadian Arctic explorer. A board of geologists in Ottawa directs the giving of names to all of Canada's new-found possessions.

Suggestions have been made that "Stefansson's Land" should be the name of the group of islands found by the explorer northwest of Prince Patrick Land. Stefansson, however, says news lands are never named after the men who find them.

Another name will be needed for what has long been called Prince Gustav Adolph Sea, thought to be an arm of the Arctic Ocean. Stefansson found that the sea wasn't a sea at all, but contained the new land he discovered.

Is Friday Unlucky?

Many years ago, when sailing ships were the only means of communication between the different countries, superstition was more rife among sailors than at the present time. These absurd fancies were not confined to Jack alone, but they were shared in a greater or less extent by shipmaster and owners. Friday was considered a day of evil, and the most malignant results were supposed to attend a voyage commenced on this day of the week. In those times he would indeed have been a reckless skipper who would have attempted to sail on this ill-omened day, for the crew would have broken out in open rebellion rather than lift the anchor from the bottom or cast off shore moorings.

A true story is told of a skeptical Massachusetts captain who, 'way back in the early years of the republic, determined to exhibit the fallacy of this particular superstition. He contracted on a certain Friday for the building of a ship, and it was arranged that the keel of this vessel was laid on Friday, she was launched on Friday, named Friday, commenced loading on a Friday, and hauled into the stream on the same day of the week. To add to the possibilities of disaster, a negro cook named Friday was engaged; and thus fully freighted with the sinister name, the ship sailed for a port in the West Indies. From that day to this, no tidings of the ill-conditioned craft have been received. But those of us who like Friday for various reasons, but chiefly because it leads up to Saturday, upon which day schools are closed, will be pleased to hear that it is not so unlucky a day as Monday, the day school opens again. A statistician, feeling that Friday had been a much-maligned day, determined to make a scientific investigation of the matter, and has found that it is not Friday but Monday, that is the most unfortunate of the week days. According to his investigations 16.74 per cent. of all accidents occur on Monday, 15.51 per cent. on Tuesday, 16.31 per cent. on Wednesday, 15.47 per cent. on Thursday, 16.38 per cent. on Friday, 16.38 per cent. on Saturday and only 1.69 per cent. on Sunday.

CHILD GETS SICK CROSS, FEVERISH IF CONSTIPATED

Look at tongue! Then give fruit laxative for stomach, liver, bowels.

"California Syrup of Figs" can't harm children and they love it.

Mother! Your child isn't naturally cross and peevish. See if tongue is coated; this is a sure sign the little stomach, liver and bowels need a cleansing at once.

When listless, pale, feverish, full of cold, breath bad, throat sore, doesn't eat, sleep or act naturally, has stomach-ache, diarrhoea, remember, a gentle liver and bowel cleansing should always be the first treatment given.

Nothing equals "California Syrup of Figs" for children's ills; give a teaspoonful, and in a few hours all the foul waste, sour bile and fermenting food which is clogged in the bowels passes out of the system, and you have a well and playful child again. All children love this harmless, delicious "fruit laxative," and it never fails to effect a good "inside" cleansing. Directions for babies, children of all ages and grown-ups are plainly on the bottle.

Keep it handy in your home. A little given to-day saves a sick child to-morrow, but get the genuine. Ask your druggist for a bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," then see that it is made by the "California Fig Syrup Company."

War Flour needs strong baking powder

WAR flours are darker, coarser and heavier than the flours you have been using for years, and these new flours require a strong, reliable leavening agent.

Egg-O is a pure, strong, double acting baking powder.

Its first action occurs in the mixing bowl when cold water or milk is added. Allowing the dough to stand for 15 or 20 minutes will give better results, and when you put your war-flour baking in the oven Egg-O will continue to rise, and you will have no trouble getting light bakings.

EGG-O Baking Powder

You can use sour milk, sweet milk, buttermilk or water with Egg-O—a different and better baking powder.

SIMPLEX SHOE POLISH

Brightest and Best

DOG HAD WRIST WATCH.

Sight Disgusted Returned Soldier and He Started Back for Trenches.

Lieut. George Pemberton, of the Canadian army, invalided home from France to recuperate from gas and a subsequent fever, checked out from the Majestic Hotel, in New York City and started right back for the trenches. He made the decision at exactly eleven o'clock in the morning after he had seen what he terms a plenty.

Arriving recently in New York from Canada, where he had visited his home, Lieut. Pemberton discussed the splendid spirit shown by the people of Canada despite the war losses. He was impressed by the fact that signs of mourning were few and that even the war spirit and the various attendant privations were not obvious in the Dominion.

When Lieut. Pemberton reached New York, he was astounded to find that America, despite its great and new participation in the war, did not seem to be in the slightest degree molested at home. He commented upon the vast maze of private motor vehicles, the undisturbed night life tucked away in the restaurants on either side of lightless Broadway, and the general attitude to be found in many places and among countless thousands of people.

He had reached the corner of Fifth avenue and Forty-fifth street when a motor vehicle drove up with two men apparently of fighting age employed as coachman and footman. A stout woman within was feeding chocolates to a Pom, and when the Pom stepped from the coach he had a wrist watch on his left forepaw.

Good Old Jean Morel.

September, 1894.

In one of the long still waters of the mighty stream that rushes from Lac Saint Jean to make the Saguenay — below the Ile Maligne and above the cataract of Chicoulmi—two birch-bark canoes are floating quietly, descending with rhythmic strokes of the paddle, through the luminous northern twilight.

The chief guide, Jean Morel, is a coureur de bois of the old type—broad-shouldered, red-headed, a fearless canoeman, a good hunter and fisherman — simple of speech and deep of heart; a good man to trust in the rapids.

"Tell me, Jean," I ask in the comfortable leisure of our voyage which conduces to pipe smoking and conversation, "tell me, are you a Frenchman or an Englishman?"

"Not the one, nor the other," answers Jean in his old-fashioned patois. "M'sieu' knows I am French-Canadian."

A remarkable answer, when you come to think of it; for it claims a nationality which has never existed, and is not likely to exist, except in a dream.

"Well, then," I say, following my impulse of psychological curiosity, of which Jean is sublimely ignorant, "suppose a war should come between France and England. On which side would you fight?"

Jean knocks the dottle out of his pipe, refills and relights. Then, between the even strokes of his paddle, he makes this extraordinary reply.

"M'sieu, I suppose my body would march under the flag of England, but my heart would march under the flag of France."

Good old Jean Morel! You had no premonition of this glorious war in which the Tricolor and the Union Jack would advance together against the ravening black eagle of Germany, and the Stars and Stripes would join them.—Henry van Dyke, in Scribners.

Back to Nature!

I'd love to be a cave man
With whiskers rich and red
And chase the Lady Primitive
And thump her on the head.

I would not thump her hard enough
To spoil her marcel wave,
But just enough to quiet her
And cart her to my cave.

A simple cave—two rooms and bath—
No frills, no buttoned boys
Nor janitor nor telephone,
Just plain primeval joys.

I'd seize a pterodactyl wing
And rend it with my jaw.
There's prime to have on mammoth steak,
I think I'd like it raw.

I want to be a cave man,
No income tax to pay,
Raw meat to eat, some wives to beat
And naught to do but play.

Officer Drops in on Friends Informally

(By United Press).

PARIS, No. 7. (By Mail). — Lieut. Herbert Hudnut, lately of Princton and New York, "dropped in" on his old outfit the other day.

He came over to France in May attached to an artillery unit. After a few months he was transferred into an observation balloon organization. He shook hands all around and expressed the hope that he might "drop in" on them sometime somewhere in France. During the strenuous weeks that followed he lost track of his old "gang." In the fighting in the Argonne he was observing the German lines from his "sausage" balloon when a Boche aviator sailed along and opened up with his machine gun. Hudnut took to his parachute just in time. The balloon collapsed in a burst of flame. In a couple of minutes Hudnut alighted gently in the top of a tree and started to climb down. From the lowest croton he paused to survey the crowd of soldiers around the foot of the tree. "Whatenell you doing up our tree," shouted one of the officers. It was Hudnut's old outfit posted under the tree.

INFLUENZA HAS LATER DANGERS

Particular Care Needed When Patient is Convalescent, Says Expert.

PARTICULAR CARE NEEDED WHEN PATIENT IS CONVALESCENT, SAYS EXPERT.

The influenza convalescent who has apparently recovered from the disease and is yet in a strangely weak and depressed condition should be the object of particular care, according to Dr. Louis I. Harris, director of the Bureau of Preventable Diseases of the New York Health Department. In the opinion of Dr. Harris the after care of the influenza patient is most important. The co-operation of the patient, coupled with the willingness to see that the weakness and depression are a part of the illness, though coming after the disease itself has spent its force, is a big factor in effecting a complete return to full health. On the other hand, the determination to ignore this debilated condition and to fight against it, will Dr. Harris says, frequently bring serious consequences upon the patient.

AFTER EFFECTS BAD.

"The subject of the after effects of influenza," said Dr. Harris, "is one of particular interest to the scientist at the present time.

"First, and perhaps the most momentous condition to be considered is the striking depression, mental, nervous, and physical, complained of by most patients. Those attacked by the disease with moderate severity are almost always afflicted with this depression, which should be recognized and dealt with. Those who have had mild cases of the epidemic are little affected by depression, and their quick return to health and strength gives rise to the belief that influenza is trivial. On the contrary, influenza in its after affects is anything but trivial, and calls for the application of rules of common sense and sanitation which are the fruit of years of experience.

"Tonic treatment, well chosen diet, and great care in not becoming overtired or allowing the body to be chilled are necessary. Eggs may be eaten but not more than two a day, for the average adult. Of course, it must be remembered that in many cases this disease tends to direct its force against the kidneys, and therefore we instruct patients to avoid eating a great amount of meat, eggs, or beef extracts. Eggs, soft boiled, poached or beaten, raw, are advisable in limited number. The raw eggs should always be well agitated before taking.

WHEN GOOD FOOD IS BAD

"With milk and eggs as a foundation the patient should eat good nourishing food, including meat fish and vegetables, simply prepared. Frying, for instance, is out of the question. Good food prepared in an unassimilable manner becomes bad food; especially is this to be noted in cases of convalescence from influenza, for the disease often manifests itself in vomiting and in intestinal and gastric disturbances, and it is important not to weaken the digestive function by the eating of poorly prepared food; or even the best of food in ill-advised quantities. The quantitative distribution of foodstuffs should be so adjused as not to overtax the stomach but the patient should eat generously and frequently."

As a tonic to build up the blood and stimulate the shattered nerves, Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are unsurpassed. These pills actually make new, rich red blood, which reaches every organ and every nerve in the body, improves the appetite, strengthens digestion and drives away the feeling of weariness and depression always following an attack of la grippe or influenza. Those who give Dr. Williams' Pink Pills a fair trial will be amply repaid by the new health and strength this tonic medicine always gives.

Imperial Munitions Board Going Out in Blaze of Glory

Public Being Told in Gentle Fashion That There is a Deep and Abiding Admiration in the Breasts of Statesmen for Sir Joseph Flavelle.

(By the Toronto Telegram's Ottawa Correspondent.)

OTTAWA, Nov. 27.—The Imperial Munitions Board is going out in a blaze of glory. Reports of Sir Joseph Flavelle's dinner at the Chateau are being issued in instalments, and it is being gently eased into the public mind that all statesmen and near statesmen from Lloyd George down to Newton Wesley Rowell are consumed with a deep and abiding admiration for Sir Joseph.

But in the midst of this hallelujah chorus it might be well to remember that Sir Sam Hughes thought the late-mentioned shell committee one of the noblest workers of human genius. After the Imperial wrapper had been torn off and mere colonials were allowed to see the wheels go round, the Shell committee slipped into a somewhat slimy discord.

Dull the Glory.

Far be it from scribes to suggest that similar treatment might dull the glory of the Imperial Munitions Board. But aside from the fact that the Imperial Munitions Board borrowed a lot of Canadian money and bought things for Britain with it, this country's knowledge of the workings of the board are rather limited. It is admitted that the dinner the other night was a happy event. Among those present was more than one man who, when asked: "What did you do in the great war?" can answer with cheerful candor: "I laid the foundations of the family fortunes."

And yet Hon. Wesley Rowell finds it in his childlike heart to grow sentimental over these heroic capitalists. He burst into song as follows:

Superb?

"Our troops have proven themselves on every field of battle the equals of any, surpassed by none, but when the history of this war comes to be written from the home side, as well as on the record overseas, I feel confident that the work of this board, in which all of you have shared and which those working in shop and factory have accomplished, will be considered equally great in its own way and will rank with the magnificent heroism of our work overseas."

Superb, isn't it? Contrast the boys standing on Queen and Yonge streets, legless and armless and faces seasoned by a thousand hardships and terrors, with this sleek and well-fed assemblage listening to the cant of civilian politicians. Isn't it enough to make you rise in your place and yell "To hell with profits?"

Mighty Little Credit.

But it's the same all along the line in this thick political and hypocritical Ottawa atmosphere. The soldier boys who won the war will get mightly little credit and a great deal less of anything else from the Ottawa lovers of the limelight. The soldier has been used as an influence to put a Government in power. The soldier is being used as a pawn to fix financial and other relations between the Dominion and the provinces. The soldiers' gallantry has shed a lustre over the name Canadian in which politicians, bureaucrats and profiteers can bask and loll. But the soldier will be lucky if Canada's civilian rulers have not classed him as a nuisance, even before he has shaken the mud of France from his army boots.

"Bob" Rogers' Dinner.

But speaking of banquets recalls that in the Capital there is a like curiosity as to the Hon. Bob Rogers' dinner Thursday night. Politicians of all stripes are asking what it means. All are satisfied that the days of party strife are again at hand, and are wondering if a section of the old Tory party can be rescued before the Union ship is run on the rocks. The peculiar thing about this Unionist outfit is that while it evidently intends to stick to the bitter end, and if possible mould its battling factions into a new party, it is making no attempt to put its trust in fortune, and its statesmen in the pulpit, and ride back into power on the crest of another tidal wave such as swept the country in 1917.

Liberals Organize.

In the meantime, the Laurier Liberals are doing a thing or two in the line of organization, and promise to be the only party in the country prepared for war when war breaks. That is, unless Thursday night's gathering rallies the old Tories.

Sir Robert took the matter of reconstruction up seriously before his departure for England, and a lot of candidates for Cabinet jobs were examined. Some of them, like Dr. Beland and Fred Pardee, refused point blank to have any truck with portfolios, and most of the others stuttered and stammered a bit over the first question, "If appointed can you carry your own constituency?"

Were First Friends.

Among the men in this second class were Morphy, of North Perth; Nesbitt, of North Oxford, and Hume Cronyn, of London. The two first-named, it will be remembered, were firm friends of the Canadian Northern in the days when that historic railroad needed friends—and grants. And their selection as possible Cabinet timber suggests that Sir William Mackenzie is not yet so far removed from the throne as to be unable to put in a kindly for for our old friend. However, North Oxford and North Perth are both bad constituencies to monkey with in the present state of the farmer mind. So for the present the "twins" will have to be satisfied with a Premier's tribute to a statesmanship no one else ever suspected them of possessing. As for Hume Cronyn, he is more or less an unknown quantity.

To An Ailing Friend.

And while Sir Robert was muddling around he is said to have offered a new portfolio, that of the Department of Health, to an ailing friend. But the friend was not Dr. Sheard, of South Toronto. Ever since he made such a magnificent job of the Isolation Hospital, Dr. Sheard is said to have nursed dreams of a Federal Department of Health, with himself playing the star role. The department was almost upon us, but with the doctor omitted from the cast. Then Providence, in the shape of doubtful constituencies, intervened.

Has the Offer.

As for F. P. Jones succeeding Sir George Foster as Minister of Trade and Commerce, it is generally known that Mr. Jones has the offer of the job. He is said to have no great desire to enter politics and no idea as to where he could get a seat if he did wish to enter. Anyway, he'll have some time to think it over, Sir Robert will reorganize Europe first and his Cabinet second.

SIXTH OF FAMILY GIVES LIFE IN WAR.

HALIFAX, Nov. 27.—The cable despatch yesterday announcing the death in France from influenza of Lt. Philip B. Stairs of this city marks the sixth member of the Stairs family in Halifax who have given his life in the war. The six boys who have thus fallen are two sons of the late George Stairs, two sons of Gavin L. Stairs, and two sons of the late Edward Stairs. Fourteen members of this family connection went to the war, of whom six are now dead. Lt. Philip Stairs, it is understood, had been recommended for the Victoria Cross.

FIGHTING IN THE AIR

CANADIANS CONTINUE TO WIN GLORY AS AVIATORS.

One Captain Accounted for Six Boche Machines and a Lieutenant Shot Down Eight Machines — Some Thrilling Stories of Winged Warfare.

THE effective operations of Canadians in the Royal Air Force during the past summer is graphically described in the official records of the Imperial Air Ministry. One Canadian captain accounted for six enemy air-craft, four of which were destroyed and two driven down out of control. On one of these occasions while carrying out an offensive patrol a German formation was encountered. This Canadian officer dived on one of the hostile machines which was slightly detached from the Boche patrol, shot it down, witnessing its crashing to the ground. At this moment he was attacked by four Fokkers, one of which he attacked and drove down in flames.

On another day this same officer and a lieutenant observed a Boche two-seater machine. This they pursued when the machine gun on the captain's airplane jammed. The lieutenant then engaged the enemy, firing one hundred rounds and to the great satisfaction of both officers saw the machine spiralling down through the clouds completely out of control.

A Canadian lieutenant was responsible during the month for eight enemy machines, seven of which crashed and one went down out of control, but was not seen to reach the ground. While out with his flight on scout duty this officer met a formation of enemy airplanes. He dived into them and singled out one for combat when he noticed one of his machines in difficulties with a Boche triplane. He promptly attacked it and saw it crumple up and fall. He then observed four Fokkers engage the machines his flight were looking after. He collected his command and dived. Attacking a machine which was harrassing a D.H.9, he fired a shot which burst into it and it was seen to catch fire and fall. On another occasion, while flying over the lines with one other machine, he met seven Fokkers, these he attacked, shooting down their leader. He and his companions were in the thick of a sharp fight when a patrol of another squadron came up and the Boche flew for home.

Another captain is responsible for four E.A., two being seen to fall out of control and two to crash. In one of these fights he was assisted by a second lieutenant. He took part in a warm engagement when with a patrol of five he met ten enemy machines which proceeded to dive on him. One of these getting into the middle of the formation was engaged by this captain and in endeavoring to get on the captain's tail, it came within reach of his rear gun. The observer immediately shot thirty rounds into the machine, which, falling over on its back, dropped, still upside down, "falling leaf" fashion. Another E.A. then flew across the captain's machine, this he attacked and when last seen it was nose diving through the clouds out of control.

Two hostile machines were destroyed by another captain, the first of which he obtained in driving three enemy air-craft away from a single British machine, and fought from 13,000 feet to 8,000 feet, finally seeing his airplane crash to the ground. Two other captains each accounted for two enemy machines, one being entirely wrecked, reaching the ground a burning mass, two others being seen to crash and a fourth going down out of control.

Two captains and three lieutenants have all crashed one A.E. while another lieutenant destroyed an enemy balloon and another lieutenant has drove two E.A. down out of control in one flight. He was on an offensive patrol when seeing a flight of six enemy machines over 2,000 feet below, he dived, and firing 300 rounds into one E.A. saw it run over a slow wide spin. He was then attacked from the rear by two E.A.; firing one and one-half drums at the leader, he saw him zig-zagging down, falling leaf fashion.

Two are needed to start a quarrel, but one can stop it.

THE EVENING EXAMINER, PETERBOROUGH SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 30, 1918

The Farmers Newly Created Platform Includes Senate Reform, the Abolition of Titles and Repeal of Election Act

Organized Farmers, Through the Canadian Council of Agriculture, Completes Its Sessions in Winnipeg—Pleas for Reconstruction.

CRERAR'S ATTITUDE

Special to The Examiner:

WINNIPEG, Man., Nov. 30.— Organized farmers through the Canadian Council of Agriculture, representing Alberta, Saskatchewan, Manitoba and Ontario have made their pronouncement upon a new national policy for Canada. It was issued to the press last evening. It embraces besides the adoption of advanced tariff and taxation policy, important pronouncements affecting reconstruction work in Canada. It declares for public ownership of public utilities, the abolition of titles, the reform of the Senate, the termination of government by order-in-Council, the abolition of patronage, the removal of press censorship, the publication by newspapers of the facts concerning their ownership and control, the repeal of the wartimes elections act, and for other radical measures of reform. The Council has had its sessions during the past four days. They have been devoted to the formation of the platform which was adopted.

Platform Includes Many New Recommendations

Hon. T. A. Crerar, who has been in attendance at the meetings of the Canadian Council of Agriculture, of which he is a member, saw the platform completed and left for Ottawa yesterday. Mr. Crerar on the questions of economic and social reform, stands exactly where he stood before entering the Union government a year ago. The farmers' platform has been amplified to include many new recommendations which were considered necessary in the light of the war and the prospective period of reconstruction. Its economic teaching, however, is identical with that of former pronouncements by organized agriculture. Altogether it represents the point of view of the vast majority of the people of Western Canada, including Hon. T. A. Crerar.

Seek Co-operation of Canadian Voter.

While the grain growers of the west and the united farmers of Ontario, through their central organization, have formulated a strikingly progressive platform, they have not done so as a political party. They hope to be able to use their expressed policy in strengthening and developing an electorate rather than in creating a party. Issues will be the dominating influence of their politics not the party machine. There will be no third party or special class in politics so far as the organized farmers are concerned. They seek the co-operation of every Canadian voter in giving effect to a policy which they think is in the best interests of the nation as a whole. In the ordinary sense of the word, therefore, the organized farmers will not go into politics. That was their decision to-day, coincident with the adoption of their platform.

American Delegation

General Bliss Has Been Added to the Party—Will Leave Tuesday.

By Robert J. Bender.
(United Press Service.)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30.—President Wilson will begin his direct official conferences with leaders of the Allied nations about December 14. Having announced the personnel of the American delegation—Secretary Lansing, Colonel House, Henry White and General Bliss—the President's plans for the commission to France are now complete. Owing to the fact that it is not imperative that he be in Paris before December 14, however, there will be no rush about his leave-taking next Tuesday, or exceptional speed in his trans-ocean journey.

Official announcement of America's peace commission carried only one surprise—the name of General Bliss. It had been expected by those well-informed that if the delegation contained five members, Secretary Houston would be added to the four originally forecast by the United Press and confirmed last night.

Secretary Baker will go to France in a month or six weeks to relieve President Wilson as the head of the delegation when Wilson leaves for home.

Fight in North Huron

Present Indications Point to the Election of Fraser.

(Special to The Examiner.)

WINGHAM, Nov. 30.—A curious mix-up in politics or politicians has developed in North Huron which will not be cleared up until 5 p.m. on Monday.

The three candidates are:

Dr. Case, of Dungannon, the straight Conservative candidate, who has the approval of Sir William Hearst.

Geo. Spotten, the Independent-Conservative, who lost the convention by the president's vote.

W. H. Fraser, a Liberal, now reeve of Morris Township.

Although any-cornered fight is uncertain, this one is doubly so, because of the division in the Conservative party, while a great many Liberals who do not want Fraser in the field, will vote for the other candidates. Indications, however, point to a Fraser election.

WILLIAM DEFINITELY RENOUNCES THRONE

AMSTERDAM, Nov. 30.—William Hohenzollern has signed a document definitely renouncing the thrones of Germany and Prussia, as well as releasing all officials from their oaths of allegiance, according to a Berlin despatch received to-day. Germany Must Give Up Colonies

There Will Be No Attitude of Tenderness Towards Germany.

Special to the Examiner:

LONDON, Nov. 30.—"There will be no attitude of 'tenderness' toward Germany in the terms to be demanded by the British," Walter Long, Secretary of State for the Colonies, declared in a campaign speech at Bristol. He advocated the solution of the German colonies' question by their inclusion in the British Empire. "I could see no other solution than their inclusion in the British Empire," Long said. "Where natives have been consulted, they are overwhelmingly in favour of this. As a member of the committee appointed by the Premier to consider the terms to be demanded of Germany, I can assure you that you have no need of any anxiety that any 'tenderness' will be shown toward Germany."

Camp Borden May be Used for Military Hospital

Officers', Cadets' and Men's Quarters are Well Heated by Central Plant, and Could Easily be Converted.

What is to be done with the Royal Air Force Camp at Borden? Reliable information gives $2,000,000 as the amount spent on machines and buildings at the nothern camp and about half went into the buildings. The land is the property of the Dominion government, while the Imperial Munitions Board paid the construction bills. One of the officers of the R.A.F. said that the salvage value of the buildings is practically nil. Incidentally, he expressed the opinion that aviators so desiring would be able to purchase their machines at comparatively low rates.

MAY BE USED AS HOSPITAL.

The extreme likelihood is that before long the barracks at least will be converted into a military hospital for the convalescent soldiers returning from overseas to Military District No. 2. Surgeon-General Guy Carleton Jones, Director of Hospitalization, looked over the property last week.

Liberal estimates place the possible accommodation for hospital purposes at nearly five thousand, but this takes into consideration fourteen flight sheds or hangars which would have to be materially improved before suitable for hospital purposes.

SOME BUILDINGS HEATED

Borden aviation camp consists now of three groups of buildings, men's barracks, officers' and cadets' quarters and the hangars.

One thousand patients could be accommodated if the men's barracks were converted into a hospital. These buildings are well heated from the central plant. In this group are also a recreation building, 39 feet by 109 feet, sergeants' mess, Y. M. C. A. with accommodation for 240, which would probably be retained by the Y. M. C. A., the R.A.F. mess building (820 men), camp hospital, 14 beds, isolation hospital, 35 beds, dental clinic, nursing sisters' home, engineer's cottage and quartermaster's store.

About 122 patients could be accommodated in the two officers' blocks, and 496 in the five cadets' blocks. There is messing accommodation for nearly 600 in these groups of buildings. There is also a cadets' institute with 2607 square feet of floor space.

NEED MUCH IMPROVEMENT

Group three of the hangars group, is not so suitable. Before they could ever be considered for hospital purposes they would need to have the walls lined, new ceilings put in, and wooden flooring. These hangars are not heated by the central plant. Stoves would heat them.

ROOM FOR 2,800 MEN.

The authorities figure the 14 hangars would accommodate 2,800 men, and to this group they add the gunners' instruction building (150 men), six squadron offiffices (72 men), machine fitting shop (180 men), wing office (16 men.)

REVOLUTION IS GENUINE

People in Germany Went Wild With Joy When Revolution Broke Out.

REMARKABLE STORY

By Leroy Congleton, Repatriated American Soldier, Copyright 1918 by the United Press.

LONDON, Nov. 30.—The German revolution is genuine, judging from what I saw in Barmstadt, Limburg and Oppladen. The common people realize for the first time that the militarists duped them. It is impossible for militarism to return to power. On November 8, German marines went along the Rhine waving red flags, throwing away their weapons and disarming other soldiers.

At Oppladen people and garrison were wild with joy. The entire garrison immediately packed up and all of them returned to their homes. My guard, announcing the news, tossed his cap and cartridge belt in the air, crying, "Now we'll have freedom." I had acted as interpreter and as a result was allowed freedom.

Of the towns where we were quartered, I talked with many people regarding the food situation which was extremely serious. Here is a menu of a typical family, such as I often dined with:

For breakfast—A substitute for coffee, consisting of barley, etc., and bread made of potato-floor and sawdust.

For luncheon—A soup made from substitutes for fats and potatoes or onions, alternating with cabbage. On Sundays meat was allowed.

For dinner—Bread and jam.

WOMEN LABOURERS.

All restaurants were closed. The people had plenty of iron and paper, but no gold, silver or copper. Anyway they didn't have anything to spend it for. The factories were making only such necessities as war material, household furniture, etc. Everything was expensive. I paid fifteen marks ($3.60) for a knife and fork. Labourers, who were mostly women, earned from seven to nine marks ($1.68 to $2.16) a day. Prisoners did all the farm work. The country was fairly orderly but presented a very dilapidated appearance. Houses, mills and fences were dropping to pieces. All work clothes were made from paper, while dress clothes were remade from old things. Shoe tops were paper and the soles were either paper or wood. Hats were made of straw. The only amusement was the movies.

The above remarkable story is the first written by an American soldier describing actual conditions in Germany.

Stirring Speech by Lloyd George

(Canadian Press.)

"THE COUNTRY IS NOT CHOOSING A PARTY," SAID THE PREMIER.

NEWCASTLE, ENG., Nov. 28. — (Delayed.) — "The country is not choosing a party but a principle," Premier Lloyd George declared in a campaign speech here to-day. "We should not revert to the old party system until we are forced to. I do not ask you to entrust the work to myself and my associates if another group is better able to carry out the reconstruction policies. But in God's name, let us have a difference between Asquith's coalition and mine. His includes Lansdowne—mine does not."

"There is No Place Like Canada"

Major C. C. Hansford Will Make His Home Here.

Special to the Examiner:

TORONTO, Nov. 30.—Major C. C. Hansford, of the Royal Horse Artillery, who has acted as Assistant Judge Advocate-General of the Royal Air Force in Canada, left for England last night. Major Hansford goes on three months' leave, after a severe attack of Spanish influenza, but says that he will return to Canada within the year to make his home here.

"There is no place like Canada. I don't know that I was very anxious to come out here, but I do know that there is no place for me to live now except in the Dominion," he said.

Sinking of the Lusitania Justifies the Extradition of Hohenzollern to States

Opinion of American Legal Expert Based on United States Treaties With Holland.

MUST BE TRIED

(United Press Service).

NEW YORK, Nov. 30. — William Hohenzollern, the ex-Kaiser, could be extradited to the United States and placed on trial for his crimes, in the opinion of Charles Thaddens Terry, a member of the executive committee of the American Bar Association. The Kaiser has been indicted in two western States, and under a treaty between the United States and Holland, his extradition could be effected, Terry declared to the United Press to-day.

"To vindicate the highest instincts of human conscience, to satisfy the requirements of universal law, to re-establish rules and regulations of international law, the trial of William Hohenzollern must be had," said Terry. "Whether it be had pursuant to the terms of the extradition treaty between Holland and the United States, or similar extradition treaties between Holland and France and England, does not much matter. The point is that the trial must be had.

Technical Definitions.

"In dealing with the question of extraditing William Hohenzollern from Holland, it is necessary to avoid technical definitions of specific crimes. We must place emphasis upon those crimes which are recognized to be such by all mankind. Accordingly we must avoid the term 'piracy' and the term 'homicide,' and deal only with 'wilful murder' on the one hand, that which our own treaty with Holland is described as an extraditable crime committed on the high seas without designating the same by a specific or technical expression."

Terry cited from the three treaties with Holland which bear on the extradition of criminals, particularly from that of 1887, Article II., Section 12, of which reads:

"Persons shall be delivered up according to provisions of this convention, who shall have been charged with, or convicted of, any of the following crimes:

"12—Destruction or loss of a vessel on the high seas or within the jurisdiction of the party asking extradition, caused intentionally."

"There would seem to be at least sufficient evidence in connection with the sinking of the Lusitania to justify the extradition of William Hohenzollern to the United States for trial," he said.

Referring to Article III. of the same treaty, in which extradition is not provided if the crime committed is of a political nature, Terry pointed out that this exception merely applied to a crime committed in the war within a separate nation, as a revolution, rather than in a war between two nations.

On the question of whether offenses for which the Kaiser has been indicted, both in the United States, for the sinking of the Lusitania, and in England for raids on London, were committed "wilfully" or "intentionally," Terry suggested that the words of Bethmann-Hollweg on a celebrated occasion, "Necessity knows no law," would perhaps be deemed revelant evidence of "intent" at Hohenzollern's trial.

WILL HAVE TO ANSWER CHARGES.

Special to the Examiner:

LONDON, Nov. 30.—Count Wilhelm Hohenzollern will be given full opportunity to answer the charges against him, Attorney-General F. E. Smith declared in a campaign speech. "If he is returned to Germany or is held in detention, the Coalition Government will insist upon the personal accountability of the former Kaiser for crimes for which he is chiefly and personally responsible," said Smith. "The coalition is determined to give him an opportuuity to answer the charges." Smith intimated that no attempt would be made to punish the former Kaiser until after the British elections.

SUNDAY SERVICES AT ST. ANDREW'S CHURCH

At the morning service to-morrow in St. Andrew's church a thankgiving service will be held for God's goodness to us as a people. The Rev. Mr. Rowand will speak on "The Evolution of Liberty in the British Empire," showing God's hand in the development of the nation, and that she is a chosen people on the earth. The evening topic will be: "The Invisible Adversary of Nations and Men." Special music will be rendered at both services.

In addidays left in which to do your tion of goods, and that alone is sufficient reason why you should shop early and avoid the rush.

County Makes Cautious Move

Approach the Situation of Good Roads With Circumspection — Have Named Committee.

The County Council closed its session this morning with a carefully deliberated movement toward the Provincial good roads policy. For several days past, the members had their heads together in continually changing groups, apparently discussing all the details of the policy as they could foresee them. Yesterday afternoon they put their ideas on a map of the southern part of the county, tentatively indicating roads which, by common consent, were important highways in the various townships. The Council has not reached a final decision as to choice of roads for the proposed system, but they have made the most emphatic gesture in that direction that any Council begun since Peterborough first considered the Government's scheme. This morning the Reeves and Deputy-Reeves of Belmont, Asphodel, Dummer, Otonabee, Smith, Douro, Ennismore and North Monaghan were named as a committee to designate the roads for a local system of improvement and submit them to W. A. McLean of the Highways Department. A meeting of this committee will be held before they go to Toronto, probably on the day of the hearing of the Kinmount bridge question by the Municipal Board.

From this cautious move it is obvious that the Council has avoided committing themselves on the Good Roads problem, but it is expected that the committee will have a definite statement for next year's Council.

Must Follow By-Law.

Reeve Squire moved, seconded by Reeve Griffith, that supplies required by any official of the county be secured only on the order of the clerk, as provided by the by-law. Carried.

A resolution to grant $25 to the Peterborough Poultry Association, moved by Mr. Eason and seconded by Mr. McIntosh, was lost.

The Council's condolence was tendered Reeve A. Webster of Dummer in his recent bereavement, on motion by Reeve Squire, seconded by Deputy-Reeve Eason.

Food Conditions in Germany

Canadian Press:

ZURICH, Nov. 30.—Food conditions in Germany are by no means so critical and urgent as Dr. W. S. Solf, Foreign Minister, would lead the worl dto believe, according to information received here. Germany has food to last until April if the army reserve stores are placed at the disposal of the people. These reserves were drawn upon in October to feed certain parts of the country, but they have been restored to their former condition from the last harvest. Since October they have not been touched.

WILL EXTEND STREET RAILWAY AT ONCE

Mr. W. G. Ferguson, manager of the Street Railway, informed the Board of Works last night that he has been notified by the Hydro-Electric Commission that the extensions which have been under consideration for several years will be begun at once.

It transpired that an hour after Ald. Edgar had complained at the meeting of the Hydro-Electric Radial Association in Toronto that Peterborough had not been fairly treated by the Hydro-Electric Commission, Mr. Ferguson had been notified by wire to proceed with the Street Railway extension.

AIMS OF THE NEW PARTY

GERMAN DEMOCRATS

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

BERLIN, Nov. 30.—The aims of the new German Democratic party appeal of which for comprehension and support has been sent to President Wilson, were outlined to a correspondent to-day by Theodore Wolff, editor-in-chief of the "Berlin Tageblatt." It was on Herr Wolff's initiative that the party was formed. Herr Wolff explained that in keeping with the party's aims all former members of progressive or other parties who have been active in militaristic and nationalistic agitation, or who like Dr. Gustav Stresemann, National-Liberal member of the Reichstag, have actively advocated the submarine campaign have been flatly informed that while they cannot be excluded from the party if they desire to join, they will nevertheless be rigorously excluded from any participation in its leadership.

King of Belgians' Entry Into Mons

High Tribute Paid to Canadian Forces.

Canadian Press:

(By J. F. B. Livesay).

WITH THE CANADIAN FORCES, Nov. 27. (Delayed in transmission).— By special invitation of Sir Arthur Currie, Commander of the Canadian Corps, I was present to-day at the formal entr yof the King of Belgium into Mons, and took luncheon with His Majesty. The old city was en fete and thronged with loyal citizens, who gave an enthusiastic welcome to their hero monarch. As a sign of the times, it was noticeable that the Socialist organization joined in the official demonstrations. The Canadian troops figured prominently in the march past, and were subjects of high praise by the King. Albert himself a soldier before all else, and wedded to efficiency, was quick to recognize it in the ranks of the men who recaptured Mons in the closing hours of the war. His Majesty complimented the Canadian Corps Commander on the appearance of the men and paid an eloquent tribute to the remarkable part the arms of Canada have played throughout the war, culminating in the wonderful campaign of its closing months.

"Peterborough Presents Possibilities Unsurpassed."

SATURDAY, NOV. 30TH, 1918.

THE MEMORIAL QUESTION

Athough no definite plan in rgeard to a war memorial was adopted at the meeting on Thursday night, nor indeed was it to be expected that it would be possible at one session to decide upon a policy, yet the meeting served the useful purpose of fairly launching the subject before the people of Peterboro and it should not be allowed to drop.

There was the expected difference of opinion as regards the form the memorial should take and it is possible that the ultimate decision will not only include a permanent monument to be erected in one of the parks but a club building for the use of the Veterans. Both these plans have a large number of advocates, and it seems likely that a compromise may be arrived at and a drive started to establish both memorials. Unanimity of opinion and a better spirit of cooperation could be arrived at under such a policy as the views of all interested would be met by at least one part of the scheme.

The suggestion to hold another meeting and appoint a representative committee to go into the details of each plan is a business-like way of dealing with the matter. A committee can get down to work and achieve results with a good deal more facility than a general meeting, which usually resolve itself into more or less of a debate in which speeches are substituted for action.

MR. McCURDY'S RESIGNATION.

The general feeling that the Government has not been making sufficient progress in dealing with the problems affecting returned soldiers, will be strengthened by the resignation of Mr. F. B. McCurdy, M.P., who has been parliamentary secretary to the Soldiers' Civil Re-establishment Department. Mr. McCurdy, since his return to Halifax, has given an interview which confirms the opinion of the returned soldiers of Canada that it is time to arouse the authorities at Ottawa into action in the hope that a comprehensive plan may be developed.

"The Parliamentary Committee's report on pensions has not been heard of since it was presented to Parliamented in May last," was one important statement made by Mr. McCurdy, who added that in resigning and registering his objections he felt that the conditions of affairs might be emphasized to the advantage of invalided and returning soldiers and the public generally.

Early in the year a Parliamentary Committee was appointed to go thoroughly into the whole question of pensions. This important mission was carried out, and a number of recommendations made in a report presented to parliament. The changes were satisfactory to the returned men, but although recommended in May last, Mr. McCurdy declares that the report has not been heard of since ,and so the Canadian soldiers and the dependents of the men who died in France have to exist as best they can on the old allowances—in many cases being far from adequate.

The Department formed to look after the interests of returned soldiers is not the only department at Ottawa to be caught sound asleep by the end of the war. Although a special Cabinet committee was formed some time ago for the purpose of trade reconstruction on a peace basis Mr. McCurdy states it has made no progress. Taken by surprise by the sudden end of the war, trade commissions are being hurriedly sent to London and other centres in an effort to make up for the valuable time that has been lost. There is no reason to doubt Mr. McCurdy's charge that general preparation for peace conditions had not received sufficiently earnest attention at the hands of the Government.

PERSONAL

PRIVATE CLUB
MARRY RICH—HUNDREDS ARE ANXIOUS.
ENCLOSE STAMPED ADDRESSED ENVELOPE TO
E. P. ISHERWOOD,

WHY NOT PETERBOROUGH?

It is announced that with a view of providing employment for returned soldiers and other men during the coming year the Ontario Government is preparing to establish four new employment bureaus in the province. For some years there have been offices at Toronto, Ottawa, London, Hamilton, Fort William, Port Arthur, Brantford, St. Thomas, Kitchener, Walkerville and Kingston. It is said that the new bureaus will be established in Windsor, Sudbury, Sault Ste. Marie and a second one in Toronto.

The modus operandi of these employment offices will be to have a representative of the Soldiers' Civil Re-establishment Committee, a returned soldier, to whom all returned men will apply for positions and who will direct the applicant to the person who is looking after the obtaining of employment in the different trades.

It seems to The Examiner that it would be good policy on the part of the civic authorities to wait upon the Ontario Government as soon as possible with a view to having a Government employment office opened here. Surely this city with its many manufacturing industries should be recognized as a most suitable place for the location of a labour bureau while the very large number of soldiers who will return to Peterborough from overseas form another important reason why the claims of this city should carry weight with the Legislature. If there is any advantage to be gained from the Ontario Government's plan, and it is at least worth trying, Peterborough should be on an equal footing with other cities. Otherwise our returned soldiers and other men who may happen to be out of work, may be forced to try to find positions in some other centre.

Peterborough's right to consideration in this matter should be immediately and strongly pressed.

THE GERMAN SURRENDER.

When one remembers the confident hopes with which the German naval officers had watched through the years the steady increase in the number of their warships, it becomes more and more difficult to understand how it was possible for them to take those vessels across to the English coast and deliver them over into the hands of their most hated enemies. In like circumstances — with an armistice signed and the faith of their Government pledged, that is —presumably the officers of other navies would have performed the same dreadful task. What cannot be imagined, however, of navies with such traditions as those, say, of Great Britain or the United States, is that for them like circumstances could arise or such an intolerable humiliation be demanded from them.

It could have been avoided by the Germans, for their refusal to take the sea in a last desperate adventure was the beginning of the end for Germany and showed her rulers that further resistance was hopeless, the acceptance of peace on any terms the one escape from utter ruin.

The German sailors may have been—probably were—righ in thinking that a battle on the sea would mean the death of most of them, but to have come down with flags flying would have been the substitution of glory for the shame that is now theirs, and it is impossible to escape the belief that only men who had obeyed such orders as they had obeyed—orders to sink passenger and hospital ships, to shell women and children in lifeboats, and to bombard helpless coast villages and summer resorts— would have refused to obey the command to give battle to a superior foe. The chances against victory would have been many, but risks as bad or worse have been taken again and again before now.

That the personnel of the German Navy survives is something, of course, but what a survival it is! The one real fight in which they engaged, at a moment and in conditions selected by themselves, they lost, and doubtless lost it because they pretended to have won it. They never tried another. They are strangely quick despairers for men who are supposed to be courageous and loyal.—New York Times.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

"To your tents, O Israel," is Col. J. A. Currie's advice to the Conservative party. But the people of Canada may amend the slogan to read, "Back to the woods."

The Canadian troops overseas will soon be heading their letters: "Somewhere in Germany."

Ottawa announces that the Canadian Expeditionary Force for Siberia is to carry on. Just what is expected of a few thousand Canadian soldiers in the present condition of affairs in Russia, is hard to see, but the men are being sent anyway.

The farmers of Perth county who voted in favor of establishing a daily paper are asked to notice that the Montreal Herald has been forced to suspend publication.

NO DEMOBILIZATION.

LONDON, Nov. 30.—The Admiralty, War Office and Air Ministry issued a notice to the public that demobilization had not yet begun and that the naval and military situation does not permit of general release of men from the forces.

Voice of The People

Dear Sir: After reading the article, "Munitioners' Cheerless Christmas," it set me wondering why it should be cheerless after all the big money they have been making the last two or more years, without practically any risk to their lives? I will wager that every soldier in France would gladly change places with any munition worker in Canada (no matter in what circumstances) this Christmas time. In my opinion every munition worker ought to have enough money saved to give themselves a fairly good time this Christmas. If not it is up to themselves. I spent last Christmas day in Belgium, and I had more money then than I had now, but I would rather have Christmas day in Canada without a cent than be where I was last year with a thousand dollars in my pocket. But I do not say this from an unpatriotic point of view. Just fancy living in a hole into which you had to crawl backwards because it was not large enought to crawl around in, and shells and whizzbangs flying around you! Not very cheerful that, eh? How would some of the munition workers like to face that? Why, before I went away overseas I knew fellows making a dollar and a half a day, and who did not own two suits to their name, and now after two years making munitions own a fine automobile. You know I've a "hunch" there will be lots of cars for sale very soon.

Well, I'll finish up by hoping the soldiers (especially returned men who are ruined for life) will have as good a Christmas as the majority of the munition workers, although I know some of the poor devils will get out of luck. And by the way I hope no soup kitchens will have to be opened any place. "Old 93rd."

The woman who thinks all men are angels had better remain single and nurse the delusion.

Will Utilize Camp Borden

OTTAWA, November 30. — The government intends to utilize Camp Borden in connection with demobilization and also in the hospitalization of invalided cases from overseas. It is adapted to the latter use particularly in summer. The extensive buildings will be utilized in storing part of the vast quantity of equipment the soldiers will bring back with them.

Militia police of the future is yet to be determined, but the location and equipment of the camp suggests its utility as a central training ground.

Socialists Seize Wireless Stations

Chancellor Has Issued a Warning to the Press at Home and Abroad.

(By the Associated Press.)

BERLIN, Nov. 30.—A group of Independent Social Democrats, closely identified with the Spartacus element of Dr. Liebknecht, has seized control of all wireless stations in Germany and is now transmitting propaganda and other news, the Berlin Tageblatt says it is informed.

Chancellor Ebert and Herr Haase have on behalf of the government newspapers, warned the press at home and abroad of this condition, and declare further that the government will not assume responsibility for wireless information now being sent out of Germany.

Manufactured Food Total Shows Big War Increase

Dominion Bureau of Statistics Issues Memoradum Showing Decided Growth Under Stimulus of the War.

Ottawa, Nov. 29.—A memorandum issued to-day by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics relative to the increase in the manufacturing of food products in Canada during the war period says:

How marked has been the expansion of Canadian farm production under the stimulus of the war is well known. That the same or relatively even greater expansion has taken place in the output of manufactured food products has not until recently been appreciated, in the absence of the necessary statistics.

The Dominion Bureau of Statistics, however, has just completed its compilation of a complete census of industry taken for 1917, and the following figures are available for comparison with those of 1915, the last year for which similar data are available.

"In 1915 the value of manufactured food products in Canada was $388,815,362; in 1917 this had risen to $755,245,185."

An attached list giving the value of the more important manufactured food products shows that flour and grist mill products lead with products to the value of $226,062,410, while slaughtering and meat packing are in second place with products valued at $153,563,318. Other important manufactured food products include: Bread, biscuits and confectionery, $77,103,656; butter and cheese, $75,395,751; refined sugar, $73,329,260; dairy products, $10,327,268; coffee and spices $9,840,150 and condensed milk, $8,097,217.

EXPERIENCE.

"Experience," George W. Hobart's wonderful play, seen for the first time in Peterborough at the Grand last evening, proved a veritable cross section from life. It was an entertainment, and a dozen sermons rolled into one, one of the most impressive theatrical offerings that a Peterborough audience has had the good fortune to see. Wonderfully staged and presented by an exceptionally well balanced and clever caste, "Experience" will not soon be forgotten by any one in last night's capacity audience.

The play tells in ten episodes the story of Youth who, spurred on by Ambition, leaves Love to try his luck in the big world outside. After meeting Experience, who accompanies him on his journey, Youth encounters Opportunity, but heeds not her call, because he has fallen a victim to the lures of Pleasure. In following the latter on the primrose path, Ambition is lost and Youth meets Sport, Travel, Excitement, Wealth, Intoxication, Beauty and many of the others who are to be found in pleasure's haunts. He soon squanders the greater part of his money and turns to the corridors of Chance to replenish his fortunes. In a most realistic scene in a gaming house, Youth loses his last dollar and then, scornfully rejected by the friends of prosperous days, decides to accept the advice of Work. He secures a position as a waiter in a restaurant in the slum district, but eventually is discharged and finds Poverty waiting to claim him. Delusion, a "dope fiend," persuades him to try the cocaine method of forgetfulness, and the most impressive scene of the play follows, in which the audience is shown a "dope den" and given an opportunity of realizing the terrible effects of indulging in the use of cocaine. Youth, the first effect of the drug gone, craves for more, and finding that he can secure a further supply only through Crime, decides to accompany the latter. He is saved by a recollection of his mother's teachings, brought to his memory by the singing of "Lead Kindly Light" by a church singer, and returns to Love, to find that Ambition was not dead after all.

The play is magnificently presented. The four big scenes, the interior of a Broadway cabaret, a gaming house in operation, a Bowery restaurant, and the den of the dope users, are most realistically and effectively presented, no expense in scenic equipment or in costumes having been spared. Apart from the lessons it teaches, "Experience" may well be called a wonder play by reason of the stage pictures it presents.

The caste leaves nothing to be desired. Raymond Van Sickle has the part of Youth, a role that calls for versatility and cleverness, and his portrayal is always sympathetic and life-like. Like the role of "Everywoman" in the play of the same name, the almost constant presence of the leading character is required, so that it was a most exacting role which Mr. Van Sickle most effectively handled.

Mr. Duncan Penwarden also scores heavily in the important part of "Experience." He reads his lines with a fine appreciation of their meaning and although his acting was fine at all times last night, it reached its climax in the stirring denunciation of those who by the sale of drugs, made money out of the suffering of their degraded victims.

Two especially clever presentations are given by Mr. William Betts, who contributes a realistic bit as a roulette dealer and follows this with a most amusing impersonation of Grouch. Mr. Frank J. Woods also plays several parts with skill and realism, his portrayal of a Bowery restaurant proprietory being decidedly clever.

The men of the company perhaps carry off first honours, especially as the two most important parts are in the hands of male members of the caste. There are, however, a large number of feminine roles, and these are all capably presented. So uniformly good indeed is the work of the entire company that it is hard to select the stars.

The songs and incidental music were splendidly played by the orchestra.

"Experience" is being repeated at the Grand this afternoon and evening, and the opportunity of seeing the splendid attraction should not be missed. It is one of the most important offerings of the season and Peterborough is fortunate in being given three performances.

It will be welcome news to theatregoers that "General Post," the comedy which made such a hit on its previous presentation here, is to return to the Grand on Thursday next.

Nature decreed that every woman should have a clear, smooth, delicate skin. And the greatest of these is the wonderful calcium sulphide in Stuart's Calcium Wafers. It is one of the natural constituents of the human body. Your skin must have it to be healthy. It enriches the blood, invigorates the skin health, dries up the pimples, boils, eczema and blotches, enables new skin of fine texture to form and become clear, pinkish, smooth as velvet and refined to the point of loveliness and beauty. To use these wonderful wafers means to become the belle of the ball. Stop using creams, lotions, powders and bleaches which merely hide for the moment. Industry is on the Road to Mandalay

(By United Press.)

RANOON, INDIA, Nov. 1. — (By Mail.)— The whirr of the loom and constant hum of industrial machinery are fast drowning the softer noises of the East, "from Rangoon to Mandalay."

Here, in the very section that Kipling made familiar to the world more than a generation ago, when he described the mystic charm of India, manufacturing commodities have sprung up that make the banks of the rivers resemble those of the Merrimac in New England.

Burma girls, such as waited for the British soldier, are still here but most of them are working in shops.

The annual report of the Indian Factories Act committee for 1917, shows there are 536 factories registered, with 68,435 persons employed.

Rice mills predominate, as might be expected. There are 329 of these, with 108 saw-mills, six petroleum refineries, 15 cotton-ginning mills, 15 oil mills, eight shops for making printing presses, seven brass and iron factories and many others.

Rangoon, Mandalay and Moulmein —three of the important manufacturing towns of the district, have been modernized. They have high sanitary standards and many of the conveniences that mark the prosperous European or American industrial community.

Modern India has her child labour laws. Women have supplanted children in most of the mills and few children under 14 are employed.

Wages have not varied much in the last year, but even here, India is fast approaching Western communities. Most of the workers are seeking more pay and an increase is deemed likely in a few months.

C.P.R. PASSENGER TRAIN WRECKED NEAR BONAR LAW

Passengers Were Brought to Peterboro on Early Morning Train—Several Coaches Wrecked—Passengers Escaped With a Few Bruises.

Several passenger cars on the six o'clock train from Montreal were almost totally demolished this morning when they were derailed two miles east of Bonar Law at 5.15 a.m. A passenger who was aboard the train, said that at the time of the wreck he was sitting in he smoker of one of the cars when suddenly the car began to list from one side to another. He, with his three fellow passengers, endeavoured to regain their balance when the car turned over to one side. He climbed out and found the engine had left the train and gone several yards ahead of the "dead head," or baggage car, the cars were all turned, and the passengers in various stages of dishevel clamouring through windows and doors.

Cause Unknown.

The cause of the accident is not definitely known, but believed to have been due to a broken rail at the curve. How the engine escaped derailment or destruction is a mystery.

Narrow Escape.

According to another passenger, had the accident occurred 30 or 40 yards before, the entire train would have been thrown thirty feet into the river. As it was, had the cars not rested upon the embankment, they would have gone into a deep ditch and been more seriously injured.

He said that when the passengers finally got out they found the engine had gone ahead with such speed that the "dead head" following was carried 100 yards on the ties, the observation car which followed was across the track and the four cars following toppled at an angle of 45 degrees against the embankment. The last, or observation car, was practically straight.

No Serious Damage.

The passengers and employees had a miraculous escape, only the conductor sustaining injuries to any extent. His collar bone was broken, a brakesman's ribs were also broken. One returned soldier, who was thrown through a window, was bruised and cut slightly.

The passengers, including many women, remained cool and calm. They were brought to Peterborough by a special train at 8.20 this morning none the worse for their narrow escape and experiences.

The Coming Christmas With a Pathephone

Increase Your Holiday Pleasure Listening to the Wonderful Pathe Records.

You will find the buying of a Pathephone a most enjoyable experience, because the Pathe dealer's every endeavor is to make you know this phonograph as thoroughly as he himself knows it. He will also put you in possession of facts you ought to know; facts about the wonderful invention and the degree of skill with which the Pathephones are designed, built and finished.

Pathephones, Pathe Records and Pathe Moving Picture Films are considered throughout Europe and America ,to be one of the greatest achievements of to-day.

Twenty-five years ago the Pathe Bros. commenced in France what is known the world over, "The Famous Pathe Phones and Pathe Records."

When you speak of Pathe there seems to be just that little extra in all these products that the others haven't got, even t the Pathe Moving Picture Films. When you are looking at one of these Pathe pictures, you can depend on it you are looking at the best. Even from these ordinary black and white pictures to the natural coloured pictures of today you will readily understand why Pathe excels.

PATHE RECORDS.

Even to the departments of their manufacture, Pathe Bros. have been offered hundreds of thousands of dollars by other firms making phonographs to make records for them, as they considered that the Pathe method of quality of record to be the best, of which the Pathe people hold the secret of the patents of this famous record.

PATHEPHONE.

In Great Britain and the Continent Pathephones are considered the first and last in phonograph achievement. The Pathephone business was so great that it was impossible for them to consider the American market for their produce at all. But since the war the commercial world has been entirely upset and unsettled, Europe allowing the Pathe people to introduce their famous line in the United States and Canada. Thus you have the privilege of hearing and seeing this famous French invention at your door.

Call in to the Pathe recital room at any time and our demonstrator will be pleased to demonstrate these machines and records. Notice the clearness and the beauty of tonal quality from the finest violin selections to the 84-piece French band selection; also hear Murafore, Cavalieri, Anna Fitzier, Maria Narelle, note John McCormack and others.

Peterboro Merchants Anticipate a Shortage in Staple Articles, Also Regular Christmas Lines

There is a Shortage in Almost Every Line and Present Stocks Cannot Be Replaced—Shop Early is the Timely Advice of More Than One Local Merchant.

A TRIP AROUND THE STORES

Shop early is the advice of the merchants of Peterboro, as already the bulk of the Christmas stock is on view and will probably be picked up early.

The merchants expect to be short of new stock to replace what is now on hand.

Notwithstanding the cramped trade conditions, the stores have some complete stocks of goods on hand and the Dominion and United Stores have been seached for novelties, toys and practical goods for the Christmas shopper to replace the foreign goods on sale in previous years.

MANY SHORTAGES

In every line there appears to be a shortage. Linen is practically off the market, as all the flax has been used in the manufacture of airplane wings. The merchants expect it will be many years before the former standard gift of a linen handkerchief can be made or any other linen goods. Any woollen goods on sale were bought and carried over from last year. Fortunately there is a pretty good variety at present in the stores, but when the present stock is exhausted it is doubtful if more will be procurable for some time, as such factories as the Penmans and Watsons have withdrawn from the market.

SILKS SCARCE

Swiss and French silks are scarce, but have been replaced by some splendid specimens of fibre silk from the States. Large stocks of ties, scarfs, etc., in Swiss and French silks, however were bought up by the Peterboro merchants before the shortage of every variety and style, and that is surprising considering the shortage.

TOY EMBARGO

Due to the toy embargo placed by the Government, the merchants are short of all mechanical toys which formerly came solely from our neighbors. Richard Hall and Son resorted to obtaining a special permit from the Government of toys which will be delivered to-day. When the present doll supply runs out, the kiddies whose parents did not shop early will have to go without their Christmas doll, as there is no replenishing the present stock. What dolls are on hand are Canadian and United States manufacture.

NOVELTIES PLENTIFUL

In every dry goods and fancy goods store novelties are more plentiful and of wider variety than ever before, added to the beautiful imported lingerie on sale, the staffs in some of the stores have taxed their ingenuity to the utmost to obtain splendid reproductions of the latest fads on sale in New York and Paris. The old style of sofa cushions have been replaced in the extensive Christmas stocks by new ones of every style and shape to suit the new furniture.

Furniture stands alone in being plentiful for such gifts as trays, desks, chairs, etc., can be sold without fear the stock will be exhausted. The firms in Canada are turning out an aditional supply for any demand.

County Council Gives $5,000 as Grant to Navy League

Had No Available Money Except $5,000 Balance for the Patriotic Fund, Which They Diverted—Navy League Needed Assistance, Patriotic Fund Well Supplied.

THE ONLY WAY

The County Council has decided to make a grant of $5,000 to the Navy League, and to submit the next year's Council the appeals for assistance from the Y.M.C.A., Knights of Columbus and Salvation Army for the promotion of their welfare work for the soldiers. Indirectly the Navy League, and to submit to next year's Army's deputation for the inspiration that enabled the Council to overcome a technical, legal obstacle that threatened to preclude the passing of any grant at the session which ended to-day. Approaching the end of the year, the Council was reduced to the financial straits which seem to be chronic with their friends, the City Fathers.

In the appropriations which they had made early in the year for the demands they anticipated, there was no provision for the patriotic grants that were sought this week. Nor was there a contingent fund to draw upon. Furthermore, it was stated that they could not legally borrow money for these purposes and transfer the payment to the incoming Council. Warden Anderson and his colleagues were in a quandary, for they had indicated a desire to make a substantial grant to the Navy League even before the local branch had told them of the needs of the merchant sailors and their dependants.

Then some one recalled Ald. Dobbin's statement that the Patriotic Fund had a reserve account that would meet its obligations until the Government assumed them next year. He had accompanied the Salvation Army deputation and had pointed out that in all probability there would be no further appeals from the Patriotic Fund. Working from these premises, the county's Finance Committee concluded that if they were to make a grant to the Navy League, the only available money was two months' instalments of their contribution to the Patriotic Fund. In other words, it was proposed that they divert this $5,000 from the Patriotic Fund to the Navy League. On Mr. Dobbin's assurance, the Patriotic Fund was well supplied with money, and Judge Huycke had emphasized the fact that King George himself had appealed for generous contributions for the Merchant Marine. It was not a case of robbing the dependants of the soldiers to help the dependants of the merchantmen who had given their lives in the auxiliary war service. The Council had been authoritatively informed that the Patriotic Fund had piled up a reserve to be used under the conditions which, they had foreseen, would accompany the return of peace. For that reason, the Council was satisfied that they were not creating any hardship for the dependants of the soldiers.

Having passed that stage they requested their solicitor, Mr. E. A. Peck, to examine their connection with the Patriotic Fund, and were informed that there was nothing in their by-law to prevent them from transferring the $5,000 from the Patriotic Fund to the Navy League. Under the exigencies and restrictions that at once pressed and hampered them it was the only way, the only loosening of the financial Gordian knot.

Monaghan Township Doctor's Fee Was Bag of Potatoes

Early History of Cobourg and Northumberland Counties—A Bear Hunt With Pitchforks.

In the early days in Northumberland, when the county embraced as far north as there were any settlers, doctors were few and home nursing coupled with calling in some good mother from the community to give advice, was the order of the day. There were, however, serious cases of accident when a settler would drive away miles to secure the services of a physician. One such occurred in Monaghan, when only a sparse settlement existed where is now the thriving city of Peterboro, but where a physician by the name of McNab had located. A farmer in Monaghan, it is told, fell from a loft and sustained serious injuries and this doctor was sent for and made three trips of a number of miles over roads that were not of the best. Later when the man was better he asked the doctor for the bill and the latter replied, "O bring me a bag of potatoes when you come to town."

A BEAR HUNT WITH PITCHFORKS.

There is a story told of a bear hunt in that township that was certainly thrilling, while it lasted, although the enemy when brought to bay was anything but formidable. In those days umbrellas were something of a novelty and the only kind in use was of an immense type, large enough to shelter the entire family. A settler in the northern township owned one of these umbrellas, the handle of which was a couple of inches in diameter, and which would adequately shelter several people. He and his wife drove to town one stormy day and upon returning left the umbrella outside the door to dry off, forgetting to take it in and a freshening wind carried it some little distance away from the door. The Monaghan farmer was awakened by a thumping noise and going to the window to investigate, saw in the semi-darkness a big black object gliding cautiously over the ground at the rear of the house. A black bear having been seen a few days before on a neighboring farm, he concluded the same thief was after his pigs or his grain. While he kept his eye on the big animal in the field at the rear of the house, his son and hired man left by a circuitous route to rouse the neighbors and initiate a bear hunting party. Quite a company gathered and soon encircled the field. They were armed with guns, pitchforks and other weapons. Forming an attack with strategic precision they watched for some few minutes with all the thrills of actual warfare the huge animal that of a sudden burst of wind would suddenly rise up on its haunches and move a few feet forward and then settle down again as if to content to spend the remainder of the night there. At last one courageous man with his trusty rifle in hand advanced stealthily to the attack with the stipulation that if his shot did not settle King Bruin, the rest were to rush to the rescue. The shot pierced the big black object through and through, but instead of being able to serve up bear steak for breakfast the farmer carried back to his home a badly riddled umbrella, which had been the innocent cause of all the trouble.

TWO OTHER BEAR STORIES.

But all the bear stories of those days were not fictitious and a farmer who resided a little to the west of this one lost a fine pig, which he estimated weighed one hundred pounds. Again a chase was instituted and in the morning they found the pig lying on the ground with no marks on its body. They surmised that Bruin had walked that distance on its hind legs carrying the pigs in its front paws as if it were a baby and had smothered it to death. By keeping a stealthy watch near the place they succeeded in despatching the bear as he was returning for his feed of pork. Bears having committed depredations in another man's oatfield he fixed himself a seat in the boughs of a neighboring tree and proceeded to keep watch. It was a moonlight night and a bear soon appeared and proceeded to help himself to his evening meal. The farmer, whose name was McLaughlin, shot and disabled Bruin, but not so badly that he got away into the woods. Accompanied by his brother, armed only with an axe, he instigated a hunt the following morning. They took different routes and the brother came upon the wounded animal. He raised his axe to aim a blow at it, when he stumbled and fell, and the wounded animal attacked him. Fortunately Mr. McLaughlin was near at hand and shot the bear. The other man, however, carried the marks which he received in the encounter to his dying day.

WHEN THE THISTLE FIRST APPEARED.

An old resident tells of going when in his teens, and probably along in the early thirties, to the Morrison farm in Victoria county, purely out of curiosity to see the first thistle. The Morrison boys, he told, were digging it up by the roots for its bad reputation had preceded it and they were afraid of the pest. That year, too, the wheat was badly affected by smut and as a consequence many farmer's flour was blacker than any war bread seen the past year in Canada.

100 BLAZING LOG HEAPS.

Speaking of the early logging bees an old settler told that when the sun went down on the one day's activities there were one hundred blazing log heaps. Think of the fuel squandered and how far the proceeds of one logging bee would go in relieving the present fuel shortage in any community. After a sumptuous supper upon this occasion all adjourned to the barn which was lighted with tallow candles. The master of ceremonies, like old King Cole had provided fiddlers three. Hot tea, doughnuts and pumpkin pie were passed at intervals and the young people and some of the older ones danced the night away, winding up with Sir Roger de Coverly just as the sun was beginning to redden with its glow the eastern sky.

BOARDING ROUND.

The school teachers in those days "boarded round" passing as many weeks in a home as there were children attending the school and sometimes in the rate of the number of subjects that a child took up. Thus one old settler tells that he and his brother were the only two in their school who studied geography and grammar. As a consequence of aspiring after higher learning than the other neighbor families who thought the three R's quite all that was necessary, his people had to keep the teacher for a longer period. His father being a member of the Church of England and the pedagogue a Scotchman, some rare ecclesiastical discussions took place in their home, to which the children listened with awe.

TORONTO FAT STOCK SHOW

The entries which have just closed for The Toronto Fat Stock Show to be held at the Union Stock Yards, December 5th and 6th, indicate a splendid display of finished live stock. This dispite the fact that the management have discontinued the offering of premiums for female cattle in the hope that animals suitable for breeding purposes will be kept on the farm for that purpose. It will be well worth any one' time to take in this show and also to be present at the Auction Sale of Prize winners which is attended by buyers from all over America.

Thanksgiving Services at Murray Street Baptist Church

The plans for the Thanksgiving services at Murray Baptist Church tomorrow are such as will insure a most memorable day. The auditorium is a picture of Patriotic festivity. The committee of ladies who have had this work in hand have every reason to be gratified with the effect produced.

Rev. J. R. Webb will preach morning and evening. The morning subject being "Our Thanksgiving Words to the Lord of Hosts," and in the evening he will speak on "Our Thanksgiving Deeds to the Returned Soldiers."

It is specally requested by the S. S. superintendent that every pupil of the Sunday school shall be with their parents in the pews at the morning service. The families who have had members overseas are all expected to be present both morning and evening.

The program of music by the choir of forty voices under the leadership of Mr. Asa Huycke appears in another column and is most attractive.

This church records the fact that one tenth of those who went overseas laid down their lives for the Empire. This is a matter for which the church may be justly proud, while in these days of rejoicing the trial for those who are left to mourn is greater than ever.

MILK

Both Food and Drink

Milk is not merely a delicious beverage. It's a food.

Nature combines in milk all the food elements your body needs. Some produce bone and muscle. Some rebuild it. And some create energy. And they are carefully balanced. So that you get the right proportions.

Professor Rosenau of Harvard says you would have to buy and prepare ¾ pound of beef, or 8 eggs, or 2 pounds of chicken or codfish, to get the nourishment contained in a single quart of milk. Milk is a concentrated food, you see.

EAT LESS—DRINK MORE MILK

Fresh milk is the ideal food for men and women who work with muscle or with brain—people who are doers. Milk drinkers are always temperate.

Milk drinkers seldom over-eat. They keep their bodies in fine physical trim. Their efficiency is 100 per cent. every day. They are ready for emergencies.

Then heed the advice of great food specialists. Dr. J. H. Kellogg says: "Most people will find that they can reduce their daily rations by one-third, sometimes one-half, without any inconvenience whatever."

FOR YOUNG AND OLD ALIKE

For the growing child, for the young man and woman, and for the maturer years, milk is a needed food.

Drink it slowly—eat it. That insures complete digestion. Consider milk in the place of the heavier, slowly digestible foods. Begin to-day to drink more milk. Teach every member of the family to know its value.

KILLED WHILE AIDING A FALLEN SOLDIER

Information Concerning Death of Peterboro Soldier.

Mrs. James Lewis, 579 Aylmer street, has received the following letter concerning her son Arthur, who was killed in action some time ago:

France, October 16, 1918.

Dear Mrs. Lewis,—Doubtless you will have received many letters already from Art's comrades, although I realize how futile any attempt on my part to mitigate your sorrow must be. I feel that for you to know that your son played the man at all times, ever fearlessly doing his duty, would mellow your sorrow with intense pride in having reared such a boy. As I came to know Art better I began to have an ever-growing feeling of admiration and love for his cheery, generous nature. His light-hearted disposition found expression in many a cheery song or joke and served to enliven many a long, tedious march. He was generous almost to a fault. Anything Art had he shared, sometimes to the extent of keeping nothing for himself.

More gratifying still was the uprightness of his life. Art lived the absolutely clean, Christian life during the time I knew him. In every sense his life, although short, was a success. He always did his share to brighten the lives of and help along his comrades, in the end even dying whilst helping his maimed fellowmen from the midst of the fighting to safety, so that some day other mothers would be able to welcome their sons home. His was a life of service, the perfect Christian life, a life to be proud of. Do not pity him. Rather pray God to mitigate the pain of your great bereavement so that you may not grieve for him unduly, as your son would not wish you to do, but rather be proud of him as you have every right to be.

You have my deepest and most sincere sympathy in your loss, also Mr. Lewis, and Art's brother and sister. Believe me,

Most sincerely yours,
PTE. W. A. TUCKER.

Officers Elected for Knox Church Bible Class

The members of the A. S. K. Bible class of Knox church held their annual business meeting and banquet on Tuesday evening, Nov. 26th, at which the following officers were appointed:

Hon. President—Rev. J. A. McKenzie.
President—G. Cunningham.
Vice-President—F. Sheppard.
Teacher—A. McKenzie.
Secretary—E. Jackson.
Treasurer—Wm. Constable.
Social Committee Convenor — G. Murduff.
Sick and Visiting Committee Convenor—D. Morden.
Lookout Committee Convenor— Wm. Constable.

Work Reviewed.

After reviewing the work for the last year and discussing plans for 1919 and good wishes passed among the members Mr. H. Henry, the retiring president to whom the success of the organization for the past year is largely due, that by his untiring efforts the class has grown and prospered despite war conditions, was unanimously chosen chairman of the evening. The chairman here paid a tribute to the members on active service. Fifty have enlisted and the majority of them are now in France and hoped they would return to us in the near future and that they would come home with larger vision and broader outlook and by reason of this the responsibility of our class would be great. After the business of the evening was concluded the boys were invited to a banquet given by the Volunteer Bible Class, to which ample justice was done. The officers were then called upon in turn and made resolutions for the coming year. A hearty vote of thanks to the ladies for their kindness and generosity in providing the banquet was moved by G. Cunningham and seconded by F. Sheppard. This was suitably replied to by the teacher of the Volunteer Bible Class, Mrs. McKenzie. After giving three cheers for the chairman, the meeting was brought to a close by singing the National Anthem.

Dominion Express Foreign Cheques are accepted by Field Cashiers and Paymasters in France for their full face value. There is no better way send money to the boys in the trenches.

Fruit and vegetables may be dried in wire trays in the oven, or suspended over the stove.

County Roads Question to be Discussed at Meeting of Farmers in Norwood

The following is a letter on the Good Roads question from E. N. McDonald, chairman "pro tem." of the East Peterboro Farmers' Association, to the Norwood Register:

I have been much interested in the discussion in your paper re county roads, under the present system of the Province of Ontario, and as you have invited discussion on this system through your columns, I am going to take advantage of the invitation.

As announced some time ago we intend holding a mass meeting in the town hall in Norwood, some time soon. We have also decided to invite Messrs. S. L. Squire and E. M. Elliott to address us on this subject.

We hear some say that either East Peterboro must be wrong and all the rest of the province right, or vice versa. I can hardly agree with this view point. East Peterboro is situated a little differently to most of the other counties, and a county road system satisfactory to Hastings county, perhaps, would not be satisfactory to East Peterboro. Hastings is a long county and a road running from Belleville to Maynooth does service to a large number of ratepayers, whereas a road running from Peterboro to Chandos would give service to very few agriculturists, but would link up with the pleasure resorts and hunting grounds of the north country.

As a rule I think that the ratepayers of Peterboro county are anxious for some scheme whereby they may have better roads. We are not afraid of the cost, but we are anxious that we may get as much mileage of good roads for the money expended as it is possible for us to get.

You are quite right in stating that the question is bigger than politics, and I will go a step farther and say that we should be able to get as much as any county without any political wire pulling. This kind of obtaining should be a thing of the past, and Peterboro county has an equal right with any other county to the best that is going.

The masses have commenced to think for themselves, and it seems to me that a very satisfactory way to settle this would be to put it to a vote of the ratepayers and let their decision stand.

No doubt our Reeves, especially in the townships, do not feel like losing their office by declaring themselves either for or against, and for one I do not consider that they should, unless they so desire.

In conclusion, I would urge everyone to try and hear Mr. Elliott and Mr. Squire when they come to Norwood. Either of these men should be able to give us the information we want and if the county council refer the verdict to the people they will be able to sleep sounder and quit wearing that troubled look. "Both are important in public life."

"How Wilhelm Held Out" With Palace Storerooms Full of Food While People Starved

AMSTERDAM. — "How Wilhelm Held Out" is the title of an article in the Frankfort Volks Stimme by Wilhelm Carle, a Socialist, who discovered the hoards of provisions which the one-time Emperor had in his Berlin palace.

"The quantity," the writer says, "exceeded all expectations. In large, white tiled rooms was everything—literally everything—one can imagine in foodstuffs. It is inconceivable that after four years of war such huge quantities could be hoarded. There were meat and game in cold storage, salted provisions in large cases, white meal in sacks piled to the roof, thousands of eggs, gigantic boxes filled with tea, coffee, chocolate, lard, jelly and jam, hundreds of sugar loaves and endless stacks of peas, beans, dried fruits and biscuits. Their value amounts to several hundred thousand marks.

"These hoarded foodstuffs could not be better used than to be preserved as a lasting memorial to our posterity, which should see how, while millions in Germany starved, those elected by the grace of God held out."

DECIDED IN LONDON.

LONDON, Nov. 30.—The actual procedure to be followed in dealing with the surrender of the ex-Emperor will be decided in London. Premier Clemenceau and Marshal Foch will arrive Sunday.

THE FRENCH LEADERS AS SEEN BY A COMRADE

Marshal Foch and General Petain Described by General Malleterre Wounded at the Marne.

Marshal Foch and Marshal Petain, the two French commanders, are described at first hand in a recent issue of Les Annales by one of their former colleagues at the National Ecole de Guerre, General Malleterre, who was wounded at the first battle of the Marne in September, 1914. Professional association gave General Malleterre the privilege of knowing both men intimately long before their names began to fill the headlines.

"For more than a year," he writes, "the Germans have been shouting 'Hindenburg and Ludendorff!' Long before this time we ought to have been able to reply, 'Foch and Petain!' There is no use in bringing up the mistakes of yesterday. Too much time was undoubtedly spent in driving home the need of a consolidated command, under the direction of a leader satisfactory to every army, and while this office was created at an hour fraught with greater peril to the Allies than any since the Marne, it came by no means too late.

"There was obviously some difficulty in choosing between Foch and Petain. The war assets of Foch, the elder man, include the Marne, the Yser, and the recent Italian expedition. Petain, on the other hand, was in command at Verdun. The two leaders have always been in complete accord, and while one has planned the battle the other has seen to it that the commands were carried out. Petain, the tactician, Foch, the strategist—so it runs, one being the complement of the other.

"Their ability is recognized everywhere, for they tower above all their peers. With absolute confidence Generals of the highest rank and consummate experience obey their commands—such Generals, for example, as Castelnau, the defender and saviour of the eastern French front in 1914, himself an eligible candidate for the high command; Fayolle, the victor of the Somme; Gouraud, the one-armed hero of the Dardanelles: Haig, who would have served under the man in supreme command much sooner if England had understood the conditions, and lastly, Pershing, the American General, who has voluntarily placed himself under the orders of Foch.

"It gives me no little pride to have been associated with Foch and Petain during the years of my professorship at the Ecole de Guerre.

"Foch was Professor of General Tactics and Strategy at the Ecole de Guerre, taking the position left vacant by General Bonnal. He was one of that series of great teachers who are the pride of the ecole—Cardot, Maillard, Langlois, Niox, Bonnal, all men who had a hand in training the military leaders of to-morrow. Foch's teaching was practical rather than theoretical. He was not a theorist nor a dogmatist; his judgment was in striking evidence. His lectures varied in length, and he would cut the instruction short if he found he was not getting the desired results; yet he would captivate his pupils by his unexpected and striking explanations, both in the lecture room and on the drill ground. From his magic brain the glean of genius flashed forth at unlooked-for moments.

"The artillery was his chosen branch of the service, but while he was devoted to it, he was by no means a narrow specialist. His familiarity with the great events of history was a source from which he drew many a timely lesson. He was a Napoleonist, but never a rabid one. In 1910, at the time of his taking over the directorship of the Ecole de Guerre, he made an effort to check the current of sensational prejudice which was then sweeping the officers away from the centre of the advanced military studies, including so many of those "student-marshals," as we called them at the time, who were to play a disastrous part in the first few weeks of the war.

"From the commond of the 8th Army Corps at Bourges Foch had only recently been transferred to the command of the 20th Corps at Nancy when the war broke out. His career since that time is a matter of common knowledge. He had hardly gone through the battle of the Grand Couronne when he was called to the command of a new army, the Ninth, which Joffre formed in the rear of the forces retreating from the Ardennes. It was this new Ninth Army which, in the interval between the 7th and 10th of September, 1914, withstood the stock of von Hausen's army, hurled like a catapult against our centre to force an opening, while Kluck was proceeding with his envelopment according to German military method. The Ninth Army gave way under the shock of von Hausen's army, hurled and von Bulow were having difficulty in maintaining their lines and he realized that von Hausen's thorough attack indicated that things were not going any too well with the Germans. In the thick of the battle he resorted to a bold manoeuvre and his adversary was completely overthrown.

"The next thing we knew, Foch was on the banks of the Yser, and in the vicinity of Ypres in the north, where the German Staff sought to repair their defeat at the Marne and their blunder in not occupying Dunkirk, Calais and Boulogne as soon as the war started. The little town of Cassel will never forget the General with his unfading smile as he pitted his optimism and French buoyancy against the discouragement of the English.

"You hold the honour of England in your hands, Marshal!"

"That was the remark addressed to Foch on the 31st of October, 1914, and it might also appear a prophecy of the German defeat. For that time he had won the entire confidence and esteem of the English and he remained with them more as a counselor than as a commander until November, 1916. Today the association is renewed once more and at an hour as critical as that of the Yser he may well think of Nelson's famous saying: 'England expects every man to do his duty.'

"Under the far-seeing direction of Foch, Petain is master of the battle. A superior infantry leader, his name is still a byword at the Ecole de Guerre for the clearness of his instruction, his charges to his men, and his remarkable knowledge of the battle ground. Without protest in 1911 he was calmly prepared to retire as a Colonel.

"He commanded only one brigade at Charleroi, but, in the light of combat, a man of his stamp cannot remain unknown long. In three months Petain had risen to the command of a corps, and then having been given the command of an army a short time afterward he won a victory at Arras. It was not through any fault of his that the battles of Arois, in May, 1915, did not open a breach in the German lines.

"After all has been said, however, Verdun will always be remembered as the place where Petain showed what stuff was in him—his old energy and an iron will superior to all accidents of fortune. There he proved himself the complete warrior.

"His stonelike expression frequently relaxes into a rather whimsical smile, and on occasion, he can speak with a warmth of eloquence which, devoid of all fine phrasing, nevertheless carries his every word straight to the heart. His poilus adore him despite his uncompromising firmness; he is fair in his judgments and he knows just how to mingle with his men. By his mere presence and tact he calmed all the agitation which followed the offensive of April, 1917, the causes of which are well known today and could easily be guessed then.

"In the terrible battle which is now raging and on which the safety of the country and the world hinges, we feel certain that, whatever surprise Hindenburg and Ludendorff may have in store for us, thanks to the Russian betrayal, Foch and Petain will surely triumph in the end, not alone because they are a match for their adversaries, but also because they symbolize the spirit of France, which demands nothing short of a victory over Germany!"

THE QUESTION OF READJUSTMENT

A sharp drop in prices and wages, without a business crisis resulting, is predicted in an article entitled "When Prices Drop," published by the National Bank of Commerce in New York and written by B. M. Anderson, Jr., nationally known as an economist and writer on commercial subjects. In a foreword James S. Alexander, president of the bank, calls for public planning to meet present problems of commerce. In part, Mr. Anderson says:

"A sharp drop in commodity prices will follow the end of the war, but we will have no crisis. Wages will also drop, but fair play on the part of both capital and labour will keep this from resulting in industrial turmoil.

"This continuance of our business activity can be confidently counted upon only if we avoid the mistakes into which war excitement and their distortions of judgment may lead us. If we are generous to our Allies and just to our enemies the whole world can revive together, and the prosperity of the United States will be assured.

"The belief that there will be a drastic drop in prices is based on obvious conditions. With a vast volume of labour rapidly being discharged from munition factories the world over to resume the production of normal supplies; with steel, copper, coal, shipping and other essentials released; with 50,000,000 soldiers returning to farms and factories, there will be an immense increase in the volume of goods available for civilian consumption. Prices should fall, even before this actual transformation is carried far, because wholesale markets commonly forecast impending changes.

"Under ordinary conditions this would mean a business crisis with widespread bankruptcy. Yet, to take a historical precedent, the veritable collapse of prices in the North, following the Civil War, produced no such crisis.

"Foresight saved the business men of 1865. Foresight will save the business men of to-day. The credit situation is safer than at the end of the Civil War.

"There will be no crisis, but can there be a real industrial activity in the United States? To answer this question we must consider six principal points:

(a) The physical needs of Europe today.

(b) The financial and credit resources of Europe.

(c) The United States as the main source of loanable capital.

(d) The policy of our Federal Government, States and municipalities in after-the-war expenditures.

(e) The relations of labour and capital.

(f) Our commercial policy toward both our Allies and our foes."

Referring to the great needs of Europe, Mr. Anderson asks whether a people which must pay enormous taxes merely to meet interest on a war debt can find funds to buy anything. He thinks that it can.

"With present taxing methods," he says, "it is highly probable that the heavier proportion of the burden will fall on the rich rather than on the poor, although this has not been true of war debts of the past. If scientifically managed this process need not involve bankruptcy or leave the business of the countries without a margin for borrowing.

"Some of the weaker countries with large indebtedness to stronger allies may find difficulty in meeting interest charges at the end of the war. To meet this situation and to obtain credit to get the supplies necessary for industrial rehabilitation, it may be necessary for them to resort to some such financial expedients as we are accustomed to in connection with bankrupt railroads—they may find it necessary to issue 'receivers' certificates,' new credit instruments which take precedence over all previous debts.

"We may expect in most of the countries of Europe a general pooling of credit resources looking toward the provision of credit for necessary industries.

"From what countries can the new capital now come? The one great source must be the United States themselves. Japan can lend to some extent, as shown by her loans during the war to Great Britain, Russia, France and China, totaling over $900,000,000. Certain of the South American countries may be able to provide some credits. But the main reliance must be on us.

"We should, however, face the possibility that the restoration of European credit with a large volume of demand for our steel, machinery, raw materials and manufacturers, may not immediately materialize. The probability is not great but it should be provided against.

"Students of the 'business cycle'—the alternation of prosperity, crisis, depression and prosperity again—have proposed that the fluctuations should be lessened by a concentration of Government purchases in the period of depression and by withdrawal of the Government from the markets as far as possible through the period of greatest activity when prices are highest and labour is working overtime.

"The motion is applicable at the present time. The Federal Government, States and municipalities should have ready a programme of expenditures, building and construction, which they can put into effect if unemployment appears. The very knowledge that such a resource is held in reserve would in itself give a solid basis of confidence to business and would tend to prevent depression and unemployment.

"We must make sure that our Allies are convinced of our intention to be fair to them. They must not fear that we have any disposition to crowd them out of the markets of the world. Unless they can produce and can sell their products, they cannot buy from us nor can they pay the interest on their indebtedness to us.

"Above all, there must be no scramble for gold after the war. The rest of the world must know that as it needs gold and is willing to pay for it, it can get it from us. We must have a free gold market and must put no legal obstacles in the way of free flow of gold. If bankers all over the world should become frightened as to the prospects of gold, they would restrict credits, and a real crisis would come. There is plenty of gold to finance the after-the-war reconstruction if it is intelligently used. Our Federal Reserve system, moreover, should enable us to get along after the war with comfort with even less gold than we had before the war.

"Even Germany must be rehabilitated—and this thought springs from no love for Germany and from no desire to mitigate the punishment which is her due. But it is not to the interest of the rest of the world, nor is it necessary to the vindication of outraged justice, that this punishment should take the form of rendering Germany economically helpless. We will impose upon her indemnities, which will tax the efforts of her people for a generation to repay. But if we wish her to pay those indemnities, we must set her to work again.

"The war will have been fought in vain if it forces the free enterprise of England, France and the United States to tie themselves to the government's apron strings in the manner in which German enterprise before the war was tied. Commerce fairly carried on makes for peace, not war. It is only when commerce, organized on a vast scale, becomes the tool of designated diplomatic and militaristic governments, that it becomes a menace to the world's peace."—American Metal Market, Nov. 19.

STEAM COAL UNDER CONTROL, CONTROL.

Under an order issued by the United States Fuel Administration November 16, and made effective at once, prices of so-called "steam sizes" of anthracite coal will not be allowed to rise to the level of domestic sizes of anthracite. The order specifically fixes the maximum price of No. 1 buckwheat and other sizes of anthracite coal smaller than "pea." It provides that the maximum price for these grades shall not be in excess of the maximum for "pea" coal, less 50 cents a gross ton of 2,240 pounds.

A FLEMISH FAIRY TALE

(By Lieutenant J. B. Morton.)

Some days ago, in one of the places of Flanders recently liberated, a school for young children re-opened. The schoolmistress had written a few words of welcome to them on the blackboard, and when they had taken their places, she told them that she intended to spend the time allotted for the lesson of the morning in telling them a fairy-tale. She knew that children's earliest memories are bound up with things they heard in stories, and she had something which she wanted them to remember.

This is the story she told to her class:

Once upon a time there was a kingdom at peace with itself and with all the world. It was a small kingdom, but a very old one. Hundreds of years old. Very long ago, before you and I were born, before the time of our great-great-grandfathers, this small kingdom held a high position in the world, and when that position was lost, there still remained a great pride among the people, for they knew that they came down into history from a splendid ancestry. They were at peace and quite contented in their fields and market-places. Travellers used to come from distant places to wonder at the dignity of their old buildings, and the quiet way of their lives.

Now there was not far away a very wicked King. At his birth a curse had been woven into his soul, so that he could never be at rest, but was always greedy for power and land. He looked at the little kingdom, which was only 170 miles long and hardly over a hundred miles broad, and he smiled; and beyond he saw another people. They had more lands, and there were more of them; and he still smiled. And then, one day, he came with his soldiers and his guns into the peaceful fields and villages. He came like some terrible dragon, breathing fire, and his voice was thunder, so that the old buildings were burnt and ruined, and the fields all broken up, and the only thing that remained to the little kingdom was the pride that had passed to them from their splendid ancestry.

Terrible things were done to mothers, and to small children, smaller and weaker than any of you. Their fathers were torn away from them. Their home were destroyed, and no flowers grew in their gardens any more.

In their agony, they looked round for deliverance, and before they could open their lips to cry out for help, there came from over the seat a great host of men, the descendants of a race of fighters. For four long years these men warred against the dragon and the powers of evil, until at length deliverance came.

One by one the little Kingdom regained its cities, and the people came back to their homes.

The story is not over yet, children, but hope is strong. When the story is over it may be written perhaps that the little Kingdom lived happily ever after. But one thing will certainly be written all across its history—that it never forgot the chivalry and the valour of the fighters from over the sea.

Why I Chose a Brunswick

FOR years my family has wanted a phonograph. Yet we hesitated. We were on the verge of buying often, but delayed.

We love music. And we value the phonograph for the wealth of world-wide talent it brings to the home.

But frankly, we waited during the last few years, hearing the different phonographs and weighing their different advantages—never quite satisfied.

We felt that sooner or later a better phonograph would come, overcoming all the current handicaps and setting new standards.

We never liked the idea of a phonograph which would play only its own make of records. No one catalogue contained all our favourites. Each line of records offered its attractions.

Another thing we quarrelled with was tone. We were repelled at the strident tones of some. And others seemed to be nearly perfect, but not quite.

I realize that all this sounds like we were too critical and that we set ourselves above the thousands who were content with the phonographs we hesitated to buy.

But we wanted to be sure before we bought, so as to avoid regrets.

In our determination to find the super-phonograph, we came upon the new Brunswick. It was announced as something different, something advanced.

We read and heard of the Brunswick Method of Reproduction, which included the Ultona and an improved amplifier.

And so we investigated. We were somewhat skeptical—but we came away as proud owners.

For here, at last, was our ideal instrument—one which played all records at their best, one with incomparable tone.

This remarkable instrument ended our search. We found in the Brunswick Method of Reproduction all we had looked for and more.

The Ultona is a simple, convenient all-record player, adjustable to any type of record at a turn of a hand. And now we buy our records according to artists rather than make. Thus we overcome the old-time limitations.

I am convinced that the tone of The Brunswick is far superior, and due chiefly to the strict observance of acoustic laws.

The tone amplifier is built entirely of wood, molded so as to give the sound waves full opportunity to develop. No metal is used in this amplifier, so there are no stunted, metallic sounds.

My advice to every music lover is to hear The Brunswick before deciding. One's ear immediately appreciates the difference. And old conceptions of the phonograph are changed.

Brunswick dealers everywhere are delighted to play The New Brunswick for you and to explain its betterments.

FISHERMEN WERE DOUGHTY FIGHTERS, THEY MAINTAINED THE DOVER PATROL

LONDON, Nov. 30. — The Times' naval correspondent states that the Dover barrage has been removed. The stories of the Dover patrol are many and varied, and are nearly all centred on the system of defence set up between the shores of France and England, to guard that entrance to the Channel.

The object was to prevent the entrance of enemy submarines, a difficult business, as it was necessary to keep the passage partially open for merchant shipping traffic. Nets alone were found to be of little use, and in 1917 a barrage of mines and other buoyed obstacles was fixed up and constantly guarded by armed trawlers and drifters.

Enemy destroyers from Belgium ports were always on the watch for an opportunity to attack small vessels and destroy the barrage, so as to permit of submarines getting through.

The plucky and heroic conduct of the crews of these trawlers in a raid made on the night of February 14-15 of this year affords a fine example of the fighting fishermen's devotion to duty and will always stand out as the most gallant episode in the story of the Dover barrage.

On the night in question a flotilla of ten enemy destroyers crep down in the darkness upon the British boats ,and succeeded in sinking eight of them.

It was a deliberate work of destruction, for the drifters' crews were unable to offer much resistance and were practically helpless against their heavily armed antagonists. But the survivors got their small boats out, carrying their wounded with them, and got away from their ships. Two stokers of the Violet Mary actually returned to their boat after the enemy had retired and extinguished the fires in the burning vessel, although the ammunition of their small guns was still exploding on the deck.

Then they got their wounded shipmates on board and took their little ship into harbour. Nearly sixty British seamen were killed in this affair.

In his address to the men on the occasion of the funeral service at Dover, the captain of the patrol comforted them with the promise that before many days the Huns should be paid back in their own coin. And about five weeks later, an Anglo-French destroyer flotilla fulfilled this promise in good measure. The lesson taught by the Botha and her consorts was so severe that a drifter patrol was not harassed again. Now, the surrender of the German navy has enabled the barrage to be removed.

IN MEMORIAM.

Dearest Herbie, thou hast left us,
And thy loss we deeply feel.
But 'tis God, who has bereft us,
He will all our sorrows heal.

Death has robbed us of our loved one,
And has left a vacant chair.
Ah! we miss thy welcome footsteps
And thy face so young and fair.

Free from sorrow, pain and sickness,
Free from all the world of care,
We would not if we could recall thee
Back to fill the vacant chair.

Soon to us will be no more,
Then we'll cross the River Jordan

Huns Were Asleep When the British Troops Broke Through

Turco-German Debacle in Palestine and Syria Described, and General Scarified.

AMSTERDAM, Dec. 2.—The staggering completeness of the Turco-German debacle in Palestine and Syria is shown the German public in an eye-witness story published in the Vossische Zeitung of Berlin. The writer attacks Gen. Liman von Sanders, the German commander in the field of operations, for his "incredible incapacity and negligence." The German General's entire concern, he declared, was for the safety of the General's daughters, who were at a seaside resort. He likewise confirms the British reports of the General's flight, which the British official statement worded:

"The enemy Commander-in-Chief fled far in the rear of his troops."

How the British break-through occurred on September 18 west of the Jordan is described by the writer. The whole of the general headquarters staff were captured in their beds on September 20, and a complete rout followed. East of the Jordan the troops of the Turkish army heard of the break-through too late to retreat successfully. The British fell on their rear and their position became hopeless. Small detachments vainly tried to cut their way through. The roads were blocked and there was no leadership among these enemy forces, while the men were continuously harassed by Australian cavalry and British airmen.

The Turks were rarely seen on the retreat. They either fled in good time or surrendered. Two German detachments, the writer declares, made a last gallant effort to stem the tide, but when this resistance broke down the remnants of the army fled, completely demoralized, to Aleppo, where they added to the confusion prevailing there. An epidemic of influenza completed the havoc. The account continues:

"All the army saved was four guns, the Commander-in-Chief, his daughters and the latter's baggage."

GOT RID OF BRONCHITIS

"I am pleased to say that Dr. Chase's Mr. W. H. Walker, Calmar, Alta., writes. Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine has done much good to myself, wife and children. My eldest girl, seven years old, had bronchitis and the doctor who attended her did not seem to do much good. We got Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine for her and she soon got well. We always keep this medicine in the house now ready for use and find that it soon cures coughs and colds."

United States May Bar Germans Who Leave Home to Escape War Burdens

German Immigration to America Continued Throughout the War —Surprising Statistics.

WASHINGTON, D.C., Dec. 2. — Reports that Germans of the junker class intend when peace is declared to emigrate to America to escape payment of the heavy reparation taxes to be imposed on the German people are leading officials here to consider amending the immigration laws if necessary to prevent Germans evading their obligations by seeking asylum in this country.

Immigration statistics show that nearly 24,000 Germans have been admitted to this country as intending residents since the Lusitania was sunk in May, 1915, and that more than 2,000 have been admitted since the United States entered the war against the central powers.

These figures have proved a shock even to Administration officials, who appear to have been unaware of the fact that the war had interposed so slight a check on German emigration to this country. John Lord O'Brian, assistant to the Attorney-General, when the matter was brought to his attention directed that an investigation be made.

Anthony Caminetti, commissioner General of Immigration, explained that no discrimination against countries is permitted under the immigration law. He added that the interests of the United States had been protected by means of a special examination of German immigrants in addition to the tests imposed by the immigration law.

"More Cattle Less Grain," is the Cry

Europe Will Need Meat, and More and More of It—Raise Cattle.

CHICAGO, Dec. 2.—More cattle, less grain, to avoid a live stock famine.

This sums up the views of B. M. Heide, secretary of the International Live Stock Show here.

"I see a real danger to the nation," he declared in an interview. "Farmers throughout the country have been working to raise grains. They have neglected their cattle. Now they pay their penalty.

"Europe is asking for meat, and will continue to do so for a considerable time. South American cattle raisers have lost stock through foot and mouth diseases and drought. Australia has also suffered from drought. A big demand for beef products is approaching—and how will it be satisfied?

"The only remedy is for farmers at once to turn their energies to raising more cattle. There is ample grain to feed them, and transportation facilities will probably be adequate for all immediate needs.

"The same conditions apply in a lesser degree to the sheep industry.

"Hogs, fortunately, present a better prospect. There appears to be a sufficient supply for several years, and if proper care is exercised there should be no shortage."

Nurse Tells of Red Cross Work

(By United Press.)

WITH THE AMERICAN RED CROSS IN FRANCE, Nov. 9.—(By Mail.)—Miss Julia Stimson formerly Chief Nurse of the American Red Cross, in France and now Chief Nurse, American Expeditionary Forces, recently was invited by Dame McCarthy Chief Matron of the British nursing service to visit the American nurses serving in British hospitals along the front. These nurses, whom there are about 600 were members of the original units assigned to British troops just after American intervention. Many of them are in the casualty clearing stations (which is British for evacuation hospitals) 5 or 6 miles behind the front lines.

Miss Stimson's own account of the trip, taken from her diary, follows:

"Thursday, Arrived at B 7:15 a.m. Taken in motor to house of matron-in-chief. Tea and bath. At 10 o'clock car called for me and I joined Miss McCarthy at her office. Asked to lunch by Gen. Sir Murray Irwin. Had lunch with 4 or 5 officers, who waited on us and themselves from a side table and kept jumping up and down. Pleasant talk about victory that a.m. against picked German divisions including Bradenburgers. Also tales of Gen. Byng, an unusual personality. Charming, with curious ideas about the war. Hasn't gone to theatre nor a concert nor had a smoke since the war began. Says this is his own hair shirt, but he does not expect others to wear one too.

"Left at 2:15. Drove on through Doullens and Albert Albert is nothing but ruins. It has not a single building of any sort left standing. There is not even a single wall. The main street has been repaired so that is was passable, though many shell-holes in it had not yet been filled. The countryside between Albert and Bapaume hasn't a tree on it.

"At C.C.S. (casualy clearing station No. 43, here are 2 American nurses. Both were well and happy and much interested in the wonderful experiences they were having. This and the neighbouring casualty clearing stations had just returned to their old quarters a short time ago. In the interim, the hospitals had been occupied by the Germans. What they left was almost entirely demolished huts, torn-up duck boards and ground full of holes; but repairs had been made and new huts put up and everything was functioning as before. The first thing the British hospital authorities do after getting the hospital in running order is to make the nurses comfortable, or at least as comfortable as possible. Often the tents are arranged on the revetement system, which means that they are sunk in holes below the level of the ground. This usually means puddles and dampness as the price of safety. But they have comfortable wicker chairs with bright cretonne cushions. The rest room is heated and every thing is made as attractive as possible. At first glance it looks a little like a summer veranda and undoubtedly must refresh the nurses when they come in for their "off" time away from the distressing scenes in which they are always taking part.

"No. 19 C.C.S. was reached after a drive through an utter waste without sign of habitation for miles except small scattered camps of soldiers. Conducted between lines of huts along muddy slippery duck-boards. Were each taken to a tiny single hut which had been prepared for us. Bed soon after dinner.

"Saturday. Rain and high winds all night. After breakfast in my hut, taken over hospital by matron. Visited No. 30 C.C.S. next door 17 to 20 sisters and sometimes 700 patients.

"Long ride through wind and rain to No. 3 Canadian C.C.S. Had lunch in sisters' mess in a French house. Everywhere I find the American sisters contented and their work appreciated. At No. 2 stationary hospital, there were five of them. They were very glad to see me and to see that they were not forgotten by the Red Cross. They are reported as doing very good work.

"Sunday. We left soon after 9 and were on the road all the morning. Visited Nos. 47 and 48. At 48 were two American girls. Both happy and enthusiastic. Said they were not going to mention leave for fear it would be given them and something might prevent their coming back. Matron gave a good report of them, said they were adaptable and pleasant. It is interesting to note the difference between the British girls and ours. The British take everything in a calm matter-of-course fashion. They go to tea even if the sky is about to fall. Our girls are so full of enthusiasm that they are prone to neglect themselves in the eagerness to serve and so do not conserve their strength I think it is very good training for them to be with the British. I was interested in Dame McCarthy's selection of nurses for the advanced stations. There are many nurses, she says, whose courage and devotion are most exemplary who simply cannot stand the strain of life at the front. They show it in little ways. The matrons are on the watch for these signs and back they are sent to the rear hospitals if they are found too 'nervy.'

"Reached No. 41 Stationary Hospital at 7:30 p.m. This was an old lunatic asylum. There had been 1,170 wounded brought in that morning. Oly 24 nurses on the staff, including four American nurses. Spent the night in a barred cell with a window into the corridor, once used for observation of dangerous maniacs.

"Monday. At No. 22 C.C.S. the station had arrived only three days before and the sisters had arrived only two hours previously. They were already getting their quarters into shape. The wards were ready for the patients who were expected next day.

"At No. 1 C.C.S. a little farther on, great preparations were being made to

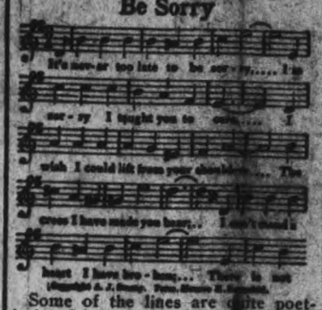
NEW SONG HIT

Odd Love Ballad Called "Its' Never Too Late to Be Sorry"

A new song has just appeared, which bids fair to rival in popularity many of the modern love tales. It is called "I's Never Too Late to be Sorry," and is a tribute to woman's fidelity.

And then follows the music which seems to be really catchy:

It's Never Too Late To Be Sorry



Some of the lines are quite poetical. One verse runs:

"I watched a sweet rose droop and die
For want of rain and wondered why.
The raindrops when at last they came
Could not restore its bloom again.
You're like the rose; I'm like the rain
You wanted me and called in vain."

The various phonographs and music rolls are hurrying the song out as a midwinter novelty.

A CHRISTMAS TREAT FOR SOLDIER KIDDIES

The people of Peterboro are reminded of the appeal of the Great War Veterans' Association for assistance in their annual Christmas treat for the children of Peterboro soldiers. Arrangements are well under way for the big event at which it is expected that hundreds of little folks will be entertained. Although the fighting is over, the fathers of the children who are to be the guests of the Veterans, are still far away. For some of them it will be the fifth Christmas that they have been overseas, and without the entertainment arranged by the Veterans, the Christmas season would be a drab affair for their children. The public is asked to support this splendid movement by donations of cash or of supplies. Donations may be left at The Examiner office, or with any member of the G.W.V.A. committee. The following have already been received:

G. N. Gordon, $50.00.
Great War Veterans, $50.00.
The Examiner, $10.00.

The committee in charge is also anxious to secure information as to the number of children for which to prepare. The mothers of all children who are going to attend, are asked to send in their names to the G.W.V.A. rooms, George street, as soon as possible in order that the Veterans' Committee may be able to complete their plans for the Christmas treat.

THE DAY HAS COME AT LAST.

The wheels of time remorseless turn,
The hour has struck and passed;
For forty years your craven thought,
Prepared the ruin you have wrought
Your gains are not the gains you sought,
And the day has come at last.

You worked and thought incessant,
To start the flame and blast;
You forged a chain of mighty link,
Whose rattling sound would make man shrink,
Whose bind and weight would nations sink,
And the day has come at last.

That mighty arm of brutal force,
Has spent its strength at last;
Your bloody feet through Belgium trailed,
Your bayonet innocents impaled,
Might over right has not prevailed,
And the day has come at last.

Your blatant tongue and bestial hordes,
Made nations stand aghast;
You opened wide the furnace door,
Your fiendish crimes did blood outpoor,
And babes lie on the ocean floor,
And the day has come at last.

And where's the God you used to boast
Who gave you power unsurpassed;
The "right divine" of which you prate,
Who taught you singing "Hymns of Hate",
Has he deserted you of late,
O, the day has come at last.

You prepared a wondrous field,
And therein seeds of war you cast;
Its moisture was the blood that flowed,
In vain your skill and care bestowed
And reaping now that which you sowed,
The harvest's come at last.

The day has come and war has ceased
You're by the world outcast;
Where now the toys you loved the most,
Where now your arrogance and boast,
Where now your murdering, ravaging host,
The day has come at last.

The day has come but not for you,
Upon you the victory's passed;
Before the God you've never known,
Your misdeeds and your violence shown,
Such as you, God must disown,
Then comes your day at last.

Brian Admits Lunching With Mollie Although Ruth Is Home

CHAPTER LIII.

"When did you see Miss King last," Ruth asked, trying not to let too much anxiety appear in her voice.

"Why—when—" Brian stammered, then, as always when he was embarrassed, he commenced to bluster. "Who told you I had seen her at all? People are in great business! Why can't they let a fellow alone?"

"No one told me. You told it yourself."

"Me—I—what do you mean?"

In spite of her jealousy, Ruth's sense of humour made her laugh. He was so genuinely fussed.

"Why to-night when Mrs. Curtis elaborated upon my kindness in letting Miss King enjoy your society to such an extent, she also said that Mollie King had told her that I knew you spent the evening I was away with her. Now, as I had not told Mrs. Curtis anything about it, very evidently Miss King had. And how could she know I knew and," Ruth had been about to add a sarcastic "approved," but she said "didn't object," instead, "unless she had been told?"

"She and Mollie are thick as two peas in a pod," Brian grumbled.

"You haven't answered me, Brian. When did you see her?"

"Oh, a day or two ago."

"At luncheon?"

"Yes. She wanted my advice— as a lawyer—and telephoned me. It was about luncheon time, so I took her to lunch and we talked then. We both had to eat, and it saved her a trip to my office."

"My, what an elaborate explanation!" Ruth said ironically, then at once plunged into another subject. Now she was glad she had not told Brian about her Delmonico luncheon. Had she, he would have blamed her for his not wanting to lunch alone she thought, as he always blamed her for not wanting to dine alone when she was out of town.

Brian, evidently relieved, was willing to follow her lead, and was pleasantly chatty both then and the following morning. He had, to tell the truth, been a little uneasy over Ruth's reception of his having lunched with Mollie. He had not relished her tone when she spoke of his "elaborate explanation." Was she going to be nasty about Mollie? He hoped not! Mollie was such a good little pal! A fellow was so comfortable with her. Of course if Ruth objected, he would have to keep away from her when Ruth was in town. When she was away—that was another matter. He had told Ruth how he stood, on that point.

After he had left for his office Ruth thought very seriously about him and Mollie King. Big tears welled up into her eyes as she thought that perhaps he was sorry he had married her instead of Mollie. The very feminine trick of making herself miserable even before she was sure there was anything to be miserable about, had not passed Ruth by, even though she were a business woman. Business had in no way robbed Ruth of her femininity; nor of her womanly, or her womanish traits. So she pictured herself neglected, forlorn, because of Mollie King.

When she reported for work, Arthur Mandel quickly sensed something wrong. She looked troubled and there was a suspicious redness about her eyes.

"That fellow has been making her unhappy!" he said to himself, and apostrophised him in no uncertain language—in his thoughts. "It's a darn shame," he resumed, yet could not help a feeling of pleasure that it would emphasize his own attitude toward her.

"You are not looking up to the mark," he said to her, "Take it easy to-day. Really, if you like, you may go home at noon. I shall be too busy to do anthing about that western matter, and nothing else is at all pressing."

At first Ruth started to say she didn't care to go home. Then there rushed over a desire to spend the afternoon in her own apartment. She would let Crawford go, and would meet Brian somewhere for dinner. She longed to be alone. So she thanked Mr. Mandel and said if nothing came up between then and the noon hour to cause him to change his mind, she would be glad to go home.

"I have a number of little things yet to do to my apartment. I shall be glad of the chance," she said, then added rather shyly—she had not yet become accustomed to being in the position of employee— "Thank you very much, Mr. Mandel."

"Don't thank me, I'd"—he flushed and caught himself. He had almost said more than he knew to be wise at this time. But he wanted her to owe her happiness to him. "I'd not have allowed you to show up at all to-day had I known you felt badly," he finished in a business-like manner.

"How good he is to me," Ruth said to herself as she went about her day's work. "I don't believe many employers are like him."

She was thinking, as it happened, just exactly what Arthur Mandel intended her to think.

Stomach So Bad

THOUGHT HE WOULD DIE. CAN EAT ANYTHING NOW.

But for indigestion and dyspepsia, many a life might be a pleasant one.

The misery which stomach troubles cause the sufferer knows only too well and any one who has suffered knows what joy it would give to be able to eat three good meals a day and not be punished for it after.

Nearly everything that enters a weak stomach acts as an irritant, and even the little that is eaten causes such torture and is digested so imperfectly that it does little good.

Before you can eat heartily, and not pick and choose your food, you must put your stomach right so that it will manufacture its own digestive ferments.

For forty years now Burdock Blood Bitters has been making weak stomachs strong, and permanently curing severe cases of indigestion and dyspepsia that other remedies were powerless to reach.

Mr. H. L. Fairweather, Cumberland Bay, N. B., writes:—"I was troubled with my stomach for two years, and sometimes was so bad I thought I would die. I tried everything I ever heard tell of, and had medicine from three doctors, but continued to grow worse. One day I read of some wonderful cures made with Burdock Blood Bitters. After taking two bottles I could eat any kind of food without any bad effects and by the time I had taken four I was in perfect health."

Burdock Blood Bitters is manufactured only by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

A New French Thinker.

"Lysis" has written a book; "Lysis" is starting a newspaper. Who is Lysis? Well, Lysis is "quelqu'un qui compte" in Paris these days. Those who read Gustave Herve's "La Victoire" know Lysis. He is a thinker, and a man who does not hesitate to do some plain speaking when necessity requires. It is Lysis of "La Victoire" who is about to start a paper of his own, with the title La Democratie Nouvelle. It will be worth watching, and it would not be surprising if, watching it, one found oneself witnessing the budding and burgeoning of the new, the regenerated France; the France that must evolve, if there is to be a France worthy of the French armies.

Overcame the Difficulty.

A little girl was sent by her mother to the grocer's with a bottle for a quart of vinegar.

"But, mamma," said the little one, "I can't say that word."

"But you must try," said the mother, "for I must have vinegar, and there's no one else to send."

So the little girl went with the bottle and as she reached the counter of the store she pulled the cork out of the bottle with a pop and said to the astonished shopman:

"There! Smell that, and give me a quart!"

France Needs Beef.

Since the outbreak of the war France has suffered a loss of 2,600,000 head of cattle. Moreover, the cattle have greatly lost in weight. Before the war the average weight in meat of slaughtered cattle was from 770 to 880 pounds, where to-day it hardly exceeds 550 or 570 pounds. That is why France needs American beef, for it has not enough to feed its own soldiers and civilians, to say nothing of our men.

The Watchtower of Gaza.

Al-Mintar, or the watchtower, still exists to the east of the town of Gaza. It is where Samson is said to have carried the gates of the city. On the road from Gaza to Jaffa are ancient olive trees, many of them more than 1,000 years old, with gnarled bark and immense trunks. There is an old legend which credits Gaza with the invention of the first mechanical clocks. These were perhaps the sand clocks which are still used in some mosques.

DEFEATISM IN ITALY

FAINT-HEARTED MEN WEAKEN CAUSE OF NATION.

In Every One of the Allied Nations Steps Are Being Taken to Crush Wretched People Who Play Germany's Game and the Italian Government Now Has Situation Firmly In Hand.

It was Signor Orlando, the Italian Prime Minister, who told the story of the soldier at the front waving his hand to him and laughingly shouting: "They won't get through, trust us, they will never get through again." And Signor Orlando solemnly echoed the soldier's word there and then. "No," he exclaimed, "the enemy will never get through again." The words were uttered during the early part of the last Austrian offensive on the Italian front, when "order, calm, confidence" had come to the Italian soldiery after the enemy's defeatist campaign with its disastrous sequel of Caporetto. But they are brought to mind in a particularly acute fashion by the circumstances attending the recent sentences upon the five defeatist agitators connected with the Turin riots of August, 1917.

For the most part avowed Socialists, the accused deliberately aimed at disturbing the solidarity of the army, and thus at weakening the national resistance. Their propaganda was carried on in war establishments and amounted to sabotage, though they claimed that they were merely exercising the citizen's well-known right of freedom of speech. But if there is one lesson which these times have emphasized more than another, it is that the exercise of those rights in times of war is a very different thing from their exercise in times of peace. The cry of "Viva the Russian Revolution and that of Italy!" raised by the orator from his stump might in ordinary circumstances pass unnoticed, but were a Socialist member of the Italian Chamber to raise it, or to declare to the deputies, as did Signor Treves, "There must not be another winter in the trenches!" the while the enemy was battering at the gates, then such declarations must strike nine people out of ten as rank sedition, which in its calculated effects upon the hearers, might conceivably create a situation of the gravest danger to the nation.

Italy, indeed, is only just escaping from a very serious national situation, created not merely by the espionage system which she uncovered, in the case of the Genoese Electric Works, by the smuggling of contraband into Germany through prominent merchants leagued with so-called Swiss partners, or by the association of traitors who blew up the Benedetto Brin and imparted intelligence to the enemy, but in particular by the multifarious phases of a particularly insidious defeatist campaign. Defeatism has a very ugly aspect in Italy. It has come to be inextricably associated with the Italian debacle of Caporetto, and it still bears the unmistakable earmark of the enemy. Often openly labeled as a part of a plausible and apparently patriotic pacificist movement, defeatism has been carried on not merely by means of the familiar leaflet and pamphlet, dropped by the enemy from the air, but through organized socialism.

It is a matter of sincere congratulation that Italy is leaving no stone unturned to uproot the upas tree of sedition and to end the machinations of "these wretched people who play Germany's game." She cannot afford to relent in her serious task for one moment, and she will be well advised if she, in the meantime, assiduously prosecutes an active propaganda of enlightenment among the troops themselves. Italy to-day is, in a sense, paying the price for the backward condition of education of her masses. She is learning that it does not pay nationally to have an unenlightened proletariat, a superstitious peasantry, and a partially credulous soldiery. All the Allied nations collectively are learning at the same time something of the nature of true internationalism. Defeatism rampant in one Allied country weakens the chain which connects them all. The prosecution of a Malvy, the punishment of a Bolo, the sentences upon the I.W.W., the condemnation of Italian Socialists and treasonable merchants, have as great a significance outside as within the borders of the country where they take place. One cannot escape the conviction that to-day the good of one Allied country or the weakness of another affects them all. A new sidelight is thus being thrown upon the interdependence of the nations, and a new grasp is being obtained of the coming world order. Such is one of the lessons of the defeatist sentences in Italy.

Henri Pol.

Henri Pol, the famous old bird charmer of the Tuileries gardens in Paris, died recently. Every afternoon for the last forty years this veteran pensioned postal official attracted large crowds of visitors by his wonderful method of calling the sparrows that haunt the gardens and feeding them from his hand. Many birds instantly replied to the names he had given them, and circled around his head or perched on his shoulder. Children regarded Pol as a veritable wizard. The old charmer was more than eighty years of age.

How He Remembered.

Dr. Reid, a celebrated medical writer, was requested by a literary lady to call at her home, and he said he would be charmed to do so. "You won't forget the address," she said. "No. 1 Chesterfield street." "Ma'am," said the doctor, "I am too great an admirer of politeness not to remember Chesterfield, and, I fear, too selfish to forget No. 1."

OUR DAILY SHORT STORY

A Lunatic Lover

By HELEN HAYES

Copyright, 1918, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

In her way, there was no better woman than Miss Bessie Randall's Aunt Jane Pilaster, spinster, having her own farm and living according to her own lights. She was full of sympathy and charity and good deeds, but "propriety" had been her motto so long that even her best friends thought she carried matters too far when she withdrew from the church because the minister called and found her up a cherry tree, picking fruit. For primness and preciseness and propriety Aunt Jane was without a rival.

In after days, and not so very long after, either, Aunt Jane admitted to herself that she must have been crazy when she wrote up to the city for her niece, Bessie, to spend July with her. She hadn't seen the girl for several years. As she remembered her, Bessie was a long-legged child with a lonesome face and demure demeanor, who would sit and play with a rag doll by the hour and ask few questions. She had two real rag dolls made before she wrote the letter of invitation. She also had decided in her own mind that she would let the child chase grasshoppers in the back lot and climb fences, but she must not chase or climb boisterously—only properly.

"You dear, darling old thing of an aunt, but I could just stand on my head for gladness!" was the greeting the spinster received one day two weeks later when a girl of eighteen was deposited at her gate by the stage from Sherlockville. The aunt felt chills of horror creep up and down her spine, but before she could do more than utter a groan the girl had seized her and waltzed her around —actually waltzed her up the path between the rows of pinks and peonies and hollyhocks, with the hired man looking on!

That evening, after Miss Bessie had talked about rowing, swinging Indian clubs, pitching quoits, bathing, climbing trees, and riding about in the electric runabout her father was to send down to her—talked and never observed the pallor of her aunt's face after she had talked—and had gone to her room, Aunt Jane said to the hired man:

"James, something has got to be done."

"Yes'm, something has," he replied.

"You saw my niece waltz me around?"

"I saw, ma'am."

"And was properly shocked?"

"Very properly."

"And you may have caught some of her words about climbing trees, swinging clubs she bought of an Indian, bathing in the river and riding about the country on a machine of some kind? You were also shocked again?"

"Properly shocked, Miss Pilaster."

"Then you must agree with me that we must take certain steps to save my niece from herself. She is a dear girl and a sweet girl, and she must not be allowed to fall into hoydenish ways. She must be reduced to a state of propriety and that without offending her."

"She must, ma'am—she must," solemnly answered James.

"Fortunately for us," continued Miss Pilaster as a look of mingled hope and relief showed in her face, "we are situated within two miles of the insane asylum. Insane patients now and then escape and go roaming over the country. If my niece were to be told that a male lunatic had escaped from the place and was at liberty, and that he was a dangerous character, I don't think she would want to go gallivanting around in that what-do-you-call-it."

"She surely wouldn't, ma'am."

"Nor do any climbing of trees nor clubbing of Indian clubs. If you have heard of any male lunatics escaping from the asylum within a day or two, and haven't said anything about it because you feared to render me nervous and perturbed, it will be your duty to notify my niece early in the morning."

On the following morning James found opportunity to say to the visitor:

"Miss Randall, did your aunt mention the fact that we have a large insane asylum not far distant?"

"Gee! A place for crazy people!" she exclaimed. "I want to go and see them this very afternoon!"

"There are dangerous lunatics among them, miss. Sometimes one escapes."

"Oh, I hope one will escape while I am here and come to the house! I shouldn't be a bit afraid. Don't you know that if you look a lion or a lunatic in the eye he will become as timid as a rabbit? If you hear of anyone escaping—"

"But I have heard of one," desperately interrupted James. "If I were in your place I shouldn't go far from the house until we learn that he has been recaptured. Before you can look him in the eye he will murder you. This one who escaped the other day—"

But Miss Bessie was gone to tell the news to her aunt, and to add that she should spend the whole day looking for the coming of the lunatic. If he came, she would wager her runabout against a hill of potatoes that she would subdue him and lead him back to the asylum. Three days passed and the runabout arrived, and she announced her intention of taking a long ride at once. Miss Pilaster groaned and told more tales of lunatics. James groaned and predicted death by strangulation. Nevertheless the girl went.

She started out in a cloud of dust and had gone two miles when there was a bur-r-r-r-r and the vehicle came to a stop. She worked away at the levers without avail. She got down and peeked and peered, but it was no use. She was stamping her foot in anger when a man came out of the woods close at hand. He was a young man of twenty-five—a good-looking young man, and he had a professional air about him.

"Something wrong?" he pleasantly queried as he looked from the girl to the runabout.

"Yes; it won't go."

In three minutes he had discovered the cause of the trouble, and after running the vehicle up and down he halted and asked if she were going over to Sherlockville. When he received an affirmative reply he said:

"So am I. If you have no objections I will ride with you and see that all goes well. The machine is new and must be coaxed a bit."

To her surprise Miss Bessie found herself seated beside the stranger and bowling along at a merry gait. They had gone a mile when she suddenly remembered that the young man had not introduced himself. Then she remembered the escaped lunatic and the words of warning. For half a minute her heart was in her mouth. Then she took a sly peep and failed to see anything murderous in the man's looks. They were a bit gloomy and preoccupied, but not savage.

"Excuse me," he finally said as he turned to her. "I am from the asylum, but I haven't a card with me. My name is Ashley, and if I mistake not you are the young lady at Miss Pilaster's."

Miss Bessie bowed in acknowledgment and her heart jumped again. This man must be the escaped lunatic! She developed her plan in a moment. She became very communicative. In fact, she gushed to throw him off his guard. If he was on an errand to the village she would wait and take him back, and to this he readily agreed. There was a wait of ten minutes and then he reappeared. Little was said on the return trip. The young man was moody, and Miss Bessie was wondering how to land him at the asylum without provoking a desperate resistance. Aunt Pilaster and James were waiting at the gate, and to her astonishment the vehicle came to a halt and the lunatic raised his hat to the woman and nodded to James.

"Why, Bessie, where did you find the doctor?" asked the Aunt as she came forward.

"Doctor?" repeated the girl.

"Why, yes—Doctor Ashley of the asylum."

"Good heavens, but isn't he that escaped lunatic, and are all my plans for his capture to be knocked in the head?"

"Sorry for you," replied the doctor with a smile. "I am from the asylum, but not exactly a lunatic. You have just kindly taken me to the village to have an aching tooth drawn."

"But I—I have captured you, you know."

"I won't dispute it."

When it is said that from that day on for two months the doctor was a frequent caller at Miss Pilaster's, and that he and Miss Bessie have been writing twice a week to each other since her return to the city, the reader can drawn his own conclusions. He will at any rate feel a bit of sympathy for Miss Pilaster, who turned to James the day her niece went home, and with her apron to her eyes tearfully exclaimed:

"Oh James, things have so changed about since I was a g-guri that I can't make 'em out! We told Bessie to look out for lunatics, and now she's going to marry a whole asylum full of 'em!"

HOW MRS. BOYD AVOIDED AN OPERATION

Canton, Ohio.—"I suffered from a female trouble which caused me much suffering, and two doctors decided that I would have to go through an operation before I could get well.

"My mother, who had been helped by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, advised me to try it before submitting to an operation. It relieved me from my troubles so I can do my house work without any difficulty. I advise any woman who is afflicted with female troubles to give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial and it will do as much for them."—Mrs. MARIE BOYD, 1421 5th St., N. E., Canton, Ohio.

Sometimes there are serious conditions where a hospital operation is the only alternative, but on the other hand so many women have been cured by this famous root and herb remedy, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, after doctors have said that an operation was necessary—every woman who wants to avoid an operation should give it a fair trial before submitting to such a trying ordeal.

If complications exist, write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass., for advice. The result of many years experience is at your service.

FOR BABY'S TENDER SKIN.

A child's skin is tender as well as beautiful and eczema may be caused by chafing of clothing, the use of poor soap, exposure to cold or sudden change of temperature. Probably no treatment for eczema has ever proven so successful as Dr. Chase's Ointment, and this applies particularly to baby eczema. This ointment is delightfully soothing, stops the itching and consequently prevents scratching. Gradually the sores are healed up, and the skin is left soft and velvety.

THE END OF TH GREAT WAR.

Once more our gracious God has given our armies rest;
Once more the Dove of Peace we welcome to our breast;
The spectre grim that filled the earth with fire and blood
Has vanished into smoke, with all his hellish brood.

Now freedom lifts again her bruised and bleeding head,
And despots totter on their thrones in fear and dread;
For mobs in haste uncrown their kings and count them less
Than pawns the players move at will in games of chess.

But soon our noble boys again we'll welcome home;
Heroes and conquerers proudly, gladly will they come;
And proudly, gladly, will we greet each mother's son—
Dearer to us for every scar that he has won!

And ah! for those who never will return again—
Though hearts must ache, and bitter tears will fall like rain,
Shall we not glory in their splendid sacrifice?
Shall we not thankfully their precious mem'ry prize?

Oh may the years of trial we have left behind
Make us all more unselfish, loving, tender, kind!!
And for the blessed gifts of Victory and Peace
May thankfulness and love to our great God ne'er cease!

The Boxer Rising.

The Boxer rising was the movement of a Chinese society organized in 1900, directed again missionaries and other foreigners. The Manchus of the court and the empress at first opposed, but afterward encouraged the movement. This led to the murder of the German Minister at Peking, the destruction of several of the legations and the siege of about 200 refugees within the walls of the British legation at Peking. A relief expedition of about 18,000 soldiers, made up of British, American, French, German, Russian and Japanese, went to the rescue, which was accomplished after heavy fighting.

Shock Left Her Weak and Nervous
COULD NOT SLEEP

When the system receives a shock of any kind, the heart becomes weakened, the nerves unstrung, the appetite poor, faint and weak feelings come over you, you can't sleep at night, and you wonder if life is worth living.

To all those who suffer from nervous shock we would recommend Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills as the best remedy to tone up the entire system and strengthen the weakened organs.

Mrs. J. J. Bunyan, Pilot Butte, Sask., writes:—"I have used Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills after having suffered from a terrible shock to my whole system. I was so utterly weak, and nervous I could not sleep at night, and my appetite was very poor. I could not walk across the floor without trembling all over.

I had hot flushes and fainting spells. When I was on the second box of your Heart and Nerve Pills, I began to feel that they were doing me good, so I kept on until I had used six boxes, when I felt like a different person.

I am never without them in the house, and highly recommend them to all who suffer with their heart."

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills are 50c. a box at all dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

The HOME CIRCLE
COLVMN

Of all evils prevailing among young men we know of none more blighting in its moral effects than the tendency to speak slightingly of the virtue of women. Nor is there anything in which young men are so thoroughly mistaken as the low estimate they form of the integrity of women—not of their own mothers and sisters, thank God, but of others, who, they forget, are somebody else's mothers and sisters.

Don't wait until a man gets into trouble before lending him a helping hand; don't wait until he gets sick to extend him your sympathy; don't wait until he is dead to speak in eulogy of him. Strive to make him happy as he walks down the pathway of life, then you will have done some good, but if you wait until he dies, your helping hand, your sympathy and your eulogies will avail him nothing as he plunges into the Great Unknown.

The young woman who keeps her hands white at the expense of her mother, who performs the household duties, is never likely to astonish people with her order and cleanliness when she gets a home of her own. Neither is the young man who depends on his father for the necessaries of life and the good clothes which he wears, apt to set a very large portion of the world afire.

There are a great many things in this world that we are not sure of but there is one thing we may be sure of—"Be sure your sins will find you out."

All that the wife can do will not make the home an agreeable one. Neither can a wife be happy with a husband who is addicted to finding fault with his bread and butter. She may try ever so hard to please him, yet when he sits down to meals, she lives in constant fear that some portion of the food will not suit his fastidious taste.

Be polite to your children. Do you expect them to be mindful of your welfare, to grow glad at your approach, to bound away at your pleasure before your request is half spoken? Then, with all your dignity and authority mingle politeness. Give it a niche in your household temple. Only then will you have the true secret of sending out into the world really finished gentlemen and ladies.

We cannot honor with too deep a reverence the home affections; we cannot cherish them with too much solicitude. Members of the home circle lose nothing by being polite and kind to one another. Little children are such initiative creatures; if the father shows kindly attention to the mother, bright eyes will see the act and is sure to do just like papa.

Every wife ought to know her husband's income, and that knowledge should be the guide of her domestic expenses. Better is a dinner of herbs than a stalled ox with hatred therein. Where a wife makes up her mind to do her duty in this respect she will brighten her little home and make it a place of perpetual sunshine.

Words of kindness do more good than hard speeches, as the sunbeams, without any noise, will make a traveller cast off his coat, which all the blustering winds could not do. If we are kind to others, we not only benefit them, but the influence on them is great, and if we cultivate the grace of kindness our own characters grow nobler and better.

Would that our busy toilers could realize that they must enjoy passing days, if they would be happy. The pleasure to which they look forward seldom comes. The man or woman who has not learned contentment and how to find delight in the present, has little reason to expect it in the future.

Women are the majority in the church on earth, and it is reasonable to suppose they will be three-fourths of the population in heaven.

Take aim before you shoot; otherwise your shot may go crashing in among heartstrings and still their quivering forever.

Don't try to follow every fashion unless you wish to ruin your health, your good looks, and your pocket books.

Wife, your power in the home is unlimited. You are its queen. There, at least, your sway is undisputed.

There is always a ray of light to pierce our gloom, if we will not close our eyes and refuse to see it.

Keep the home-fires bright if you would have the winter of life warm and pleasant.

Panic In Berlin.

Discussing the recent disastrous fall in prices on the Berlin Stock Exchange the Munich Post says:

"The house of cards built up by speculators with mining, shipping and armament securities has collapsed like a blast of wind from the east. The great banks tried to stop the fall with large buying, but despite this effort all speculative securities were soon struck off the lists of quotation. All buyers had disappeared.

"The consequence of this disastrous day will not be seen until the public is in a position to realize the extent of its losses. Thousands of existences are menaced, for even the most modest savings had been entrusted to the demon of speculation."

TEXAS PHYSICIAN DECLARES TANLAC IS WITHOUT EQUAL

Says It's Best Reconstructive Tonic to be Had For Building Up Influenza Patients.

The following letter from Dr. J. W. Sandlin, one of the most prominent physicians of Southern Texas, has just been received at the Tanlac office and gives indisputable evidence as to the value of Tanlac as a reconstructive tonic for persons who are recuperating from the after effects of Spanish influenza. His letter follows:

"Humble, Texas, Nov. 5th, 1918.

"Dear Sir:—Just a few lines in reference to Tanlac. I have found your preparation to be a wonderful reconstructive tonic, and in my opinion it has no equal in its line. I have found it to be the best tonic to be had to build up my patients who have had Spanish influenza. I have treated within the past month about 1,400 cases, and have never been able to get sufficient Tanlac to supply our people.

"Yours very truly,"

(Signed) Dr. J. W. Sandlin."

Dr. Sandlin not only enjoys a very large practice as a physician, but he is also a man of wide influence and ranks as a leading citizen of the enterprising little city of Humble, Texas.

As a practicing physician of sixteen years' experience Dr. Sandlin was quick to recognize the superior tonic properties of Tanlac over other remedies and unhesitatingly and voluntarily gave Tanlac his unqualified indorsement.

Although the influenza epidemic has greatly subsided it is still prevalent, and is breaking out anew in many sections of the country, and continues to claim its victims by the thousands.

Persons who have had influenza are oftentimes left in a very weakened, run-down condition, and unless the greatest care is taken, both as to habits and diet, serious complications are apt to follow. Persons who have had it are more apt than ever to have it the second time. If you are in this condition nothing on earth will build you up and strengthen you like Tanlac, which contains the most powerful tonic properties known to science.

As a reconstructive tonic, and body-builder it is without an equal and contains the very elements needed by the system to restore you to your normal strength and weight.

First of all Tanlac begins its action by creating a good healthy appetite for wholesome, nourishing food, and assists the vital organs which have been weakened by the disease to perform their natural functions, thus helping to build up health and strength in the natural way.

This statement is easily proven by the fact that Tanlac is now having the greatest sale of any system tonic in the history of medicine, in less than four years' time over ten million bottles have been sold and the demand is constantly increasing.

In connection with the Tanlac treatment it is necessary to keep the bowels open by taking Tanlac Laxative Tablets, samples of which are included with every bottle of Tanlac.

Tanlac is sold in Peterborough by W. B. Warne Drug Co., Ltd.: in Havelock by A. C. Denike; in Lakefield by Tanner Drug Co., Ltd.; in Fowler's Corners by W. A. Hunter; in Gelert by A. J. Scott; in Westwood by G. Pringle & Son.

BOOKS THAT SWEDEN READS.

Sven Hedin Loses Popularity With Library Patrons.

How do the great times the world is passing through react upon the Swedish reader? An investigation shows that there is a considerably increased demand for books at the libraries. This is due to some extent to the waning of the day of the cheap and trashy novelette, which has become worse in quality and gone up in price.

Political literature is not in great demand. The public gets its fill of politics from the newspapers. But war books are repeatedly asked for. At the labor library Marika Stjernstedt's books and Olof Sundstrom's "Under Poland's Eagle" were in most demand. Of foreign war literature it is curious to find Romain Rolland, the exiled French writer, at the head of the list. Sven Hedin, the librarians say, has lost much of his popularity. His latest German-front book, the record of his Mesopotamian trip, fell flat.

Great interest centres in garden and country cottage books, and books on housing and the making of little homes. The libraries go on buying them, but their supplies are never sufficient. There is a strong call for books of natural science and mathematics and the demand for language textbooks shows a largely increasing desire to study German, English and Russian. Of philosophy, the works of Hans Larsson are most read, but Skovgaard, Petersen and Morten Pontopidans are usually out of their places in the library shelves.

The most circulated American and British authors do not give a fair or adequate idea of America or Britain—to state the case mildly. One searches in vain among the mass of book readers for the works of the half dozen modern authors who really matter. One finds plenty of Oscar Wilde and Elinor Glyn, Hall Caine, Marie Corelli and Conan Doyle, representing England. Modern American literature in Sweden, as in Russia, Italy and practically every other country in Europe outside of England, means merely Jack London. One hunts sadly and fruitlessly for one or two of our writing folk who dwell on the sane and tranquil levels of American spiritual development. But here it is less the people who are to blame than the combination of circumstances which seems to keep away our best books from the publishers on the European mainland.

After a man succeeds in printing one kiss upon a girl's lips it's an easy matter to run off a large edition.

HE RANKS SECOND TO NONE

An American Expert Pays a Tribute to the Commander-in-Chief of the British Forces and Thereby Helps to Explode Unfounded Criticism That Men In Our Ranks Have Been Handicapped by Their Officers.

A RUMOR, probably baseless, has been circulated to the effect that Sir Douglas Haig is to be retired at his own request, and this gives the New York s an opportunity to pay tribute .e British field marshal. "Modest nd indifferent to fame," it says, "he will be reckoned among the great commanders of the greatest war in history." This is no more than the truth. Sir Douglas Haig has had a task that is one of the greatest ever laid on the shoulders of one man. Yet he has not weakened under it. So far as we may judge from the frequent photographs we have seen of him his face shows little sign of the terrible strain he has been under since Lord French retired and left him in charge of the British armies. Often he is seen smiling. At 57 he is in the very prime of life, and looks younger. He has been described as a "consummate horseman," and his daily rides, which have been but rarely interrupted for many years, may probably explain the slight stoop of his shoulders. Correspondents say that he is as fit physically as any man in his army.

As the Times remarks the wonder is that he has gone through this ordeal with a sound brain and a strength apparently unimpaired, for since 1915 there have been three commanders of the French army. Rarely indeed does he permit any sign of emotion to escape him, and this made all the more memorable his message to the British army on Sept. 10, when he thanked it for its valor and devotion in these words: "The capture of 75,000 prisoners and 750 guns in the course of four weeks' fighting speaks for the magnitude of your efforts and the magnificence of your achievements." He said that the army had passed through many dark days, but, "please God, these never will return." It is not often that this great soldier speaks the name of God, except when he attends the little Presbyterian Church near his headquarters every Sunday morning. Anything more different than his orders to his army and those issued by the German Kaiser it would be hard to imagine. Haig never promises much, never indulges in threats. He performs and then tersely reports.

The Times says that with his fellow corps commander, Sir Horace Smith-Dorrien, Haig more than once saved the British army in the retreat from Mons. It was on that occasion, according to the historian, Major Ernest W. Hamilton, that 100 Victoria Crosses were earned for every one that was given. Haig and Smith-Dorrien vied with each other in fighting rear-guard actions, each one as desperate as any forlorn hope, and the final escape of the army was hardly short of a miracle. On one occasion Haig said: "We shall have to hold on here for a while if we all die for it," and hold on they did, those Glorious Contemptibles. On another occasion Haig and his little escort of the 17th Lancers rode back along a road where the shells were falling thick and fast for no other reason than to encourage his men, the place of a general being behind the line. He stood with Sir John French near Gheluvet, after the order to retire had been given, and to him came the messenger that it was the Germans who were in retreat. This was the time when Sir Charles Fitzclarence with the Worcester Regiment stemmed the enemy advance and turned the tide of battle.

"Lucky" Haig the marshal used to be called in the army, because of his rapid promotions, partly, and because he was a favorite at Court and in Mayfair. It was through the influence of the genial Duke of Cambridge that he secured his commission after he had been rejected through defective eyesight. Lord Roberts saved him from drowning in the Modder river. But luck does not explain his career. He is a great soldier, and more than that, a soldiers' soldier. It is said that when it became generally known in the army that Lord French, then Sir John, was to retire, there was but one name on the soldiers' lips when the question of his successor was discussed, and the name was Haig. He is loved by the men because he knows the men. Only such a commander would have dared to issue that famous "backs to the wall" order. Only a British army could be trusted with the admission that the case was so desperate. What followed proved what British valor could do when called on for the supreme effort by a trusted leader.

The Only Buddhist King.

In marked contrast to the late king, his father, who had three queens and 175 other wives, the present King of Siam is such a strict celibre that he will not have any women near him. This strange monarch is attended only by men and boys, a high fence separating his palace grounds from those of the ladies of his court.

The present king enjoys the unique distinction of being the only living Buddhist monarch. His is an absolute monarchy, under an Anglo-French protectorate. The country is rich in natural resources and is being rapidly opened up by railroads.

The Siamese are great admirers of British institutions and are keen for education. Before the war Siam had a standing army of 40,000 and a navy, the ships mostly built in Japan, but under inefficient native command.

The present king is a playwright and numismatist, courteous and agreeable.

Tried It on the Dog.

It is often recommended to those who use patent medicines that they try the nostrums on a dog. When King Umberto of Italy was living, he acted upon the advice in the matter of using hair dyes. The experiment is described in "Intimacies of Court and Society." To Queen Margherita, who was somewhat vain of her undeniable good looks, Umberto's habit of neglecting his appearance was a trial. When his stiff, wiry hair, standing up straight over his head, had become very gray, she often tried to get him to dye it, sending into his dressing room every dye upon the market. One day he had all the dyes got out and shortly after the queen's pet dog, a white spitz, ran into her room perfectly black. The king followed, laughing at her dismay, and said: "You see, Margherita, I should look just as ridiculous."

Dried Lizards.

Dried lizards are said to be an article of merchandize regularly imported into this country. They come from China, to supply a demand by Chinese residents in the United States. They are supposed to possess much medicinal virtue when ground to powder and mixed with certain other curative substances. The Chinese used dried toads for a tonic, salted scorpions for smallpox and fossil crabs as an antidote for poison.

Some Mail Clerk.

Two privates met the company mail clerk on the road. "Any mail for me?" asked the first private. The mail orderly put on his spectacles, looked through a bunch of letters and handed one to the questioner. "Any for me?" queried the second private. The custodian of the mails readjusted the spectacles on his nose, looked once more through the pack of letters and said there were none. "Not even a newspaper?" insisted the private. Again he looked though the package and finally said: "Nope, none for you!" The privates had gone but a few steps on their way when the orderly yelled after them: "Hey, there! Darned if I know you! What's your name, anyhow?"

President Declares for Modified Railway Control

Objects to the Return to the Old Conditions of Railway Operation—Summary of Wilson's Address to Congress.

THE PEACE TRIP

(United Press.)
(By J. Bender.)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2. —Declaring for "modified private control" of the nation's railroads under unified public regulations, President Wilson to-day spoke out against a return to the old conditions of railroad operation.

In his annual message to a joint session opening the short term of the (Reconstruction) Congress to-day, President outlined this and other measures as his policies of readjustment; at the same time he explained his peace trip to Europe, as one that was "his duty to make."

"May I not hope," he added, "that in the delicate tasks I shall have to perform I may have the encouragement and the added strength of your united support."

WILSON'S READJUSTMENT PROGRAMME.

Passage of woman's suffrage.

Use of existing government agencies to effect reconstruction.

Immediate resumption of development of public works to provide employment for returning soldiers.

Ratification of the Colombian treaty to improve Pan-American relations.

Immediate determination of taxes for 1918, 1919 and 1920, and lifting as much of the tax burden as possible from business as government needs will permit.

The president declared he believed the final peace would be completed by Spring.

Meanwhile, he said, the American business man with his "quick initiative" is going ahead with his readjustment. As for any definite concrete scheme of "reconstruction," he added none had emerged as yet which he believed would work better than the present constituted government agencies.

WILL BE IN TOUCH.

(Canadian Press.)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2. — In an address to Congress in joint session to-day, President Wilson formally announced his intention to go to Paris for the peace conference, saying that the allied governments had accepted the principles enunciated by him for peace, and it is his paramount duty to be present.

President Wilson said he will be in close touch by cable and wireless, and Congress will know all he does on the other side.

Referring to the announcement taht the French and the British governments had removed all the cable restrictions upon the transmission of news of the conference to America, the President said he had taken over the American cable systems on expert advice so as to make unified system available.

The President said he hoped to see a formal declaration of peace by treaty "by the time Spring has come."

Much of the address was devoted to the railroad problem, for which the president said he had now no solution to offer. He recommended careful study by congress. The president said he stood ready to release the railroads from government control whenever a satisfactory plan of re-adjustment could be worked out.

No definite programme of reconstruction can be outlined now, Mr. Wilson said, but as soon as the armistice was signed government control of business and industry was released as far as possible.

The new three-year naval building programme was endorsed because the President said it would be unwise to attempt to adjust American programme to future world policy as yet undetermined.

Americans in Prussia

Third Army Occupied 400 Square Miles—Germans Very Quiet.

(By Webb Miller.)
(United Press.)

WITH THE AMERICANS IN PRUSSIA, Dec. 1. — (By Courier to Nancy, Dec. 2.)—The Third Army today occupied about four hundred square miles of German territory, including scores of towns and villages.

The Americans encountered little hostility from the inhabitants. While hundreds lined the streets in Trevis, there was absolute silence as the tired Sixth Infantry of the Fifth Division marched in and occupied the city.

The band was playing and regimental flags flying as the regiments swung through the principal streets, led by Col. Henry Hunt. The people stood staring curiously or followed quietly behind the Americans. The streets were patrolled by deputies of the local Workmen's Council, who wore white arm dangs and carried rifles.

During the march through the city church bells tolled, and American airplanes crossed overhead. Both the Germans and the Americans maintained certain aloofness and there was little fraternalization. The Doughboys maintained a soldierly dignified attitude. While there was a considerable crowd on the street, the majority of the people stayed indoors and peeped through the windows. Not a single German flag could be observed anywhere.

The Americans began their march into Prussian territory shortly after dawn. The Third Division crossed the Moselle in the region of Remich, the First near Craven Macher, the Thirty-Second farther north, and the Second in the region of Echternach. The whole front advanced, with the Moselle as an axis.

Very Quiet.

Before daylight the men were aroused, ate a hasty breakfast and fell in. All the roads toward the Moselle were soon jammed.

Generals Lassiter, Le June and House rode ahead of the advance guard at the points of crossing and were the first of the army of occupation officially to enter Germany.

Within half an hour after the Generals had crossed the river the valley was alive with khaki columns. There was some cheering as the Doughboys first stepped on to German soil, but as a rule the proceeding was very quiet and business-like.

In the valley towns the people at first hid indoors, and not a soul appeared in the streets, but as they found the Americans paid no attention to them they gradually came out.

After the occupation of Treves, Col. Hunt visited the Burgomaster and informed him that military law would be enforced, but that the inhabitants would not be interfered with as long as they remained peaceful. He asked the Burgomaster to furnish provisions and billets for the American officers.

The Third Army's plans for civil government of the German towns, leaves the machinery as much as possible in the hands of the German authorities, the Americans' work being mainly that of supervising. In taking over the railways, street cars, telegraphs and telephones, post offices and lighting systems, the Americans will see that efficient service is maintained, utilizing as much service as they need for military purposes, but interfering as little as possible with the usual service. The profits will be turned over to the proper authorities.

Under the terms of the armistice, the Germans will leave the operation of the staffs with the Americans, who will supervise and direct.

PLOT WAS DISCOVERED

Conspirators Attempt to Restore the Kaiser in Germany.

SCORES UNDER ARREST

Special to The Examiner:

LONDON, Dec. 2.—A plot to restore the Kaiser has been discovered and frustrated in Berlin, the Amsterdam correspondent of the Express wired to-day. Scores are under arrest.

The conspiracy was exposed through a telephone leak. Knowledge of it came into possession of Premier Frederic Ebert.

Among the conspirators were Field Marshal Mackensen, Generals Von Doesn and Von Armin, Krupp Von Boehlen, head of the Krupp works, and Prince Von Buelow. Philip Scheidmann asked the newspapers not to mention the plot. The former Kaiser's personal decree of participation in the conspiracy is not known.

List of Suspects.

Canadian Press:

LONDON, Dec. 2.—A plan to restore Imperialism and secure the return of Emperor William has been discovered in Berlin, according to a despatch from Amsterdam.

According to a despatch which was filed at Amsterdam on Friday, the chief men behind the plot were Field Marshal Von Mackensen, General Von Born and General Von Arnim. It is said that they instructed the Prussian officers' corps to carry on pro-Emperor agitation, beginning immediately after demobilization of the troops was completed. Large sums of money are said to have been placed at the disposal of leaders by munition makers. The plot collapsed owing to the fact that a secret service agent overheard a telephone conversation. Many arrests have been made in Berlin and other cities, while the government has long lists of suspects who had planned to seize members of the present government. No direct evidence of William Hohenzollern's connection with the plot has been found, it is said, but it is believed that an outline of the plan was brought to Berlin by two of his suite, who recently went to the German capital for the ostensible purpose of taking the wife of the former Emperor to Amerongen in Holland. Lieut. Dr. Gustav Krupp Von Bohlen is said to have been in control of the financial arrangements.

Fifty Cooks Will Cater to Peace Delegates

(Special to Examiner.)

NO FOOD SHORTAGE WILL BE EXPERIENCED ON THE "GEORGE WASHINGTON."

NEW YORK, December 2. — The Transport "George Washington" is tied up at pier No. 4, Hoboken today ready to take aboard President Wilson, his guards, and the American delegation to the Peace Conference.

The big vessel, under convoy, is expected to sail for Europe to-morrow or early on Wednesday. Every comfort possible is being arranged for the presidential party. Naval cooks will not be required to cater to them, as a crew of fifty culinary experts, confectioners, bakers and waiters from a famous hotel, have been put aboard.

How United Press Will Cover Story of Peace Conference

Thirteen Experienced Journalists Are Assigned to Report the Peace Conference.

NEW YORK, Dec. 2.—The United Press has announced that Ed. L. Keen, general European manager of the service, will be in direct charge of the staff, which will report the proceedings of the Peace Conference. Roy W. Howard, president of the United Press, will have general direction of the arrangements for the service, and is returning to France for that purpose.

Mr. Keen will have a large staff at his disposal, and will be assisted by such able lieutenants as William Philip Simms, manager of the Paris Bureau, and Henry Wood, manager of the Rome Bureau.

Fred S. Ferguson will be in charge of the American features of the Peace Conference. Lowell Mellett will cover the British phases of the situation under the direction of Mr. Keen.

Other members of the staff will include the following men: Arthur E. Mann, Don Chamberlain, Frank J. Taylor, John De Gandt, Webb Miller, Ralph Couch, and Robert J. Bender.

In addition to the above service, The Examiner will be served by the Canadian Press, which will also have a large force of experienced journalists overseas for the biggest and most important peace conference in the history of the world.

Food For All Nations

All Countries Suffering From the War Will be Supplied.

(United Press.)
(By Fred S. Ferguson.)

PARIS, Dec. 2.— Discussion of the economic situation has resulted in virtual unanimity among the Allies regarding the feeding of all countries suffering from the war. A resolution covering this agreement, offered by Col. House, was adopted at the final sitting in Versailles.

Herbert Hoover has returned to Paris after seeing representatives of the Czecho-Slovaks, Jugo-Slavs, Roumanians and other south-eastern countries while in Brussels. He conferred with relief organizations of all these nations. Eggs were $12 a dozen in Brussels until last week. Now they are $7. This is cited as an example of the rapid stabilization of prices in Europe resulting from the knowledge that soon there will be food enough for all.

Government Asked to Suppress Bolshevism

(Associated Press.)

BERLIN, December 2.—Four thousand non-commissioned officers at a mass meeting to-day, adopted a resolution calling upon the government to end the Bolshevism agitation of Dr. Karl Liebknecht and Rosa Luxemburg, and demanding the convocation of a National Assembly. Phillip Scheidemann, majority Socialist leader, was the chief speaker. He pointed out the difficulties the government was having because of the activities of what he characterized as irresponsible elements. He warmly championed the idea of calling the constituent assembly.

ABDICATION ONLY A BLUFF

This is the Opinion of Many—Germany Has a Surprise Up Her Sleeve.

WAITING FOR WILSON

(By William Philip Simms.)

PARIS, Dec. 2.— That Germany is carrying a surprise up her sleeve is the conviction here.

A coup d'etat is not regarded as improbable. The Kaiser's decree of abdication is not satisfactory. Many believe it is only a bluff for the benefit of the rabble. The Workmen and Soldiers are fighting among themselves, and Berlin admits there are no masters of the situation. A high authority declared to the United Press today that the United States must stand by the Allies, that Europeans never needed America more than now, while anything is liable to happen in Germany. "The role of the United States, which was decisive in the war, is equally important in preparations for peace," declares The Temps. "Nothing can be done before President Wilson arrives. The present conversations in London are not diplomatic. Proof of this can be found in the fact that Marshal Foch, and not Foreign Minister Pichon, accompanied Premier Clemenceau.

Brought Down Fifty Machines

Victoria Cross Has Been Awarded to Major Barker.

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

LONDON, Dec. 2.—(British Wireless Service.)—The Victoria Cross has been awarded to Major Wm. George Barker of Manitoba, of the Royal Air Force. Major Barker brought down fifty German machines during the war.

On October 27, 1918, Major Barker, according to the Official Gazette, attacked a German machine over Mormal Forest. After a short fight the enemy machine broke up in the air. Another German machine attacked the Canadian and he was wounded in the right thigh, but managed to shoot the German down in flames. A large formation of German machines then attacked Major Barker. He was wounded in the left thigh, but drove down two of the enemy. Major Barker lost consciousness for a few minutes, but recovered when he was again attacked. He deliberately charged a German machine and drove it down in flames. In this fight, the Major's left elbow was shattered and he again was unconscious for a few moments. He continued battle, however, and shot another machine down in flames. The Major then tried to regain the British lines, but was attacked by another German formation.

He broke through this formation and reached the British lines. His machine crashed to the ground.

Crisis in South American States May Involve Entire Continent

Latest Advices From Lima and Santiago Verify Reports of the Mobilization of the Militia in Both Capitals—How the Countries May Line Up.

Special to The Examiner:

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2.— War on the South American coast is threatened unless the United States or concerted powers intervene in the Peru-Chile dispute, according to Latin-American diplomats here to-day.

Latest advices from Lima and Santiago verified reports of mobilization at both capitals. Both the Chilean Embassy and the Peruvian Lezation admitted that undoubtedly a crisis was at hand.

The most serious aspect, in the opinion of diplomats, was the evidence that attempts are being made to form alliances that in the event of hostilities might throw the entire continent into war. Despatches announcing the recall of the Brazilian Minister to Peru were held to be without logical foundation. Rumours mentioned a line-up of Brazil, Bolivia and Peru against Chile, Argentine and Mexico. It was also suggested by Latin-American diplomats that Bolivia and Argentine might stand by Peru against Chile, owing to Chile's admitted military and naval supremacy.

The British Forces Have Crossed the German Border

Gen. Plumer's Troops Crossed Into Prussia Yesterday on a Front of Thirty Miles.

FRANCE REPRESENTED

Special to The Examiner:

LONDON, Dec. 2.— British troops have advanced into Prussia to the depth of nearly fifteen miles on a thirty mile front, joining with the Americans on their left, near the northern extremity of Luxemburg.

The advance was made by the Second Army under Gen. Plumer, which crossed the German frontier yesterday between Beso and Eupen. The British reached the general line of Burg Reuland, Bullingen and Mont Joie.

Eight Days Remain.

Canadian Press:

PARIS, Dec. 2.—Eight days remain for the Germans to evacuate the left bank of the Rhine from Lower Alsace to Holland. Allied forces which crossed the German frontier yesterday, have received strict instructions as to their attitude toward the German population in occupied territories. France will pe represented by contingents in all enemy territory, according to an announcement.

J. J. TURNER'S LETTER WILL BE DISCUSSED BY CITY COUNCIL

Frost has already penetrated the ground so deeply that the cost of the Street Railway extension on the Monaghan Road will be considerably increased by the difficulty of digging through the frozen top soil. An employee of the Street Railway told Mayor Duncan that it would be necessary to blast out the roadbed, an extra that will materially increase the cost of the stub line. Mr. J. J. Turner, in a letter to the Council, has emphasized the fact that the city will eventually have to pay for this extension, by reason of the fact that the Hydro-Electric Commission is holding the Street Railway in trust until Peterborough is prepared to buy it. The letter from the President of the Board of Trade will be dealt with at the regular meeting of the Council to-night, which by the way is the last meeting of the year unless the Mayor finds it necessary to call one or more specials before the New Year, which this is altogether likely.

Mayor Duncan stated to-day that he regarded the proposed line south on Park Street to the De Laval factory, probably linking with George Street, as a better revenue producer than the extension on the Monaghan Road, but he remarked that he hesitated to oppose any initiative the Hydro-Electric Commission might undertake, for the simple reason that if there were further delay now the Commission might not be as ready for action in the spring.

Although the Commission purchased the Street Railway, it has always been understood that the Commission was simply assuming the management of the railway until the city was ready to relieve them. Hence, before any extension is undertaken, it is argued, the Commission should be certain that they are conforming to the wishes of the people, who must finally pay for the entire system. It was stated that the work on Monaghan Road will be commenced to-morrow.

FELL ON THE ICY PAVEMENT.

Mrs. Tyndall, Antrim Street, was the victim of a serious accident on Saturday evening, when she slipped on the pavement in front of Madill's drug store and tore the ligaments in her knee. She was taken to her home in Belleghem's ambulance, and is reported to be resting easily.

An excellent breakfast consists of barley muffins, bacon, fruit and coffee.

SHOP EARLY

Christmas is only twenty-two days away. Take three Sundays out of this and you have nineteen days left in which to do your Christmas shopping. You help yourself when you do your Christmas shopping early, and incidentally help the merchants and the army of clerks that has been mobilized to serve you. In addition of goods, and that alone is sufficient reason why you should shop early and avoid the rush.

Peterboro Soldiers Returning

Following the announced arrival of the steamer at Halifax conveying over 4,000 Canadian men returning, inquiries have been made by friends as to possible arrivals. Four trains left Halifax on Saturday, direct for western points, including Toronto. A few Peterborough men were on these trains, and these reached home.

This morning the local branch of the Soldiers' Aid Commission has been advised of the following, that on the 29th the men were at Halifax, awaiting looking over and despatch to their demobilization stations or to their homes. These may be expected within a day or two, if indeed they do not reach Peterborough to-day:

WAR SAVINGS STAMPS

The Canadian war savings and thrift stamps are now on sale and should be in ready demand. During the next two months the War Saving Stamps may be obtained at an even $4.00 and will be worth $5.00 each on January 1st 1924 which means an interest of a little better than four and one half per cent compounded. Although the fighting is over the need for economizing is by no means past and the new stamps afford the small investor a chance to secure a splendid interest rate on the sums he may be able to set aside Associated with the War Savings Stamps are the Government's Thrift Stamps which are also on sale to-day and which are to be used in the purchase of the War Savings Stamps. The Thrift Stamps are sold at 25c each and with the first one is issued a collecting card which will hold altogether sixteen stamps. When the card is filled it may be exchanged for a War Savings Stamp. The scheme although devised principally for war purposes is equally valuabe under peace conditions and the stamps no doubt will be a popular purchase.

THE CHRISTMAS TREAT.

The people of Peterborough are undoubtedly grateful to the men from this city who went forth to battle for freedom. They are being given a splendid opportunity just now to demonstrate this gratitude in a practical form by helping to make the coming Christmas a memorable one for the children of these gallant men who, many of them, will be maintaining a new watch on the Rhine, with their dear ones thousands of miles away. The Great War Veterans' Association have arranged a big Christmas entertainment for the soldiers' families, and have, out of their own funds, contributed $50 towards the cost of the event. A number of citizens have already shown their sympathy with the plan by making donations to the Christmas treat fund, but many more are needed if the entertainment is to be on a scale worthy of the occasion. It should be remembered that the number of guests will reach four figures, so that the expenses will be necessarily heavy. The War Veterans are undertaking all the work in connection with the treat, and it would seem to be up to the citizens generally to co-operate in financing this splendid movement on behalf of the little ones whose fathers are overseas helping to make a new map of Europe. The time is short, the date selected is less than three weeks away and upon the response from the public depends the success of the occasion. Donations of toys, fruit, candies, etc., will be appreciated, as well as subscriptions in cash. The Examiner will be glad to receive donations on behalf of the War Veterans, and once again wishes to call the attention of the public to this most praiseworthy movement.

GERMANY'S LAST HOPE.

However severely Germany may have been beaten in the field, however humiliating may have been her defeat at sea there is not the slightest doubt that she has not yet abandoned her political offensive and that her publicists are working overtime in a tilled when they are seized upon by greatest successes. While the personal opinions of any single individual, however distinguished his record, should not ruffle our equanimity or distort our sense of balance yet these opinions assume an importance to which they are not intrinsically entitled when the yare seized upon by German propagandists as fodder for their campaign. Germany's last hope of saving something from the wreck of her national fortunes lies in the chance of dividing her enemies and establishing a cleavage of ideals which not all the cement of comradeship and friendliness could heal. At the very hour when our neighbours are arranging the celebration of Britain's day, at the moment when cable messages tell of the growing entente between the two great Anglo Saxon nations and the joint observance of the American national festival of Thanksgiving in London, there is another outcropping of those rumours of disagreement between the Allies which serve Germany's purpose so admirably.

Germany realizes that herein lies her only chance of national recuperation. Germany is crushed to-day but there is still a Germany. She may appear dormant but the embers of her fires still glow beneath the national ashes. Germany can afford to lose her entire fleet if she can wake to see the two great sea-powers of the world, Great Britain and the United States shorn of their sea power by mutual distrust and facing across the Atlantic with looks of suspicion and hostility.

It was not for this that the Great War was fought, not for such an end that Britain so gladly held out the hand of fellowship to welcome the United States into the struggle eighteen months ago.

There can be no collective mistrust between the Allies unless there is individual mistrust and no individual mistrust except through misunderstanding and ignorance. To foster that ignorance is the time of the German publicists. To defeat their ends should be a duty which each man should impose upon himself. Let us take care at this hour of crisis to speak no word and to harbour no thought that may tend to loosen the strong bonds which joint suffering and joint sacrifice have annealed.—Montreal Star.

AERIAL POSSIBILITIES.

Thousands of Canadian airmen, who have learned the technique of flying in the stern school of war, are waiting anxiously to see some signs at Ottawa of a government recognition of the fact that the aeroplane has come to stay. So far there has been no official statement from the government to indicate that the possibilities of the aeroplane for peace time use are being considered. Surely Canada, which has supplied so many famous aviators for the Royal Air Force, men whose exploits have resounded through the world, is not going to fall behind now, and it is the hope of the flying men that the training they have received will be of benefit to them in the "piping days of peace."

Flight Commander J. W. Hobbs, Royal Naval Air Service, himself a Canadian, has contributed a most interesting article to the Toronto News upon the manner in which seaplanes can be most effectively employed in ada. He points out that thousands of Canadians have been taught to fly, that Canada has learned how to manufacture planes of all types and has the materials necessary. As to the uses of the flying machine in peace work, Lieut. Hobbs shows that they can e most effectively employed in protecting the Dominion's forests from fires. Through the use of planes, fire rangers could keep a constant watch over the great forests of Canada, making it possible to quickly detect the outbreak of a fire. The carrying out of topographical surveys would also be an easy matter where aeroplanes are used, and the ships of the air could be effectively used in the transport of mail. The United States is already using aeroplanes in the postal service, and the advantages of the scheme can be readily seen.

Is Canada going to lag behind on an aerial policy? asks Lieut. Hobbs in conclusion. I say no. Her people are too progressive to let the rest of the world "fly around them!" They want to be up to the times. Just as they built and sent from the shores of Nova Scotia the 'Royal William,' the first steamer to cross the Atlantic under steam power, so they want to send the first Canadian built aerial ship across the Atlantic, and why shouldn't they? I must quote that verse, "We've got the men; We've got the ships; We've got the money too." So why not? Awake, O Canada, gird thy loins, for the Aerial Age is upon us.

EDITORIAL.

A German paper says that the spirit of 1914 still lives in the German army. The peace terms must be drastic enough to drive out any spirit of that kind that may be left.

Good evening! Have you bought your first war savings stamp yet?

The Canadian Council of Agriculture's policy of a substantial all-round reduction in the tariff is in wide contrast to Hon. Robert Rogers' "national policy brought up to date?"

Germany is said to be preparing for another war in fifteen or twenty years. The Huns had better pay for this one first.

Surely Hon. Bob Rogers was an unfamiliar ground when he was talking about "haloes" and "righteous and blessed undertakings" in Toronto the other night.

SHELL SHOCK VICTIMS.

How They Are Treated by Army Men.

Into a station a short way back from the battle lines two orderlies half support and half carry a boy shaking like a fox terrier on a frosty day. His whole body jumps and jerks; his teeth strike together furiously.

This is the second stop made by the wounded between the first aid dressing station and the evacuation hospital. It is too near the front for protracted treatment and is really a relay station where the men are made as comfortable as possible for the rest of the journey. And here the shell shock cases, which should properly be called concussion cases, receive their first real attention.

The dingy little rooms in a half-destroyed village, converted from the kitchen and bedroom of a peasant cottage, are not much to boast of, but they seem sufficient. On a stretcher in a corner the two orderlies lay the shaking boy.

The doctor arrives in a major's uniform. He is dark, with piercing deep-set eyes and a compelling personality. He has great success with these cases, I am told. He strolls in, looking very casual and begins to chat with the boy, who sits up, leaning against the wall with his legs thrust forward on the floor. The orderlies give him hot coffee—it contains, I understand, something to counteract the acidity of the blood and they "josh" him a little good-humoredly.

The boy seems a little frightened, but is rational and tells his story through his jerking teeth. He belongs to an anti-aircraft machine gun crew, stationed five or six kilometers behind the front, near the "sausage" near them. While they were getting the gun ready, a shell fell right beside them. The boy was thrown down and covered with dirt, but not wounded.

"I feel as if I'd been slapped all over at once," he finishes. "But there's really nothing the matter with me. I'm not even scratched. It's only that I can't stop this shaking. Look at my hands! It's ridiculous!"

The orderlies drift away. The major has listened sympathetically, still with his casual air. But now he becomes suddenly electrified. He crouches over the boy, holding one leg steady with his knee and grasping the boy's wrists firmly. His face is very near the boy's and his eyes are terribly compelling. It is as though an electric spark flows from him to the shaking youngster.

His voice has a peculiar vibrant quality as he gives a mental suggestion that this is nothing, that it will pass, that this arm and this—holding them up as he talks—will presently stop shaking, that there is nothing to be afraid of and presently he can go back to work.

The boy listens, fascinated. Under the compelling eyes the trembling grows less, for an instant it stops and he lies relaxed. Then it begins again, but less violently.

Then, suddenly, the major becomes casual again. He rises, nods to the boy and strolls out. The patient is left to rest a little before his next journey.

The shaking will last probably, with diminishing violence, for three or four days. The majority of men recover in that time. There are, of course, cases with mental and nervous development, which are followed by protracted nervous breakdowns.

But this boy will be back shooting at boche "birds" in a week, I feel sure.

A Doomed Fortune.

The Kaiser's greatest war profits come from the Krupp gun-works at Essen. Just how large his holdings are cannot be determined, as the Krupp concern refused to show its books in the recent profiteering investigation conducted by the Reichstag, and that body has no power to enforce its demands. The statement, however, is made on the authority of Geneva bankers who recently returned from Frankfort that the Kaiser before the war had been a large shareholder in Krupp's; in fact, one of the largest holders of the shares next to Frau Bertha Krupp von Bohlen. Since the war began the Kaiser is said to have increased his shares in the works by purchases amounting to $25,000,000.

That the Kaiser, long before the present war, was an enormously wealthy man was nowhere denied. As King of Prussia he enjoyed a civil list of $4,500,000 a year. He is the greatest landowner in Prussia, and has an immense private income. His grandfather left him a fortune of $12,500,000. He has many castles and palaces in various parts of Germany, upon which he has expended immense sums. He bore practically the entire expense of maintaining and conducting the Imperial opera in Berlin, and when he travelled on his magnificently-equipped railway train it cost him $50 a mile.

Smugglers In Holland.

At Millingen, on the Dutch frontier, a Dutch official surprised a band of German smugglers who fled when they found themselves discovered. They left behind 12,000 packages of chocolates, barrels of oil and liquor, vast quantities of coffee, butter, fat, soap, shoes, cigars, tobacco, etc.

In a neighboring town 60,000 cigars and other goods worth 40,000 guilders were confiscated by customs officials.

Can Open Switch Without Stopping.

Without stopping his train an engineer can move a lever in his cab and open a recently patented switch to enable him to enter a siding, the switch closing when the last car has passed over it.

BY Order in Council dated the 11th of November, 1918, and to be published in the Canada Gazette of the 30th of November, 1918, a Committee has been appointed to consider the subject of debts due by persons residing or carrying on business in Canada to enemies, claims of such persons against enemies or enemy Governments, and enemy property in Canada. To facilitate the work of this Committee, and pursuant to the Consolidated Orders respecting Trading with the Enemy, 1918, and to the Proclamation of the 12th of February, 1917, concerning British property in enemy territory and claims by British subjects against enemy persons and enemy Governments, NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN by the Minister of Finance and Receiver General of Canada, as the Custodian appointed by the said Consolidated Orders, and by the said Committee, that:—

1. Every person who holds or manages for or on behalf of any enemy any property real or personal (including any rights, whether legal or equitable, in or arising out of property, real or personal), shall forthwith by notice in writing communicate the fact to the Custodian, and shall furnish the Custodian with such particulars thereof as the Custodian may require;

2. Every person indebted in an amount of $100 or upwards, which is due, or which, had a state of war not existed, would have been due to an enemy, shall forthwith by notice in writing communicate the fact to the Custodian, and shall furnish the Custodian with such particulars thereof as the Custodian may require;

3. Every person by whom, had a state of war not existed, any sum would have been payable and paid to or for the benefit of an enemy, by way of dividends, interest or share of profits in any business, incorporated or unincorporated, or by way of payment off of the whole or any part of the capital or principal of any share, debenture, debenture stock or other obligation of any company shall forthwith, if the sum, had a state of war not existed, would have been paid before the date of this Notice, and in any other case within 14 days after the sum would have been paid, pay such sum to the Custodian, and the payment shall be accompanied by particulars in the prescribed form;

4. If before the date of this Notice any such sum as is mentioned in paragraph 3 hereof has been paid onto any account with a bank, or has been paid to any other person in trust for an enemy, the person by whom the payment was made shall forthwith, by notice in writing, require the bank or person to pay the sum over to the Custodian, and shall furnish the Custodian with such particulars as aforesaid. The bank or other person shall, within one week after the receipt of the notice, comply with the requirement, and shall be exempt from all liability for having done so;

5. Every incorporated Canadian company, Dominion or Provincial, and every other incorporated company which has a share transfer or share registration office in Canada, shall forthwith, by notice in writing, communicate to the Custodian full particulars of shares, stock, debentures and debenture stock and other obligations of the company, which are held by or for the benefit of an enemy;

6. Every person having any claim against an enemy or an enemy Government (except claims arising out of illegal warfare, which have been dealt with by a Public Notice of the 18th of November, 1918), or having or claiming any property of any description whatsoever (including documents of title to property) in enemy territory or held by an enemy, or any interest in such property, is requested to furnish written particulars of such claim or property or interest to the Custodian;

7. Every person, including especially every solicitor, notary, curator, administrator, executor, assessor, tax gatherer, broker and real estate or other agent, who knows or has reason to suspect that any property of any description whatsoever (including documents of title to property) in Canada is owned by, or held or managed for or on behalf of, or is subject to any interest therein or claim thereto of an enemy or an enemy Government, is requested forthwith to communicate all the facts within his knowledge and all the grounds of such suspicion to the Custodian;

8. Any person who fails to comply with paragraphs 1, 2, 3, 4, and 5 of this Notice is guilty of an offence against the said Consolidated Orders and liable to the penalties prescribed thereby;

9. In this Notice:—

"Person" includes both individual persons and also trustees, executors, administrators and bodies of persons incorporated and unincorporated, such as companies, municipal authorities, firms and clubs;

"Enemy territory" means the territory of a State of Sovereign at war with His Majesty (including the Colonies and Dependencies thereof) as such territory stood on the 1st of August, 1914;

"Enemy" means a person (as defined in this Notice) of whatever nationality, who resides or carries on business within enemy territory; and also, in paragraphs 2, 3 and 4 hereof, a person resident or carrying on business elsewhere (except in territory occupied by an enemy State or Sovereign), with whom dealing has at any time since the 1st of August, 1914, been prohibited by any Statute or Proclamation in force in Canada;

10. A large number of persons have already furnished to the Custodian the information called for by this Notice, but such persons may, if they so desire, furnish an amended statement.

The forms prescribed for furnishing the information called for by this Notice may be obtained upon application to James R. Forsyth, Department of Finance, Ottawa. The person applying should state under which paragraph of this Notice the information to be furnished by him falls.

Ottawa, 25th November, 1918.

JAMES R. FORSYTH,
for the Custodian and for the Enemy Debts Committee.

CURLING RINK IS OPEN FOR ANOTHER SEASON OF SPORT

Mr. Angus McIntosh began this morning the grooming of the Curling Rink in preparation for what promises to be a big season for the roarin' game. A couple of crippled motor cars that have been in summer storage and the remnants of a rummage sale will be cleaned out in a few days, and in the meantime the new sand will be laid for the foundation of the seven sheets of ice. If the weather continues to hover fairly close to the zero mark the first flooding should take place according to schedule. Although there have been unofficial prophecies of an open winter, there are already frozen patches where cars were recently washed. The curlers themselves are looking forward to a biy season under the presidency of Mr. J. W. McDermid. Present signs point to renewed life and busier sessions for the Kickers' Club, apart from the complete series of games which are assured beforehand. It is reported that the membership is all that could be desired, and that the Club will open the season with the brightest prospects. Last season ended on March 18th.

CLARA KIMBALL YOUNG AND HER OWN COMPANY IN "MAGDA"

Mr. H. P. Kennedy Has Optimistic View of the Cattle Trade

Was in Peterboro on Saturday After Three Months Absence in the United States.

Mr. H. P. Kennedy of H. P. Kennedy Limited, live stock dealers, Toronto, Ontario, was in the city on Saturday visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Dawson Kennedy, 600 Water street.

Mr. Kennedy has spent the greater part of the past three months in Pennsylvania where his Company has shipped this fall more than 10,000 feeding cattle at a turn over of more than $1,000,000.00.

Mr. Kennedy reports a very heavy demand for this class of cattle both in Canada and the United States which are bought by the farmers on both sides of the line and are fed by them for market.

The company has established a permanent connection for this branch of their business in the United States with Pennsylvania as the Centre of distribution and as preference is given to Canadian Cattle Mr. Kennedy expects the shipments to reach wonderful figures in a short time.

The shipment to the United States just represents the surplus after the Ontario and Western Farmer has been supplied. The company operates principally through Toronto, Winnipeg and Edmonton.

On enquiry from Mr. Kennedy what effect the coming of peace will have on the cattle market Mr. Kennedy replied that he looked for an increased demand for Canadian Cattle at firm prices. Not only is the demand great for feeding cattle but for breeding purposes as well on account of the depletion of the herds in European countries.

While the prices were temporarily affected when peace negotiations came out on account of the farmers realizing the uncertainty of the future, since the Armistice has been signed the prices have actually become firmer than they were two months ago.

Mr. Kennedy speaks very optimistically of the Cattle Trade both from the farmer's standpoint and the dealer's standpoint and predicts a great future for this branch of farm production in Canada in the years to come.

In the Fall of 1917 in order to stimulate production Mr. Kennedy offered $300.00 in cash prizes to farmers in Lancaster County, Pennsylvania, who were feeding steers for market.

The following clipping from a Lancaster paper will show the increase in the weights of cattle and the consequent increase in production and profits to the farmers who purchase feeding cattle and subsequently place them on the market.

AWARD OF PRIZES FOR CATTLE BREEDING

H. P. Kennedy, Limited, Union Stock Yards, Toronto, Can., whose operations in Lancaster county are extensive, some time since offered $300 in cash prizes to farmers feeding Canadian feeding steers. Several thousand of these feeders were shipped here this season, and to encourage the demand and also the greatest possible production of increased weight the firm offered a first prize of $200 and a second prize of $100.

Messrs. Dunlap &Frantz and Hoober & Potts were made the judges and the announcement of their award has just been made as follows:

First prize, Daniel Hertzler, Morgantown; date of purchase, November 14, fifteen cattle weighing 17,475, average, 1,165 pounds; date of movement, May 6, fifteen cattle weighed 23,620, average, 1,574.6 pounds; 173 days weight gained by fifteen cattle 6,145 pounds; average weight gained per head, 409.66 pounds; average gained weight per day per head 2.36 pounds.

Second prize, Abram Bomberger, Lititz; date of purchase, November 17, sixteen cattle weighing 15,760 average 986½ pounds; date of movement, July 5, sixteen cattle weighed 24,065, average, 1,504.1 pounds; 240 days weight gained by sixteen cattle 8,285 pounds; average weight gained per head, 517.8 pounds; average gained weight per head per day, 2.157 pounds.

Complete Report of the District Meeting of the Woman's Missionary Society

Miss Harrison, a Returned Missionary, Describes Conditions in China—What is Needed to Save the Yellow Race—Activities of the Peterboro Delegates.

(By Jean Wagar)

An earnest and enthusiastic body of missionary workers met in annual convention on Wednesday, November 27th in St. James Methodist church, Mrs. J. K. Moore, District Organizer, presiding. Both sessions were well attended and the interest sustained throughout. Rev. Greatrix, pastor of the church, led the opening devotional exercise in singing and prayer. The beautiful Scripture lesson on "Courage" was given by Mrs. Bookhout.

THE ROLL CALL

The greatest interest and attention were shown as the delegates responded to the Roll call.

Ten auxiliaries, four circles and three bands reported a combined income for the year of $1,700 and a membership of 733.

In her report as organizer, Mrs. Moore showed a year of great activity. Two new auxiliaries and one circle had been organized. She knew the condition of every society in her large district showing she had kept well in touch with every department of her work.

MRS. MOORE CHOSEN

Mrs. Moore was unanimously chosen as superintendent by the District for the coming year.

The programme was excellent throughout. The papers which were of a high order, covered nearly every difficult problem in Auxiliary, circle and band work.

"Tithing," "Systematic giving," How to interest women of the church, and in different auxiliary members," were some of the questions debated and finally settled.

PRACTICAL IDEAS

Mrs. Downey led the auxiliary conference and in her unique and interesting paper on "What constitutes a successful society," she gave the delegates some every practical thoughts for improving the home base. Mrs. Downey maintained that to have a good society. You must have "good" members. They must be kindly in their judgments, willing to do their part. Each woman, however diffident has her part to do and can do it if she reads her Bible and her missionary outlook. The good number must have the interest of the W.M.S. at heart between the meetings as well as at them.

MUST BE SPIRITUAL

Meetings must be spiritual in tone. The woman who has work to do and performs it has no time nor inclination to criticize others. She emphasized how each member might serve with eye, ears, lips, hands and feet and closed by saying that Christ had thrown the torch to us and it is our duty to take it up.

In this conference Mesdames Kendry, Thomas, Lane, Bookhout, Speer, Neville, Cruikshank and the Rev. Mr. Manning each gave helpful and interesting thoughts on the questions under discussion which will add to the success of each auxiliary represented.

Some of the schemes for financing the work were tithing, talent money, mite boxes etc.

Mrs. Spicer in her remarkable paper on the "necessity for prayer and thanksgiving" touched every one who was privileged to hear her. It should be an inspiration to greater zeal and faithfulness to every W.M.S. worker

AFTERNOON SESSION

The devotional exercises of the afternoon were led by Mrs. Batten.

The convention was greatly honored by the presence of Miss Harrison a returned missionary from China, whose address was the special feature of the afternoon session.

MISS HARRISON'S ADDRESS

It is always pleasing to hear the direct results of our efforts and Miss Harrison's address leaves no room for doubt that our work in China has been a success, almost beyond belief.

The chief thought, she tried to bring home, was the present opportunity for service in China especially in Chingtu Szchwan, the special field of the W.M.S.

CONDITIONS IN CHINA

Since the rebellion seven years ago China has been in a constant state of upheaval. Though a republic was formed there is no central government Almost every little town and village is a law unto itself. What wonder, when China had set herself the task of doing in a few months what it took our country a life time to accomplish The province of Szchwan at the extreme west, midway between north and south, has had more than her share of civil war, fighting and bloodshed. But this very war has opened up so many ways for us to serve that the good outweighs the bad. This does not apply to China as a whole but particularly to our Province of Szchwan. Only a few years ago we were pointed out as dreadful foreign devils. We never hear such a thing now.

PERSONAL INSTANCES

Miss Harrison gave many personal instances to prove the change which has taken place in the attitude of the Chinese toward the missionary. Formerly it was the missionary who was always blamed for any political unrest and always had to either hide or fly for safety.

Now, when trouble comes, we are told by the British Consul to hang out our flag and advertise our nationality. They have learned that the missionary is here to help them, not to exploit his country. It was the pioneer missionaries who broke down Chinese prejudice and gained respect and friendship.

THE TWO FACTIONS

Three years ago when a clash seemed imminent between northern soldiers and our people, they came to our missionaries and begged for protection.

They literally teamed into our compound until we had our hands more than full. With 100 refugees and carrying on the regular work at once. At another time 250 came to us for protection and only last July there were nearly 400 who came in their hour of need, giving us the opportunity we had been waiting for for years. To them we were uncouth barbarians rude and uncultured but they put aside pride and came to us. Now they are our warm friends. Services were organized for women, schools for the girls and play hour for tiny tots where they were taugh games and songs and we soon won the confidence of children and mothers.

The trust they put in us now, to protect them, is almost uncanny. Even though bullets were falling thick and fast into our compound, one old woman said as she came in, "now I can get some sleep in peace."

THE OLD WAYS

Through us their hearts have turned to our God and we must keep them. You ask, will they not, when there is no need of protection, go back to the old ways? Some of them undoubtedly will but not all. And there will always remain the friendly feeling for the missionary. One old and aristocratic family who came to us in trouble sent their young son back to our school. The old man said he desired his boy to grow up in a Christian atmosphere. This family lived only a few steps from our mission, but had never beore accepted or allowed any intimacy.

A REFUGEE

Another refugee, a girl of 18 entered our woman's school. A year later she asked to be baptised and we hope to have her for a Bible woman soon.

We have had to refuse so many for lack of room.

Another opportunity is that of entering the home for cottage prayer meeting. There is an average attendance at these of over 30 and many offer and urge the use of their home for prayer service. The growth has been phenomenal and our own church is typical of the growth

CHURCHES IN CHINA

Our churches in China are partitioned for men and women. The woman's side soon overflows and many have to be turned away. Then a separate school for children was organized. They soon increased and outgrew their quarters. We usually had 150 in a room built to accommodate 70. Many had babies tied to their backs and it was a marvel how they kept so quiet for two solid hours. Ten feet were added and fitted up, but it took only ten months to outgrow it again. A second children's church was organized and built on the only spot of our land left. The three churches held service at the same time and the singing was wonderful. In a short time an annex was added.

REFUSED ADMITTANCE

It was heartbreaking to lock the gate and refuse women admittance to hear the gospel. Every building is taxed to its utmost capaciy, and still we need room and need it badly, but the general society says, "No money" So we will have to go on till the home people have a vision and then we shall have what is so much needed 2 1-2 per cent. of our membership have dedicated themselves to active service what would that mean here if 2 1-2 per cent. of our Christian church membership volunteered for active service? When a Chinese man is saved, he knows he is saved to "serve", which many hear have still to learn. The missionary in China to-day is reaping the result of the seed sown by the pioneer missionaries.

GREAT OPPORTUNITY

The 3rd and greatest opportunity comes under present conditions. For four years we have heard of the preparations Germany has been making for war during the past 40 years. In Africa, at home, in Germany, and in America, but you may not know what she has been doing in China.

NATURAL RESOURCES

A quarter of a century ago she sent one of her Barons to investigate the possibilities of the mineral and coal mines in China. He returned a 3 volume report of the marvellous resources of that great country. The coal mines are 13,000 square miles larger than New England and all the states bordering on the Atlantic from Maine to Florida. There is coal and iron in 15 of the 18 provinces. There is coal sufficient in China alone to supply the whole human race for a thousand years.

Iron and coal we all know go together to make the sinews of modern warfare. The late Kaiser sent a committee to verify the Baron's report and found it true in every particular

CHINA'S ARMY.

Is it any wonder with these facts before her, that when China remodelled her army it was Germany who sent soldiers to drill and train the Chinese soldiers. Even so far west as Chintu 1,000 miles from the nearest port, it was Germans who were training the Chinese in warfare. The Germans spent fortunes in translating German culture into Chinese language.

She had dreams of bringing this greatest of nations to her feet and if the English speaking nations do not get in, the Germans will be there after the war. Germany may be beaten now but she is not crushed. If China should become permeated with Prussianism, what, with her great wealth and quarter of a billion population might she not do? It behooves us to be wide awake. Which shall it be for China, Prussianism or Christianity? If the latter, there must be a great spiritual awakening in Christian lands.

WHAT IS NEEDED?

Jno. R. Mott says "what is needed most to save China is the full Consecration of Christians at home." Now is the opportunity the gates are open. It is for the Christians at home to give. Young people by ten and scores should be offering themselves for service. To you women of the Methodist church God gives a special "Go ye into all the World."

FREEDOM OF CHINA

Give ye, then prayers, sympathy, thoughts and money for the freedom of China from bondage, superstition and ignorance that they may have what our boys have been fighting for "Truth" and "Liberty." Even as my father sent me so I send you," and He says so to you and to me to-day.

CIRCLE CONFERENCE

Mesdames Thomas, Parker and others led the circle and Board Conference and the girls carried away many valuable suggestions for the improvement of their work. Mrs. Thomas outlined the Human Calendar, a comparatively new method of raising money, also the cent a day plan, mile of coppers, etc. Miss Greta Giles and Mrs. Renwick delighted all with their sweetly rendered solos.

Great credit is due to Mrs. Bonney (assistant superintendent St. James Band) and the eleven girls for the splendid way in which they presented "Wen Shim." The spirit of this exercise could no fail to awaken an interest in the work being done in "Chintu in China".

The delegates and visitors were warmly welcomed to St. James in appropriate words of greeting by Mrs. Plunkett to which Miss Udy ably responded.

VISITORS ENTERTAINED

The visitors were entertained in the school room at dinner by St. James ladies, where a social hour was spent

Mrs. E. J. Wagar was appointed Secreary Treasurer and Press Reporter for the year. A vote of thanks was tendered to all who in any way contribued to the success of the convention

Lakefield, through their delegate Mrs. Wesley Sherin, invited the convention for 1919, which was accepted.

THE COLLECTION

The collections and proceeds of the dinner amounted to $32.84.

The "quiet half hour" led by Rev. Mr. Manning was a fitting close to a day which had from first to last been a spiritual uplight proving that the W.M.S. is a work worthy of our best and highest efforts.

Second prize, Abram Bomberger, Lititz; date of purchase, November 17, sixteen cattle weighing 15,780 average 986¼ pounds; date of movement, July 5, sixteen cattle weighed 24,065, average, 1,504,1 pounds; 240 days weight gained by sixteen cattle 8,285 pounds; average weight gained per head, 517.8 pounds; average gained weight per head per day. 2,157 pounds.

Complete Report of the District Meeting of the Woman's Missionary Society

Miss Harrison, a Returned Missionary, Describes Conditions in China—What is Needed to Save the Yellow Race—Activities of the Peterboro Delegates.

(By Jean Wagar)

An earnest and enthusiastic body of missionary workers met in annual convention on Wednesday, November 27th in St. James Methodist church, Mrs. J. K. Moore, District Organizer, presiding. Both sessions were well attended and the interest sustained throughout. Rev. Greatrix, pastor of the church, led the opening devotional exercise in singing and prayer. The beautiful Scripture lesson on "Courage" was given by Mrs. Bookhout.

THE ROLL CALL

The greatest interest and attention were shown as the delegates responded to the Roll call.

Ten auxiliaries, four circles and three bands reported a combined income for the year of $1,700 and a membership of 733.

In her report as organizer, Mrs. Moore showed a year of great activity. Two new auxiliaries and one circle had been organized. She knew the condition of every society in her large district showing she had kept well in touch with every department of her work.

MRS. MOORE CHOSEN

Mrs. Moore was unanimously chosen as superintendent by the District for the coming year.

The programme was excellent throughout. The papers which were of a high order, covered nearly every difficult problem in Auxiliary, circle and band work.

"Tithing," "Systematic giving," How to interest women of the church, and in different auxiliary members," were some of the questions debated and finally settled.

PRACTICAL IDEAS

Mrs. Downey led the auxiliary conference and in her unique and interesting paper on "What constitutes a successful society," she gave the delegates some every practical thoughts for improving the home base. Mrs. Downey maintained that to have a good society. You must have "good" members. They must be kindly in their judgments, willing to do their part. Each woman, however diffident has her part to do and can do it if she reads her Bible and her missionary outlook. The good number must have the interest of the W.M.S. at heart between the meetings as well as at them.

MUST BE SPIRITUAL

Meetings must be spiritual in tone. The woman who has work to do and performs it has no time nor inclination to criticise others. She emphasized how each member might serve with eye, ears, lips, hands and feet and closed by saying that Christ had thrown the torch to us and it is our duty to take it up.

In this conference Mesdames Kendry, Thomas, Lane, Bookhout, Speer, Neville, Cruikshank and the Rev. Mr. Manning each gave helpful and interesting thoughts on the questions under discussion which will add to the success of each auxiliary represented.

Some of the schemes for financing the work were tithing, talent money, mite boxes etc.

Mrs. Spicer in her remarkable paper on the "necessity for prayer and thanksgiving" touched every one who was privileged to hear her. It should be an inspiration to greater zeal and faithfulness to every W.M.S. worker

AFTERNOON SESSION

The devotional exercises of the afternoon were led by Mrs. Batten.

The convention was greatly honored by the presence of Miss Harrison a returned missionary from China, whose address was the special feature of the afternoon session.

MISS HARRISON'S ADDRESS

It is always pleasing to hear the direct results of our efforts and Miss Harrison's address leaves no room for doubt that our work in China has been a success, almost beyond belief.

The chief thought, she tried to bring home, was the present opportunity for service in China especially in Chingtu Szchwan, the special field of the W.M.S.

CONDITIONS IN CHINA

Since the rebellion seven years ago China has been in a constant state of upheaval. Though a republic was formed there is no central government Almost every little town and village is a law unto itself. What wonder, when China had set herself the task of doing in a few months what it took our country a life time to accomplish The province of Szchwan at the extreme west, midway between north and south, has had more than her share of civil war, fighting and bloodshed. But this very war has opened up so many ways for us to serve that the good outweighs the bad. This does not apply to China as a whole but particularly to our Province of Szchwan. Only a few years ago we were pointed out as dreadful foreign devils. We never hear such a thing now.

PERSONAL INSTANCES

Miss Harrison gave many personal instances to prove the change which has taken place in the attitude of the Chinese toward the missionary. Formerly it was the missionary who was always blamed for any political unrest and always had to either hide or fly for safety.

Now, when trouble comes, we are told by the British Consul to hang out our flag and advertise our nationality. They have learned that the missionary is here to help them, not to exploit his country. It was the pioneer missionaries who broke down Chinese prejudice and gained respect and friendship.

THE TWO FACTIONS

Three years ago when a clash seemed imminent between northern soldiers and our people, they came to our missionaries and begged for protection.

They literally teamed into our compound until we had our hands more than full. With 100 refugees and carrying on the regular work at once. At another time 250 came to us for protection and only last July there were nearly 400 who came in their hour of need, giving us the opportunity we had been waiting for for years. To them we were uncouth barbarians rude and uncultured but they put aside pride and came to us. Now they are our warm friends. Services were organized for women, schools for the girls and play hour for tiny tots where they were taugh games and songs and we soon won the confidence of children and mothers.

The trust they put in us now, to protect them, is almost uncanny. Even though bullets were falling thick and fast into our compound, one old woman said as she came in, "now I can get some sleep in peace."

THE OLD WAYS

Through us their hearts have turned to our God and we must keep them. You ask, will they not, when there is no need of protection, go back to the old ways? Some of them undoubtedly will but not all. And there will always remain the friendly feeling for the missionary. One old and aristocratic family who came to us in trouble sent their young son back to our school. The old man said he desired his boy to grow up in a Christian atmosphere. This family lived only a few steps from our mission, but had never beore accepted or allowed any intimacy.

A REFUGEE

Another refugee, a girl of 18 entered our woman's school. A year later she asked to be baptised and we hope to have her for a Bible woman soon.

We have had to refuse so many for lack of room.

Another opportunity is that of entering the home for cottage prayer meeting. There is an average attendance at these of over 30 and many offer and urge the use of their home for prayer service. The growth has been phenomenal and our own church is typical of the growth

CHURCHES IN CHINA

Our churches in China are partitioned for men and women. The woman's side soon overflows and many have to be turned away. Then a separate school for children was organized. They soon increased and outgrew their quarters. We usually had 150 in a room built to accommodate 70. Many had babies tied to their backs and it was a marvel how they kept so quiet for two solid hours. Ten feet were added and fitted up, but it took only ten months to outgrow it again. A second children's church was organized and built on the only spot of our land left. The three churches held service at the same time and the singing was wonderful. In a short time an annex was added.

REFUSED ADMITTANCE

It was heartbreaking to lock the gate and refuse women admittance to hear the gospel. Every building is taxed to its utmost capacity, and still we need room and need it badly, but the general society says. "No money" So we will have to go on till the home people have a vision and then we shall have what is so much needed 2 1-2 per cent. of our membership have dedicated themselves to active service what would that mean here if 2 1-2 per cent. of our Christian church membership volunteered for active service? When a Chinese man is saved, he knows he is saved to "serve", which many hear have still to learn. The missionary in China to-day is reaping the result of the seed sown by the pioneer missionaries.

GREAT OPPORTUNITY

The 3rd and greatest opportunity comes under present conditions. For four years we have heard of the preparations Germany has been making for war during the past 40 years. In Africa, at home, in Germany, and in America, but you may not know what she has been doing in China.

NATURAL RESOURCES

A quarter of a century ago she sent one of her Barons to investigate the possibilities of the mineral and coal mines in China. He returned a 3 volume report of the marvellous resources of that great country. The coal mines are 13,000 square miles larger than New England and all the states bordering on the Atlantic from Maine to Florida. There is coal and iron in 15 of the 18 provinces. There is coal sufficient in China alone to supply the whole human race for a thousand years.

Iron and coal we all know go together to make the sinews of modern warfare. The late Kaiser sent a committee to verify the Baron's report and found it true in every particular

CHINA'S ARMY.

Is it any wonder with these facts before her, that when China remodelled her army it was Germany who sent soldiers to drill and train the Chinese soldiers. Even so far west as Chintu 1,000 miles from the nearest port, it was Germans who were training the Chinese in warfare. The Germans spent fortunes in translating German culture into Chinese language.

She had dreams of bringing this greatest of nations to her feet and if the English speaking nations do not get in, the Germans will be there after the war. Germany may be beaten now but she is not crushed. If China should become permeated with Prussianism, what, with her great wealth and quarter of a billion population might she not do? It behooves us to be wide awake. Which shall it be for China, Prussianism or Christianity? If the latter, there must be a great spiritual awakening in Christian lands.

WHAT IS NEEDED?

Jno. R. Mott says "what is needed most to save China is the full Consecration of Christians at home.' Now is the opportunity the gates are open. It is for the Christians at home to give. Young people by ten and scores should be offering themselves for service. To you women of the Methodist church God gives a special "Go ye into all the World."

FREEDOM OF CHINA

Give ye, then prayers, sympathy, thoughts and money for the freedom of China from bondage, superstition and ignorance that they may have what our boys have been fighting for "Truth" and "Liberty." Even as my father sent me so I send you," and He says so to you and to me to-day.

CIRCLE CONFERENCE

Mesdames Thomas, Parker and others led the circle and Board Conference and the girls carried away many valuable suggestions for the improvement of their work. Mrs. Thomas outlined the Human Calendar, a comparatively new method of raising money, also the cent a day plan, mile of coppers, etc. Miss Greta Giles and Mrs. Renwick delighted all with their sweetly rendered solos.

Great credit is due to Mrs. Bonney (assistant superintendent St. James Band) and the eleven girls for the splendid way in which they presented "Wen Shim." The spirit of this exercise could no fail to awaken an interest in the work being done in "Chintu in China".

The delegates and visitors were warmly welcomed to St. James in appropriate words of greeting by Mrs. Plunkett to which Miss Udy ably responded.

VISITORS ENTERTAINED

The visitors were entertained in the school room at dinner by St. James ladies, where a social hour was spent

Mrs. E. J. Wagar was appointed Secreary Treasurer and Press Reporter for the year. A vote of thanks was tendered to all who in any way contribued to the success of the convention

Lakefield, through their delegate Mrs. Wesley Sherin, invited the convention for 1919, which was accepted.

THE COLLECTION

The collections and proceeds of the dinner amounted to $32.84.

The "quiet half hour" led by Rev. Mr. Manning was a fitting close to a day which had from first to last been a spiritual uplight proving that the W.M.S. is a work worthy of our best and highest efforts.

Forty-sixth Anniversary at George Street Church

Rev. J. P. Wilson Preached at the Morning Service, and Rev. A. J. Thomas in the Evening —Special Music.

The forty-sixth anniversary of George street Methodist church was observed yesterday when the church was crowded both morning and evening.

The forty-six years cover the church as it stands to-day, while it was originated in 1834, starting with a little frame building on the present site. Gradually as the membership grew and the accommodation became inadequate, a larger building replaced the little frame church in 1844. Ten years later an addition was made, while in 1864 a splendid organ was installed.

Present Church.

In 1872, with the rapid growth of membership, it was found necessary to erect a new church, and the present building was constructed at a cost of $60,000, with a $80,000 Sunday school.

During the past 46 years the church has flourished until at present the membership stands at 1,070.

Special Services.

Special services to celebrate the anniversary were held yesterday morning and evening. At the morning service Rev. J. P. Wilson, D.D., who was pastor of the church from 1900 to 1904, conducted the service and preached a special sermon.

At the evening service, Rev. A. J. Thomas, who has been pastor since July, 1917, when he succeeded Rev. R. G. Peever, preached an impressive sermon on the certain destruction of the world without the Christian message, using as his text Proverbs xxix. verse 18, "Where There is No Voice the People Perish."

The text stands to-day as true as in the days of the prophet," said Mr. Thomas. Ignorance or indifference to God's word means destruction, and it is true to-day. Society needs the restraining hand of God. Some of us do not prize or pay heed to the message, but the closing of the Book of the Church would mean a great calamity to the world. People who would not like to be called Atheists are content to live as Atheists.

He emphasized the Message in its different phases. Frivolity is one of the sins of the age. To-day so much time is given to science and evolution we have to a great extent forgotten God, while without the conception of Him we cannot build the church. If we eliminate God from our thoughts, Christianity, which exalts human nature, would perish.

Again there is a tendency to belittle the human nature, forgetting man is the image of the church. Germany was an outstanding example of this when, with no concern for the individual, she threw her vast forces against the Allies.

Another phase of the Message comes in the seriousness of sin. We must keep active to be warned of its perils. To too many it is a trivial matter, but underneath it is not what it may appear, and we must stop to consider its power. Nothing but the grace of God can save us from destruction.

SIGNALLER STAN ROOTES, M.M. Who is Returning Home To-day.

Promise of Salvation.

The message emphasizes the promise of Salvation. Side by side with that of destruction comes His redemption. Without the vision of salvation the people would perish. Next is the call to service. Before the war we were in danger of becoming commercialized, but with the sacrifices we seem to have caught the spirit of service during the awful days. It is to be hoped that now peace has come, we shall be still unselfish, as there is still as great a call for us to do so.

Lastly the Christian message emphasizes immortality. If life were but a matter of three score and ten years it would matter little, but if life is a preparation for immortality it matters much how we utilize it.

The Music.

The music at both services was exceptionally fine. In the morning Miss Mazie Armstrong sang "Teach Me To Pray," very sweetly. In the evening, Mrs. J. H. Renwick, the soloist, sang, "The Song the Angels Sing." The choir, under the direction of Mr. J. H. Renwick, did justice to his skilful training.

A Feature.

A feature of the evening service was a chorus of forty-six little white clad Sunday school girls, who marched from the doors to the platform singing "The Church in the Valley." The girls' sweet, childish voices lent a pretty effect to the anniversary services.

Peterboro Boy Celebrates His Birthday Anniversary for the Fourth Time in France

Lance-Corporal Alex. MacNab Describes the Lively Action During the Last Few Days of the Fighting.

The following interesting letter from Lance-Corp. Alan MacNab is addressed to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. MacNab. The letter follows:

London, Nov. 10th, 1918.

My Dear Folks,— At last I have found time to write to you, and please note the place from which this is written. I left the battalion on 7th, and arrived here on the afternoon of 9th. Needless to say I was tickled to see the smoke of "Ole Lunnon" again. And this is the first day I have had to myself since I wrote you last from France, saying we were in rest.

We went up the line the day after I wrote, and were not relieved until the day I came away on leave. Believe me we had some lively time during that period.

Our platoon was attached to the 38th battalion, we did all the patrol and advance guard work for them. We kicked off on the morning of Nov. 1st, and after getting across the d—md canal, (of which you will have read) we started through Valenciennes. Heinie put up quite a fight with machine guns, and snipers, but we cleared them out one by one. It was some funny war at this stage of the game. We would dodge along from house to house, and from cover to cover, taking "pots" at Heinie as opportunity offered, and at the same time the "civies" were rushing to their doors to hand out coffee, wines, and food, although they had practically no food for themselves. Have you got the picture of it? Heinie set several parts of the city on fire as he retreated, but these did not make much headway. —V. was certainly a very fine city before the war, and is yet for that matter, except that it is depopulated at the present time, to a great extent.

The following day we pushed out along the Mons road, to the next village. It was on this day that Heinie got in bad work for our platoon—he let our patrols come within twenty yards of his position, and then opened with there machine guns. Three of the patrol were killed, the rest escaped unhurt. Well those three guns gave us a bit to think about for a while, but when we finally landed them, we only left two of the square heads to tell the tale. We needed them for that purpose or they would have gone west, too. Next day, Nov. 3rd, was my birthday anniversary. I had been telling my section to look out for trouble on that day as something nasty has happened to me every Nov. 3rd since my arrival in France.

In the morning myself and two others were sent out on patrol to locate Fritz. We went straight up the main Mons road for about a mile before we saw any sign of him. By the way, that road was littered with smashed up transports of his. Our artillery had apparently been after him the day before, and there was a terrible conglomeration of dead Huns, dead horses, and smashed up waggons. I saw a fine big 8 in. cannon not far from the road, left behind by the Hun in his hurry, and was just going to cross the open field to mark our battalion sign on it, when I noticed a Hun running down the road, ahead of me. I swung my rifle up to get him. Before I could fire, another Heinie let go at me and missed. So I bagged my man, and jumped into the ditch for cover. By this time I had decided that the Cyclists did not want that gun for a trophy after all. We lay under cover for about five minutes, taking an odd bang at Fritz, and he doing the same at us. Then I decided it was time to get back and report we had found him.

But it was in the afternoon of that day, that the real "troubles" I had been expecting arrived. Heine decided to make a stand at one point, and to get him going, we had to go over the top in the good old way again. As we lay in a sunken road, waiting for a signal to go over, Heinies' planes came along, and dropped load after load of bombs on us, and machine gunned us as well. Finally came the signal, and we were up and over. Well it was funny to see Fritz beat it. Just as soon as we got on top he climbed out of his hole, and ran for dear life. Only two or three machine guns, and his artillery stuck it, but believe me they were quite enough, as his "whiz-bangs" were firing point blank. He gave us a terrible machine gun and "whiz-bang" barrage, and we simply had to race from one "ole" to another "ole" to get forward at all. I only had four men in my section going in, and two of them were killed. It certainly was rough luck. The next day at daybreak, we went over on foot with the infantry again. We progressed about two kilometers, and then had to dig funk holes, and lay in them all day long. We were relieved that night, and went into support, where we stayed all next day and night, although the line moved ahead. Following day we were relieved from the line, and came back to Val.

And now here I am at 9:30 p.m. stretched out in a Morris chair, at the Maple Leaf Club in old Blighty, writing to you. Bon! I will say it is. I will be sending over a box while I am here on leave. It will contain among other things, a fine big helmet with brass trimmings, once worn by a Bavarian officer, and also an iron cross. There will be some old coins, too, taken from the pack of a Heinie. Goodness knows where he looted them from. The war is all over now, so don't worry. I will be home for the New Year. To-morrow is Fritzy's last day to say "yes" or "no." After that he will have no say at all. With best love to all.

ALAN.

Thomas A. Wise, with "General Post" which plays a return engagement at "The Grand" next Thursday evening, by popular request.

Having the reputation of making London laugh for two years, is a criterion of what the patrons of the Grand Opera House can expect when "General Post," the sensational English comedy success with Thomas A. Wise and Edward H. Robins, assisted by a distinguished New York company, plays a return engagement on Thursday night, December 5th.

"General Post" was written for laughing purposes and derives its name from the old English Parlour Game, which as children we knew so well, called "Stage Coach."

Mr. Thomas A. Wise long has been regarded as America's most eminent character comedian, and will play the part he created, Sir Dennys Broughton. Playing opposite Mr. Wise, in a role calling for bright comedy works, equally exacting, is Mr. Edward Robins, who will best be remembered for his superior work under the direction of David Belasco, who discovered him and made him famous in New York over night when he selected him as leading man with Miss Frances Starr in the great American drama, "The Easiest Way."

ARGUMENT CONCLUDED THIS MORNING.

Argument was concluded this morning in the case of John P. Leahy vs. John F. Leahy, which was tried on Friday and Saturday before Judge Huycke. The plaintiff, a man of eighty, claims the chattles on the homestead given to his son, and also a cancellation of the agreement giving the farm to the son on the ground that the son's conduct was such as to force the father to live elsewhere. A number of witnesses were called on each side. Mr. Joseph Wearing is acting for the plaintiff, and Mr. F. D. Kerr and Mr. J. T. McElderry for the defendants. Judgment was reserved.

Mr. J. J. Turner Objects to the Proposed Street Railway Extension

Claims That a Street Line Down the Monaghan Road Involves a Waste of Money—Too Late in the Season.

The following open letter is addressed to His Worship the Mayor and City Aldermen by Mr. J. J. Turner, President of the Peterborough Board of Trade:

His Worship the Mayor and City Council:

Gentlemen,—I noticed an item in the daily press on Saturday with reference to the extension of the Street Railway from Charlotte Street down Monaghan Road, stating the work would be undertaken at once.

I desire to protest against this waste of money, which will come out of the pocket of the people, first, because the extension of the Street Railway in the place specified is altogether unnecessary, and, second, it cannot be undertaken at this time of the year as economically as if the work was begun under more favourable conditions during the spring or summer months.

I direct your attention to a communication dated March 5th, 1918, addressed to the Railway Committee of the City Council, in which was outlined the Street Railway proposition for the city, and emphasis laid on the advantage of extending the Street Railway system through the district south of the Grand Trunk Railway, west of Aylmer, east of Monaghan Road, and north of the river. A blue print was also submitted showing suggested route, which would traverse the heart of the section specified, and link up with the George Street line. A petition was circulated and largely signed by the ratepayers, asking for railway extension other than the proposed extension down Monaghan Road, to be presented to Sir Adam Beck, chairman of the Hydro-Electric Commission.

A Stub Line.

It appears as if the letter of March 5th, with blue print and petition, circulated and signed by the people, has not been given due weight and consideration, but rather emphasis has been laid on the unsatisfactory railway service along Park Street north of Charlotte Street, and with a desire to improve the service at this point, a stub line will run from Charlotte Street down Monaghan Road to give sufficient trackage, and make room for another car, irrespective of whether the extension will have any earning power.

The writer was present at an interview with Mr. Ireland, the Hydro-Electric engineer for this district, who stated that $30,000.00 would be expended by the Hydro-Electric Commission on the Peterborough Street Railway as follows: $10,000.00 for extension, $20,000.00 for two new cars, the contract for which had not been let, consequently if any extension is made at the present time it cannot be used until new cars have been obtained to operate on the service, and if the order was placed at once delivery would not be obtained until spring of next year. Representation was made to Mr. Ireland as to the advisability of using the materials on hand for the Monaghan Road extension at some other point, which would give more revenue and warrant the work being undertaken. Mr. Ireland requested the matter be considered with W. G. Ferguson, the local representative, and if it could be shown the extension could be made through a more advantageous territory to serve a larger number of people, and bring in greater returns, then the Hydro-Electric would consider the matter and decide the best position for the extension of the work.

Held a Meeting.

Since that meeting there has been no delay, for the committee, composed of two members of the engineer's section and Chairman of the Publicity and Transportation Committee of the Board of Trade, have been dealing with the matter, gathering statistics as to the number of people present in a certain portion of the city, the amount of traffic to and from the factories, and other data which would be laid before Mr. Ferguson at an early date.

Some days ago, however, there was a meeting in Toronto to confer with the Hydro-Electric Board, and our local representative pressed for the completion of the extension of the Street Railway system down Monaghan Road which had been promised by the Commission, based on representations made by the City Council as being a satisfactory extension to solve our transportation problems.

I submit this extension is a waste of money, as it is not being laid in the proper place.

With reference to doing the work at this season of the year, this also is unnecessary, as it cannot be used until cars have been procured, and with uncertain winter weather, must cost much more than if the work was undertaken in a more favourable season. I suggest immediate action by the City Council to stop the work until the matter has further consideration to prevent a mistake being made, as will no doubt be the case if the work is gone on with as at present specified.

I am sending a copy of this letter to the daily press.

Yours respectfully,
J. J. Turner, Jr., President.

ROUMANIANS IN SLAVERY.

What German Rule Means In Conquered Country.

"A reliable informant who left Roumania early in July, 1918, has given a very interesting description of the conditions which prevail in that country and also of the German activity, which continues in spite of the fact that peace has been definitely concluded," writes Capt. Alfred F. Ozanne.

"At present the Germans are pillaging the country from one end to the other. It is no exaggeration to say that everything in Roumania which could be exported has been seized and sent into Germany. Even door handles and window catches, bells and kitchen utensils have been taken away.

"But that is not all. The Germans have carried off all the linen, and the civilians have been allowed to keep only two sets of underwear. A certain number of people have, however, been allowed to keep their belongings by bribing the German officials with a liberal gift of wine. All the timber in Roumania has been taken away, whole forests have been cut down, and the Germans have even raised the parquetry off the floors in private dwelling houses. Each German soldier is authorized to send to his people in Germany a 10-lb. parcel of goods filched from the inhabitants every week, and even the higher grade officers declare that their families could not exist without these contributions.

"The final blow has been given to the country in three decrees which the King of Roumania was compelled to sign. In virtue of the first decree the 'General Directorate of Imports, Exports, and Provisioning' was created. The powers of this directorate extend over the whole economic life of the country. For instance, no one is able to import or export merchandise without the consent of the directorate, which is thus able to close the Roumanian market to the Entente and direct all Roumanian products toward the Central Empires. The directorate has also the power to decide, without any right to appeal, how the soil must be cultivated; it has the power to order the deportation of the entire agricultural population from one region to another; it can impose fines and even imprisonment upon a recalcitrant population; and finally, the decree insures the exercise of these powers for a term of ten years. The head of this directorate is a 'creature' of the Germans, one Dr. Antipa, who has been put on the footing of a minister of state.

"The second decree lays down that the whole of the rural population is compelled to work. This decree embraces all males between the ages of 14 and 60 and all females between the ages of 14 and 50. Each peasant is only able to attend to his own land a certain number of days; the rest of his time must be devoted to the authorities, who utilize the peasant as they wish at a ridiculous wage. The decree further enables the authorities to remove what agricultural machinery it sees fit to remove from any owner and use it on other land. The General Directorate is thus able to ruin whomsoever it pleases."

Great Saving In Steel.

Reports from reinforced concrete shipyards in England, Scotland and Ireland show that good progress is being made in the construction of 1,000-ton seagoing barges for the Admiralty Department of Merchant Shipbuilding. Vessels of this class are urgently required, and the program of construction already authorized comprises barges and other vessels representing about 200,000 tons of shipping, and a capital outlay estimated at nearly £4,000,000, apart from the cost of land and shipyard plant. The saving in steel is fully 70,000 tons on what would have been required for steel ships of the same carrying capacity. It is believed that a still larger saving will be effected in future.

Interesting Features Concerning the Overhead Bridge to be Erected on Hunter Street

The New Structure Will Eliminate a Dangerous Grade Crossing—Bridge Will Provide for All Kinds of Traffic—Contractors Will Not Have a Chance to "Skimp the Job."

(From Canadian Engineer.)

Several interesting points of design attract attention to the new high level reinforced concrete bridge that will be built within the next few months at Peterborough, Ont., besides the fact that it will have the longest clear span of any concrete arch in Canada.

The bridge will carry Hunter Street across the Otonabee River and across the Grand Trunk Railway tracks on the west bank of the river. It will replace an old steel bridge which is at the level of the railway tracks and will eliminate a dangerous grade crossing. The project is the result of an agreement between the Quaker Oats Co. and the city of Peterborough. Two advantages accrue to the Quaker Oats Co.: First, the shunting in their yards will not be hampered as previously by the Hunter Street traffic; and, second, an approach from the level of the bridge to the third story of their adjacent plant will enable them, without inconvenience, to have the main offices on the third floor of their building instead of on the ground level, thus somewhat escaping the dirt and confusion of the surrounding railway yards, and also permitting the lower two stories to be used entirely for shipping and receiving.

Frank Barber, consulting engineer, of Toronto, some time ago was requested by the city authorities to prepare plans and specifications for the new bridge, which will probably cost approximately $300,000. Tenders have been called and the contract will probably be let before the end of this year, and work will proceed at an early date.

There will be about 17,000 cubic yards of concrete and 250 tons of reinforcing steel in the bridge. Over 7,000 cubic yards of excavation will be required, and about 14,000 cubic yards of fill. The main river arch will have a clear span of 235 feet. Besides the river arch there will be fourteen other arches, seven on each side of the river. The total length of the outline of the fifteen arches will be 1,065 feet, although the length of the entire bridge, including approaches from end to end of retaining walls, will be 1,750 feet.

The bridge will have but one deck, although an opening will be left in each approach pier to provide for foot traffic at the present level. Means are also being provided, by means of ramps, for vehicular traffic from the present level to the new high level.

The width of the roadway will be 42 feet between curbs, as provision must be made for a double-track street car line, with 6 feet walk on each side. The overall width of the bridge will be about 56 feet. The sidewalk surface at the centre of the bridge will be 48 feet 9½ inches above ordinary water level.

In order that the architectural treatment might proceed hand in hand with the engineering design, Mr. Barber arranged for association with Claude Bragdon, a well-known architect of Rochester, N.Y.

The entire bridge will receive a surface treatment of at least two inches of granite, placed next to the forms simultaneously with the concrete backing. After hard setting, the entire surface will be either polished or chipped to bring out the desired lighting and colour effects.

For the polished parts, the surfacing will consist of gray granite chips and grit, rubbed down for at least an eighth of an inch until smooth and even so that the small stones will be split and polished. Granite crushed stone will be used for the surfacing where chipped finish is required, and this will be chipped in such a manner as to expose the stone aggregate.

As the total surface area of the bridge will be less than 9,000 square yards, this treatment will be an incidental expense compared with the whole cost of the structure.

The panels in the balustrade of the river span and the ornamental cartouches on the lookout balconies in the centre of the span, also those on the four terminal piers, will be all mat glazed coloured terra cotta in harmonious tones.

The arch ring of the river span will be concreted in sections in such a manner as, to avoid shrinkage, leaving key spaces between the sections and closing the key spaces last of all. The sections between the bulkheads in the arch ring of this span will be concreted, and in all other arch rings concreting will begin at both skewbacks and proceed from both equally to the crown. A key space at the crown approximately one foot wide will be left between the bulkheads to be concreted at least twenty-four hours after the remainder of the ring has been concreted, in order that the shrinkage of the ring due to the setting of the concrete may take place before the ring is completed and closed at the crown. Each spandrel arch, however, will be finished without joints; that is, at one operation.

The river arch having been concreted in voussoirs, the closure of the key spaces will be made twenty-four hours or more after the concreting of the larger voussoirs.

Following European practice, temporary hinges or pivots will be used at the skewbacks and the crown of the river span. The voussoir which contains the pivot will be concreted up to the pivot, with steel rods projecting, and then a half-inch layer of melted lead will be poured against the pivot surface, the layer being 15 inches long by the whole width of the arch ring. The remaining part of this voussoir will then be concreted on top of the lead.

The lead will be mixed with alloy to such a consistency that it will flow at 1,200 lbs. per square inch, sustaining three-quarters of the load, the other quarter being taken up by the steel rods. The steel rods also prevent the arch ring from slipping off the pivot. A thermometer will be embedded in the arch ring and when the temperature of the ring is at 45 deg. Fah., which is considered the average yearly temperature, the joints at the skewbacks and crown will be "gunited," that is, filled in with the dense sand-cement mortar shot by the cement-gun. The arch will be completed and the whole dead load will be in place before these joints are thus closed.

This results in minimum temperature stresses and in the practical elimination of rib-shortening stresses. The principal stresses in this arch are the compressive stresses due to dead load, and they are never neutralized or reversed by live load or temperature stresses, consequently the entire rib is always in compression. Therefore there is no reinforcing whatever in the ring of the river arch.

The spans of the five spandrel arches on each side of the centre of the river arch are all different, the length being greatest over the skewbacks and decreasing gradually toward the crown. This is said to be a novel feature but a logical one on account of the decreasing height of the spandrel piers.

It will be noticed from the plan that the approach arches on the west are not right arches. However, the skew is slight. The additional stresses caused by the skew have been allowed for, as nearly as could be approximated, by bunching of the reinforcing along the shorter centre diagonal of the parallelogram formed by the sides of the span and by the piers.

The soffits of the approach arches are semi-ellipses. Flat arches were necessitated by the clearance requirements of the railway yard. The neutral axes of these arches were designed so as to be identical with the line of resultant pressure due to the dead loads plus half the live loads. The arches being necessarily flat, the semi-ellipse fitted the soffit of the arch by the addition merely of a small amount of concrete near the skewbacks to complete the curve. For consistency of design the spandrel arches are also semi-ellipses.

Since the approach spans are alternated, small and large on account of the track layout in the yard, the balancing of the horizontal thrust of adjacent arches was found to be a somewhat tedious problem.

The barrel type of arch was chosen in preference to the beam and slab construction, which has previously been generally used for the floor system of open spandrel arches. The barrel system was found economical on account of the present price of steel and labour, although requiring more concrete, as steel and labour are items which have risen in cost to a greater extent than have the constituent materials of concrete. About 350 cubic yards of cinder fill will be used over the spandrel arches, cinders being used instead of earth or gravel in order to save weight. The only beam and slab construction in the bridge will be in connection with stairs leading to a baseball field on the west side of the river and for the sidewalk and curbs, underneath which space for public services is provided.

Another departure in the construction of the bridge will be the adoption of the Heath-Edwards or surface area method of proportioning concrete, as described in the July 4th and July 11th, 1918, issues of "The Canadian Engineer." The specifications for the bridge require that the quantity of the cement in relation to the aggregates should be proportioned by this method. After tests by the engineers, the contractor will be given written instructions as to the proportioning, in order to obtain the required strengths with the minimum amount of cement. This method of proportioning fits in well with another clause in the specifications, stating that the contractor must furnish the cement but that he will be paid a certain fixed price for every barrel used, proof of its use to be furnished. In this way the contractor is not allowed to use too much cement, and on the other hand, he would gain absolutely nothing by "skimping the job," as he is paid only for what he uses.

Associated with Mr. Barber as chief assistants on design, were W. E. Taylor and Fred. Christie.

Did you ever realize how important the poultry industry might become in Canada?

No less an authority than Mr. Fred C. Elford who superintends the poultry division at the Dominion Experimental Farm, Ottawa, declares that Canada could pay her national debt for the war has grown to $1,247,000,000—by exporting eggs. He figures that if every farm in Canada maintained a flock of 100 chickens, which is well within the limits of what is possible, and if every city, town and village did its share in keeping only ten chickens in each back yard and garden, we could produce 700,000,000 dozen eggs per year for export, and above domestic consumption, and eat twice the number of eggs we do now, at that. At 40 cents per dozen our egg exports would pay the interest on the national debt, and wipe it out entirely in less than six years.

HOW LIEUT. STRATTON WON MILITARY CROSS

Helped to Salve Two 18-Pounder Guns Under Fire.

The London Times, in a recent issue, gives the appended account of the exploit which earned for Lieut. J. R. Stratton, of Peterborough, the Military Cross. Lieut. Stratton is a son of Mr. A. H. Stratton, and a member of the Royal Engineers. It is understood that Lieut. Stratton will go to India for six years with the Imperial forces, following the conclusion of the peace negotiations. The reference in the London Times is as follows:

"Lieut. J. R. Stratton, M.C., R.E.—When a party of volunteers was organized to salve two 18-pounder guns, which had been abandoned some months before and were lying in front of the lines, he accompanied the officer commanding operations and displayed the utmost courage in preparing the track and making the necessary bridges. These had to be constructed in front of the front line and under harassing machine gun fire. It was largely due to his coolness and initiative that the operation was successfully carried out. (M.C. gazetted Dec. 11, 1916)."

Voice of The People

To the Editor of The Examiner:

Dear Sir,—In your issue of Friday, November 29th, there is a letter signed J. Guise-Bagley, and I feel that perhaps I ought to answer it in a measure. He asks to have a "little light" on a number of subjects. It is unfortunate that Mr. Guise-Bagley was not at the mass meeting at which Dr. Shearer spoke. If he had been his letter would have been unnecessary, but of course his name would not have been before the public. With reference to the "35,000 children socially murdered each year," the subject is too delicate a matter to be put in the press for children to read, but I will be glad to enlighten Mr. Guise-Bagley if he will see me in this regard, or better still let him be at the mass meeting which is to be held in the Public Library Assembly Hall on the evening of December 5th, Thursday, where all information will be at his disposal, in this regard, for the asking. The twenty planks of the platform of the Social Service Council I will be glad to supply to any who call at my office, space will not permit them being published again, they have already been published in the press. The "questions turned down by the Senate" I will briefly outline. "(1st) Raising the age of consent for girls from 14 to 16." I might just add that all of the Northern States, Australia, South Africa, Great Britain, New Zealand and others, the age of consent is 16 to 18 years. Canada, Mexico, Hungary, Austria, Fermany, etc., the age of consent is 14. We want to get in better company. (2nd)) "Raising the age in which girls of previous chaste character have protection against seduction from 16 to 19 years." (3rd) "Protecting all female employees under 21, of previous chaste character against seduction by male employers, including foremen, managers, superintendents, etc." Those in "shops, work-shops, mills, factories, and stores," are now protected—not in restaurants, hotels, offices, etc. (4th) "Making it a crime for a man and woman falsely to register as husband and wife in any hotel or lodging-house." I am sure that Mr. Guise-Bagley and the great majority of Peterborough citizens will be glad to get behind any power who are endeavouring to get amendments to the criminal code on such as the foregoing. We are also glad to have the matter of what is "The greatest moral question of the day" settled and brought to our notice by such a well-known moralist and intellectual giant as J. G.-B., who by "reading between the lines" frames up an imaginary something from the depths of his gigantic brain, and then proceeds to annihilate it to the King's taste—throw out his chest—pin a few medals on himself and strut around the city asking his acquaintances "if they read his letter in the Examiner." We are glad to note for the sake of the future of Peterborough that such a robust specimen of manhood as Mr. G.-B., is not a follower of that erroneous, political, fanatic Malthus—but that our fair city should rather recommend him for a bounty. Then again this Anti-Malthusian accuses me falsely (because I am one who does, and God willing will again meet and talk about morality) when he says, "a large trade is carried on in the manufacture and sale of appliances and devices to the end that not thirty-five thousand, but ten times that number of potential children are murdered every year, and the perpetrators of these abominable and atrocious practices dare to meet and talk about morality." If there is one spark of real manhood in the author of the above accusation he will at least beg my pardon as publicly as he slandered me, and many other gentlemen whose morals are proven to be above reproach in Peterborough, long before J. G.-B., graced our city with his person and press with his outpourings.

Yours sincerely,
HUGHSON JOHNSTONE.

A CORPS HEADQUARTERS

It may be anywhere. It may be in a village. It may be dug in under the side of a hill; and now that all along the front the armies are moving and the belt of devasted recaptured country grows broader behind them, the Corps Headquarters will be found in strange places. But the Headquarters of this Corps were, at this time, in a village.

It was a village which war had reached but had not destroyed. Most of the cottages stood, and were whole, but there were two that looked as if, suddenly they had fallen into pieces. All were empty. There was no smoke in the chimnies; there were no people, either peasants or soldiers in the streets. Only the sunlight seemed to inhabit that village. Then halfway down the main street we met three Chinamen. They were all in blue, but one wore a straw hat of a strange shape (it was a warm and sunny day), the second a woollen helmet and the third a Sou-wester. No one else was to be seen.

Near the bottom of the street we came to a tall red house among trees. At its gate was a sentry box, and a small flag stood out from the high garden wall. On the other side of the street a grey staff car waited silent, beside a white farm cottage. Two flights of steps met on a little railed platform at the door. The windows were boarded up with new wood, and on the door post was the one word "operations." This was the Headquarters of the Corps.

Inside was a stone-floored room with white-washed walls. In the room were two small tables, each in a corner, at which two officers sat, and against one of the walls stood a high drawing desk with maps spread on it and other maps in rolls on the shelf beneath. The chairs belonged to the farmhouse, but the tables and drawing desk were of new, unpainted wood. There was nothing else in the room but the papers and telephones on the two tables.

"Carried out our reliefs all night last night," said one of the officers, a staff Captain. "Everything very quiet. No trouble. We're pushing again to-morrow, you know—our Corps and part of—Army. Here you are," and he unrolled a map, "first, second and third objectives," and he pointed to a red and green and an orange line drawn boldly across the faint brown contour lines of the map and the neat rows of blue crosses, marking the enemy's wire. "That'll take us to the top of the ridge," he went on. "We're not going any further, but there and here," and he pointed to two salients in blue pencil jutting out from the orange line, "we shall push on a bit, pick up anything we can and fall back."

As we looked at the map, the telephone rang. The Staff Captain answered it. Then he returned to Major "—— Army wants to give us the time," he said.

"Better send for Signals and take it then," said the Major who was going through some pencilled notes which were the report of the last push. So Signals was sent for and came, in the person of a Lieutenant with the precious watches in a wooden box, and—Army gave—Corps the time.

Somewhere, fifteen miles to the eastwards, the troops that had made the relief the night before were waiting for night and then for the dawn that would send them on their way. They were making their last preparations, picking up, across No-Man's-Land, the points which for each was that red line on the map, the first objective. Somewhere away westwards and southwards of that empty village were the Headquarters of the Marshal, to whom this attack was only one small move in a great scheme worked out the whole length of the battle line of France. When the news came to him that the orange line was reached and the ridge was held, he would turn to another part of the map and set new armies in movement.

Meanwhile it still wanted some sixteen hours to the attack, and —Army had given—Corps the time. It was then about noon.

When we went out of the white cottage marked "Operations" the street was altogether empty, for the three Chinamen had gone, but overhead an aeroplane was hovering lower and lower making ready to drop a message.

DAMASCUS AND BEYROUT.

Historic City Has Been Delivered From Turks.

Damaseus, the capital of Syria, which was recently captured from the Turks by the British army, is an ancient town occupying a site of singular beauty, 57 miles from the seaport of Beyrout.

The River Barada, the Abana of the Bible, intersects the city, in a deep, rapid current, averaging 50 feet wide; about 22 miles eastward the river empties itself into a lake, which, in the heat of summer, transforms itself into a morass. On the river's northern bank is a large and comparatively modern city; but the whole of the ancient city, and the principal buildings, are spread over the plain on the south. By an admirable system of channels and pipes the river water is conveyed into almost every house, supplying that first requisite of eastern life and luxury. The orchards, gardens, vineyards and fields of Damascus cover a circuit of at least 60 miles; their unrivalled beauty and luxuriance is owed to the Abana. This river irrigates over 300 square miles of land; the River Awaj, the ancient Pharpar, irrigates nearly 100 more.

The history of Damascus reaches far back into the mists of antiquity. Josephus says the city was founded by Uz, the son of Aram; it was already a noted place in the days of Abraham. In the centre of the city stands the great mosque, and near it are the grey battlements of the old castle. Tapering minarets and swelling domes, tipped with golden crescents, rise above the white-terraced roofs.

The gardens and orchards encompass the whole city.

The houses of the city belie the rough appearance of their exteriors and are within scenes of splendor, and the admiration of every visitor. The population is estimated at 150,000.

The manufactures of Damascus are principally silks, woollen and cotton cloths, gold and silver ornaments, arms and household utensils.

In 1860 occurred the Moslem massacre of Christians, when the whole of the Christian quarter was burned and 3,000 adult males murdered in cold blood.

Beyrout, which at last accounts was threatened by French cavalry, is the most important seaport town of Syria on the coast of the Mediterranean in the pashalic of Acre, is 57 miles west northwest of Damascus. It is a place of great antiquity and may perhaps be identified with the Berothah of the Phoenicians. For a time at least it was under the supremacy of Sidon. Destroyed by Trypho, the Syrian usurper, about 140 B.C., it was restored by the elder Agrippa about 41 A.D., raised to the rank of a Roman colony and adorned with an amphitheatre and various splendid buildings. In the third century it became the seat of a school of jurisprudence which long maintained its reputation and was attended by several eminent men. Beyrout was damaged by an earthquake in 551 A.D. In the time of the Crusades Beyrout again rose to importance and was captured by Baldwin I., in 1111, after a two months' siege. Early in the 17th century it became a chief seat of the Druses, who held it till 1762, when it again fell into the hands of the Turks. In 1772 it was bombarded and plundered by a Russian fleet, and in 1840 it was nearly destroyed by the attack of the British under Admiral Stopford.

The Future Cowboy.

There's a lack of realism in this modern play." "Why so?" A cowboy swaggers into a saloon and calls for ginger ale." "You haven't kept with the march of events. Some of the hardest cases in cowboy circles are drinking ginger ale now."

Peterboro Milk Producers' Association Elect Officers

Objects and Aims of Association Outlined at a Meeting Held Saturday Afternoon.

"It is never too late to mend" was the tone of the Milk Producers' Association which met Saturday afternoon in the Trades and Labour Hall. The members felt that it was time to set their house in order and get down to cold facts.

Mr. Joseph O'Reilly, the president pro tem outlined the objects of the Association and called for the election of officers. It was suggested that an executive representative of the different districts should be elected to appoint the officers, which was proceeded with. Mr. R. B. Rogers was in the chair.

Officers Elected.

The following dairymen were elected to the executive: Mr. R. B. Rogers, Douro; Reeve John McIntosh, North Monaghan; Mr. Joseph O'Reilly, Douro; Mr. Alex. McGregor, Smith; Mr. E. Deyell, Otonabee; Mr. James Seymour, Cavan; Mr. Robert Wilson, Otonabee; Mr. W. J. Telford, Ennismore; Mr. T. B. Young, North Monaghan; Mr. Edgar Wood, Otonabee; Mr. George Deyell, Smith; Mr. T. Jones, Emily; and Mr. T. N. D. Kelly, of Bridgenorth.

Mr. Deyell voiced the sentiments of the Association when he said that he thought that distributing centres should be established in the city. "More money can be made in the retailing of milk," stated Mr. Devell, "than in the producing, and I don't see why we couldn't retail it also instead of sending it to creameries.

Mr. O'Reilly thought that a fair price was being obtained for milk at the present, as the price went up to $2.70 per hundred pounds, a raise of 60c.

The executive elect will meet next Saturday, December 7th, at 2 o'clock in the County Council Chambers to appoint the officers of the new Association.

TRADE HAS DECREASED.

Interesting Figures Given Out by Customs Department.

A decrease of $250,102,030 in the total trade of Canada for the first half of the present fiscal year, as compared with the same period in 1917, is shown by the trade statement issued from the Customs Department. The trade of the Dominion for the first six months of the present fiscal year which ended on Sept. 30, amounted to $1,087,232,880, while on the same date a year ago it had reached a total of $1,337,424,910. For the month of September alone, however, the trade figures show an increase of more than twenty millions over the same month last year, the total being $212,054,292, as against $191,370,412 in 1917. This is largely due to the jump in the export of domestic manufactured articles during the past month, which increased over thirty-five million dollars.

The falling-off in the six months is chiefly in exports. The statement shows a decrease in exports during the six month period of $176,278,208 when compared with the first half of 1917. Imports, during the same period, show a drop of $65,393,010 in comparison to 1917. Domestic merchandise exported from Canada during the first half of the present fiscal year amounted to $590,585,514, while in 1917 it reached a total of $766,863,722. Imports entered the country to a total value of $484,532,214 this year, while in 1917 they were $549,925,224.

Agricultural products exported from Canada during the first six months of the present fiscal year amounted to $133,683,806, while a year ago they reached a total of $260,654,960. This is a decrease of $125,971,154. Exports of domestic manufactured articles show a falling off of fifty-seven million when compared with 1917. On the other hand the exports of forest products this year was more than twelve million dollars greater than it was in 1917.

German's Bitterly Condemn the Former Kaiser's Flight

The Front Offered Wilhelm an Opportunity of Adding Fresh Lustre to the Monarchial Idea.

LONDON, Dec. 3.—(British Admiralty Wireless.)—An Amsterdam telegram says that the publication of the reputed abdication of the Kaiser has caused a great impression in Holland, according to the Berlin correspondence of the "Berlinske Dende." The Kaiser's flight from Germany is being bitterly condemned in all quarters, and particularly by the soldiers. Dr. Steinager, a professor of law, writes in the "Tage" of Berlin. No criticism could be too strong for the Kaiser's action, which was unkind and unsoldierly and unmanly, and which served to give the death blow to the monarchy idea in Germany. A monarch cannot run away like a school boy. A man who, like this last of the Hohenzollerns, represented five centuries of history, committed by such conduct a crime against the dynasty and the people if he thought himself incapable of retaining his position. The front offered him an opportunity of at least making a kingly and dignified stand and of casting a fresh lustre over the monarchial idea.

Tariff Question to Follow Peace

Hon. T. A. Crerar Avoids Discussion of Situation.

OTTAWA, Dec. 2.—Hon. T. A. Crerar, Minister of Agriculture, was at his office to-day, but did not care to enter into a discussion of the political situation arising out of the programme of the Dominion Council of Agriculture, whose convention he attended. The position of things, however, is pretty well known. Mr. Crerar has not changed his radical view on the tariff and at the same time there is little likelihood of the Government conceding what the farmers demand. That this will lead eventually to his withdrawal seems certain. Such action, however, is not expected immediately, but rather only when the tariff is considered by the Cabinet and not until peace is concluded and Sir Robert Borden comes home.

Liberal Candidate Was Elected in North Huron

Fraser Had a Big Majority Over His Two Conservative Opponents—Election Was Forced.

NORTH HURON, Dec. 3.—The Liberals captured another seat in the Ontario Legislature last night when William Fraser, the Liberal candidate, was elected by a majority of 1,113 over his Conservative opponent, Dr. Case, who polled 1,877 votes to Fraser's 2,990. Mr. Spotten, the Independent Conservative candidate, polled only 1,342 votes.

Mr. Fraser from the first had the best chance to win. The Lig vote of the riding is rural, and it was effectually covered by Mr. Fraser in his personal canvass.

Personalities during the election were freely indulged in. It has been taken as evidence that neither Dr. Case, who permitted such a campaign in his behalf, nor Spotten, who indulged in the same kind of campaign, are the calibre that can be called "big men."

Forced Election.

Fraser, on the other hand, though of an unassuming disposition, has shown that he is a man of principal and fair-mindedness. When asked to accept the nomination for the seat, he declined, holding that a contest should not be held at such a time. However, the Government and Spotten forced the election on, and so Mr. Fraser stepped in. He, however, made an offer that would have saved the riding all the stress and turmoil of a campaign, when he offered to withdraw from the field if either of the candidates would. Their desire for office, however, overcame any desire to help out and they cast aside a golden opportunity to show that they measured up to the Fraser standard as big men. Fraser conducted a clean campaign.

WINTER HOME FLOWERS

Brightening the Windows When Bloom Is Most Welcome.

Cleaning and Grading Grain—How a Good Fanning Mill Properly Operated Will Greatly Increase the Yield of Field Crops — Every Farmer Should Have One.

(Contributed by Ontario Department of Agriculture, Toronto.)

TO insure a supply of flowers during early winter for the window it is necessary to have suitable plants started early in the fall. Among the best kinds for early winter flowering are a few of what are known by florists as Dutch bulbs. Of these there are only a few kinds or varieties that can be had in flower early in the winter. White Roman Hyacinths are very satisfactory for early flowering. The colored Roman Hyacinths are not as good, and do not flower as early as the White Romans. The loose growing, richly perfumed flowers of the White Romans are very pretty and acceptable. The Paper White Narcissus can also be had in flower early. French grown bulbs of the Trumpet Major Narcissus can also he had in flower in the window before Christmas by potting the bulbs toward the end of September, or not later than the end of October. All of these bulbs can usually be had early in October at seed stores. Pot the bulbs in rather sandy potting soil as soon as the bulbs can be obtained. The soil should not be too rich in fertilizers. Three or four bulbs can be put in a five-inch pot. The top of the bulbs should be just under the surface of the soil when potted. The surface of the soil should be about half an inch below the top of the pot for water space. Water the bulbs well as soon as potted and set the pots away in a cool, dark place in a dark cellar or cupboard until roots have well started, usually for about four or five weeks. When roots are well started, and possibly showing through the hole in the bottom of the flower pot, they should be brought into the window to flower. Keep the soil well moist, not too wet, until they are through flowering. Dutch Hyacinths and many other varieties of Narcissus (Daffodils), Tulips and Freesias can be potted in October or November, but few of them will flower until January or February.

Chinese Sacred Lilies.

Bulbs of these can be started in deep saucers or soup plates in October for early flowering. Set the bulbs firmly in the saucer and then fill the saucer or dish with fine gravel stones, so as to almost cover the bulbs. Fill the saucer up with water and set them away in a dark, cool place, as mentioned before, for about three weeks, until roots have well started, when they can be brought into the window to flower. These will flower in December. Keep the saucers filled up with water as required.

Callas, Epiphyllum or Xmas Cactus, Cyclamen, Primulas, several varieties of Begonia, especially the Glorie de Lorraine type of Begonias, are suitable for Christmas, as well as the dwarf Semperflorens type of Begonia that flower so profusely either in the window in winter or out of doors in the summer. Late flowering Chrysanthemums are also good for early winter decoration. All of these last named plants have to be grown expressly for the window or purchased from a florist. The bulbs named as suitable for early flowering can be grown with very little trouble and expense by any one who takes an interest in flowers and in flower growing. No plants or flowers give more satisfaction in winter than do the winter flowering bulbs before named.

Cleaning and Grading Grain.

These two farm operations may be accomplished at the same time and by the same means. The fanning mill is the most successful medium in obtaining this result and too much importance cannot be placed on the use of this machine. The successful operation of the fanning mill depends on two factors, that of wind blast and the use of sieves. The removal of light or inferior grain and the smaller and lighter weed seeds is almost wholly dependent on the wind blast. It also assists the sieves because it removes part of the grain which would otherwise have to pass through them and it prevents clogging in the sieves by light seed. The two most important sieves are those of the top and bottom. The top sieve should be just large enough to let the grain pass through and keep back the larger impurities. The bottom sieve should be of just sufficient size to keep back the good seed.

The utility of many fanning mills is impaired by the owner not possessing a full assortment of sieves and by his using poorly-fitting sieves, which allow weed seeds and grain to lodge in the mill. The efficiency of many fanning mills too is often lessened by the operator being in too much of a hurry." To obtain the best results, grain should pass slowly over the lower sieve. When the fanning mill is turned too rapidly or the lower sieve has too much slope, many of the smaller impurities will not be removed.

Well cleaned and well graded grain is not only free from weed seeds, other seeds, dirt and chaff but is larger in size, has greater uniformity, weighs heavier, is of better quality and is of stronger vitality than grain not so cleaned and graded. No farmer can afford to be without a good fanning mill and there are many farmers who would be much better off if they extended its use. — Dr. C. A. Zavitz, Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph.

When the soil is moist, but not sticky, the drag does the best work The road will bake if the drag is used on it when it is wet.

Repairs to roads should be made when needed, and not once a year after crops are laid by.

Tale of a Pipe.

It was quite the unusual thing for O'Connor to turn up late to his work and great was the surprise when he got in one morning ten minutes after time.

"Hello! This ain't usual!" said the foreman. "Did you miss the train?"

"No," answered O'Connor, "but when I got to the car, begorrah, I found I had forgot my poipe. Home I rushed, and the missus says: 'Phwativer is to do?' 'Shure, I've forgot my poipe!' says I. 'Ye great loon,' says she, 'it's in your mouth!' And, bejabbers, so it was; but if she hadn't seen it I should have come without it, after all."

Some Cat, That.

Short—I thought you were going to drown that cat.

Long—Wait, they say a cat has nine lives, but that one has 20, I think. Why, I actually put that cat into a tub of water and tied a brick round its neck, and what do you think?

Short—Goodness knows.

Long—Well, this morning when I went to look at the tub the cat had swallowed all the water and was sitting on the brick.

Quite Natural.

"No wonder, when his argument hadn't a leg to stand on."

Food Board Flashes

Sugar regulations are necessary in Canada for a while yet because the shipping can only be released from war purposes gradually and it will take time to bring the sugar supply up to normal. A good crop is maturing in Cuba, and it is hoped to have it distributed after the new year. But in the meantime Europe is still on reduced sugar rations, and though Java sugar will be available when the ships can be released to go for it, this will be a matter of time when there is such a demand upon shipping for all sorts of necessities. Canadians have had a plentiful supply of sweet stuffs compared to the people who have borne the hardest brunt of the war across the Atlantic.

SICK HEADACHE and CONSTIPATION CURED BY Millburn's Laxa-Liver Pills.

When your liver becomes sluggish and inactive, the bowels become constipated, the tongue becomes coated, the breath bad, and the stomach all out of order.

Then come those terrible sick headaches. They take out every bit of life and ambition, bring on depression, and often end in complete mental and physical prostration.

To keep the liver active, and your bowels moving regularly, is the only way to get rid of the constipation and the distressing sick headaches. Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills will do this for you by stimulating the sluggish liver into manufacturing sufficient bile to act properly on the bowels, thus making them active and regular.

Mrs. Winslow McKay, Jordan Branch, N.S., writes: "I have been sick for a number of years with sick headache and constipation. I tried all kinds of doctors' medicines, but none did me any good. I tried Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills, and after using four vials I am completely cured. I would heartily recommend them to all sufferers."

Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills are small and easy to take; and do not gripe, weaken or sicken as so many pills do. Price 25c a vial at all dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

THE WIFE

BY JANE PHELPS

Claude Beckly Enlightens Ruth As to Brian's Whereabouts.

CHAPTER LIV

Ruth hurried home as soon as noon came. Crawford gave her a light luncheon, then gratefully went home for the day.

Oh, how good it seemed to be home for a whole afternoon! Ruth went from room to room, doing little things here and there; moving the furniture around; fussing just as every woman loves to fuss—if she doesn't have to do it too often.

Wouldn't Brian be surprised, when he came home, to find she had had half a day off? Perhaps she better telephone him. He might come home real early, then they could dress and make a party of it. Go to some nice place for dinner and to a play afterward.

She waited until about half past four, then she called the office where he had desk room. The stenographer answered.

"Put Mr. Hackett on the wire, please. This is his wife.

"Mr. Hackett isn't in. He went out to his luncheon and hasn't returned. I'll tell him if he comes in; but he isn't likely to come back today," the girl volunteered.

Ruth tried to be sensible. Brian had probably gone out on a matter of business. But in spite of herself she pictured him as lunching with Mollie King, then—but he wouldn't spend the entire afternoon away from the office with her—she was getting silly, allowing herself to be so jealous of that King girl.

It was after six when Brian came in.

"I telephoned you, dear. The girl said you hadn't been back since noon. I had an afternoon off and thought we would go out to dinner, and go to a play. Shall we go we'll have to get dinner out, for I gave Crawford the day off."

Ruth noticed Brian flushed when she told him the girl said he had not been back; but she determined not to notice it.

"I'm broke" he said shortly. "We'll have to eat what's in the ice box."

"Well, I'm not—that is, not quite. Here's enough for dinner anyway." It was her last five dollar bill, but her week's salary was due on the morrow. She couldn't help wondering what he had done with the ten dollars she had slipped into his vest pocket only the day before. Perhaps he had been with Mollie King after all.

"It won't be much more if we don't eat very much," he said ungraciously, as he took the bill and tucked it into his pocket. "If food goes up much higher we'll have to live without eating." Ruth couldn't quite see his point, as she had paid the house bills ever since they had moved. Brian had spent nothing save for electricity, gas, etc. The rent would soon be due again. Would he let her pay it?

"Well, I can eat my half of it. I'm starved!" she said, laughing rather nervously. She would not make him angry; and she would have a pleasant evening. She was fast learning that being tactful is not the easist thing in the world.

At seven they started out. They had decided on a roof garden.

"Mighty little to spend in such a place," Brian had growled, but Ruth only laughed at him.

"We'll make it go," she said.

Could she have known that most of the ten dollars had, that afternoon, been spent on a luncheon for himself and Mollie King, she might have felt too annoyed to laugh. And had she known that they had sat over that luncheon for the entire afternoon she would have felt more like crying.

Brian felt a little ashamed as he took the bill, her last. She had been mighty good about Mollie. Had made hardly any fuss although he knew she had been hurt. He mustn't do it again. He'd not take Mollie out unless Ruth were away; then he would use his own money.

Ruth had made such a point that the money they each brought in was to be considered a family affair, that gradually Brian's attitude toward using anything she earned had changed. Of course she was right. If she insisted upon being an equal partner, why, he couldn't object. Yet he had a sense of shame when he accepted money she had earned—more so when he knew he had spent it making another woman have a good time.

"I wish I had known where you were lunching to-day. I might have joined you," Ruth said as they rode down town on the bus.

Brian shivered at his narrow escape. And changed the subject.

When they arrived at the roof garden, found a table where they could see all that went on and hear the music, yet not be too near, Brian, as usual, recovered his good nature.

"This is bully! Wish we might come here often," he remarked just as Ruth spied Claude Beckley coming toward them.

"Don't ask him to sit down," she whispered.

'For heaven's sake Hackett do you spend all your time eating? Not an hour ago I saw you munching away at the Brevort with Mollie. Keep close tabs on that man, Mrs. Hackett He'll bear watching!" then, seeing some other people he knew, he added: "See you before you go! ta! ta!"

Better Babies

A constipated infant begins life heavily handicapped. Constipation means infinitely more than mere failure of the bowels to move regularly and thoroughly. It means stagnation of waste matter, production of irritant and poisonous substances, and their absorption into the blood by which they are carried all over the body.

Cells are poisoned, growth interfered with, and a soil prepared in which germs of disease easily take root and develop. Constipation in infancy is a bad habit, but giving an infant drugs to force the bowels to move is a crime. A baby is like a bud—both may easily be blasted.

The Nujol Treatment for Constipation is not only absolutely harmless, but is in the highest degree efficient.

Nujol is not a drug, does not act like any drug.

Nujol helps Nature to overcome the bad habits by re-establishing natural, easy, thorough bowel evacuation, as regular as clockwork.

Every drop of Nujol taken into the body comes out of the body. But in its passage through the intestinal canal, it keeps the bowel contents soft and moist, makes it easier for the intestinal muscles to act, absorbs poisons and helps to discourage germ growth.

Get Nujol of your druggist and give it according to directions.

JEAN BART.

Naval Hero Came From Rugged Seaport.

Jean Bart; Jean Bart—Dunkerque. How much like the seaport of the rugged channel coast he was, the son of a Dunkerque fisherman, who became one of France's greatest naval heroes, how imbued with his spirit Dunkerque still seems, crouching quiet and gray and formidable among its bulwarks of fortifications and dunes.

A statue of Jean Bart by David d'Angers dominates the square of Dunkerque. The French people have wished that one of the finest ships of their fleet should bear his name, and with fond pride they still repeat his sayings. After a hot engagement a distinguished passenger on Jean Bart's vessel expressed his relief at not having been captured by the enemy. "You needn't have worried," said Jean Bart, "my little son was stationed below with a fuse."

No, one need not worry about Dunkerque! Dunkerque is familiar with the smell of gunpowder, with the sight of squadrons standing out to sea. Was it not off her dunes that occurred that most momentous event in the world's history—the defeat of the Spanish Armada, that shattered the power of Spain and saved England and Holland from the yoke? Dunkerque, with its splendid harbor and its fine, natural roadstead was bitterly contended for in the course of history, by Burgundy, Austria, Spain until Turenne's victory of the Dunes gave it to France in 1658. Later it was ceded to England, but after the Restoration Charles II. sold it back to Louis XV., who heavily fortified it. How important a stronghold Dunkerque was in the great wars of the seventeenth century is shown by the stipulation in the terms of the Peace of Utrecht, whereby England demanded that the fortifications of Dunkerque should be demolished and the harbor filled up.

The finest architectural treasure of Dunkerque is the Gothic Church of St. Eloi, and the belfry, 290 feet high, with a famous peal of bells, that once was the western tower of St. Eloi, but is now separated from the church by a street.

Around Dunkerque the French palin, mostly reclaimed land, reaches to the horizon, a vast stretch of low, fertile land. No rising ground breaks the monotony, which has a powerful charm, exclusively its own. Of late years that peculiar charm of Dunkerque, with its dunes, its salt marshes, its network of canals, has become more fully recognized, and not only does Dunkerque rival Bordeaux as the third important military and commercial port of France, it has also begun to rival the famous watering places of the Normandy coast as a summer resort. And when once again the gallant little fortress city will exchange her armor for the garlands of peace, Trouville and Ostend, the haughty belles of the Channel, will have to look to their laurels.—Christian Science Monitor.

A Solomon Needed.

Not since the days of Solomon, perhaps, has a more perplexing problem confronted a judge, than that recently presented to an election registrar in England, according to the Christian Science Monitor. A certain voter possessed a house which stood half in one parish and half in another. The question consequently arose as to in which parish, or whether not, indeed, in both, the householder was entitled to vote. After some discussion a ray of light was vouchsafed to Solomon. In which parish, he demanded, was the man's bed room? Unfortunately it was in both. His bed, then? Again, unfortunately, in both. Then was it that Solomon stood fully revealed; the infant of mature years, should be cut in twain. The parish in which the head of the bed stood should have the honor of the vote. Which is all very well, except that there are many voter whose feet take them to the polling-booth, but whose heads are no good when they get there. Does not the Italian proverb say, "If a man has not a head he should have feet?"

Simple Way To End Dandruff

There is one sure way that has never failed to remove dandruff at once, and that is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, just get about four ounces of plain, common liquid arvon from any drug store (this is all you will need), apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning, most if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find all itching and digging of the scalp will stop instantly, and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.

once tried, is never forsaken.

Is It Play-acting?

William II.'s histrionic gifts have never been denied, but if what is now going on in Germany is really stage-management for the delusion of the Allies, then the Kaiser will certainly go down as the greatest impresario in history. Only genius in the business of stage direction could set such elaborate machinery at work and could marshal such mobs with their alarums and excursions: the Liberal press admitting that Alsace-Lorraine is lost; the Junkers in East Prussia shouting that never will they consent to put Danzig and Konigsberg under the Polish eagle; the military critics deploring Foch's relentless violence and admitting that the invasion of Germany must be envisaged; the press bureaus ordered to deny that the Kaiser is really intending to abdicate; and German opinion in the mass expressing a great yearning for a merciful peace and admission to a tolerated position in the League of Nations. Certainly an Emperor who can stage a spectacle of his own throne tottering, his armies beaten, and his empire in dissolution, and then in a marvellous transformation scene can reveal himself as securer than ever, his armies undefeated, and his country united, is a wonderful manager. Only his role is altogether too heroic for the average mind to grasp.

War Vanquishes Superstitions.

That the war is dealing death blows to many ages-old superstitions is further attested in the circumstances that at Collingwood a new vessel, the Water Witch, was actually launched on Friday, the 13th. Not so many years ago a ship thus making its debut could not have got a crew for multiplied pieces-of-eight.

A Weird Decision.

Judge Brady, at Paris, Ont., has reversed the decision of Magistrate Patterson, who had fined Henry Crew $100 and costs for having allowed a neighbor to cook one slice of ham on Crew's stove during a porkless day.

Overtime.

A certain manufacturer told his employes he would pay them their regular day's wages if they went to church the following day, which was Easter Sunday. They were all there and the manufacturer swelled with joy and pride at the sight. But after the service a foreman approached him and said: "Boss, the fellers want me to ask you if we come to church again to-night, do we get overtime?"

No Humbug! Lift Off Corns

Doesn't hurt a bit to lift a corn or callus off with fingers

For a few cents you can get a small bottle of the magic drug freezone recently discovered by a Cincinnati man.

Just ask at any drug store for a small bottle of freezone. Apply a few drops upon a tender, aching corn and instantly, yes, immediately, all soreness disappears and shortly you will find the corn or callus so loose that you lift it out, root and all, with the fingers.

Just think! Not one bit of pain before applying freezone or afterwards. It doesn't even irritate the surrounding skin.

Hard corns, soft corns or corns between the toes, also hardened calluses on bottom of feet, just seem to shrivel up and fall off without hurting a particle.

It is almost magical.

Ladies! Keep a tiny bottle on your dresser and never let a corn or callus ache twice.

OUR DAILY SHORT STORY

At Catalpa Villa

By CLARISSA MACKIE

(Copyright, 1918, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

Catalpa Villa was the shabbiest of the long row of shabby suburban houses on the dusty street. A line of dwarf poplars edged the sidewalks where children played all day long, and the wind quivered among the leaves as a slight breeze wandered down the neglected street.

In the front window of Catalpa Villa was a black and gold sign. "Furnished Rooms to Rent," it read.

Felix Dare alighted from a car at the corner and walked slowly down the street, studying the little painted signs over the doors. These signs were misleading enough.

For instance, Greenlawn was quite guiltless of grass in its grubby front yard, Hope Cottage bore a quite hopeless aspect and Rose Arbor bowed its head beneath the weight of a worm-infested rambler rose bush which had long since ceased to bloom.

Then came Catalpa Villa, named for the decrepit catalpa tree that graced its little strip of ragged lawn.

Felix paused in front of Catalpa Villa, set down his bag and violin case, and studied a little notebook. Then resuming his burdens he went up the flagged walk to the front door.

A flat-chested, grimy-pawed woman admitted him to a stuffy little hall.

"Mrs. Beals?" asked Felix pleasantly.

"That's my name," she replied suspiciously.

Felix smiled. "I met your son, Daniel Beals, when I was in Chicago, and he recommended his mother's home as an excellent boarding place. I was hoping you had a room for me." He did not add that Dan Beals was drinking himself to death in the big city, and that Felix's coming to board in this shabby suburb was prompted by a vague feeling of pity for Dan's mother.

"That's another matter," commenced Mrs. Beals briskly. "It's the first sensible thing I ever knew Dan Beals to do in all his worthless life—but it's like his father—keen at hunting up work for me! I've got a front room, bay window, new carpet last winter, best bed you ever slept on. Want to see it?"

"If you please!" Felix followed his prospective landlady up the narrow stairs. When they reached the top, some one opened a lower door and a sweet voice floated up.

"Mrs. Beals, you are wanted at the telephone."

"I'm coming. Just you wait, Mr. Dare, and I'll send the girl to show you the room. It's three-fifty a week without board; if you eat here it will cost you eight altogether. Annabelle!" Mrs. Beals ran down the stairs with astonishing agility and addressed the unseen Annabelle. "Go upstairs and show that gentleman the front room. He can come right in if he wants to—you can get it ready in half an hour. Hurry now and don't stand staring at me so impudently!"

A door slammed after Mrs. Beals' retreating form. Then light steps sounded on the stairs and presently a girl joined Felix in the upper hall.

Felix stared at her, for Mrs. Beals had the most amazingly pretty maid servant in the world—and she didn't look a bit like a maid servant; she was a lady from the smooth braids of her coroneted hair to the soles of her neat little black slippers. She wore a print gown of blue and a spotless white apron.

"You wished to look at a room?" she asked haughtily.

"I beg your pardon—yes!" cried Felix, passing a hand before his dazed eyes.

Annabelle led the way into a dingy front bedroom that gave every evidence of being occupied, perhaps, between the flittings of boarders, by Mrs. Beals herself. The bed was carelessly made, sundry middle-aged feminine garments graced the chairs, and on the bureau was a grizzled false "front," whose rightful place was undoubtedly atop of Mrs. Beals' head.

"This is the room," said the girl indifferently.

"But—but it is occupied," hesitated Felix.

"Mrs. Beals has been sleeping here, but it can be prepared for you within an hour," replied Annabelle.

"I hardly think," began Felix, and then he thought of his promise to Dan Beals—Dan had been a newspaper reporter, and Felix had liked the brilliant, dissolute youth; if in any way he could help Dan by stopping with Dan's mother he would have a try at it.

"I will bring my things up now," he said to Annabelle, who was gathering up Mrs. Beals' garments.

When Felix came into the room with his bag and violin case the girl uttered a little startled cry.

"You play?" she asked quickly.

He smiled and nodded. "I am in the orchestra of the Excelsior theater."

"Not—not the new leader, Felix Dame?" she breathed eagerly.

"Yes," he answered in a surprised tone.

"But—what are you doing here—at Catalpa Villa? Who would stop in such—ugly shabbiness unless it was absolutely necessary, and it cannot be that with you! I have heard about you, and when I read that you were going to give lessons to a privileged few I—I—" The voice of the little servant broke.

"You play? You?" he asked amazed. She nodded sorrowfully. "I came here from Vermont to study—I had a sum of money to pay expenses—I was obliged to break into it to pay for an illness, and I came at last to board here—then I got behind with my board and she—Mrs. Beals—seized my violin, and I am working out what I owe her. It is a weary task paying old scores and trying to pay current expenses."

"You poor child," said Felix simply. "You have stopped the lessons?" he asked.

"Long ago."

"Who was your teacher?"

"Benzeet."

"Adolph Benzeet? Then you must possess unusual talent or he would not have bothered! I am sorry, Miss Annabelle."

"Thank you," she said gratefully, "and now, if you will excuse me, Mr. Dare, I will return to my duties and prepare your room. My work has always been below stairs, in the kitchen, but the chambermaid left this morning and we are short of help and I must hasten—we have supper at 6."

As Felix left the room Mrs. Beals poked her head through the balusters.

"You, Annabelle!" she called. "Have that room ready in half an hour—the man has brought the fish for supper and the table isn't even set!" She nodded sourly at the new boarder as he came down the stairs. "Lazy thing, that girl," she muttered for his benefit. "Doesn't want to do a thing except fiddle, fiddle, all day long! Fiddling don't earn good money, so say I!"

"I'm sorry to hear you say that, Mrs. Beals," returned Felix mischievously. "I forgot to tell you that I'm in the Excelsior orchestra."

Mrs. Beals eyed him suspiciously.

"I don't know as I mentioned that I'd like my board in advance."

"Certainly," agreed Felix drawing out his pocketbook.

Mrs. Beals greedily counted the money and when the transaction was concluded, she asked, "My stepson didn't send me any money by you, did he?"

Felix smiled. He could not tell her that Dan Beals owed him $200. "So Dan is not your own son?" was all he asked.

"I should hope not," she cried devoutly. "I was a childless widder when I married Dan's pa and that boy has been the plague of my life. Make yourself free of the parlor, Mr. Dare."

Felix threw himself in a chair in the stuffy little room in which each separate article appeared to quarrel with the other. If Mrs. Beals was not the own mother of the unfortunate Dan, Felix did not feel any responsibility concerning her welfare. Mrs. Beals appeared to be fully able to take care of herself.

"One week will do me," sighed Felix as he took out a newspaper and began to read. But a face came between him and the printed page—the wistful face of Annabelle.

"I wonder when she will have paid her debt?" he mused.

Then an odor of frying fish insinuated itself through the house and the advent of sundry tired and shabby looking men and women, who found a home here after a hard day's work in store or factory, told him that Annabelle had left his room ready for his occupancy and that she was at her post of duty downstairs.

Four weeks passed and found Felix Dare still an occupant of Mrs. Beals' front room. While Annabelle marveled that an artist like Dare should be content in that sordid atmosphere, she was glad that he remained. Wonderful music came from his room. Dreamy strains wafted up to Annabelle's attic room, and after awhile she learned to translate their meaning. He was playing to her!

Felix Dare's wooing covered a period of many weeks, but he did not give verbal utterance to his love until one day after Annabelle had paid off her debt and moved away.

Then he went to see her in her new boarding place far from Catalpa Villa; and in the stiff parlor of this new temporary home he told her the most wonderful story in the world.

The following Sunday evening they went for a trolley ride, and Felix stopped the car at a shabby street and led Annabelle past Catalpa Villa. The moon was shining on the lonely catalpa tree, on the hopelessness of Hope Cottage and the brownness of Greenlawn.

"Catalpa Villa is a beautiful spot," said Felix seriously. "It will always be beautiful in my sight, dear—guess why?"

"Because we met there — and because Love transforms all that is ugly and sordid," whispered Annabelle.

A Mother's Sympathy

IF there is ever a time when a girl needs the sympathy of a loving mother it is when her nerves give out, for there is no condition under which one feels so utterly helpless and discouraged.

Nervous diseases are too often misunderstood.

Even the family doctor's knowledge of diseases of the nerves is limited, and he sometimes makes the mistake of joining with those who are deceived into believing that the patient only "thinks she is ill," is only "putting it on."

And so it happens that patients suffering from neurasthenia and nervous prostration are often greatly wronged and even cruelly treated.

The mental tortures of nervous sufferers are often so indescribable that no physical pain can be compared to them.

The patient may look perfectly well or she may be mentally ill and gloomy. One day she may feel better and begin to be encouraged, only to be more discouraged than ever on the day following.

If in addition to the disheartening nature of her ailment she finds her friends and relatives out of sympathy with her you can scarcely wonder at the development of a chronic state of gloom and despondency.

But whether the cause of such a condition is from overwork, worry, mental anxiety or nervous shock, restorative treatment must take the form of nourishment for the starved and depleted nerve cells.

While there is not the hopelessness in such cases that there is when paralysis sets in, the building up process must necessarily be slow at first, and the patient needs all the sympathy and encouragement that she can get.

There is no question that the regular use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food will restore the run-down nervous system, but the treatment must be persisted in if the best results are to be obtained.

The use of the nerve food will stimulate the appetite and improve digestion. It is important that the food should be the most wholesome and most nourishing in order that an abundance of rich, red blood may be formed.

The patient should get into the sunshine and out into the fresh air, if possible. Her associates should be cheerful and pleasant. Keep out the pessimists and gloom dispensers.

While the building-up process resulting from the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food may seem slow at first, it is most highly satisfactory, because the benefits obtained are lasting. You can feel that each dose is at least doing some good, and that you are on the road to recovery.

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, 50 cents a box, 6 for $2.75, all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Ltd., Toronto. On every box of the genuine you will find the portrait and signature of A. W. Chase, M.D., the famous Receipt Book author.

Ozone to Keep Out Frost.

It is a fact familiar to scientists that the relatively large quantities of ozone to be found in the upper atmosphere do much toward regulating the earth's temperature by absorbing radiating heat. The interesting suggestion has been made that, if means could be found to charge the lower air above the orchards, for example, with ozone, its capacity to absorb radiating heat might be sufficient to prevent frosts which otherwise would be destructive to the fruit, so much of which is now imperilled a few nights each season.

NO CHANCE FOR THE GERMS.

Disease germs cannot live in rich, red blood. It is people in low vitality that fall victims to germ diseases. By using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food you enrich the blood, increase vitality and prevent disease germs from finding lodgment in your body. There's wisdom in prevention. It's easier to keep well than to get well.

Demand for Dice.

One of the industries that has received an enormous impetus in America since the beginning of the war is the manufacturing of dice. Before the war Germany controlled almost entirely the market of this commodity. Most of the dice were made of bone and ivory, some of celluloid. With the beginning of the war, however, Germany was forced to economize her bone and ivory, and in the matter of celluloid was entirely cut off. Celluloid is made of nitrated tissue paper. With the ever-increasing demands for nitrates to be used in the manufacture of munitions, all other industries drawing upon the supply of that chemical were virtually killed.

To-day several of the American industrial merchants have taken up the manufacture of dice. The demand to-day is greater than ever. The camps all over the country are sending in requests for dice and more dice. The demand is just as great from the overseas camps.

At the present time the supply is far behind the demand. According to one manufacturer of dice, the entire output of all the plants in this country would not be sufficient to supply the orders sent in from below the Mason and Dixon line.

WON THE COVETED V.C.

HONOR GIVEN TO THIRTY-TWO CANADIAN SOLDIERS.

Interesting Statistics Regarding the Heroes From the Dominion and Their Brave Exploits—The Honor for Enlisting Most of the Victoria Cross Winners Goes to the West, Though Ontario Leads in Showing of Provinces.

THIRTY-TWO Canadian soldiers have won the coveted Victoria Cross in the present war. Of these fifteen were Canadian born and seventeen were born outside of Canada. Fifteen were born in Great Britain, one in the United States and one in Russia. Six were from Scotland, five from England and four from Ireland. Twenty-six were infantrymen, three belonged to the cavalry, two were airmen and one a member of the Canadian Army Medical Corps. Ontario claims the largest number of Canadian-born V.C.'s, six of the fifteen having been born in Ontario, four in Quebec, two each in Manitoba and Nova Scotia and one in British Columbia.

Honors for enlisting most of the V.C.'s go to the West, Manitoba contributing five, and British Columbia four—a total of 17. Eastern Canada enlisted 14, including ten from Ontario (the biggest number of any single province), and four from Quebec (two of whom were Ontario men who enlisted at Valcartier in August, 1914). The remaining one was enlisted in England. The record of enlistments by cities belong to Winnipeg, where the whole of Manitoba's V.C.'s joined the colors. Both Toronto and Ottawa enlisted three.

The First Division have won eleven of the V.C.'s, the Second and Fourteenth Battalions holding two each; the Second Division have won five, the Third Division seven, and the Fourth Division three.

The oldest Canadian to win this decoration was the late Lieut. Campbell, of the First Contingent, who was 46 years of age. The youngest is Lieut. A. A. McLeod, R.A.F., who is only 18.

THE BLACKBERRY IN CHILE.

No Unusual Thing to See Clumps of Bushes Twenty Feet High.

Were a typical name to be sought for the central and southern districts of Chile, the first one which would occur to the traveler would undoubtedly be Blackberry Land. Indeed, throughout all the fertile districts the development of the blackberry has attained to phenomenal proportions. The sight of this astonishing growth appeals far less to the local dweller than to the traveler. The farmer, for one, looks upon the thing as a curse, and with no little reason. It has robbed his fraternity of innumerable square miles of pasture. He may do all in his power to discourage its vigor; he may burn it and cut it, but still, perfectly undismayed, it springs up with renewed energy, and contrives to flourish with astonishing zeal. It is no unusual thing here to see clumps of blackberry bushes twenty feet high and more, endowed with a density, morever, which is unknown in Europe. Even its enemies cannot deny that the plant has its uses. It forms an impenetrable hedge, and one may walk for many miles along blackberry lanes, entirely shaded and shut in on either hand by walls of dense green.

The fruit is in proportion to the luxuriance of the foliage. I do not know where in the world these enormous bunches of berries can be rivaled. It is not necessary to pick off a solitary specimen here and there. All that is needful is to stretch out a hand and fill it with one of the countless swelling clusters by a single movement. Twenty or thirty handfuls would fill a basket of ordinary size. Think of this, you who plod patiently along, and, plucking the berries one by one, watch the slow rising of the black tide!

But if you ask the average Chilean concerning the utility of these berries you will find him profoundly uninterested. It is true, he will say, that the poorest of the poor will take it into their heads to gather them from time to time. But why should they be interested in such things as these when grapes, pears, figs, apples and peaches are ready to their hand for the plucking? Out of a superabundance it is only the choicest that matters. It becomes clear, then, why the countryman does not bother his head about the blackberry.—W. H. Koebel, in "Modern Chile."

A Cranky Light.

A guard on night watch at the entrance of one of an army camp had been supplied with a special "flood" or search-light from the outfit of a nearby contractor. A couple of negroes from the contractor's gang set up the light and cautioned the guard that it was a very cranky affair unless let severely alone. Disregarding the caution, the guard, attempting to turn the light a little higher, succeeded in putting it out. Thereupon one of the negroes patiently returned and worked until he had the light going again. Turning to the guard as he started to leave, he administered the final warning: "It's going now, boss, but don't change it; don't monkey with it at all; don't even let on like you know it's there."

Took Severe Cold ON HIS LUNGS

COUGHED PHLEGM and BLOOD.

On the first appearance of a cough or cold, do not neglect it, but get rid of it at once before it has a chance to grow worse, and gets settled on the lungs, causing bronchitis, pneumonia and other serious lung troubles.

Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup will cure the cough or cold on its first inception and perhaps save you years of suffering.

Mr. G. F. Stratychuk, Canora, Sask., writes: "Last winter I took a most severe cold on my lungs and was coughing up phlegm and blood most of the time. I had the cough for over two months, and took a great deal of different medicines, but found no relief from them. At last a friend advised me to take Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup, which I did, and it gave me great relief in a very short time, and to-day I am enjoying good health again."

The marvellous results that Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup has achieved in its cures of coughs and colds has caused many so-called "pine" preparations to be put on the market, which do not contain any pine whatever. See that you get the genuine when you ask for it.

Put up in a yellow wrapper; three pine trees the trade mark; price 25c and 50c. Manufactured only by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

"The Home Town."

In Orillia the Girls' Red Cross is responsible for an innovation certain to "catch on." Motion pictures have been taken of bits of the town, with well-known citizens in action and local playlette using a host of the home girls. The films were in for display in the [illegible] cinemas.

Australian Wool for Japan.

The negotiations between Japan and Great Britain over the sale of wool in Australia have been concluded satisfactorily. It is now arranged that 24,600 bales of wool will be delivered before the end of July, at the prices officially quoted by Great Britain last November. The Nippon Yusen Kaisha has consented to carry the delivered stock, assigning 14,000 tons of space to the job.

Recently the Government announced the reorganization of the Army Woollen Mill of Sanju with a view to making the factory more serviceable to the public, whereas so far it has been exclusively catering to the War Office. The reorganized mill will not only turn out woolen cloth but worsted yarns as well, at the same time undertaking for the general public the manufacture of woolen cloth or yarns, and for private woollen mills the training of experts or operatives.

Would Join the Church.

The American expeditionary force has won the reputation of being a highly profane lot of soldiers. But this predilection for swearing is not vicious. It is in the happy-go-lucky American fashion that the cursing is most done. A returned Y.M.C.A. worker tells us of a Yank who, as he was leaving a Y.M.C.A. hut in France declared with Americans emphasis: "When I get back home I'm going to join the church, and it's all on account of this (blank, blank blankety blank) of a war."

A CHILD HATES OIL. CALOMEL, PILLS FOR LIVER AND BOWELS

GIVE "CALIFORNIA SYRUP OF FIGS" IF CROSS, SICK, FEVERISH, CONSTIPATED.

Look back at your childhood days. Remember the "dose" mother insisted on—castor oil, calomel, cathartics. How you hated them, how you fought against taking them.

With our children it's different. Mothers who cling to the old form of physic simply don't realize what they do. The children's revolt is well founded. Their tender little "insides" are injured by them.

If your child's stomach, liver and bowels need cleansing, give only delicious "California Syrup of Figs." Its action is positive, but gentle. Millions of mothers keep this harmless "fruit laxative" handy; they know children love to take it; that it never fails to clean the liver and bowels and sweeten the stomach, and that a teaspoonful given today saves a sick child to-morrow.

Ask your druggist for a bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has full directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly on each bottle. Beware of counterfeits sold here. See that it is made by "California Fig Syrup Company." Refuse any other kind with contempt.

She Went A-Soldiering.

Women do not make good soldiers. They shrink from the terrific onslaught. The Russian Battalion of Death was a failure. Madame Botchkareva acknowledged it. She said when in America:

"I am keenly disappointed in women as soldiers. I do not say this because of physical endurance. My battalion had women as strong as men. Many of them came from hardy, peasant stock. But I say it because women will not stand discipline. They cannot forget personalities long enough to take commands impersonally for the sake of a common objective. When it comes to war the only thing that counts is what you can do, not who you are. I am going back to fight as a soldier, but never again will I undertake to drill and discipline a battalion of women."

Madame Botchkareva did not, I think, find the real reason of the failure. She gave the superficial one.

It is true that women have not learned to work together and take orders. But they are learning. They are beginning to organize for purposes of their own. They see the value of collectivity. But when they have become disciplined they will still not be good soldiers. The reason is fundamental. In their body they bear new life. To abuse the body is to abuse the child of the future, and women live for the future. But to be a good soldier one my live in the present.

Temporarily Russian women have gone on the wrong track. They are magnificent creatures, but they have not expressed themselves. They have copied men. This they must do. Women must give gifts of their own to humanity—they must express themselves. They must be warriors of the spirit, not slayers of the body.

No one can doubt the bravery of women. They have nursed at the front under fire. They have faced death with a song and a smile. It requires greater courage to give life than to take it. But it is the way woman wins her victories. — World Outlook.

KIDNEY DISEASE OVERCOME.

Mr. James Prouse, cattle dealer, Sheho, Sask., writes: "For about ten years I suffered from kidney disease; at times was bad with backache, and derangements of the digestive organs. During that time I was treated by four different doctors. One day I read in Dr. Chase's Almanac about the Kidney-Liver Pills and began to use them. Altogether I used six boxes. All I need say is that I feel well now and attribute this condition to the use of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills."

HOW ABOUT YOUR HANDS?

They Are Said to Indicate Your Character.

"He wrastled with my finger," said the rough miner of Bret Harte's immortal story, "The Luck of Roaring Camp," and, unable to withstand the appeal of helplessness to strength, the clinging baby fingers twined about the potent man's hand. "Kentuck" straightway adopted as his own the half-breed Indian baby that fate had thrown across his path.

Dr. Allan McLane Hamilton, in his recent book, "The Recollections of an Alienist," speaks of the great significance of the human hands and uses a photograph of the hands of Charles Dudley Warner, taken at the insistence of a friend. Beautiful artistic hands that express the grace and kindliness distinctive of that author.

M. d'Arpentigny, the French savant, states that the hands represent three types: "Those whose fingers have pointed tip are possessed of a rapid insight into things; are extra sensitive and pious and impulsive. To this class belong poets and artists. To the square tops belong scientific people; sensible, self-contained characters, professional men. The spade-shaped tops — thick tips with little pads of flesh on each side of the nails—are materialistic, commercial, practical, with a higher appreciation of all that tends to bodily ease and comfort."

To many persons the hands are more expressive of emotion than the face. The welcoming hand stretched out in love, the appealing hand, the pleading hand, the withdrawn hand, the hand clasped in humility and submission.

All about us, on every hand, are those needing some assistance, perhaps trifling, perhaps great, over the rough places of life. Few of them can pay for this aid. It must be given freely, often given unasked. It may be they need your hand to safely cross the strip of ice upon the street. It may be they need the restraining hand of your prayers to guard them across the thin ice of temptation.

Unless you be one of those stricken of God, your hand, lying so quietly upon your knee, has power in it. It may be a brawny fist that can sling a trunk to the top of an express wagon. It may be a shadow hand whose only strength lies in writing a signature to a check that will be honored in a bank. It may be a hand of soothing magnetic touch, or fingers that can fashion a baby's dainty christening robe, but it is your hand to use, so use it, with all the strength that in you lies, to help your fellow men. If its strength can stop a runaway horse, if the signature may keep want and worry from a worthy door, if the healing touch can ease pain, or the baptismal robe help to consecrate a life, you will have won man's gratitude and God's blessing. If you keep the wolf from some door, but feebly barricaded against want, the gift will return to you in the smile of an angel guarding the gates of heaven. Do not wait until people are so hard-pressed they reveal all their piteous needs to you — their heart needs, their soul needs, their material poverty. Anticipate something of their want with your love, your remembrance, with the strength of your hand, and the encouragement of your words. So that when, like that woman of eager, helpful hands, God's peace upon you falls, tearful eyes may bless you as one whose ready hands brought solace to them in ways that you remember not.—Baltimore Sun.

Revenge at Last.

"My wife used to find fault with me every time I mispronounced a word," remarked Mr. Cumrox. "Now, I'm getting even."

"How?"

"Daughter's home from boarding school. I pick out a piece of war news full of geographical names and get mother to read it aloud."

If so, your whole system naturally gets tied up too.

Seed Grain for Settlers.

An order-in-council has been passed by the Dominion Government whereby the system of supplying seed grain to needy settlers, and the collecting therefor, has been changed. From 1914 up to the present time the Dominion Government made the advances directly to the settlers, bought the seed, shipped it to the internal elevator, where it was cleaned, sacked and re-shipped to points of distribution. All this handling added very much to the price of the seed; under the new arrangements the settler will be enabled to purchase the seed locally, the Canadian Bankers Association having agreed to make loans to needy settlers on unpatented Dominion lands. The rate of interest on these lands will not be more than 7 per cent. The Government guarantees the bank to the extent of principal and 5 per cent. interest only, and should the bank not collect from the settler, this is all it will receive from the Government. On the collections made by the bank the Government will pay a commission of 1 per cent. The new system will effect a great saving in distributing and collecting of expense.

Reign of Terror Exists in Some Parts of Russia

It is Said That a Small Landing Force Could Save the Situation —Bolsheviki Gaining Control.

WHITE GUARDS DEFEATED

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

BERLIN, Dec. 3.—If a few British torpedo boats or light cruisers, with even a small landing force, could reach Reval this week they could dam the Bolshevist flood which has been murdering, burning and plundering Esthonia and Lavonia, according to a declaration made to a correspondent by Baron Aexkuell of Esthonia, who escaped from that country on Thursday in disguise.

Baron Aexkuell reports that the German forces had begun to evacuate Narva when they were attacked and defeated by Russian troops. Last Tuesday White guards commanded by former Russian officers, under the leadership of Count Kelder, old Russian regime, were attacked by a superior Bolshevist force. The guards gave protection a month ago to 500 Russians who alleged they had deserted from the Bolshevist army because of bad treatment. They brought 23 machine guns with them. While the attack was proceeding last Tuesday these Russians fired upon the White Guards from the rear, contributing materially to their defeat. The White Guards, half annihilated, retired.

Esthonian workmen are nearly all Bolshevists, according to Baron Aexkuell, and the middle classes of Esthonia and Lavonia are facing the same reign of terror that the Bourgeoisie of Russia have suffered.

Four hundred executions are said to have taken place in Moscow, 40 per cent. of the victims being criminals.

From the latter place it is said that aeroplanes could easily fly to Moscow.

Canadian Built Ship Will Sail High Seas

First of a Fleet of Thirty Was Launched This Morning— Government Will Have Control.

OVERSEAS TRADE

(Canadian Press.)

MONTREAL, December 3.—In the near future Canadian built ships, bearing the flag of Canada's merchant marine, will be seen in every important port of the world, carrying to these distant countries Canada's productions from mines, fields, forests and factories, and bringing back such importations as Canada requires.

This was the confident hope expressed by Hon. C. C. Ballantyne, Minister of Marine, at the launching by Lady Borden this morning, of the eight thousand ton Voyageur, the first of a fleet of thirty-nine such vessels being built for the Dominion government.

Mr. Ballantyne said Canada must go vigorously after the export trade. This was one of the peace problems confronting the government at the present time. The Dominion Trade commission in London would see that Canada got her full share of trade from the vast amount of materials required for the restoration of Belgium and France, and other devastated European countries.

Canada's ships would be operated by a steamship company of which the government owned all the stock. D. B. Hanna, with his government railway board of directors, will be in charge.

DEMAND FOR SURRENDER

Hohenzollern's Status Considered Analogous to a Pirate or Slave Dealer.

ALLIES UNITED

Canadian Press:

LONDON, Dec. 3.—A demand for the surrender of William Hohenzollern will be submitted to the Netherlands Government in the name of all Allied Cabinets, according to the "Express." The views of France and Italy have been fully communicated to the British Government, and President Wilson has also made suggestions relative to procedure in the case.

Authority is claimed by the "Express" for the statement that, although there are some little differences as to points of law among Allied jurists, Monday's conference in Downing street revealed unanimity relative to the bringing of the former German Emperor to answer for his crimes.

The opinion is held that Holland will not be disposed to put obstacles in the way. She will not be asked to deliver Herr Hohenzollern under ordinary extradition laws, but his status will be considered analogous to a pirate or slave trader, who is not regarded as entitled to a sanctuary in any country.

A Busy Day For Wilson

United States Peace Delegates May Embark This Evening.

(By Robert J. Bender.)

(United Press.)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3.—President Wilson busied himself with manifold duties to-day prior to embarking upon his momentous task of peace delegate in the Paris world session.

It was anticipated that he would leave here late to-night for New York, sailing from there aboard the George Washington Wednesday morning. There was a lingering possibility, however, that his day work would render it impossible for him to leave here before to-morrow morning.

He had many papers to dispose of, and besides he had a calendar of engagements throughout the day, including a cabinet session this afternoon.

Will Be Convoyed.

State and War Department officials have been busy for two days making out credentials, collecting baggage and performing the scores of labours that such a journey, with so extensive a party, require. The George Washington will be convoyed, it is understood, by the battleship Pennsylvania, Admiral Mayo's flagship, and other vessels.

The Presidental party will be greeted part way across by a section of the American foreign fleet.

Unusual Predicament.

On the voyage of departure, the President found himself in an unusual predicament. Heretofore hailed as national leader, and looked to for counsel aboard, he departs without the hearty backing of Congress, and to some extent with its active hostility. This spirit, engendered by the President's failure to select any Congressional peace representative and to take Congress more freely into his confidence, may possibly leave its stamp on the President's influence abroad. However, he goes on the urgent invitation of the Allied leaders, and is prepared to use the full power of his personality and prestige to impress his peace views on the conference.

President Wilson Lacks Support of the Congress

Resolution Will be Introduced Declaring the Office of President Vacant —Senate May Send a Committee to the Peace Conference.

(United Press.)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3. — Senator Hitchcock, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, to-day advocated passage of a resolution declaring President Wilson "unable" to perform the duties of his office while abroad.

Hitchcock's attitude was a surprise to other Democrats. He explained it by saying: "My personal opinion is that the Senate should do something to settle the matter definitely to say who is President. I believe the Supreme Court, if called on to rule on a resolution declaring President Wilson unable, by reason of his absence, to perform the functions of his office, would hold that Congress is the best judge of the executive's ability or inability to function. In my position on this matter I am at variance with most of the Democrats."

Hitchcock announced that the Foreign Relations Committee will meet this week to discuss the Cummings' resolution, creating a Senate committee to attend the peace conference. The Sherman resolution to be introduced to-day, declaring the office of President vacant, and appointing Vice-President Marshall for the remainder of the term, probably will go to the Judiciary committee. Hitchcock to-day called the Sherman resolution "absurd."

MUST KEEP ITS HEAD.

Some Senators feel that it would be unwise to send abroad a committee that, because of its unofficial position, would be subject to snubs and which might embarass our peace delegates and the Senate. Others think that the supreme importance of having the Senate take part through discussions here of peace terms, contemporaneously with the peace conference, warrants the sending of the committee.

Republican opposition to the Cummings plan grew to-day. Senator Wathon, leading Republican, declared "the Senate must keep its head and do nothing to alienate the country." Other republicans said they will vote against the Cummings' resolution. The generally expressed Republican view of President Wilson's message was that it was disappointing with respect to filling the demand for further light on certain of the fourteen peace terms. Republicans said they expected some definition of freedom of the seas, amplification of the League of Nations plan and a statement of just how the President expects to impress his views abroad.

JUDGE SUSTAINS THE ASSESSMENT OF MR. R. SHEEHY'S HOUSE

G. F. Smithson's income assessment was reduced from $950 to $50 by Judge Huycke this morning. He was assessed as a single man, but he told the Judge this morning that he was married, and was accordingly exempted of all but $50 assessment for income. Mr. Smithson has been a munitions maker since November, 1914, but according to his statement he didn't make more than $1,000 last year.

Mr. Richard Sheehy's appeal on the ground of over-assessment, was dismissed. His assessment was $12,000, and this was reduced by the Court of Revision to $11,200. He based his appeal on the understanding that property was not assessed for more than approximately 75 per cent. of its value. Such, he said, was the general opinion.

Judge Huycke replied that there were no grounds for this idea. "If you had read the Assessment Act you would not have made this appeal. The assessor has strict directions, which he must follow. I fancy you got a bargain. I can't touch your assessment."

"It was a bargain a long time before I bought," Mr. Sheehy replied.

Mr. W. J. Henry, city assessor, explained that there was often quite a difference between the actual value of property and its selling price. He had to base his assessment on the price that a given property would bring at all times. One man might wish to dispose of his house quickly, and would have to sacrifice the price to get rid of it.

The Kaiser's Abdication

Was Really King and Emperor Until Friday Last.

Special to The Examiner:

LONDON, Dec. 3.—(British Admiralty Wireless.)— The Morning Post, commenting on the ex-Kaiser's belated abdication says: It is possible that the document purporting to the formal abdication of the German Emperor is genuine, and is equally possible that it is nothing of the kind. In either case the instrument contains no word concerning the succession of dynasty, nor is it countersigned by any responsible official. If, however, by virtue of this paper, William II has in fact abdicated the throne of Prussia and over Lordship of Germany, he has been staying in a neutral country under false pretenses. His abdication was formally announced by what was the German government when he fled to Holland, so that his condition in that country was ostensibly the condition of a private person. It now appears that he was really King and German Emperor until Friday last. In that case the hospitality of Holland has been abused."

The Manchester Guardian says: 'The Kaiser's formal abdication is tardy, and this document, executed as recently as last Friday, he issues "under our Imperial seal." The Crown Prince has not so far executed a similar deed, and it is natural to conclude that he reserves his claim as successor to his father, and is awaiting his opportunity to enforce it."

Wilson Will Take Russian Ambassador to Peace Conference

(Special to The Examiner.)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3.—Russian Ambassador Bakhmetoff will accompany President Wilson to France, it was learned to-day. The Ambassador will present Russia's desires to the Allied representatives at the conference, it was said.

The decision was made at a late hour after it had been found desirable to have Bakhmetoff in France at the time of the conference. Bakhmetoff represented the former Kerensky government, and has been inclined to a stable but liberal and democratic government for Russia.

Fleet Will Meet President Wilson

Elaborate Preparations For Reception of Peace Delegates.

(Special to The Examiner.)

PARIS, Dec. 3.—The American naval base at Brest to-day issued orders to a flotilla of sixteen destroyers to sail to the Azores to await the passage of the fleet which will accompany President Wilson to Europe.

It was stated here that the squadron forming the Presidential convoy included nine vessels, dreadnoughts, armed cruisers and cruisers.

No definite information has been received here as to whether the American peace delegation will land at Brest or at Cherbourg.

HOHENZOLLERN IS NON-COMMITTAL

Admits That He Has Gone Into Retirement.

(United Press.)

AMSTERDAM, Dec. 3.—Count Wilhelm Hohenzollern, former Kaiser, informed the United Press to-day through his secretary, that he would be glad to give his views to the people of America, "where he has some friends still," if it were not for the fact that he has retired to private life.

THE FORMER CROWN PRINCE.

HOLLAND, Dec. 3.—"I have not renounced anything and I have not signed any document whatever," the former German Crown Prince declared to-day.

The former Crown Prince said he knew the German cause was lost after the first battle of the Marne, and he advised that Germany seek terms and give up Alsace Lorraine, but was told to mind his own business.

IVORY BRANDS

Those who wish to purchase Ivory Toilet Articles for Christmas presents, etc., are greatly bewildered with the variety of brands stamped on each article. For instance an article stamped French Ivory might be manufactured in United States, Canada, or Japan. The original brand stamped Oriental Ivory comes from Great Britain, and each piece is not only uniform in colour but will last probably ten years or even longer.

The Right of Way For Troop Trains

Canadian Press:

MONTREAL, Dec. 3.—C.P.R. troop trains with returning soldiers, are to be given right of way over all other trains, in future, so far as consistent with safety, according to orders issued by Vice-President MacTier. In event of a troop train locomotive breaking down, the engine is to be taken from the next available passenger train to pull the troops.

ULTIMATUM TO GERMANY

(Special to The Examiner.)

NEW YORK, Dec. 3.—An incomplete cable to the Associated Press to-day indicates that the Allies have sent an ultimatum to Germany for non-compliance with the armistice terms, coupled with the threat to "proceed with the occupation of Germany if the ultimatum is not complied with." Presumably it means that the Allies may go further than the banks of the Rhine.

Policemen in Toronto Will Go on Strike

TORONTO, Dec. 3.—If the Police Commissioners do not recognize the Policemen's Union as affiliated with the Trades and Labour Congress, they will go on strike within 48 hours. This ultimatum will be served on the Commissioners by a committee of six of the Policemen's Union at the meeting of the Commissioners this afternoon. Three weeks ago the Commissioners after hearing a deputation headed by President Charlie Scott, threw the gauntlet down and told the men plainly that the board would not stand for any affiliation with outside bodies, but suggested that the men organize within the members of the forces as an association and the Commissioners would consider their grievances.

OPPOSES THE RESOLUTION

(Special to The Examiner.)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3.—Representative James R. Mann, House Republican Leader, to-day came out flatly against the resolution to install Vice-President Marsall in the White House while President Wilson is abroad. Mann also declared himself wholly out of sympathy with the attempt to embarrass the President while he is on the peace mission.

FLEET ON WAY TO GERMANY

(Special to The Examiner.)

BERLIN, Dec. 3.—Twelve British destroyers have arrived at Libau, it was reported here to-day.

A large British fleet is expected hourly at Wilhelmshaven.

PETERBORO SOLDIERS RETURNING

Advice received this morning, (3rd inst.), says that in addition to those reported that the following soldiers are at Halifax awaiting transportation. As the trains are crowded, and as they run special, men are held awaiting train facilities in the direction to which they wish to go. Those physically fit are directed to their homes without delay. Those whose condition is not assured are carried to the nearest medical examination station, (Quebec, Montreal, or at Kingston,) and given preliminary examination, before reaching destination. So the men mentioned may not be expected to arrive at once. No doubt information will be received, later giving approximate date of arrival, or of leaving Kingston, for this district.

Every Precaution For Pupils of West End School

Rumors of an epidemic of colds among the pupils of the West Ward School, prompted the officials of the Board of Education to make an immediate and thorough investigation. Dr. Amys, the Medical Officer of Health, reported that there was no cause for closing the school There have been a number of cases of colds but no evidence that would warrant the closing of the Queen Mary School. Every precaution is being taken to protect the children, and parents are urged to send their children to school. Pupils are sent home at the first signs of colds by the school nurse, who is giving the closest attention to this school as a further precaution and assurance to the parents that the children are surrounded with every protection the authorities can give.

FRANK JENNE Says:

Are you going to give father a real Christmas gift this year? Often you have left Dad's gift until Christmas eve and then bought a tie for him in haste. Don't do that this year. Dad would like a splendidly warm dressing gown with slippers to match, or a house-coat or smoking jacket, a real nice umbrella—or, well—come into my shop and let me show you some gifts father would like.

PROTECTION.

Many a person whose eyes are attended to in time, do not have to wear glasses for more than a year or two and then can do without them later in life. If the eyes are neglected it means glasses always. Protect your eyes now. See Dr. Lacey, Optometrist, 410 George street. Open Wednesday and Saturday evenings.

THE NORTH HURON RESULT.

North Huron has repeated the lesson of Manitoulin, and the result must be causing considerable anxiety among the powers-that-be in Queen's Park. The election by a huge majority in the legislative election yesterday of W. H. Fraser, Independent-Liberal, who two defeated Conservative opponents, is added testimony to the growing influence of the farmers. The rural sections of North Huron were strongly behind Mr. Fraser, and their support won the day for him. The successful candidate himself attributes his success to the dissatisfaction of the farmers with the attitude of both Provincial and Dominion governments during the past few years. The unanimity with which the North Huron farmers supported him yesterday confirmed the verdict of Manitoulin.

JOYFUL NEWS.

The Ottawa announcement that the battle casualties of the Canadian Expeditionary Force are practically finished will be glad news to the people of Canada. A few casualty messages delayed for some reason or other in transmission, may yet come through, but the terrible lists of killed and wounded will soon be at an end. The announcement from Ottawa will cause rejoicing from one end of Canada to the other. The long columns in the newspapers telling of the price that the Dominion has paid for the victories of her gallant army will disappear, and, may it please God, will never be found in Canadian newspapers again.

Unfortunately, however, the anxiety of the people at home is not yet completely lifted, because the outbreak of influenza overseas substitutes a new danger for the perils of the battlefield. The number of fatal cases, however, does not seem to be large, and it is hoped that the epidemic will soon be at an end.

THE RETURNING SOLDIERS.

The military authorities of Canada might reasonably be expected to have learned to handle the transportation of returned soldiers without bungling, but the confusion in Toronto over the arrival of some of the troops who came over on the Aquitania shows that there is still much room for improvement. Why a proper list of the men who are due to arrive cannot be forwarded to the cities to which they are being sent in time to ensure proper arrangements for their reception, is something that is hard to understand. In this last case the relatives of the returning men had no chance of knowing accurately whether or not the soldiers they were expecting were in the party, and the result was that they waited all day long at the station.

In Peterborough the civic authorities received a list of the local men who were passengers on the Aquitania, but the message merely stated that they had arrived at Halifax on November 29th. There was no information as to when they would arrive in Peterborough.

There will be hundreds of soldiers returning every week. Is it not possible to arrange their transportation so that definite news as to the probable time of arrival and the names of the men can be sent ahead, giving an opportunity to welcome them home. Under the present system the civic authorities in the different towns and cities of Canada have little chance of arranging a proper reception.

THE PENSION SYSTEM.

In common with returned men all over the Dominion, the members of the Peterborough branch of the Great War Veterans' Association are becoming more and more disgusted with the manner in which the pensions system in Canada is being administered. At the regular meeting of the Association last night, the pension authorities were under fire from all angles, and the unanimous opinion of the returned men present was that the present condition of affairs is scandalous. The returned men object, first to the scale in vogue, which they claim is utterly inadequate, and in the second place there is general complaint over the manner in which disabilities are estimated by the medical boards. Cases were cited by officials of the Association which indicated unmistakably the great need for improvement in the present system, and it was suggested that, letters and resolutions having failed to secure redress, that the assistance of the press, and perhaps of the churches, might be enlisted.

In this connection the Examiner hopes to be able from time to time to publish the details of specimen cases in order that the general public may get an idea of how Canada's pension system is being carried out. The people should know these facts in order that there may be such a pressure of public opinion that the government will be forced to take action. Men who are disabled because of injuries or complaints caused by active service should be given a pension that will keep them from want. That in many cases the pensions awarded is far from being adequate seems to be the unanimous opinion of the returned men of Peterborough.

THE COAL SITUATION

In spite of frequent warnings to the contrary there seems to be a general impression that the suspension of hostilities has so improved the coal situation that economizing in the use of anthracite is no longer necessary. This mistaken idea is decidedly dangerous and may lead to due suffering before spring, particularly if the present winter approaches last year in length and severity. Mr. R. Home Smith, Provincial Fuel Controller in an effort to make the public realize that the situation is far from normal has issued another appeal for fuel conservation and urges the use of bituminous coal, wood and buckwheat coal as substitutes for the larger grades of anthracite. Mr. Smith points out that the shortage will be considerably more than the twenty per cent. cut made by the United States Fuel Administration for it must be taken into consideration that last year's supply was considerably less than was necessary and as a result of the decrease in this year's allotment, the latter will be fully thirty per cent. less than what is necessary.

The Controller's warning concludes as follows:

"Speaking generally, there is no longer any doubt that the anthracite situation in the province will be serious, and unless the public co-operate and where possible take steps to protect itself by the substitution of wood, buckwheat and bituminous coal conditions may become critical. There is, however, no reason for panic, and we will come through all winter satisfactorily, if we, one and all, save coal and co-operate in the observance of the fuel regulation, for the spirit which won the war can and will solve every peace problem."

MR. SCOTT'S SUMMONS

(London Advertiser)

"Enough of this foolery," was an historic outburst of Campbell-Bannerman on the old Tory regime in Britain before 1906. The British electorate quickly indorsed this pronouncement on incapacity and stagnation by the overwhelming vote of that year. Here in Canada we have worse than foolery at Ottawa, worse than incapacity, though there is muddling ineptitude enough. Ex-Premier Scott of Saskatchewan sounds the trumpet opportunely against a government of combine, by combines and for combines, the now two-headed dragon that uses Canada as its milch cow.

Mr. Scott hints that Bordenism is Beelzebub himself. He calls upon the Liberals of the ministry to "come out from among them without loss of time" or be identified once and for all "with their Tory associates." The war being over, we need no longer scruple to disagree with the new enemy of the people at home, and here looms up possible danger to the Canadian people's interests from economic decisions that may be taken at the coming peace conference. Many Canadians will agree with Mr. Scott that we are not "safely or properly represented upon economic issues in the conference by any single gentleman whom Sir Robert Borden has selected." Evidently Mr. Calder's passive presence on the delegation is not quite satisfying to western opinion. Can the east feel safe in the hands of men whom the combines pushed into office in 1911, and whom the exigencies of the war have kept in command despite their sinister record? If at the conference Canada is to be made safe for democracy as against plutocratic encroachment, it behooves all Liberal members at Ottawa to show themselves Liberals indeed, to be true to their economic principles, to disociate themselves from the designs and practices of bandit wealth without delay, and to put a veto on any move of Sir Robert and his company that may prejudice the general welfare of our people.

Even apart from the peace conference, it appears to be high time for a dissolution of the Union that has governed since last fall. The Union Government was ostensibly formed for the conduct of the war, and the war being over, the Union should go with it. It has done nothing, even in a military sense, to justify its continuation. Its supporters have hardly dared to publish the figures of enrollment in Quebec Province under the shuffling military service act. Laurier could not have done so badly, he would have done much better in his own province. The orders-in-council have become a tyranny that augurs ill for our political future as a democracy if Liberals stay one minute longer in the Borden pen than any possible danger of war may seem to threaten. They must break away from union with the high finance set and its minions or be branded as renegades.

Consider the record of this Government begotten in necessity (to put it at the best), born in the elections act and the double-jointed prejudices over military service, continued-in-council. We have had far more than enough of wholesale profiteering under a premier who serves mainly as a rubber stamp for the interests when he is not threatening to resign unless title-mongering and flunkeyism are sustained. The mere indolence, bemusedness and general paresis of Bordenism is sufficient ground of condemnation. What a contrast to the vigorous Union Government of Lloyd George in Great Britain! Evidently the union plant won't flourish for tinker politicians. A Liberal who stands any longer with Sir Robert Borden is no Liberal, but an enemy of the masses.

Edward H. Robins, as Smith the Tailor, in "General Post," which a return engagement at "The Grand," next Thursday Evening. The Seat Sale opened this morning.

EDITORIAL NOTES

The Kaiser is already beginning to prepare his defence evidently in the far that he will be tried before an intermediate court.

In dealing with the Turks the allies will doubtless bear in mind the 900,000 Armenians and 700,000 Greeks that have been massacred by the followers of Islami.

500 American newspaper men have sailed for France to report the peace conference. Let us hope that there are not very many of the type of the managing editor of the Baltimore Sun of the party.

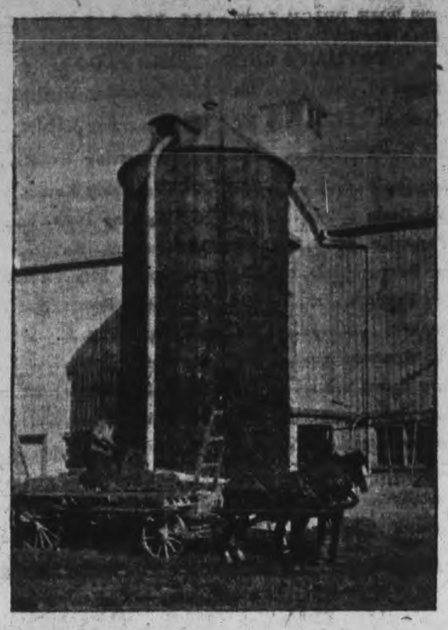
O.V.P. ENSILAGE FOR THE NORTH

The Mainstay of the Livestock Industry.

By C. E. McDOWELL.

AT this time it is likely that nearly all the various materials grown for the silo have been cut up and put in the silo for winter feeding. From reports I would judge that the silos as a rule, are filled to overflowing. This is especially true of those cases where corn was grown for ensilage. However, we must keep in mind that corn is used to a very much greater extent for this purpose than any other fodder crop.

When passing through the western prairie provinces, the clay belt of Northern Ontario, and the northern sections of old Ontario, the thought of what the people in those districts could use for ensilage where the climate is not suitable for successful production, constantly came to my mind. These people of the colder districts have a very different story to relate to those of the milder corn-growing sections. If they are compelled to depend entirely upon the production of corn to furnish succulent and abundant feed for their live stock in winter, I am afraid that the live stock industry is bound to build up slowly. They are under a tremendous disadvantage compared to their neighbors living in sections where corn can be grown. Surely there is some way of overcoming this disadvantage!



FILLING THE SILO AT MONTEITH.

This 108-ton silo is being filled with O.P.V. mixture. It is the fourth time the silo at Monteith Experimental Station, New Ontario, has been filled with O.P.V. ensileage, and results of past years indicate that this silage mixture will be the mainstay of the live stock industry in the north.

There are many substitutes for corn. Some give fair results, some poor. They have been tried in all our districts. Corn has been tried everywhere from our southern boundaries to the far north. We know it is a failure in the colder districts. As I rode along and observed the attempts at growing corn where corn never was intended to be grown, I thought of what a boon some good substitute would be to this district.

To my mind there is only one good substitute so far known. That is a mixture of oats, peas and vetch. I observed this mixture growing two years in succession in a northern district of New Ontario. Moreover these two seasons were very unfavorable for the production of any crop. If this mixture can be grown as successfully as far north as Cochrane, surely it can be grown almost anyual field conditions and on a large scale, have convinced me that a mixture of oats, peas and vetch is an excellent substitute for the cold sections where corn cannot be grown successfully. Moreover, I am not so sure but that in many cases, it would give better results than corn, even in the counties where corn is grown.

It is true that corn makes excellent silage any better than they do corn, heavy yields. I do not want to give the impression that I am running down corn and boosting O.P.V. mixture. What I do want to impart is an idea of the value of this mixture for northern sections. I have seen corn growing in the Winnipeg district. True, some fields were very good, but, alas, more were not. On the best, the grain on the cobs were mere blisters. I have also observed ensilage corn growing in the northern districts of old Ontario, and found that excepting on an old field it was poor. I feel quite safe in saying that had the same fields been sown to O.P.V., the result would have warranted the venture. The quality of silage would have been better and the quantity would have far exceeded the other.

Every producer of corn knows that it takes a great deal of labor. The soil has to be rich and in good condition if a heavy yield is expected. It is hard to handle at harvest time. This is not so much the case the O.P.V. need not be richer or better worked hoeing. The land does not need to be any richer, or better cultivated than does land for corn. At harvest time it is not so hard to handle. It is cut with the grain binder and tied into small sheaves.

For the last three years the Ontario Government's farm at Monteith, New Ontario, has been sowing this mixture with splendid results. In that district, of course, it is impossible to grow corn. As the clay belt is better suited for stock raising than any other line of farming, the desire arose to substitute some fodder crop for corn in order that the stock industry might be assured of success. Although clovers grow luxuriantly, they are not considered a suitable substitute for corn ensilage. Consequently in 1915 a start was made in producing a mixture of O.P.V. for the silo. Since then this mixture has been produced with good results each year.

As stated before the land for O.P.V. There is no after cultivation or ed than for corn. At Monteith each year the land is plowed in the fall. One year it was manured in the fall the manure being spread on the plowed land. In other years the manure was plowed in the spring and worked in. Spring cultivation consisted of diskin- and harrowing the land until it was in good tilth, and seeded in the ordinary way with the grain drill. The seeding dates each year varied considerably. In 1917 this crop was not sown until June 6, while the year previous it was sown about May 10th. Last spring it was about May 20th. The difference in the time of seeding, however, did not seem to affect the quality of yield to any extent.

In 1917 the farm management endeavored to select strong growing oats and peas, suitable to that climate. One-half of the field was seeded with O.A.C. No. 72 oats, the other half seeded with Abundance. Prince Albert peas and common vetch were used over the entire field. The mixture that was used was made up of two and one-half bushels of oats, three-quarters of a bushel of peas and one-half bushel of common vetch. These grains were mixed together and sown with the grain drill at the rate of three and one-half bushels per acre. The season was bad, but the grain germinated very well, and produced a fairly even stand.

The crop was cut when the oats were in the firm dough stage. At that time the peas and vetch were in a fair state of maturity. It was cut with the grain binder and tied into small sheaves. When ready to put into the silo the sheaves were picked off the ground, loaded on to the wagons and taken to the silo. Special care was taken to cut it fine and get it well tramped into the silo. The previous year some difficulty was experienced in getting the ensilage to keep. Some of it spoiled. I attribute this directly to the fact that the silo was a rough stave silo, and very open at the joints. Last winter this trouble was not experienced as the ensilage went into a good silo.

I cannot say that cattle like O.P.V. silage and where handled well gives but I can say that they like it as well. The advantage in feeding value compared with corn is in favor of the O.P.V. mixture. According to analysis, O.P.V. contains a little more dry matter than corn, while the food elements balance each other fairly closely. The yield of green matter for past three years at Monteith averaged about ten tons per acre. How many growers of corn even in the corn sections, get much more than ten tons per acre? It is true that many get 15 to 20 tons, but in getting it the grower has the extra work of summer cultivation, which is considerable. I am convinced that the O.P.V. mixture is the cheapest ensilage feed to be grown in the districts where good rank, well-eared corn cannot be grown. It will do much to solve the problem of the stock raisers of the north. — From Farm and Dairy.

NAME WAS OMITTED.

"One of the Old 2nd" neglected to attach his name to a communication intended for publication in this column. If the name is submitted the letter will be published in the regular way.

Peterborough, Dec. 3, 1918.

Editor of the Evening Examiner:

Dear Sir,—On Friday last a letter of mine appeared in "The Evening Examiner" with reference to a recent report therein in which Dr. Shearer was stated to have made a speech at the recent mass meeting. The report said there was a platform of twenty planks, and that the Senate had turned down four of them, the only subject affecting morals specifically referred to in the report was "strong drink," which, of course, is a debatable question. In my letter I asked what were the planks, and what was it the Senate turned down, and then I attacked generally the Malthusian practices of the present day, and in a somewhat strong manner denounced the hypocrites who dare to take part in morality meetings to fetter those whose opinions do not coincide with theirs on the drink question, when they are steeped in immorality at home by desecrating the holy estate of matrimony with Malthusian practices.

I attacked nobody, but Mr. Hughson Johnston evidently feels the cap exactly fits him, for he has come out in both city papers with a facetious letter that I think most unbecoming. He is pecved at my random shaft having found its mark in him, and as he could not resist the temptation to try to make me look ridiculous, he puts it in both papers. The laugh is on him, because he shows how annoyed he is that anybody should give his conscience any trouble. If he had kept quiet or confined his remarks to giving the information honestly asked for, no one would have guessed what a home thrust he had received.

No, Mr. Man, I do not apologize! If the cap fits so well, wear it. It was intended for those it would fit, but I would not have worn it in public had I been in your place.

The evil I have mentioned, notwithstanding Mr. Johnston's ridicule, is a national menace as well as sapping at the very roots of all morals. We can look around us and know almost to a certainty who is guilty of it; our empty school seats prove it. People pretend the matter is too delicate to handle, and the true reason is they are in the game themselves. When it suits us we can easily wink at the violation of God's laws.

It would appear that quite as delicate matters are already under discussion by our moralists. I am glad to know it and I heartily approve of raising the age and further I am in favour of much more drastic legislation on the subject of seduction, and consider also the time has come when there should be equal rights for rich and poor alike on the subject of divorce. Either divorce by Act of Parliament should be abolished, or a cheap method of divorce allowed in the courts for all alike—but perhaps this is another plank in the "platform!"

It is a crying shame, because a man or woman has a slender purse that such a one should be denied the justice the rich can secure by lobbying in the corridors of the Senate. There is plenty of work for a sincere band of moralists without interfering with the liberty of the subject and going into hysterics over the drink question.

Yours, etc.,
J. Guise-Bagley.

Ear Pierced by Low Branch on Chamberlen St.

While riding his bicycle on Chamberlain Street, about 150 yards east of his house, No. 582, W. J. Perry was injured on November 29th by the tip of a low-hanging branch entering his ear. His solicitor, Mr. J. Guise Bagley, notified the Council last night that a claim for damages might arise on the ground that such obstructions should not be allowed on a street.

Ald. Edgar—The trees are on private property.

Mayor Duncan—Mr. Perry, must have been riding on the sidewalk.

Mr. Bagley wrote that the tree was on the street boulevard. Mr. Perry had to call a doctor to remove the piece of wood.

Royal Knights of Trinity Held Meeting Last Evening

New Organization of Young Men Formed in Trinity Methodist Church.

The Royal Knights of Trinity held a banquet last evening in honour of the Rev. Frank Langford of Toronto. The Royal Knights of Trinity class has just been organized and Rev. Langford was invited to give the young men a talk on the Canadian Standard Efficiency Training. Several prominent members of Trinity church were invited and the affair was a great success owing to the good work of those associated with the church. There were several toasts, Rev. Malott acting as toastmaster.

The first toast was to King and country, proposed by F. Mattice. Second toast to the ladies, who so kindly gave up their other duties to make the banquet a success, proposed by Wm. Parsons and responded to by Mrs. Downey. The next toast, to the class, proposed by Dr. Morrison, and responded to by Robt. Black and Lloyd Gillespie. Another toast, to the speaker, proposed by Ken Copping.

Rev. Langford then delivered an address on boys' work.

Four Sides.

The C. S. E. T. has its four sides, forming a square. The sides are Intellectual, Physical, Religious and Service. The standards were taken from a verse in the Bible which says: "And he increased in wisdom and stature in favour of God and man."

Following Mr. Langford's address on boys' work, Mr. Edgar Burnham, teacher of the class, gave a short address.

A toast was proposed by Mr. Downey to absent members of the class overseas, and was followed by a short address by Mr. G. W. Morrow.

A toast to the teacher, Mr. E. Burnham, was proposed by the class. In a few words, Mr. Burnham outlined the work of the class.

The Formation.

Two or three members met together, and with each an efficient teacher as Mr. Burnham, decided that they should organize a good strong class of young men running on a similar basis as the C.S.E.T. This was started in the middle of September, and the class now has eighteen members on the roll. The vacant lot on the corner of Charlotte and Reid streets, where the old Charlotte street church used to be, has been granted to the boys for a skating rink. This is to be fixed up and a good rink made, the members to practice their hockey games on certain nights and enter the Church League. A good programme is made up for this winter, which includes skating parties, carnivals, snow shoeing parties, etc. The mottoes of the class are, "Play up, quit you like men and carry on."

Poilu Writes in Heart's Language

(By United Press)

Paris, Nov. 6. (By Mail.)—French is an expressive language, but it has nothing on the English used by a grateful poilu, whose wife and little son had been cared for by an American Red Cross physician. To wit, the following received at American Red Cross headquarters here:

"Dear Doktor,

"I am ashamed of to write you this letter because I have few of know ledge of English. Since longtime already I will desire for learn English. And occasion being present at me one month ago by the creation of a English school, I follow it each evening hastily. No thing was more discomfortable to me than of meet your brave Yanks on the road without to being able to address a word. The looks seem well sometimes, to translate a few the kindnesses that we have for them, but that is not conceited, the conversation is better!

'It is now a great joy in all French army that news of Americans success in Lorraine. I should not to finish this litte word without thanking you for the prettyness that you have always had for my wife and my little son. Believe well that your shadow me remains dear and that I all receive with the greatest pleasure the little letter you will well write to me. Believe dear doktor at my better sentiments".

Labour Service Made Good in War

(By United Press)

Washington Dec. 3.—What the United States employment service has accomplished in its existence of less than a year as a war organization entrusted with the gigantic ask of furnishing the nations labor supply, affords some measure of appreciating the magnitude of the effort this country made in winning the war.

Ships, coal, food, munitions, all were needed in vast quantity and at once. The manpower of the nation had been depleted considerably through enlistment and the draft, before the service actually was organized. All kinds of industries were calling for help. Farmers needed men to raise the great crops that must feed America and the allies, and factories needed men to build the great guns that were to blast the foe out of France

Last spring, ships were perhaps the most immediate need. There were rather less than 100,000 shipbuilders in the country, and four times that number were needed at the start.

Carpenters, blacksmiths and other craftsmen who had had experience along the lines somewhat similar to the building of ships were brought into the work, and the ships were finished. The task of training these men for the highly specialized jobs of shipyard work was not small, but they were rounded up by the employment service and the training began.

Farm labor was the next really big problem. The farm labor organization of the employment service recruited an army from everywhere and nowhere. It took old men who in the ordinary course of events would have taken no part in the harvest but who, to show their patriotic devotion to the nation gladly returned to the harvest fields. It took boys of high school age, and they gave the finest kind of voluntary service. It took ministers, lawyers, clerks, vacationists of all kinds who were glad of the chance to get into the country, gain recreation, and make money, meanwhile doing a highly effective work in the solution of the war labor programme.

The harvest army moved steadily northward, once it was organized early in the season and the great American wheat belt was covered thoroughly. Canada's wheat was saved and later the great army of migratory workers moved back into the States to gather the corn crop. The great army was not, of course, held intact all season; its make-up fluctuated widely from week to week and day to day. But the ranks were always kept closed and it made its way steadily onward to victory.

The munition shortage was always at hand. Army construction jobs always needed men. Skilled and unskilled workmen alike were in constant demand.

The employment service found the men for the 50,000 jobs that simply had to be done, and munitions never was halted for any appreciable time.

Coal was another serious need. Here the employment service did one of its best pieces of work. It located former miners, scattered throughout the country, and induced them to return to their old jobs in the mines until the nation's war-time fuel needs were satisfied.

Military Reserves Are Called Out

Conditions Still Serious in South America.

(United Press.)

SANTIAGO, Chile, Dec. 3.— Military reserves of the class of 1917 have been called to the colours.

The commander of the steamer Palena has officially denied that the Peruvian consul at Iquique was forced to embark on his ship.

SANTIAGO, Chile, Dec. 3.—A general strike of workmen is believed to be imminent to-day as a result of the increasing cost of living.

WANTED ALDERMANIC NOMINATIONS AT NIGHT FOR WORKMEN'S BENEFIT

Ald. A. A. McIntyre Said That Men in Factories Could Not Attend the Noon Hour Nominations—Council Defeated the Motion.

Ald. A. McIntyre tried to persuade the Council last night to fix the hour for the nomination of Aldermen at 7.30 p.m., instead of at noon, on Monday, December 23rd. Many citizens desired to attend the nominations, he declared, but were prevented by their work. He moved, seconded by Ald. Langford, that the by-law be amended to provide for this change.

Several members remarked that the Council Chamber could not hold the crowd that would be present. Ald. M. McIntyre replied that there was nothing to object to in that possibility. It would simply be an evidence of the interest of the ratepayers in the affairs of the city.

Ald. Dobbin said that there might be thirty candidates, and whatever the number there would be no end of speeches.

The motion was defeated, and Ald. A. A. McIntyre promptly called for the Ayes and Nays, which were recorded as follows:

Aye—Ald. Langford, Ald. A. A. McIntyre and Ald. M. McIntyre.

Nay—Aldermen Saunders, Taylor, Dobbin, Edgar, Jones and Weir.

RELATIVES OF FALLEN WILL GIVE THEIR VIEWS

Great War Veterans Association Arranging to Call a Meeting.

At the regular semi-monthly meeting of the Great War Veterans, held in the club rooms, George street, last night, it was decided to call a meeting of the wives, mothers, sisters and daughters of the Peterborough men who have met death overseas, to discuss the question of a war memorial. It was pointed out that the relatives of the dead heroes should be consulted as to the form the memorial should take, and on this count the decision was arrived at to hold a meeting in the near future in the G. W. V. A. rooms.

In connection with the annual memorial church service on the Sunday nearest to the anniversary of the second battle of Ypres, it was decided that the Association should next year attend St. Peter's Cathedral.

The administration of the pensions system was discussed at considerable length and there was general complaint over the injustice of many cases reported. Members of the Veterans' Pensions committee told of a number of cases, and at the next meeting the full particulars of these will be laid before the members for discussion.

Several new members were admitted at last night's meeting, and the membership of the branch is steadily growing.

Comrade Dr. Wood, vice-president, occupied the chair in the absence of President Staunton.

DRINK HOT WATER BEFORE BREAKFAST

Says you really feel clean, sweet and fresh inside, and are seldom ill.

If you are accustomed to wake up with a coated tongue, foul breath or a dull, dizzy headache; or, if your meals sour and turn into gas and acids, you have a real surprise awaiting you.

To-morrow morning, immediately upon arising, drink a glass of hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it. This is intended to first neutralize and then wash out of your stomach, liver, kidneys and thirty feet of intestines all the indigestible waste, poisons, sour bile and toxins, thus cleansing, sweetening and purifying the entire alimentary canal.

Those subject to sick headaches, backache, bilious attacks, constipation or any form of stomach trouble, are urged to get a quarter pound of limestone phosphate from the drug store and begin enjoying this morning inside-bath. It is said that men and women who try this become enthusiastic and keep it up daily. It is a splendid health measure for it is more important to keep clean and pure on the inside than on the outside, because the skin pores do not absorb impurities into the blood, causing disease, while the bowel pores do.

The principle of bathing inside is not new, as millions of people practice it. Just as hot water and soap cleanse, purify and freshen the skin, so hot water and a teaspoon of limestone phosphate act on the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels. Limestone phosphate is an inexpensive white powder and almost tasteless.

M'DONNEL STREET SEWER AUTHORIZED BY COUNCIL'S BYLAW

The by-law authorizing the construction of a sewer on the west end of McDonnel street, with which Mount St. Joseph may connect, was passed at last night's Council meeting. All the members were present.

Under an agreement with the city, the Mount pays the equivalent of a frontage tax on 234 feet and of other taxes for sewers the city as a whole must provide, also the proportion of trunk sewers and sewage disposal plant on an assessment of $20,000.

Mr. G. W. Hatton told the Council that he had been instructed by the property owners affected by the proposed sewer to oppose its construction at the present time. Because of the expenditure occasioned by the war it was felt that this was not an opportune time to press for a work of this nature. The cost would necessarily fall upon two families. It would be expensive and would eat up the value of the property by the increased taxes.

"I am not asking for sympathy on behalf of my clients," Mr. Hatton said. "I wish to point out that there can't be any necessity for this work at present except to oblige people who are not residents of the city. It will not be a benefit to residents of the city nor to the property owners who have to pay the shot. It is for the benefit of a corporation that is able to pay for any and all expenditure in connection with their requirements. I have myself asked for a sewer and offered to pay the entire cost, but I haven't been able to get it even on that basis."

Mr. Hatton stated that property owners on McDonnel street had given part of their land for a factory without cost, and he asked the Council to consider seriously the position these land owners would be placed in by the proposed sewer. The sewer would probably be a 6 in. or 8 inch tile pipe laid through the Mount property and they could easily carry it down McDonnel street to connect with the sewer already built and get all the service they needed for their requirements. As an alternative he also suggested that Mount St. Joseph should pay the whole cost of the sewer until the parties interested required it.

Replying to Mayor Duncan, Mr. Hatton denied that he had ever said he approved of the sewer.

"That statement was made in the Council," the Mayor remarked.

"I said I would not be unreasonable," Mr. Hatton explained.

Ald. Edgar reiterated his objection to the sewer connection for the Mount, and said he endorsed Mr. Hatton's points. If Mount St. Joseph would come into the city he would throw up both hands for the sewer, but they had declined to annex to the city, which was losing the land and building taxes. The North Monaghan tax rate was 26 mills, about 10 less than the city's.

Ald. A. A. McIntyre said that the Mount would pay a frontage tax for the sewer and a share of other sewer taxes.

Ald. Worth believed that the property owners on McDonnel street would eventually benefit by the city's agreement with Mount St. Joseph.

Memorial Service Held in Gilmour Baptist Church

Golden Star of Sacrifice Placed Opposite the Name of Burritt Bell—A Public Recognition of the Community's Indebtedness to the Boys in the Service.

A memorial service was held in Gilmour Baptist church, Bridgenorth on Sunday last. There was a large attendance and the service took the form of a public recognition of the community's indebtedness to the boys who went overseas in the interest of right and justice. During the course of a very excellent sermon by the pastor, the Rev. John Galt, reference was made to recent casualties occurring in the community for which prayers were offered. During the service the "Dead March" was played by Miss Beulah Galt, A.T.C.M., in a very acceptable manner. "There is a Land," was very effectively sung by Mrs. James Young.

THE SERMON

The Rev. Mr. Galt took for the basis of his remarks the following text,

"Of whom the world was not worthy." Heb. 11. 38.

"On a recent Lord's Day we, as a congregation, felt called upon, as never before, to render thanks and praise to Almighty God for the many and great blessings which, in His gracious providence, had been made ours in connection with the Great War," said Mr. Galt. "Our list of blessings, both positive and negative was a long one including as it did victory to our arms: Peace for the future assured: the downfall of ill-advised and wickedly ambitious men; the breaking of the power of the Turkish Empire; the liberation of the age-long oppressed Armenian Christians; the deliverance of the Land of our Saviour from the misrule of the unbeliever and peace and plenty in Canada throughout the more than four years of the Great world war. Comprehensive as our resolutions of thanks and praise to the Most High were and sincere as were our ascriptions we surely would have done something more worthy could we have been able to estimate aright the high cost at which our blessings were made possible.

LAVISH WASTAGE

"The cost in treasure," said the speaker, "the product of the hard toil of millions alone is past our power to grasp. Such lavish wastage of wealth is altogether now the world: it has literally been poured out like water on desert sands so much so that the standard of living of the civilized world has been lowered, the cost of all that we need raised, and there has been settled on us and on generations yet unborn a burden of debt that may remain unpaid and unpayable for centuries: not to speak of the financial ruin which had been brought upon myriads of our fellow citizens in Great Britian.

COST OF PEACE

"In any estimate of the cost of our peace and victory we must include whole Provinces in France and in Flanders, in Poland, in Russia, in Rumania and in Serbia turned into worse than desert places: with the homes of scores of millions of peaceful people razed to the ground: thousands of villages blotted out of existence and scores of cities smashed to utter ruin. Nor must we forget the sufferings of hundreds of millions of poor peace loving citizens who had nothing definite to do with the making of the war, whose little homes were burned over their heads, who were turned out on the open fields to live or perish as it might happen to them. Europe today simply teems with multitudes of homeless ones: hungry, ill clad, friendless; over 200 millions we are told face the coming winter with death from exposure and starvation staring them in the face. And what shall we say of the tens of thousands who have been compelled to taste the bitterness of slavery imposed upon them by the ruthless cruelty of a merciless conqueror: or of the vast uncounted host of girls and women dishonoured and ruined and even done to death at the hands of those who now whine for mercy and speak to us of humanity.

PART OF THE PRICE

"To all this, and much more that we cannot stay to enumerate we must add as part of the price of victory and peace the vast army, eight million strong whose young hopeful lives have been crushed out, or whose bodies have been maimed for life, or whose reason has been dethroned. The most recent official figures show that the British Empire alone had to pay the price of a million men who were killed in action, or died in consequence of wounds or sickness incidental to the war, as well as many thousands who hope lived through an ordeal worse than death that of the prisoner of war with the Hun as the captor.

"In all sincerity we can today accommodate the language of the inspired Apostle and say of the honoured sufferers and of the honoured dead "Of whom the world was not worthy." It was for us that these men suffered the horrors and miseries of the great war, and it was for us that they gave themselves even to death. We are today ready to confess that at the best we have not yet proved ourselves worthy of such heroic sacrifice partly it may be, for the reason that we can neither know the measure of their suffering nor feel the weight of our obligations.

RENDERED THANKS

"On a former occasion," said Mr. Galt, "we publicly rendered thanks to God for His gracious providence and protecting care exercised in connection with the men of our Roll of Honour: today we wish publicly to acknowledge our debt to them. Our lives here have been shielded, our liberties have been preserved, our comfort assured, our land has, through the more than four years of war, been blessed with peace and with plenty because of their ungrudging gift of themselves to stand between us and the foe. What shall we render to them for all our benefits. Brethern there are some debts which may be acknowledged but can never be paid and such is the debt we owe to our boys and to the families which gave those boys, aye, and gave them even to the outrance. I have not seen the splendid behaviour of our men, but, I can well imagine it for I have seen the magnificient courage and fortitude of their brave mothers and I know that if our men have been worthy of these women (whom some who know no better still call weak women) then they have really been all that they have been reported to be and more beside. Could we have a national supply of such women as those who without a whine or a whimper, even while the heart was breaking let their sons go there would be little need to pray the prayer of the Bishop of Exeter.

Give us Men
Men who trample self beneath them
Men who make their country wreath them
As her noble sons,
Worthy of their sires:
Men who never shame their mothers
Men who never fail their brothers,
Men who when the tempest gathers
Grasp the standard of their fathers
In the thickest of the fight
Men who strike for home and altar,
Let the coward cringe and falter)
God defend the right,
True as truth tho lorn and lonely
Tender, as the brave are only:
Men who tread where Saints have trod,
Men for Country—Home —and God,
Give us Men I say again, again
Give us men.

NOT WORTHY

"May I dare to speak for this congregation and say that we confess that we are not worthy of such mothers and of such sons.

To-day as never before we do honour to the men of our Roll of Honour in the full belief that each and every one of them did truly quit themselves like men; that they have each and all paid ungrudgingly the part of the price of our Freedom that duty demanded of them.

"In addition to the hardships and horrors incidental to modern warfare some of our men have been called upon to suffer bodily injury in some high degree. Speaking in the order of time we remember that Trooper Norman Young suffered a severe gunshot wound in the one great cavalry action of the war, entailing months of suffering before he was again able to stand to his post somewhere in France. Signaller Leonard Palmer all but lost his life by poison gas and suffered tortures during a long period while he struggled back to a measure of health sufficient to enable him to return to Canada. He is now with us honourably discharged as unfit for further military service. Sergeant Harry Young lately met with serious gunshot wound and is now in a Military Hospital in Bristol. Lastly we do honour, to the last degree, to one of our number who in the inscrutable providence of God has been called upon to make the supreme sacrifice for us on the field of honour. One who passed through all the grades in our Sunday School, from the primary to the Young Men's Class; who made the supreme public profession of faith in his Lord and ours by baptism in this building, and who throughout the years of his membership with us was regarded as a sincere and consistent Christian: one respected by all of us, and much loved by many, our brother Burritt Bell against whose name we have today placed the golden star of supreme sacrifice, to stand there as long as this building stands on its foundations: one whose name will be reverently honoured by us and by our children who take our place as when we are gone the way of all flesh; for the reason that he and he alone of our splendid men died for us.

"We extend our sympathy to his family and pray that they may be comforted with Divine comfort by Him who gave His well beloved son, not to death on the field of honour but to a death of shame that through Him we might be made eternally free."

STREET RAILWAY STRIKE IN CLEVELAND

Every Car in the City is at a Standstill.

Special to The Examiner:

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Dec. 3.—Cleveland's traffic and much of its business was paralyzed to-day by a strike of 1,500 street car men, which tied up every car in the city. Many shops are closed because of inability to get their employees to work.

The men voted to strike at the meetings last night. They demand the immediate removal of conductorites from the cars. President J. J. Stanley, of the company, says he is enjoined by the National War Board from removing the women from the cars until the Board renders a decision in the case. The company is making no effort to run cars with strike breakers.

BISHOP TAKES BOARDERS

London, Nov. 9. (By Mail.)—These be bad times for bishops.

The following advertisement appeared in the "Times."

"Few paying guests received in a bishop's house in country; every modern convenience; good garden; riding; driving; near golf links—Address, Episcopos."

An Englishman commenting on it says: "What with the increased price of shovel hats, profiteering in gaiters, and the terrible cost of getting up lawn sleeves in wartime, the good man must do something to turn an honest penny."

IT MIGHT BE WORSE

(By United Press)

London, Nov. 17. (By Mail.)—An officer tells of a platoon that had been discussing what influenza had been discussing what influenza was doing among civilians.

The men were standing by, waiting orders to go over the top.

"I'll tell you what, corporal," said a private, with a shudder, "with all these men here close together in the trenches the 'flu' would make this a horribly dangerous place, wouldn't it?"

Don't forget that it is important to consider the aspect of a room before choosing the color of its wall-paper and decoration scheme.

Business Changed Hands

Mr. A. M. Laidlaw Retires From "Fashion Craft" Store

The undersigned takes pleasure in announcing that he has purchased the stock of "Fashion Craft" Clothing and Furnishings, and will continue the business in the same premises, 140 Hunter Street. Continuance of the liberal patronage, hitherto enjoyed by Mr. Laidlaw, is respectfully solicited.

Mr. Laidlaw will continue his connection with the store for a short time.

Through good business foresight, the stock, in most times, was bought before the marked advance in wholesale prices, and could not be replaced at the prices marked for this month.

Gentlemen who are able to exercise personal taste in the matter of dress will enjoy more their ordinary pleasure from a Christmas gift purchased here. We suggest Neck Ties, Gloves, Silk Scarfs, Dressing Gowns.

JACK PRIMEAU,
Successor to A. M. Laidlaw,
"Fashion-Craft" Store
140 Hunter Street

Card from Mr. Laidlaw

I take this opportunity of thanking the numerous patrons of the local Shop of "Fashion-Craft" for their very liberal patronage during the past years. In this connection, I take pleasure in recommending my successor, Mr. Jack Primeau to the confidence of the gentlemen of Peterborough for their future patronage.

P.S. — All accounts due me and claims against me are required to be settled before January 1st, 1919.

A. M. LAIDLAW.
Peterborough, Dec. 2nd, 1919.

Hockey Meeting Thursday Night

There will be a meeting of all those interested in the formation of an intermediate O.H.A. team for Peterboro in the Empress Hotel on Thursday night. All players and fans are asked to be present.

Sergt. Sharpe Arrives Home

Among the Peterborough boys who arrived home from overseas to-day, was Sergt. Alan Sharpe of the 2nd Battalion, and son of Mr. and Mrs. Will Sharpe, George street. Sergt. Sharpe went overseas as a bugler with the 39th Battalion and was transferred to the 2nd Battalion in France. He returned to Canada on the Aquitania.

A Good Bill at "The Grand"

The Dancing Kings certainly know how to handle their feet and this vaudeville act brought forth much applause.

The Pathe News an O. Henry Story and a clever comedy entitled "No Place Like Jail" completes a really delightful entertainment which judging from the patronage accorded this up-to-date play house is proving popular with local picture fans. The above program will be on to-night and to-morrow matinee and night.

Mr. Alex. Murray Resigns From the Fuel Commission

Mr. Alex. Murray has resigned from the Fuel Commission as a necessary preliminary in his campaign for election to the City Council as a representative of the Trades and Labour Council. His resignation was accepted, but the position remains vacant until after Wednesday to give the Labour men an opportunity of proposing his successor.

Mr. Murray has attended probably every meeting of the City Council this year, the only faithful member of the Labour Council's municipal committee which was delegated to keep tab on the actions of the Council. When he first appeared, the aldermen were at a loss to explain his presence, but they presently discovered his affiliation with the Labour body, and grew accustomed to his silent watch. Persistency is one of his conspicuous qualities, and is apparently matched by his readiness to serve wherever the opportunity offers. He accepted the rather stormy post of Fuel Commissioner, and his first announcement that he would not personally receive appeals for fuel which should be forwarded to the secretary, indicated an independence and sence of fitness that might well be adopted by some members of the Council. If he is nominated for the Council he will undoubtedly possess the qualification of knowing the Council's affairs and procedure.

ST. JOHN'S NOTICES.

Thursday, 8—Choir practice. Boys at 7.30.

Friday, 2—Ladies' Red Cross sewing meeting in Public Library.

Saturday, 9—Boys' choir practice.

During the week the last offices of the church had been said over Mrs. Cummins and Mr. Seymour, members of the congregation, and Canon Davidson extended sincere sympathy to their sorrowing relatives.

Mr. Ward sang the "Messiah" solo, "The people that walked in darkness" very finely at the morning service.

Intercessions were offered at all the services for missions, and a strong appeal for united effort in the church's mission work was made by the Rector, who also reviewed the history of the missionary organizations in the parish for the last thirty years.

BOARD OF TRADE SECRETARY DIDN'T OPPOSE EXTENSION

Ald. Edgar Declared That Mr. J. J. Turner's Letter re Street Railway Was Out of Place.

MR. B. D. HALL AT INTERVIEW

Replying to Mr. J. J. Turner's letter to the Council, as published in The Examiner yesterday, opposing the extension of the street railway on the Monaghan Road, Alderman Edgar said last night this new line was first proposed by the engineers of the Hydro-Electric Commission after they had investigated the needs of the local system. He also stated that Mr. Basil Hall, secretary of the Board of Trade, was present with himself and Alderman Langford at the interview with Sir Adam Beck in Toronto last Wednesday. When the Commission was then urged to begin the work of building this extension Mr. Hall had offered no objection.

"That was the opportunity the Board of Trade should have seized to make any objection they had. That was the time and place, and I don't see why this communication comes forward now," said Alderman Edgar, commenting upon the letter from the president of the Board. "Mr Hall said nothing then, and this letter it seems to me is out of place."

Alderman Langford—It seems too bad if there is any difference of opinion between the Board of Trade and the Council. If there is any, we should get together and thresh them out, before two proposals are submitted to the Hydro-Electric Commission. The Hydro will come to the conclusion that we don't know what we want."

This was the only discussion of Mr. Turner's letter which was formally received.

A. M. Laidlaw Retires From "Fashion-Craft"

Mr. Jack Primeau Succeeds to the Business—Faithful Service Rewarded.

The many friends of Mr. Jack Primeau will be pleased to learn that he has purchased the stock of the Fashion Craft clothing and also furnishings of Mr. A. M. Laidlaw, and will continue doing business in the same store at 140 Hunter Street.

Through good business foresight, this stock in most lines was bought before the very marked advance in wholesale prices. Mr. Primeau could not replace these goods from the wholesale dealers at the prices he proposes selling his stock at retail, affording gentlemen an excellent opportunity to secure requirements for winter, or refined Christmas gifts.

It is announced that Mr. Laidlaw will remain in the store with Mr. Primeau for a short period. Gentlemen of fastidious tastes who have been regular patrons of the local shop of "Fashion Craft" know better than any one alse the polite manner of the faithful services they have been accustomed to receive at the hands of Mr. Jack Primeau. His advancement to the position which the change has created is a compliment to his business tact and sagacity.

Six Returned Soldiers Appointed

Eight-Hour Shifts at Local G.T.R. Crossings Instead of Twelve.

The old schedule of 12-hour shifts for the gatemen on the G.T.R. was changed yesterday, when six returned soldiers were put on at each of the gates at Brock, Hunter, Simcoe, Charlotte, King and Sherbrooke Streets. With three men at each gate, instead of two, as formerly, the shifts will be of 8 hours' duration.

SADLY BEREAVED HOME

Mr. Wm. C. Bennett, tinsmith, of 253 Stewart street, returned last night from Detroit, where he had been called by the death of his sister, who succumbed to the illness due to what is known as the "flu". Mr. Bennett states that during his brief stay in his sister's home, three members of the family were taken to the cemetery from the effects of the epidemic. After the mother died, two daughters were prostrated and quickly passed away; while a third was not expected to recover last night. The father of the family, who had been the first to be taken down, had not recovered, and was not able to see either wife or children before being carried out for interment. Few sadder cases than this have been reported, and calls for the deepest sympathy for the relatives and friends of this stricken family.

CITY REMINDED THAT IT MUST BUILD SEWAGE DISPOSAL PLANT

Residents of Townships Renew the Demand That Was Withdrawn Until After the War Ended—Council Failed to Appoint a City Trust Commissioner.

MARKET CLERK HIT BY "FLU"

The deferred construction of a sewage disposal plant was recalled to the council's attention last night by a letter from Mr. E. A. Peck, solicitor for the residents of the townships of North Monaghan and Otonabee, who on Saturday instructed him to notify the city that this work must be undertaken as soon as possible.

Mr. Peck referred to the fact that this project was first broached in November, 1912. The Provincial Board of Health ordered the city to build a disposal plant, and steps were under way for the purchase of certain property in Monaghan, south of the city, when the patriotic expenditures entailed by the war secured a suspension of the order until peace returned. The township residents have obviously wasted no time in re-opening this question, and their latest demand was referred to the Board of Works last night.

ALLOWANCE INADEQUATE.

Miss Flora H. Davidson's request that the city's allowance of $2.50 a week for each inmate of the Protestant Home be increased to $3.50, was referred to the Finance Committee. From the statement submitted at the annual meeting held a short time ago, Miss Davidson showed that the care of 42 inmates, 24 men and 18 women, last year had cost an average of $3.55 a week. To meet the revenue deficiency the Protestant Home Board had to draw on resources which should provide for future requirements. The increased cost of living had given the management no recourse but to ask the city to no recourse but to ask the rity to raise their grant one dollar a week for each inmate thus provided for.

WILL MOVE CROSSING.

R. W. Scott of the C.P.R., announced that he had instructed the Roadmaster to move the sidewalk on the north side of Chamberlen street, to conform with the concrete sidewalk.

TAX COLLECTOR'S REPORT.

W. J. Green's statement for November, was as follows:

To total amt. taxes, 1918	$496,576.24
By total amt. deposited ..	456,302.43
Balance	$ 40,273.81
Amt. taken in Nov.,	$114,253.40.

"FLU" COSTS MARKET CLERK $30.00.

Walter Fisher, market clerk, wrote that the closing of the market hall during the influenza epidemic had reduced his receipts for three Saturdays by nearly $30. "Therefore I am asking the council to let me off with $30 on December rent. It just happened at a time of the year when the market is best in the hall."

No action was taken, on motion of Ald. M. McIntyre, seconded by Ald. Weir.

Fred Oakes asked for a light near his residence, at number 690. Referred to the Fire, Water and Light Committee.

A WASTE EFFORT.

The appointment of a City Trust Commissioner to succeed the late James Kendrey, led to a stalemate that was broken only by transferring the duty to next year's council.

When the question was first introduced there was some suggestion that it should not be dragged in so soon, but the opinion swung round to immediate disposal. Mayor Duncan called for the bylaw which had been prepared with a blank for the name of the new commissioner.

Five names were suggested until it looked as if each alderman would put forward a candidate. Then arose the question of how the voting should be conducted.

Ald. Edgar moved, seconded by Ald. Dobbin, that the choice be made by ballot. The legality of this plan was questioned and search through the book of rules and regulations failed to disclose the correct and proper way. City Clerk Armstrong informed the members that the law prohibited a decision by ballot of any question before the council. Finally it was agreed that the names proposed should be put to an open vote in succession, with the following result—

Mr. Harry Rush—Proposed by Ald. Saunders and Ald. Langford—3 votes.

Mr. G. Walter Green—Proposed by Ald. Edgar and Mayor Duncan — 3 votes.

Mr. J. J. Hartley—Proposed by Ald. A. A. McIntyre and Ald. Langford—3 votes.

Mr. W. H. Bradburn—Proposed by Ald. Dobbin and Ald. Taylor—4 votes

Mr. Harry Phelan—Proposed by Ald. Weir and Ald. McIntyre—4 votes

Ald. A. A. McIntyre then suggested the name of Mr. Richard Sheehy, but there was no seconder.

On motion of Ald. Dobbin and Ald. Weir, the question was bequeathed to the 1919 council.

Collision Delays Street Car Service

Dr. Harrison of Keene Established a Precedent.

Street car service was held up for some time yesterday afternoon at 5.10 at the corner of George and Hunter streets by a collision of Dr. Harrison's (Keene) car, and Mr. Girven's, 242 Dublin street.

The doctor was going east on the right hand side of Hunter street and turned to the north. Mr. Girven, north on George street, when each driver misjudged the other's speed and collided, breaking Mr. Girven's mud guard.

Dr. Harrison established a precedent by admitting on the spot he was in the wrong and settled at once by telling Mr. Girven to remit the bill for repairs to him.

JAPAN'S FLEET GROWS

(By United Press)

Tokio, Nov. 2. (By Mail.) Japan has greatly augmented the number of its merchant vessels on the Southern Pacific and Indian Ocean routes. Before the war only 500,000 tons of space was provided by Japan, as against 3,800,000 by other nations, while today the ratio stands 800,000 to 1,300,000. As will be noted, the total space available for shippers has shrunk from 4,300,000 tons a year to 2,100,000.

SEES PAREGORIC AS MENACE

Writer Asserts That Undue Indulgence in Mixture Results in a Form of Intoxication.

The fast young man at our boarding house has been showing unaccountable signs of alcoholic exhilaration. Two or three times lately, in the deadly dull calm of the dinner session, he has come in with a flushed face and glassy eyes and taken charge of the conversation. Last evening the schoolteacher was telling about the splendid progress of the welfare work, when the F. Y. M. broke in with a risque story and laughed boisterously at his own remarks. Some of us, in whom the spark of life is still latent, took the F. Y. M. aside, with the intention of ascertaining the source of his levity, and what I learned I am slipping to my friends for their information.

It's paregoric—absolutely.

What do you think of a sport who will step out with a bottle of paregoric and make an evening of it? Two nights ago he came in with a dent in his derby and his cane split, bringing us all back with a jerk to the old wet days.

Here is a new danger to our sober and happy manhood. I write this to warn mother that she must keep her eye on the paregoric bottle. Paregoric, I am told, is well endowed with alcohol. While the baby may need it, father is at no time entitled to its benefits, if any. A paregoric spree is one of the most irresponsible adventures in the world. If the home bottle is unprotected, I fear that father is likely to show up some evening boisterously and unreasonably happy.—G. M. F., in Seattle Post-Intelligencer.

Fills Stomach With New Energy

Weak, Worn Out, Gassy, Sour Stomach Revived and Made to Enjoy Food With Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets.

Most of us eat three times a day and often forget that each meal should be disposed of in the stomach to make room for the next. The failuse of the stomach to do this is called indigestion or dyspepsia, with its sour risings, gas, rumblings, pain, depression, and the feeling of stuffiness when breathing is difficult.

The most effective remedy and the most reliable one, because you can get it at any drug store in the United States or Canada, is Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, at 50 cents a box. Instead of depriving yourself of food or going on a starvation diet simply keep on as you have and let these digest the food, and keep you in the fight.

OBITUARY

MR. PETER SCOTT CLEGHORN.

The death took place last evening at 8.30 at the family residence, lot 25, concession 10, Otonabee, of Mr. Peter Scott Cleghorn, in his 52nd year, after a long illness covering 5 years. Mr. Cleghorn was born and raised in Otonabee and lived there all his life. He leaves to mourn his loss two brothers, W. J. and Robert of Otonabee, and one sister, Mrs. William Heatherly, of the same township.

The funeral will take place from the family residence, lot 25, concession 10, Otonabee, on Thursday at 2 o'clock, to Little Lake cemetery. Service will be conducted at the house at 1.30 p.m. by the Rev. Robert G. Pogue.

Look at This!

Forehanded young Germans are apparently preparing for the time when the Allies will be dominant and are seeking to make friends with the mammon of unrighteousness, judging from a matrimonial advertisement in the Neue Zurcher Zeitung. The following is a translation: A doctor of philosophy, 27 years old, highly educated, dashing, impressive, masculine appearance, desires acquaintance, looking toward matrimony, with a wealthy daughter or childless widow, friendly to the Allies.

A Feminine Ship.

His ship to the sailor is a veritable sweetheart. His ship possesses a waist, collars, stays, bonnets, laces and a dozen other feminine accessories. Perhaps that is why a ship is called "she."

FOLLOWING DIRECTIONS

Are you one of the motorists who last winter used an anti-freeze compound in a manner which the maker of the preparation never specified and then condemned the stuff as being no good If you did such a thing, you had better make sure that you followed directions to the letter. The manufacturers of anti-freeze compounds have met car and truck owners more than half way, and the complete directions printed on every label of their products are put there for but one purpose, and that is, to make sure the preparation will be used correctly.

Obviously if the motorist does not do his part and merely dumps the stuff in his radiator, without following directions, he does wrong and one morning he will go to his unheated garage only to find the tubes of his radiator burst or the waterjacket cracked. The next thing he does is blame the anti-freeze substance, whereas, had he been careful to follow instructions he could have gone all winter without worrying about the cooling system.

Most of the anti-freeze preparations have been put up in convenient form, but the amount of water in the cooling system together with the variation in temperature dictate to a considerable extent how the preparations must be used. All this is set forth in the maker's directions and in every case the big thing to watch is that the radiator has no leaks and that the hose couplings are in good shape. In fact, new hose is desirable before adding the anti-freeze, as after a season's use the inner layers become separated.

The radiator should be washed out carefully with a solution of hot soda, which reveals any leaks that exist. These then should be soldered. Many anti-freeze substances attack dirt and sediment and if your radiator started to leak last winter after you added the anti-freeze, it was because you failed to clean the radiator and repair the leaks. The anti-freeze told you that leaks existed. You probably thought the anti-freeze was eating away the metal. Follow the maker's directions this winter and you will play safe.

THE DYING CALIFORNIAN.

Lie up near, brother, nearer,
For my limbs are growing cold,
And thy presence seemeth dearer
When thy arms around me fold.

I am dying brother, dying,
Soon you'll miss me from my berth
And my form will soon be lying
'Neath the ocean's briny serf.

Hearken to me brother, hearken,
I have something I would say
'Ere the veil my vision darken
And I go from earth away.

I am going brother, going,
But my hope in God is strong,
I am willing brother, knowing
That He doeth nothing wrong.

Tell my father when you meet him
That in death I prayed for him,
Prayed that I might some day greet him
In a world that's free from sin.

Tell my mother, God assist her,
Now that she is growing old,
That her son would fain have kissed her
When his lips grew pale and cold.

Hearken brother, catch each whisper,
'Tis my wife I speak of now,
Tell, oh tell her how I missed her
When the fever burned my brow.

Tell her she must kiss my children
Like the kiss I last impressed,
Hold them as when last I held them
Folded closely to my breast.

Oh, my children, heaven bless them,
They are all my life to me,
Would I could once more caress them
'Ere I sink beneath the sea.

'Twas for them I crossed the ocean,
What my hopes were I'll not tell,
But they gain an orphan's portion,
Yet He doeth all things well.

Bring them early to their Saviour,
Putting all their trust in God
And He never will forsake them
For He says so in His word.

Tell my sister I remember
Every kind and parting word,
That my heart has been kept tender
With the thoughts her memory stirred.

Tell them I ne'er reached the haven
Where I sought the precious dust,
But I gained a port called heaven
Where the gold will never rust.

Urge them to secure an entrance
For they'll find their brother there.
Faith in Jesus and repentance
Will secure for each a share.

Hark, I hear my Saviour calling,
'Tis His voice I know so well,
When I'm gone then don't be weeping,
Brother, there's my last farewell.
—J. H. Taylor.

IF KIDNEYS ACT BAD TAKE SALTS

SAY BACKACHE IS A SIGN YOU HAVE BEEN EATING TOO MUCH MEAT, WHICH FORMS URIC ACID

When you wake up with backache and dull misery in the kidney region it generally means you have been eating too much meat, says a wellknown authority Meat forms uric acid which overworks the kidneys in their effort to filter it from the blood and they become sort of paralyzed and loggy. When your kidneys get sluggish and clog you must relieve them, like you relieve your bowels; removing all the body's urinous waste, else you have backache, sick headache, dizzy spells; your stomach sours, tongue is coated and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine is cloudy, full of sediment, channels often get sore, water scalds and you are obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night.

Either consult a good, reliable physician at once or get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean and stimulate sluggish kidneys, also to neutralize acids in the urine so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder weakness.

CATTLE MARKET

Union Stock Yards— Receipts yesterday, 46 cars, with 545 head of cattle, 111 calves, 789 hogs, and 818 sheep and lambs.

Trade was slow for the common light stuff left over from Monday's big run. Receipts of fresh cattle for yesterday were small, so that gave a better chance for a fair clean-up all over the market, except for light common stockers which are not wanted, and are hard to dispose of. Anything of fair to good quality for killing held just about steady with Monday. Nothing of choice quality offering.

Canners weer in demand and fully recovered prices up to last week's level at $5.25 to $5.50.

Sheep and lambs steady, but weak. Heavy sheep not wanted.

Hogs steady at $18.50, fed.

THIN PEOPLE SHOULD TAKE PHOSPHATE

Nothing Like Plain Bitro-Phosphate to Put on Firm, Healthy Flesh and to Increase Strength, Vigour and Nerve Force.

Judging from the countless preparations and treatments which are continually being advertised for the purpose of making thin people fleshy, developing arms, neck and bust, and replacing ugly hollows and angles by the soft curved lines of health and beauty, there are evidently thousands of men and women who keenly feel their excessive thinness.

Thinness and weakness are usually due to starved nerves. Our bodies need more phosphate than is contained in modern foods. Physicians claim there is nothing that will supply this deficiency so well as the organic phosphate known among druggists as bitro phosphate, which is inexpensive and sold by McDermid and Jury and by most druggists under a guarantee of satisfaction or money back. By feeding the nerves directly and by supplying the body cells with the necessary phosphoric food elements, bitro-phosphate quickly produces a welcome transformation in the appearance; the increase in weight frequently being astonishing.

This increase in weight also carries with it a general improvement in the health. Nervousness, sleeplessness and lack of energy, which nearly always accompany excessive thinness, soon disappear, dull eyes become bright, and pale cheeks glow with the bloom of perfect health.

CAUTION:— Although bitro-phosphate is unsurpassed for relieving nervousness, sleeplessness and general weakness, it should not, owing to its remarkable flesh-growing properties, be used by anyone who does not desire to put on flesh.

CANADA'S FIRST FLIER

CAREER OF MAJOR DOUGLAS HALLAM IS NOTABLE.

He Became an Airman Before the Outbreak of the War, But Served In Other Branches of the Army Before He Finally Devoted Himself to the Type of War Work In Which He Made His Reputation.

MAJOR T. D. HALLAM, of Toronto, is said to have contributed more than any other flier to the success of the British air campaign against enemy submarines. Hallam is far too modest to sing his own praises. Hence it is that his fellow citizens in this country have heard comparatively little of his remarkable career since he crossed the ocean on the outbreak of war in August, 1914.

Some of his Toronto associates in the Arts and Letters Club and other organizations remember that he anticipated the war for some months and endeavored to prepare himself to do his part when the time came. Choosing the air as his field of activity he went to the United States and took a course of flying under the direction of the Curtiss School. With this training behind him he enlisted as a private in the First Canadian Contingent and crossed the Atlantic in the steerage. Once in England he joined the Naval Air Service as a Royal Naval Volunteer Reservist, and organized a travelling circus of machine guns with which he saw a great deal of active service in Gallipoli. Those who have read John Buchan's description of that frightful campaign against the Dardanelles and Constantinople will appreciate the conditions against which Hallam and his associates struggled. He was attached in turn to the Australian, the French and the celebrated 29th British Division. He was sent, whatever portion of the lines may needed machine guns. He was broiled by the sun, almost eaten alive by the voracious flies, and wounded three times. The third wound cut an artery and he was invalided from Gallipoli to England. He carried with him the D.S.C. together with mention in despatches.

This was at the end of June, 1915, but he had not yet had his fill of the war. As soon as his convalescence was complete he secured an appointment at the great British air station at Hendon, where his previous experience under the Curtisses in the United States stood him in good stead. For the first twelve months he held the rank of lieutenant, and had charge of the flying school, many young men who have since become famous passing through his hands. Later on he became commanding officer with full authority at Hendon. In March, 1917, he was made commanding officer of what is now the most important naval air base on the East Coast. Up to that time little had been achieved in the way of fighting the submarines from the air, and the Admiralty had to be convinced that this kind of warfare could be made effective. Hallam's task and that of his associates was to show the authorities that Hun undersea boats could be destroyed by bombs dropped from the air. They were so successful that Hallam's station has become the chief anti-submarine flying-boat base in Great Britain, with more than a score others scattered at strategic points along the coast of England and Scotland.

To be specific the job of Hallam and his colleagues was to "get" the Hun submarines as they came out of the German and Belgian ports or as they sought those ports after expeditions to sea. In experiments and actual fighting extending over several months the heavy flying boat was found to be immensely superior to the "float" seaplanes—so much so that the old machines have been abandoned. This was the most striking feature of the revolution worked out at this anti-submarine base. One thirtieth of the available air craft were located at the Hallam station and they did 25% of the effective bombing against submarines. Of the effective bombing done by seaplanes the Hallam station achieved 50%. About half of the pilots under Hallam were Canadians. The station destroyed many Hun undersea boats, to say nothing of Zeppelins and enemy seaplanes. Hallam and his associates were constantly out on patrol work over the North Sea, and they made frequent flights into Heligoland Bight, which involved a return journey of several hundred miles. Hallam himself personally spotted eight submarines from the air. Of these he was able to bomb four and was "allowed" two. He personally commanded scores of flights across the North Sea, and along the German and Belgian coasts. He earned three mentions in despatches and has two bars to his D.S.C.

The life of the men who fight the German submarines from the air has been described as in some respects more arduous than that of the flying men who do their work over the land. For one thing the larger types of flying boats now in use are heavier than the largest land planes. They weigh from 4½ to 6 tons, and their management involves violent physical effort, especially in bad weather. Secondly sea flying is often so monotonous as to be exceedingly trying to the nerves. Enemy submarines are few and far between, and they are as difficult to find as the proverbial needle in a hay stack. There is thirdly the constant strain of traveling above the sea without familiar land marks. This condition alone has proved insuperable to many fliers used to work over the land. Fourthly it is difficult to distinguish between enemy submarines and British submarines. Fifthly the sea flier often travels over great mine-fields to fall upon which would probably be fatal. Sixthly he is often involved in mist and rain in regions where there is little shipping to rescue him in case of accident. Flight Commander Leckey tossed about in his flying boat for four days before a pigeon released by him brought relief from the land. The faithful bird dropped dead as it fell upon the dock with the message. Lastly the expedition undertaken by the flying boats are usually much longer than those undertaken by land planes. The journeys to the Dutch, Belgian and German coasts are considerably extended, and in these regions the heavy flying boats have often to battle with small rapidly flying enemy airplanes.

Douglas Hallam was the first Canadian to join the Royal Air Services and the first to attain the rank of major. In his case at least there is no ground for complaint that he has not been given a full share of the executive work of the service. It was under his leadership that his flying base demonstrated the feasibility of successful campaigns from the air against the enemy undersea boats. As a condition growing out of this Canadians are foremost in the work at the other anti-submarine seaplane bases along the British coast.

In June, 1918, Major Hallam was made commanding officer of the seaplane experimental plant at his old station with authority to develop and build new types of flying boats for war work. In this capacity he has under his control the greatest seaplane factory in the world. The plant under his management includes a variety of draft rooms, machine shops, carpentry rooms, engine rooms, and construction sheds all covering hundreds of acres. The experimental station is in fact a great industry ashore conducted in support of the aerial fleet at sea.

Some of the super-dreadnoughts of the air under construction in this plant are of the "hush" type. No details can be published concerning them because such information would prove of value to the enemy. It is permissible, however, to say that these great airships are of immense size and driving power. They are equipped with machine guns, enormously heavy and destructive bombs, and with wireless and pigeons as means of communication with the land. They have crews of four to six men, and will be capable of effective work when sent out on war flights. The bombs carried by the larger new boats will weigh about 500 lbs. and destroy the strongest submarine when dropped in the water within any reasonable distance.

To such an extent has Major Hallam obtained the confidence of the British authorities that he is constantly called in consultation by the Admiralty in connection with other phases of the war in the air against the Huns. A great deal of the practical work done at the seaplane bases all along the British coast is carried on with the advice of this young man from Toronto.

GROWING DEAF WITH HEAD NOISES? TRY THIS

If you are growing hard of hearing and fear Catarrhal Deafness or if you have roaring, rumbling, hissing noises in your ears go to your druggist and get 1 ounce of Parmint (double strength), and add to it 1-4 pint of hot water and a little granulated sugar. Take 1 tablespoonful four times a day.

This will often bring quick relief from the distressing head noises. Clogged nostrils should open, breathing become easy and the mucus stop dropping into the throat. It is easy to prepare, costs little and is pleasant to take. Anyone who is threatened with Catarrhal Deafness or who has head noises should give this prescription a trial.

Relieve Your Rheumatism For 25c.

NR does it by improving digestion, assimilation and elimination—the logical way.

NR Today—Relief or No Pay

There are three vital processes of human existence,—the digestion of food, the extraction of nourishment from it and the elimination of the waste.

Let anything interfere with these processes,—let them be interrupted or improperly carried on, and sickness of some kind follows.

Poor digestion and assimilation means failure to derive full nourishment from food and that in turn often means impoverished blood, weakness, anemia, etc. Poor elimination means an accumulation of waste matter which poisons the body, lowers vitality, decreases the power of resistance to disease and leads to the development of many serious ills.

Rheumatism,—due to some interference with the process of elimination, failure to get rid of certain body poisons,—cannot be expected to yield to any medicine that fails to correct the condition responsible for it. Could any reasonable person expect to rid himself of rheumatic pain so long as rheumatic poison is allowed to remain in the body.

Think of this, it explains the success of Nature's Remedy (NR Tablets) in so many cases where other medicines have failed. Thousands are using NR Tablets every day and getting relief. Why pay five or ten times as much for uncertain things? A 25c box of Nature's Remedy (NR Tablets), containing enough to last twenty-five days,—must help you, must give you prompt relief and satisfactory benefit or cost you nothing.

And Nature's Remedy is not only for the relief of rheumatism. It improves digestion, tones the liver, regulates kidney and bowel action, improves the blood and cleanses the whole system. You'll feel like a new person when you've taken NR Tablets a week. You've tried the expensive medicines and doctors, now make the real test. You'll get results this time. Nature's Remedy (NR Tablets) is sold, guaranteed and recommended by your druggist.

England's Richest Woman.

Emily Charlotte Talbot, the wealthiest woman in the British Isles, died recently in London, aged 78. She was the owner of 13,500 acres in the lower peninsular Wales district, which includes the whole Rhondda Valley, where the finest steam coal in the world is mined.

Miss Talbot was the daughter of Christopher P. Mansel Talbot, who sat in the House of Commons for an unbroken period of 60 years. He was long known as the "father of the House of Commons." When he died Miss Talbot inherited real estate worth $7,500,000 besides being the beneficiary of trust funds for many more millions.

Margam Park, her country home, comprises 31,500 acres, and she owned as well Penrice Castle, which has been converted into a convalescent home for officers, she paying the expense of its conversion and maintenance.

Miss Talbot's Morgan Abbey residence is a magnificent estate, with a park running for seven miles around it. The park was famous for its orangery, which was planted as the result of a Portuguese ship with a cargo of orange and lemon trees being wrecked on the coast near the estate.

Miss Talbot spent a large portion of her income in philanthropic work, mostly donated anonymously. A few years ago she kept one of her collieries going at a loss of $500,000 in order to provide work for the miners.

TELLS DYSPEPTICS WHAT TO EAT

AVOID INDIGESTION, SOUR ACID STOMACH, HEARTBURN, GAS ON STOMACH, ETC.

Indigestion and practically all forms of stomach trouble, say medical authorities, are due nine times out of ten to an excess of hydrochloric acid in the stomach. Chronic "acid stomach" is exceedingly dangerous and sufferers should do either one of two things.

Either they can go on a limited and often disagreeable diet, avoiding foods that disagree with them, that irritate the stomach and lead to excess acid secretion or they can eat as they please in reason and make it a practice to counteract the effect of the harmful acid and prevent the formation of gas, sourness or premature fermentation by the use of a little Bisurated Magnesia at their meals.

There is probably no better, safer or more reliable stomach antiacid than Bisurated Magnesia and it is widely used for this purpose. It has no direct action on the stomach and is not a digestent. But a teaspoonful of the powder or a couple of five grain tablets taken in a little water with the food will neutralize the excess acidity which may be present and prevent its further formation. This removes the whole cause of the trouble and the meal digests naturally and health fully without need of pepsin pills or artificial digestents.

Get a few ounces of Bisurated Magnesia from any reliable druggist. Ask for either powder or tablets. It never comes as a liquid, milk or citrate and in the bisurated form is not a laxative. Try this plan and eat what you want at your next meal and see if this isn't the best advice you ever had on "what to eat."

What Is Nuxated Iron?

Physician Explains—Says Public Ought To Know What They Are Taking—Practical Advice on What To Do To Build Up Your Strength, Power and Endurance and Increase the Red Blood Corpuscles.

The fact that Nuxated Iron is today being used by over three million people annually and that so many physicians are prescribing it as a tonic, strength and blood builder in weak, nervous, run-down conditions, has led to an investigation of its merits by designated physicians and others whose reports should be of great importance to the public generally. Among these is the statement made by Dr. James Francis Sullivan, formerly physician of Bellevue Hospital (Outdoor Dept.), New York and Westchester County Hospital, who says: "When one patient after another began asking my opinion of Nuxated Iron, I resolved to go thoroughly into the subject and find out for myself whether or not it possessed the real value claimed by its manufacturers and attested to by so many prominent people. This is exactly what I believe every honest, conscientious physician should do before prescribing or lending his endorsement to any product whatsoever. If an article is worthless we practitioners ought to be the first to know of it, and if it is efficacious we are in duty bound to recommend it for the welfare of our patients. A study of the composition of the Nuxated Iron formula so impressed me with the therapeutic efficacy of the product that I immediately tested it in a number of obstinate cases. So quickly did it increase the strength, energy and endurance of the patients to whom it was administered that I became firmly convinced of its remarkable value as a tonic and blood builder. I have since taken it myself with excellent results. There are thousands of delicate, nervous, run-down folks who need just such a preparation as this, but do not know what to take. Therefore I have urgently suggested the widespread publication of the sworn statement of the composition of its formula so that the public may know what they are taking. This complete formula is now to be found in newspapers throughout the country. It is composed principally of organic iron in the form of iron peptonate of a special specific standard and glycerophosphates which is one of the most costly tonic ingredients known. To the credit of the manufacturers it may be said that they use the most expensive form of iron peptonate, whereas by employing other makes they could have put the same quantity of actual iron in the tablets at less than one-fourth the cost and by using metallic iron they could have reduced the cost to less than one-twelfth, but by thus cheapening the product they would undoubtedly have impaired its therapeutic efficacy. In my opinion a careful examination of this formula by any physician or pharmacist should convince him that Nuxated Iron is to be placed among the very highest class and most strictly ethical preparations known to medical science. It excels anything I have ever used for building up the system and increasing the red blood corpuscles thereby enriching and fortifying the blood against the ravages of disease."

OUR DAILY SHORT STORY

A Touch of Temperament

By VINCENT G. PERRY

(Copyright, 1918, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate).

Ronald Adair, better known as Richard Stevens, dramatic actor, put down his hand mirror with an exclamation of relief. He had his make-up on to satisfy his director this time, he was sure. It was the first time he had made up his face successfully for the camera, for it was so different from the make-up for the footlights that it was like learning something entirely new. If everything about moving picture acting was to be as hard as the make-up he was sorry he had forsaken the stage for the silent drama, but then the tempting salary that had been used as an inducement for him to sign a contract to star in feature photoplays was worth a little inconvenience.

"I'm all ready," he announced, as his director appeared at his dressing-room doorway. "Now to do or die."

"I'm afraid you'll have to die," the director smiled wistfully. "The star we have selected to play opposite you has taken a fit of temperament and absolutely refuses to go in a scene with you. She has never seen you, but has taken a dislike to you from a picture she saw of you in a Shylock costume. She went to her home some place out of the city last night. It has tied things up for goodness knows how long."

"She must be crazy!" Adair exclaimed.

"No, she's far from it. She's been overtaxed, though, lately, and I wouldn't be surprised if this is the first symptom of a nervous breakdown."

"She couldn't be a fitting type for the part of the girl in that 'script you have for me or she wouldn't behave like this."

"You don't know Geraldine Lewis or you wouldn't say that," the director said grimly. "She's going to be one of the big stars soon." Geraldine was evidently a favorite, so Ronald refrained from expressing his opinion of her.

Charley Dixon, the director, and Ronald, spent the rest of the day looking over the other available stars and extra girls, but couldn't find one they could agree on as being suitable for the part. There was nothing for it, apparently, but to wait until Geraldine Lewis came to her senses. The fear of losing a renewal of her contract would have some effect, likely.

The prospect of a holiday was not an unpleasant one, especially as there was some business in the country that Ronald had to attend to. His father had left him some property in the village of Windslide and it had been in the hands of the village lawyer so long that it needed looking after. If there was any way of turning it into cash Ronald was going to find it, and he motored to the village with this object in view.

After registering at the hotel, he lost no time in seeking the lawyer. He expected to find a notice on that gentleman's door announcing that he had gone on a fishing expedition, but this village lawyer was different from the dramatized version of village lawyers, and was in his office and was moreover engaged with a client. As Ronald waited in the little outer office he could hear a woman's melodious voice, raised in argument. The door opened and the lawyer, Mr. William Scruggins, came out, followed by one of the prettiest girls Ronald had ever had the pleasure of seeing. Scruggins, apparently, was escorting her to the door, but she had no intentions of going before she finished her argument to her satisfaction.

"My mother paid that mortgage before she died, and with money I sent her, I tell you again, Mr. Scruggins" she said. "I won't pay it again if I have to bring the biggest lawyer from New York here, and I can afford to do it, I'll have you to understand."

"I don't care whom you bring," Scruggins chirped in his cracked old voice. "The mortgage isn't paid and no more is the interest. I'll foreclose for my client, Mr. Adair, if it isn't paid within thirty days."

Ronald stepped forward at the mention of his name. "I am Mr. Adair. Does this young lady's claim concern me?"

Scruggins stepped back in surprise and the young lady seized the opportunity of putting her case before Ronald. Her name was Hilda Moore. She had been raised in Windslide and had gone to the city and made a success of the profession she had undertaken. She had sent her mother money to pay off the mortgage on her old home and had seen the receipt signed by Scruggins. But somehow the receipt had been lost after her mother's death and now when she had returned to spend a vacation at her old home she was threatened with being turned out.

Miss Moore had made sure Scruggins could not get a word in edgeways and before he could get in his side of the story, Ronald ended it by saying: "I think there has been some mistake, so I will sign the receipt for you myself, Miss Moore."

"Oh, thank you," she beamed. "It isn't just because of the money, for luckily I have plenty, but I don't want to be beaten by that man. Men have been causing me enough trouble lately!" Ronald did not hide his smile.

After Ronald had satisfactorily established his identity and the proper papers had been made out, he offered to drive Miss Moore home in his car. She accepted his offer. As they skimmed over the country roads he had an opportunity to survey the girl beside him. She was almost the prettiest girl he had ever seen. Her conversation was not artificial and he found her a most interesting person—able to talk on the subjects he cared for most, and never once speaking of herself.

The people of the studio had his address and would wire him when Geraldine Lewis came back. He called at the telegraph office every morning for the expected message, but it did not come. Miss Moore and he became very friendly and soon she accompanied him in his car on most of his drives. The days passed and still there was no word from the studio. Every day he called to take Miss Moore out in his car, and before long they reached the stage where he called her Hilda. The days grew into weeks.

"Why do you always call at the telegraph office?" Hilda asked one day, after he had announced his intention of heading the car that way.

"I am expecting a wire from New York," he answered.

"New York!" she exclaimed, in surprise. "Are you from New York?"

"Yes. Is there anything strange about that?"

"No, but I thought it strange that you had never mentioned it before. I have been under the impression that your home was here."

"I was never here until the day I met you."

"Will the wire call you back?" she asked.

"Yes."

"Why hasn't it come before?"

"Because of a woman."

"Your wife?" she asked in alarm.

"No, it is just a woman who has caused a big change in my plans. It is because of her I found time to come here."

"That's strange! It's because of a man I am here. A man I have never met, either, but he is a hateful man."

"Tell me about him," he invited.

"It wouldn't interest you," she said, trying to make him think there was a mystery.

He did not speak until he halted his car in front of the telegraph office, and then it was only a few curt words. He entered the office and returned in a few seconds with an envelope in his hands. A lump rose in her throat as she noticed it and realized that their companionship was to be broken.

"Does it say you are to go?" she inquired eagerly.

He had meant to act offended, but her tone won him over. "I'll read it," he said, as he pulled it open. He read it aloud: "No word from Geraldine. Have secured star to take part. Come back at once.—Dixon."

"Oh," she cried, "is that from Charley Dixon?" He did not answer, but she knew it was. "I am Geraldine Lewis, and I ran away sooner than play a love scene with you. I was told you were old and homely."

"And here we've been playing love scenes for a couple of weeks," he laughed.

"Yes," she blushed, "but let's drive some place else. We are standing up in the car and must look very foolish."

"Wait until I wire Dixon," Ronald said, as he jumped from the car.

The wire that Dixon received made him think somebody had gone crazy, for it read: "Fire that man. I have vowed never to make love to another woman but Geraldine Lewis. Congratulate me," and it was signed "Stevens."

Dixon took some time to figure out what it all meant, but it dawned upon him. "He's married her!" he exclaimed, when they arrived at the studio the next day.

HELPING THE WOUNDED

Our Canadian nurses are needed "over there" now as never before. This is the time to learn how to take care of the wounded, the sick—or any emergency. You can learn a great deal by obtaining the "Medical Adviser" from your nearest druggist, a book of 1,000 pages, bound in cloth, containing chapters on First Aid, Bandaging, Anatomy, Hygiene, Marriage, Mother and Babe; or send 50c to Dr. Pierce, Courtwright St., Bridgeburg, Ont.

Thousands of women in Canada have overcome their sufferings, and have been cured of woman's ills by Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. Painful periods, chills or great pain at regular or irregular intervals should be corrected, and every woman who suffers from backache, headache, nervousness, should take this "Prescription" of Dr. Pierce's. Send 10c cents for trial package to Dr. Pierce's Invalids' Hotel, Buffalo, N. Y., or branch, Bridgeburg, Ont., or write for free confidential medical advice.

Toronto, Ont.—"As a tonic and builder I can highly recommend Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription to tired and run-down women. I am the mother of eight children and have frequently had need of such a tonic but did not know what to take until my sister gave me some of the 'Favorite Prescription' which she herself had found to be good. It was exactly the tonic my system required and one bottle did wonders for me, so I take pleasure in telling others, hoping that they will give the 'Prescription' a trial and be benefited just as I have been."—Mrs. Elizabeth Taylor, 254 Ontario St.

The Best Cough Syrup Is Home-made

Here's an easy way to save $2, and yet have the best cough remedy you ever tried.

You've probably heard of this well-known plan of making cough syrup at home. But have you ever used it? When you do, you will understand why thousands of families, the world over, feel that they could hardly keep house without it. It's simple and cheap, but the way it takes hold of a cough will quickly earn it a permanent place in your home.

Into a 16-oz. bottle, pour 2½ ounces of Pinex (50 cents worth); then add plain granulated sugar syrup to fill the bottle. Or, if desired, nice clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup. Either way, it tastes good, never spoils, and gives you 16 ounces of better cough remedy than you could buy ready-made for five times its cost.

It is really wonderful how quickly this home-made remedy conquers a cough—usually in 24 hours or less. It seems to penetrate through every air passage, loosens a dry, hoarse or tight cough, lifts the phlegm, heals the membranes, and gives almost immediate relief. Splendid for throat tickle, hoarseness, croup, bronchitis and bronchial asthma.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, and has been used for generations for throat and chest ailments.

To avoid disappointment ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with directions, and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money refunded. The Pinex Co., Toronto, Ont.

WHOOPING COUGH.

Mr. Arthur Haines, Ashton Farm, Perley, Sask., writes: "Two years ago whooping cough was very bad in this part of the country; our eight months old boy caught it and had a very severe attack. A neighbor advised the use of Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine and we gave it and nothing else with splendid results. When the older brother took the whooping cough we used this medicine promptly and prevented serious trouble, as the cough passed off in two or three days".

He Felt Safe.

While his mother was away little Willie didn't say his prayers. When his mother came back from her visit there was a reckoning. "Now, why didn't you say your prayers, Willie?" "Well, mother, it was like this. I forgot to say them first night, an' nothing happened. An' I didn't say them the next night, an' nothing happened; so I've made up my mind I'll never say them again if nothing happens." And then something happened.

Planning His Career.

Seven-year-old Robert has a great desire to follow in his father's footsteps. One night his mother overheard him making this prayer: "Please, God, make me a good boy, then a good lawyer, and then just land me on the supreme bench. Amen."—Boston Transcript.

DO YOU GET THEM RIGHT?

Various Causes Why Proper Names Go Wrong.

There is nothing a man is more particular about, and at the same time nothing he is more careless about, than his own name, and with those of others also. How angry we become when we continually receive mail clearly intended for us, yet with our names spelled every way except correctly.

There may be various causes for this. It may be the correspondent spells the name the way he has heard it pronounced, and many crimes are thus committed phonetically. Bismarck, Germany's iron Chancellor, so runs a story, refused to accept mail sent him when the writer left out the "c." We fume at the inability of others to get us right chirographically; then we register at a hotel in a hand no clearer than the signature to our business letters, and this latter is seldom written so it can be read, evidently being intended only as a mark of identification, customers becoming used to the outlines and associating them with the name of the signer.

A printed talk to guests of one of the large hotels in the country covers the hotel offence clearly. The gist of the talk is that a hotel can not give good service unless the guest writes his name so plainly that there can be no mistake. Right at the guest's arrival careless writing starts an endless chain of troubles. Mail is delayed, the information clerk reports "not here" to friends who call or phone; everything goes wrong for both the guest and the hotel. The guest has written his name so often that he can see in his signature nothing except what he intends. But how will it look to those not familiar with it? It is all sound argument.

We introduce one business acquaintance to another. We have known both of them for months, perhaps year. But we forget that neither is familiar with the name of the other. Yet our enunciation is often a mere mumble. For instance, we introduce Mr. McRoberts and Mr. Brown. Instead of saying: "Mr. Brown, Mr. McRoberts" distinctly, we pronounce the "Mc" as a mere catch in the breath. Mr. Brown catches only the Roberts, and days or weeks later, maybe at once, Mr. McRoberts, who is particular about his patronymic, finds it necessary to tell Mr. Brown that his name is McRoberts, not Roberts.

In introducing some of us, when we fail to understand the name, pass the lapse, trusting to luck to determine the name later on. It is better to have oneself considered inattentive by the query: "Pardon me, but I did not understand the name?" than to trust to luck or have to cover the failure of the intruder to make himself understood when we find it necessary to pronounce it.

Dreams of Delicacies.

"Seems to me," said Mammy Chloe, "dat sometimes you'd rather sleep dan eat." "Speck I would," answered Pickaninny Jim. "Cause when I's asleep I's liable to dream about fried chicken an' spare-ribs an' sweet potatoes an' watermelon—an' I ain' seen no sech dinner as dat in a long time."

Startled.

"He says I am the first girl he ever kissed."

"Believe him?"

"It may be so. He seemed surprised when he struck the lip rouge."

TROUBLE FOR JONES WHEN JONES DESERTS

(By United Press)

Paris, Nov. 6. (By Mail.)—"The government is holding up my allotment because my service record is not clear. They say I'm charged with desertion. I'm in desperate need."

There were tears in the eyes of Sergeant Jones as he handed an open letter to his commanding officer.

"Read that, will you?" and the officer book his head sympathetically.

"Pretty bad, Jones. Evidently another case of too many Joneses in the world. Of course we can straighten it out for you as soon as we can get into communication with Washington."

"But what is my wife going to do in the meantime?" asked Jones. "You see what she says."

"Why not tell your troubles to the Red Cross?" asked the officer. "They have a home service office in Paris for cases like that."

The sergeant took his advice and two letters and three cables straightened out the matter, relieved the wife's need and the soldier's distress.

American Red Cross home service handled 3,660 similar cases from June to September.

Czechoslovak Gold Coins.

According to a report from Bohemia pointed in the Berliner Morgenpost of Aug. 16, gold coins of the new Czecho-Slovak State are already being more or less surreptitiously circulated there. The coins are 20-"sokel" and 10-"sokel" pieces and are said to have been coined in France. The "sokel," which is evidently intended to be the monetary unit of the new state, is worth about 20 cents. Silver 1-"sokel" pieces are also reported to be in circulation.

LAON LIBERATED.

City Taken Three Times By the Teutons.

Laon, dominating the plains of Picardy from the height of her steep, isolated rock, 650 feet above the level ground, is a military prize that is of the greatest importance, commanding what is called the "trouee," or gap of the Oise and the highways and railroads leading to Paris.

For the third time since the early part of the last century, Laon has endured the bitterness and humiliation of German occupation, and for the third time she has known the happiness of the hour that freed her. From the shady promenades that crown her great limestone rock, on the site of the old medieval ramparts, one can imagine her citizens peering westward toward St. Quentin and the forest of St. Gobain, to see if, perchance, they could distinguish the khaki and horizon-blue of the liberators.

At Laon, in 1814, Napoleon attempted to reorganize the remnants of his Waterloo army, but in vain, for after a siege of 15 days the city was compelled to surrender to Blücher. Again, in the disastrous year of 1870, Laon heroically barred the way to the German avalanche toward Paris. Again she had to capitulate, not omitting, however, to exact the price of admission from the unwelcome guest: as the Germans marched into the citadel an indignant private of French engineers blew up the powder magazines.

In war time Laon prides herself perhaps most on her fine military defences, consisting of inner works on the eminence on which she is built, and of groups of forts that connect her with Rheims and with the Aisne and insure her her important position in the triangle of fortresses she forms with La Fere and Rheims. In peace time her chief glory is her cathedral. Notre Dame of Laon is one of the most famous Gothic cathedrals, its west front, consisting of three porches, the central one surmounted by a fine rose-window, being second to Notre Dame of Paris only, in purity of type. The cathedral of Laon is built on the usual cruciform plan, but the choir terminates in a straight wall instead of in an apse. Of the six towers calculated for in the original design, only four are complete, the square central one forming a lantern within the church. The distinctive feature of the towers is the belfry with which each is surmounted, openworked, and decorated with gigantic sculptured figures of oxen, symbolizing the days of construction when ox-teams transported the building material from the plains up the steep hill of Laon. Commenced in the middle of the Twelfth Century, Notre Dame of Laon was not finished until 1225. Its loveliness, that places it foremost in the history of Gothic architecture is enhanced by matchless specimens of thirteenth century stained glass. The bishop's see of Laon was permanently done away with by the lawmakers of the revolution and the bishop's palace, another fine Gothic edifice, is now the Hotel de Ville. The municipal library is renowned for its rich collection of manuscripts.

The hill on which Laon rests is singular in shape, being divided into two branches, one of which supports the town with the cathedral and the citadel, the other a quarter, called des Creuttes, built around the abbey of St. Vincent. It is difficult to associate the depression between these two eminences, with its smiling, garden and vineyard-clad slopes with the rumble of cannon and the tramp of marching armies. That small green valley speaks of the peace and prosperity that were the share of Laon before the Germans came and which the great events of the present are about to restore to her.

NEXT RICHEST WOMAN.

German Jewess Second Only to Bertha Krupp.

Next to Bertha Krupp, the richest woman in all Germany, is the only daughter of the recently deceased Friedrich Friedlaender-Fuld, known as the coal king of Germany, and who, during the Hausse period on the Berlin Bourse, following the successful war of 1870, as the result of a tip received from Henskell von Donnersmarck, whom in the latter's youth he had often helped out of financial "scrapes" when an officer of the Prussian Guards, laid the foundation of his immense fortune in speculating in the shares of the Koenigs and Laura colliery.

Miss Marie Friedlaender-Fuld married Jack Mitford, who had inherited the good looks of his father, the late Lord Redesdale, and who had previously been spending a couple of years in Berlin to acquaint himself with German business methods. The young couple parted company after their return from their wedding trip, the bride resuming her maiden name, while her husband returned to England. When the war broke out she took the necessary steps for the dissolution of her marriage bond.

Marie is of the Semitic type. It is recalled that she became engaged to Prince Alexander Romanoffsky, fifth Duke of Leuchtenberg, the son of a Russian grand duchess who characterized her husband, the fourth Duke of Leuchtenberg, as too ignorant to live with. The Leuchtenbergs are descendants of Euegene de Beauharnais, son of Empress Josephine by her first husband, and married to a daughter of the King of Bavaria. Fraulein Marie had a dowry of 60,000,000 marks, or $15,000,000. But Emperor Nicholas of Russia would only give his consent to the union on the condition that it was to be morganatic, declaring that he could not tolerate a marriage of his house to a daughter of the Jewish race. The late Mr. Friedlaender strongly and successfully resented this.

The Leavings of Pigs.

A story told about Moses Mendelssohn, the philosopher, is worth reviving at this time when the cultivation of food wisdom has become an essential of victory. The aged philosopher, who, on more than one occasion, had been the butt of ridicule and persecution on the part of arrogant army officials, was seated at an obscure table in a cafe, deep in thought, when a troup of boisterous, quarrelsome Prussian officers entered. They sat down at a table close to the philosopher, feasted and drank to their heart's content, and then looked about for the usual postprandial sport of insult and abuse. The broken figure of the old man, occupied with his own reflections, impressed them as a worthy victim of their uninvited attentions. They began hurling epithets at him, mocking and laughing at him, but the philosopher paid no heed to them. Finally one of the officers, struck with an inspiration, gathered the remains of the feast, heaped them on a large plate, and, assuming a most elegant air, strutted to the old man's table and placed the plate before him with a deep bow.

The return of the brilliant officer to his companions was greeted with cheers and merry laughter, but, looking toward the philosopher, they observed that there were tears in his eyes. Delighted with the success of their prank and anxious to pursue it to its limit, one of the officers approached the old man and solicitously asked him why he was weeping. "An old incident of my childhood has just come to my memory," said Mendelssohn sadly. "Indeed! And what may that incident be?" "When I was a little boy," replied the philosopher gravely, "I was very fond of sweets, and I would rush through my meals hurriedly in order to get to the dessert, leaving much good food untasted and spoiled. Each time my dear mother would rebuke me. 'If you spoil good food in this way,' she would say, 'the time will come when you will have to be satisfied with the leavings of pigs.' And, alas!" the philosopher sighed, dropping a tear, "her prophecy has come true!"

It would be well if many of us who are accustomed to table extravagance kept this anecdote in mind.

No Flour In Explosives.

Substantial saving of foodstuffs and feeding stuffs formerly used in making explosives for domestic purposes is indicated by replies received from manufacturers of the United States Bureau of Mines, which has been conducting an investigation of the problem.

Elimination of wheat flour from manufacture of high explosives other than "permissibles," which the bureau is about to request of manufacturers, will effect a saving of more than 16,000 barrels, computed on the basis of the 1917 consumption. This flour has been used in making dynamite and other explosives employed in mining and engineering operations in this country. "Permissible" explosives, some of which contain foodstuffs, are those that have passed official tests by the Bureau of Mines at Pittsburg, Pa., and are recommended for use in coal mining.

May Enter Royal Navy.

Commisisons in the Royal Navy will be granted by the British Admiralty to eight cadets graduating from the Royal Naval College of Canada, every year, according to a statement issued by the Naval Department at Ottawa. These cadets will receive the same pay as those entering the British navy from English naval colleges. Ten cadets who were successful at the May cadetship examinations joined the Royal Naval College of Canada this fall, making a total of 44 cadets in attendance. It is noteworthy that the 50 cadets who have completed the course at the college have all elected to follow the sea as a profession. These have been on active service, and five of their number have been killed in action.

The college has been located at Esquimalt, B. C., since the buildings were wrecked by the Halifax explosion. It will be conducted there until such time as permanent quarters are available.

THOUGHT IT WAS A BOIL

Doctor Said Abscess.

Mr. Gleason R. Young, Kingscroft, N.B., under date of Feb. 9th, 1918, writes us as follows: "About five months ago, a lump came on my jawbone. I thought it was a boil, and after it had been there quite a while it began to get larger. I went to a doctor and he said it was an abscess, and lanced it. He gave me a wash for it, so I went by his directions until it healed up, but it commenced coming again, and in about three weeks it broke itself. I thought it would get better, but it didn't. A neighbour advised me to get a bottle of Burdock Blood Bitters, so I sent and got a bottle, and by the time it was all gone, the abscess had disappeared, and now it is all better."

Burdock Blood Bitters will heal and dry up sores, ulcers, and abscesses, no matter how large or of how long standing. If you have never applied it to a cut, wound, sore or ulcer, just try it and see what soothing, healing, cleansing power it possesses. It takes out itching, stinging and burning, and promotes the growth of healthy flesh. So, too, when taken internally, by its power of eliminating all impurities from the blood and making that vital fluid rich, red and pure, it cuts off the origin and source of the foul matter that goes to make boils, pimples, sores, ulcers, abscesses and the like, and at the same time the purified and enriched blood creates healthy tissue where there was formerly, perhaps, a sore full of pus.

Burdock Blood Bitters has been on the market for 40 years. Manufactured only by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

The Whole Text.

The printer is usually the hero—or the victim—of the humorous story that tells of a blunder in copying; but here is a mistake laid upon the stonecutter that could hardly be matched by any bull perpetrated in a printing office. The story is credited to the St. Louis Reveille: The workman had been instructed to carve over the door of the new church this passage from the Bible: "My house shall be called the house of prayer." In order that he might get the words correctly, the stonecutter was referred to the verse in the Bible—Matthew xxi. 13. He proceeded to his work, and cut the whole verse: "My house shall be called the house of prayer, but ye have made it a den of thieves!"

GIRLS! HAVE WAVY, THICK, GLOSSY HAIR FREE FROM DANDRUFF

Save your hair! Double its beauty in a few moments—try this!

If you care for heavy hair, that glistens with beauty and is radiant with life; has an incomparable softness and is fluffy and lustrous, try Danderine.

Just one application doubles the beauty of your hair, besides it immediately dissolves every particle of dandruff; you cannot have nice, heavy, healthy hair if you have dandruff. This destructive scurf robs the hair of its lustre, its strength and its very life, and if not overcome it produces a feverishness and itching of the scalp; the hair roots famish; loosen and die; then the hair falls out fast.

If your hair has been neglected and is thin, faded, dry, scraggy or too oily, get a small bottle of Knowlton's Danderine at any drug store or toilet counter for a few cents; apply a little as directed and ten minutes after you will say this was the best investment you ever made.

We sincerely believe, regardless of everything else advertised, that if you desire soft, lustrous, beautiful hair and lots of it—no dandruff—no itching scalp and no more falling hair—you must use Knowlton's Danderine. If eventually—why not now?

Salaries Are Raised.

The astounding increase in the cost of living in Japan continues to affect all aspects of life and is generally attributed to the overwhelming excess of exports. The Government has decided to meet the grave economic problem by increasing all salaries fifty per cent., and private employers are following the Government's lead.

The Government has inaugurated a far-reaching investigation into economic, labor and social problems. Having adopted all practical measures of relief, the impression generally is that the Cabinet will soon resign, and that is expected further to relieve the internal situation.

Representative leaders and the conservative newspapers emphasize their belief that Japan, affected by the current of world thought, has entered a new era of development; that the masses of the people are beginning to perceive their power and that all questions must be faced and met squarely to avoid further trouble.

President Wilson Started on His Journey This Morning

Elaborate Precautions Taken to Protect the President From Public Gaze—A Big Crowd on Hand.

NAVAL ESCORT

NEW YORK, Dec. 4.—The steamer 'George Washington' cast off at 10.22 a.m. to-day.

(By Robert J. Bender.)
(United Press Staff Correspondent.)

HOBOKEN, N.J., Dec. 4. — (With President Wilson en route to France). —Facing the largest diplomatic duel of his political career, President Wilson, heading the "American Commission to negotiate peace," started on his momentous journey to France to-day.

Untrained in the shrewd methods of historic statecraft and inexperienced in world diplomacy until suddenly thrust forward as the spokesman of the Associated Governments during the world war, the President leaves to guard he says ,the principles for which America fought and which now are to be threshed out at the peace table.

Escort Ships.

His special train pulled up on the port siding at 7.20 this morning from Washington. About a half hour later the excutive boarded the giant former German liner, George Washington, at Pier No. 4, and had breakfast. Awaiting the transport was the huge American dreadnought, Pennsylvania, flagship of Admiral Henry T. Mayo, commander-in-chief of the Atlantic squadron, ready for its serious duty of being head escort ship. Other escort ships include the destroyers Wickes, Woolsey, Lea, Tarbell and Yarnell. In addition to these ten other destroyers, the Mahan Deford, Breeze Craven, Dorsey, Robinson, Walke, Montgomery, Lamberton and Perkins, will accompany the Presidential party for the first 48 hours of the trip and then return.

When Near France.

Off the coast of France the Presidential ship will be met by two divisions of the Atlantic fleet and escorted to port. Rear Admiral Hugh Rodman will be in command of Division Nine, which includes the battleships New York, the flagship, commanded by Captain E. L. Beach, Texas, Captain Victor Blue, Wyoming, Captain H. H. Christy, Florida, Captain H M. Taylor, Arkansas, Captain L. R Desteiger, Nevada, Captain N. C. Cole. The other division, Number Six, which will be under the command of Rear Admiral T. S. Rogers, includes the Utah, Captain F. B. Bassett, Oklahoma, Captain Charles B. McVey, Arizona, Captain John A. Dayton.

Three Years Ago.

It was just three years ago to-day that Henry Ford sailed on his unique pilgrimage to end the war. At 3.15 o'clock in the afternoon of this date in 1915, his chartered ship, the Oscar II, with bands playing and flags flying, swung out from this same port and headed down the bay.

President Wilson's position in thi delegation to-day, as recognized sponsor of the smaller and weaker nations of the world, has no precedent in the history of peace conclaves. At the peace congress of Vienna, the only near parallel to the forthcoming conclave, there was no champion of liberty for oppressed nationalities.

Of great outstanding figures at that congress, Talleyrand, French diplomatic genius, represented the last of the Bourbons, whose chief concern was continuance of Royal successions. The Austrian Metternich, whose influence at congress was such that he himself boasted "the congress, it is I" was there to fight for the preservation of the Hapsburgs.

Special Guard.

Special to The Examiner:

NEW YORK, Dec. 4. — President Wilson's special train arrived at Pier Number 4 of the Hoboken docks, where the steamer George Washington is moored, at 7.20 a.m. to-day.

The military docks on the Hoboken water front and the streets leading to them were patrolled by city and military police.

A big crowd was on hand, in spite of the earliness of the hour; but none were permitted near enough to see anything.

Arrangements had been made so that the President could step from his car at the entrance at the pier, be taken up in an elevator to the upper tier and so walk aboard the steamer without coming into public view.

A special guard of marines was on hand to honour the Presidential party.

Police boats in the North river kept close watch on all craft approaching the George Washington.

PTE. FRANK BOLTON

Killed in action, Oct. 1, 1918, was the son of Mr. W. E. Bolton, Burleigh Falls. In his nineteenth year Pte. Bolton enlisted in the 347th Battalion, Peterboro, but sailed for England with the 235th. He was one of the soldiers taken to London, representing the Canadian Troops at the Lord Mayor's Fair, Nov. 9, 1917. Before going to France he was transferred to the Scout Section 116.

The particulars of his death forwarded by his chum, R. L. Fullerton, a Toronto boy, have been received in which we learn, Frank was killed in the Canadian advance on Cambrai.

Pte. Bolton was a nephew of Mrs. William Patterson of this city.

A Warning to Citizens

Christmas Decorations and Displays Increases the Fire Hazard.

Fire Chief Grange has received the following important notice from the Canadian Fire Underwriters' Association:

Re Christmas Decorations and Displays.

Dear Sir:—

Following our usual custom at this season of the year, I beg to call your attention to the dangers to life and property from Christmas decorations, displays, etc., which are frequently made at this time of year. The use of Christmas greens, harvest specimens and other inflammable materials such as draperies, scenery, cotton tc represent snow, and the like, (especially in connection with electric and other lighting systems), is decidedly an increase of hazard, it being impossible to make displays of that nature perfectly safe.

The Statutory Conditions of your Insurance Policy read in part as follows:—

"Any change material to the risk, but within the control or knowledge of the assured, shall void the policy, as to the part affected thereby, unless the change is promptly notified in writing to the Company or its local agent."

In addition to the danger to property from the displays referred to, the danger to life in crowded stores or places of meeting, by reason of a panic occasioned by fire, even though it be small and easily controlled, is so great that the Underwriters, who have made a study of such hazards, would fail in their duty should they not give this warning.

By order,
JOHN A. ROBERTSON,
Secretary.

Regiments May Return by Units

Peterboro May Have an Opportunity of Welcoming a Large Body of Local Soldiers at One Time.

CHANGE IN POLICY

(Special to Examiner.)

OTTAWA, December 4. — As a result of pressure brought to bear upon the government, not only from points in the Dominion, but from overseas, it is very probable that the authorities will capitulate to the demands to have the Canadian forces brought back to the Dominion by units, and not under the system already tentatively agreed upon whereby it was decided to bring them back in order of precedence of length of service, domestic relations, and nature of pre-war employment, and to demobilize them from dispersal areas.

Nearly every city in the dominion desires that the regiment which brought honor and glory to such city be permitted to march the streets with banners flying and bands playing. General Sir Arthur Currie, commanding the forces, is also strongly in favor of the unit system being followed.

It is contended that once the troops start to move there will be no great duration of time between the transport of the first and the last in any case.

The real movement of the fighting men is not expected to start much before March. By that time all the others will have been pretty well cleared out of England.

Will Hold the Allies Responsible

Berlin Says the Food Situation Is Becoming Worse.

(Special to The Examiner.)

BERLIN, Dec. 4.—The food situation in Berlin is rapidly becoming more serious. Since Friday the price of an ordinary meal has increased six marks.

The military government of Berlin, commanding 10,000 Republican troops, has the only force available to preserve order in case of discord. In an interview the commander declared that should there be an outbreak of Bolshevism in Berlin or Germany, the Entente Allies must hold themselves responsible because they have not sent food.

On the outskirts of Berlin correspondents saw thousands of legless and armless war cripples. They are not permitted to enter the streets of the city evidently for fear their pitiful appearance will inflame the populace.

Peterboro Soldiers Return Home Last Evening

Sapper William Hughes Was Overseas Nearly Four Years.

Sapper Wm. Hughes, 21st Battalion, brother of Mrs. Fred Read, 475 Bolivar street, returned last evening on the 5.40 p.m. G.T.R. train, having been overseas nearly four years.

He saw two and a half years' steady service in France, finally taking trench fever, from which he is now recovering.

Captain Gordon Hall.

Captain Gordon Hall, an officer in the 57th Regiment, who went overseas with the 93rd Battalion, also returned home last evening. Captain Hall is looking well and has almost completely recovered from wounds received in France.

Another Peterborough County soldier to arrive home was Pte. Miller of Warsaw.

Pte. H. Whitworth has arrived home and not Pte. William Whitworth, as reported on Monday.

TO ALL AUTO OWNERS

Burned out bearings, scored cylinders and many other troubles can be directly traced to improper lubrication.

Now that the cold season has arrived with the consequent necessity of using the lighter grades of lubricant, we would warn all automobile owners of the danger confronting them, at this season of the year, and recommend frequent changes of motor lubricant.

The quality of commencial gasoline marketed today is such that a certain percentage condenses in the combustion chamber and passes the piston rings to the oil base, with the result that the lubricating quality of the oil is destroyed. This is particularly true when the motor is cold. Before thoroughly warmed up, large quantities will condense and pass to the oil base.

The best winter lubricant is Gargoyle Mobiloil.

Yours for better service.

NICHOLAS WILL ABIDE BY DECISION OF THE PEOPLE

King of Montenegro Does Not Believe Reports Concerning Action of National Council.

(By William Philip Simms.)
(United Press Staff Correspondent.)

PARIS, Dec. 4.—King Nicholas of Montenegro does not believe reports that the Montenegrin National Council of Montenegro has decided to depose him and to unite Montenegro with Serbia, under the rule of King Peter.

In an interview with the United Press to-day, he expressed a willingness however, to abide by whatever decision the people of Montenegro might make in the matter. "I have no confirmation whatever of the reported action of the National Council, and I do not consider the report serious," he said. "I believe the Montenegrin people do not desire me to go. I am perfectly willing to abide by the decision of my people, but they must first be put in a position where they can speak their will freely. I do not think this is actually the case at present.
